The entire executive of the Women's Missionary Society of St. Andrew's United Church was returned to office for another year at the annual meeting and election of officers on Tuesday afternoon in the Ladies' Parlors. Members of the Mission Band, with Misses Margaret Harris and Ellen Murphy in charge, were special guests, and presented a section of the Christmas program.

Members of the Band presented a Christmas playlet, with Margaret Munro, Douglas and Stirling Lindores and Bob Hutchison taking part, and the entire group sang "Round the World," and repeated the Mission Band prayer. In the other section of the program, Mrs. A. H. Radford sang "Infant Jesus," accompanying herself at the piano. Mrs. A. Porteous read the Christmas Scripture lesson from St. Matthew, and Miss F. Dixon led in prayer. Mrs. F. W. K. Harris gave the Christmas story.

Miss Dixon's group was in charge of the meeting, and served refreshments at the close, with Mrs. E. Reid in charge of decorations for the tastefully set table, bright with seasonal colors. The Mission Band was thanked for their attendance and presentation by Mrs. C. M. Scott.

The executive returning for another year of service is as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. E. W. Young; president, Mrs. H. Tremaine; vice-presidents, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Mrs. C. M. Scott, and Mrs. A. Porteous; recording secretary, Mrs. F. E. Johnston; treasurer, Mrs. A. Munro; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A. Pilling; Missionary Monthly, Mrs. J. Ferguson; supply secretary, Mrs. E. F. Reid; Christian Stewardship, Miss M. Moir; Community Friendship, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris; Christian Citizenship, Miss M. Ferguson; Associate Helpers, Mrs. W. F. Welsh; Literature secretary, Mrs. J. Campbell; press secretary, Mrs. R. G. Allen; pianist, Mrs. R. Morrow; assistant, Mrs. R. B. Harle; Baby Band, Mrs. A. Munro; Local Council of Women representative, Mrs. B. F. McNeely.

Mrs. E. M. Davis Elected W.M.S. President

St. James' United Church W. M. S. held their postponed December meeting, Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School Hall. The president Mrs. E. M. Davis presided and opened the meeting with a service of worship.

Mrs. W. K. Sloane, the acting convener presented the report of the nomiating committee, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Craik took the chair for the election of officers, which resulted in the following staff for 1945.

Hon. President, Mrs. P. Sollitt; President, Mrs. E. M. Davis; Vice-President, Mrs. E. L. Woodley; Recording Secretary, Mrs. F. McAdams; Assistant Rec. Secy, Mrs. E. Kitney, Corresponding and Press Secretary, Mrs. E. J. Wagar; Treasurer, Mrs. R. B. English; Secretaries of Departments: Christian Stewardship, Mrs. Wesley Rose; Assistant Stewardship, Mrs. F. W. Craik; Community Friendship, Mrs. W. R. Moncrief; Supply, Mrs. E. Kitney; Associate Helpers, Mrs. A. E. Prest; Temperance, Mrs. George Aitchison; Missionary Monthly, Miss M. Morton; Literature, Mrs. Ernest Johnston; Mission Band, Miss Constance Wagar; Baby Band, Mrs. George Martin; Pianist, Mrs. H. F. Doig.

The executive members took charge of the devotional program, which opened with prayer by Mrs. Rose. The Christmas Story from St. Luke was told by Mrs. Woodley. The guest speaker, Adjutant Velma Graham of the Salvation Army, chose for her theme "And they brought to Him Gifts."

The speaker told of the disappointment of the wise men who came expecting to see the King of Kings in a palace, yet, when they found him in a lowly manger, they presented their gifts. How often we think the time is not opportune for "our giving." But we, too, should bring our gifts, especially at the Christmas-tide, she declared.

On behalf of the auxiliary, Mrs. Sloane thanked the speaker. A solo, "O Holy Night," by Mrs. Leslie McLaren, and prayer led by Mrs. G. Rowe, concluded the meeting.

Young Violinist Presents Fine Program

With exceptionally mature toning, expression and delivery for a young artist, Sydney Humphreys captivated an audience at his recital Tuesday evening, under the auspices of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association, in the recreation room of the Y.W.C.A.

Highlight of the first part of his program was Brahms "Sonata in A major, Opus 100." In reality a sonata for violin and piano, this number was remarkably well executed, both by Mr. Humphreys and his accompanist, Miss Margaret Sheppard. The difficult timing, in particular, made this selection outstanding. As well as being mechanically correct, his interpretation captured the expression and spirit of the sonata.

The other selections in this section, "La Folia" by Corelli-Leonard, and "Concerto in D Minor" by Wieniawski, were equally well presented. He seemed quite at ease with the instrument and his confidence and sureness showed in his performance.

Deft Fingering.

The concluding number of the second part of the program, "Zigeunerweisen," by Sarasate, was outstanding, with its distintive and typical gypsy melody, ideal for the violin. As an encore he played "Caprice Venois," another melody in the same vein, which found equal favor with his audience. Other numbers in this section included "Polonaise Brillante in A major" by Wieniawski; "Largo in E major" by Handel; "Piece en Forme de Habernera" by Ravel.

Deft, sure fingering, and true toning and expression marked the entire recital, and the appreciative audience, by close attention and splendid applause, helped the artist greatly by their encouragnig response.

Miss Sheppard presented an outstanding and sympathetic accompaniment throughout the evening. Her home is in Windsor, and she and Mr. Humphreys, who formerly lived in Vancouver, but now makes his home in Toronto, are both studying at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Following the recital, refreshments were served with Mrs. E. Johnston in charge, and Mrs. R. Wiliamson pouring coffee.

C.W.L. Planning Christmas Gifts

The regular meeting of the Immaculate Conception subdivision of the Catholic Women's League was held Tuesday evening with Mrs. J. Garvey presiding.

Christmas activities of the league consisted of sending cigarettes to all parish men overseas, combining efforts with those of the two other subdivisions in planning a Christmas tree and program for the children at the orphanage and the old people at the House of Providence, and sending of toys and candy to needy families for Christmas. A spiritual bouquet was also sent to the chaplain of the armed forces. Some members plan to entertain soldiers in their home on Christmas Day.

It was decided that the subdivision would give $25 to the Redemptorist Fathers towards altar requirements for their new home in Peterborough. A letter was received from the diocesan publicity convener urging conveners to publish accounts of meetings, activities in the newspaper as a means of imparting to others an appreciation of the value of the league and the opportunity that membership offers for united action in service "for God and Canada."

Mrs. Garvey expressed the hope that president, Mrs. L. Boland, who was absent through illness, would be back again in the new year.

SUGAR AND SPICE AND STYLE—Merry Christmas to a good little girl whose frock is hardy enough to take the Santa Claus routine without showing the wear and tear of great enthusiasm, and maybe a spilled saucer of ice cream on the side. The fabric of which this frock is made is practically crease resistant, as aralac strands are woven with rayon to make it. It is colorful, easily cleaned, and styled to become very little girls or their 'teen-age sisters.

Mrs. G. R. Langley Re-elected WA President

Mrs. G. R. Langley was re-elected president of the Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Anglican Church, at the annual meeting and election of officers, Tuesday afternoon in the Guild room of the parish hall. Rev. A. J. Arthur presided for the election, and also briefly addressed the meeting, complimenting the members on the success of their efforts.

Other members of the executive are as follows: Honorary president, Mrs. G. Bousfield; honorary vice-presidents, Mrs. T. H. Adams and Mrs. H. Butcher; vice-presidents, Mrs. G. Maniece, Mrs. R. Parsons and Mrs. J. S. Mason; recording and corresponding secretary, Mrs. M. Burnham; treasurer, Mrs. D. Wyatt; Dorcas committee, Mrs. J. Lush, Mrs. J. S. Mason, Mrs. H. R. Starr and Mrs. H. T. Laing; junior superintendent, Mrs. G. Maniece; secretary-treasurer of the Little Helpers, Mrs. L. Thomas; secretary-treasurer of the thankoffering, Mrs L. Gemmell; secretary-treasurer of the Living Message, Mrs. H. R. Starr; literature secretary, Mrs. T. Floyd; recording representatives, Mrs. J. Scott and Mrs. T. Moore.

Prior to the election, excellent yearly reports were given by all the officers. A sincere and hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mrs. A. MacKim, who is retiring after 21 years' service as the secretary-treasurer of the Little Helpers, and also to Miss E. Stewart, for her many years of work as secretary of the Dorcas committee.

At the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by Mrs. Langley, assisted by Mrs. Maniece and Mrs. Floyd.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

When your family comes home at night, after a hard day at the office, store or factory, there is nothing they like to see more than a nice plate of hot muffins or fancy biscuits of some sort. So today I am giving you the following recipes:

Scotch Biscuits

6 cups flour, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1½ teaspoons soda, 2 tablespoons butter, enough sour milk or buttermilk to make a soft dough. Max dry ingredients and sift twice. Work fat in with fork or cut in with two knives. Add the liquid, mixing with the fork or knife. Flour the board, sprinkle lightly with salt, place on biscuit dough and knead lightly, just enough to give smooth appearance. Pinch off small amount of dough, place on biscuit sheet, and bake at 450 degrees, 10 to 15 minutes.

Muffin mixture is combined in a different manner than any other mixtures. The shortening is melted and beaten in, after the other ingredients have been mixed.

Plain Muffins

2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ¾ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg, 2 tablespoons melted fat, 1 tablespoon sugar. Mix and sift the dry ingredients into a mixing bowl. Add the milk gradually, beating until perfectly smooth. Beat the egg without separating, and add to the mixture. Lastly, add melted shortening, and beat thoroughly. Fill greased muffin tins half full. Preheat oven to bake at 400 degrees for 20 to 25 minutes. This makes 12 small muffins.

To this recipe may be added 2 tablespoons chopped dates, 2 tablespoons chopped raisins for a fruit muffin, or chopped nuts may be added for nut muffins. Bran or corn meal may be used and then you have bran, or corn meal muffins. Any kind of nuts or fruits may be added that you like, dates are especially nice fruit for a muffin.

George St. W.M.S. Elects Officers

"Christmas" was the dominating note in the program of the December meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of George Street United Church Tuesday afternoon in the board room.

Features of the devotional exercises were carol singing and candle-lighting service, when candles of friendship were lighted for those of other faiths and nationalities who have settled in Canada. This interesting service was conducted by the president, Mrs. J. H. Rowe, assisted by Mrs. R. Parnall, Mrs. N. MacDonald, Mrs. Walter Burns, Mrs. A. B. Burrows, Mrs. R. C. Boulter and Mrs. F. E. Latimer.

St. Luke's version of the Christmas story was read by Mrs. P. White, who also gave a short talk on the same subject. Mrs. A. Sandercock led in prayer.

Dr. James Semple, guest speaker, said in his Christmas message that Christmas means the birth of Christ and not the giving of gifts and entertaining and feasting. Christians must put more of Christ in their daily living and realize the joy of Christmas by helping others less fortunate, he went on. "Christmas involves a world-wide fellowship of all Christians and that the world never was as small as it is today. To be truly Christian we must have Christ in our hearts."

A beautiful solo, "The Holy Child" was sung by Mrs. James Goldie, accompanied by Mrs. H. F. Doig. Mrs. W. L. McNeil played a piano solo, "The Old Rugged Cross."

A gratifying report was given by the treasurer, Mrs. James Fanning, showing that the allocation of $1,000 had been realized.

Elect Officers.

Mrs. J. H. Rowe was re-elected as president, with the following executive: Past President, Mrs. James Brown; Hon. President, Mrs. James Semple; 1st Vice-President, Mrs. R. Parnall; 2nd, Mrs. E. Brown; 3rd, Mrs. G. Baird; 4th, Group Leaders; Recording Secretary, Mrs. F. E. Latimer; Treasurer, Mrs. James Fanning; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. James Brown; Press Secretary, Mrs. F. E. Latimer; Secretary of Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. J. Spencer; Secretary of Community Friendship, Miss E. Boyde; Secretary of Sick and Visiting, Mrs. J. W. Hales; Secretary of Supplies, Mrs. James Tinney; Secretary of Temperance and Christian Citizenship, Mrs. B. N. Manning; Secretary of Literature, Mrs. W. Burns; Secretary of Missionary Monthly, Mrs. W. MacMillan; Librarians, Mrs. W. H. Morton and Mrs. H. Girven; Pianist, Mrs. W. P. Purdy; Mission Band, Mrs. W. H. Frise; Twilight Mission Circle, Mrs. W. MacMillan and Mrs. H. Dulmage; CGIT, Mrs. Leo Copp, Mrs. Ted Kingdon and Miss B. Harte; Baby Band, Mrs. A. Warrelow.

Home and School Association News

MAY'S.

Miss I. Connolly was guest speaker at the Christmas meeting of May's Home and School Association, taking as her topic, "Character Building," and dividing her subject into three sections, heredity, environment, and will.

She quoted different sections of the Bible, dealing with Christ's life, using it as an example of true character. She explained that a child inherited traits from the third and fourth generations, more than from their parents. However, he must also be brought up in a righteous house, and taught the good things of life when young, so that he will be on the way to becoming a respectable citizen, and strong enough to have the will power to act rightly.

The Christmas program was in charge of the teachers and pupils, and opened with the community singing of the carol "Hark the Herald Angels Sing." Wayne Collins of grade one, gave a recitation, and a group of grade two students also gave a recitation. "Silent Night" was sung by a group of grade three students, followed by a play, "Pudding Bag String" by a group from grade four. Two song selections were presented by pupils of the principal, J. M. Burns. Miss H. Savigny was pianist for the evening.

Mr. Burns briefly addressed the meeting, asking parents for their co-operation about the question of the children going to and from school. Mrs. J. S. Roberts, who presided, thanked all taking part in the program, and welcomed the guests and members of Confederation Home and School, who were especially invited. A sale of home-made cooking and knick-knacks, convened by Mrs. John Chambers, was most successful.

Mrs. Roberts asked as many as possible to attend a public meeting in the Y.W.C.A. on January 15, when Dr. R. A. Kelly will speak on "Health." At the close of the evening, Mrs. W. Collins and her committee served refreshments.

KING GEORGE

An excellent program of music, provided by the children, and community carol singing led by Miss M. Dickson, were highlights of the December meeting of the King George Home and School Association, Tuesday evening.

Marilyn Pomeroy and Marie Derry played a lively duet "The Witches Flight," and little Betty Stevens played the "Spinner's Song," imitating the whir of a busy spinning wheel. Another piece of imitative music, "Two Little Froggies" was played by Roger Ingall. Lorraine Derry and Margaret Laing played a duet, "Amarillis," and Doreen Broddon played "The Music Box." A choir led by Miss Dickson, with Mrs. A. E. DeNure at the piano sang the following carols: "Hark the Herald Angels Sing," "Infant Holy, Infant Lowly," "Good King Wenceslas," "Joy to the World," "O Come All Ye Faithful," "Silent Night" and "O Little Town of Bethlehem."

Rev. A. J. Arthur, rector of St. Luke's Anglican church, was guest

Bowling Club Enjoys Party

After a friendly round of games Tuesday evening, the St. Andrew's bowling club met for a social evening, to close the fall session. Mrs. R. Morrow, the president, welcomed the members and thanked them for the toys they had brought for the white gift effort of the Sunday school.

The membership of the club has greatly increased and the spirit of fellowship has been fine, the new members feeling that they have entered a friendly group of people, she declared. Christmas carols were sung, with Mrs. R. Morrow at the piano, and Dr. E. W. Young, Ray Morrow and H. Tremaine spoke on the merits of the games. Certain rules were made in connection with the method of judging contests.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. T. H. Skinner and her committee, and H. G. Cheel moved a vote of thanks on behalf of the group.

Woman Aero-Engine Mechanic In Charge Of RCAF Repair Records

Artist mechanical engineer, school teacher, and now officer in charge of statistics in the directorate of repair and maintenance at R.C.A.F. headquarters, is the career of a diminutive officer of the Women's Division. She is Flight Officer Eleanor G. Flint, of Ottawa.

"When people ask me what my work in Ottawa is, I tell them it is 50 per cent. secret, 40 per cent. confidential. They give up after that," she says. It's scope is immense. Recently she had several South African Air Force officers studying the set up and they took with them plans for a similar branch in their own Government.

To her office come weekly reports from every flying unit in Canada and Newfoundland. Half-yearly charts for each station or squadron are compiled and at a glance she can give up to the minute data concerning the past six months. The charts, made of heavy cardboard sheets, line her office.

The reports are analysed. Abnormal trends are spotted immediately and reported so prompt action may be taken.

Check Repair Work

Reports compiled weekly show immediately the serviceability of aircraft and the number of aircraft coming up for overhaul or repair. Reports are also made on all overhaul work so that knowledge is available as to the state of overhaul on engines and airframes of various aircraft. Weekly statements on all salvage work are sent in from the repair depots and compiled, as well as a record of all aircraft stored.

Fl.-O. Flint looks as if she would be more at home with an artist's brush in her hand than a spanner and is an artist of considerable talent. Yet she is the first Canadian girl to qualify in the tests for an aero-engine and airframe mechanic. As a side line, while taking the course in Los Angeles, she learned to fly and took a fabric worker's course, the supreme test of which was a jump from a plane.

Graduating second in her class (she was the only girl), she was overjoyed when Washington approved her blueprints for a glider, subsequently built by the class. Pressures per square inch, wind resistance, etc., were all features of the task for this mechanically-minded Canadian girl.

Doubtful Honor

She recalled with a grin the conclusion of that course. "Because I was the only girl in the class they decided I would have the doubtful honor of being the first to make the jump. I wanted to go higher than a mile so the pilot climbed to 5,300 feet. I was never so scared in all my life, and only the realization that 34 boys were waiting below to see if I'd do it gave me nerve enough to jump. But it is a marvellous sensation. It is akin to floating until you get about 200 feet from the ground and then you wonder how you are going to land."

Her course was very thorough. She gained experience working on a great variety of aircraft engines, many loaned by the American Navy. "One was a Vaught Corsair Navy pursuit job which had been the fastest up to that time (1932). Looking back now it seems like an old tub," she reminisced.

At the conclusion of her course, she received an offer from the Chinese Government for her services. If she accepted an aircrew place she would receive $800 a month or they would pay her $400 a month for ground crew duties. "We were selected only by name, of course," she explained, "can you imagine the amazement it would have caused had a girl reported?"

No Job For Girl

The day after the war was declared in 1939, she offered her services to the RCAF but was turned away with the statement that women would never be accepted for enlistment. In 1940 she tried again with similar results. She offered to pay her way overseas as a VAD for the Red Cross, but again was disappointed. She decided to enlist in the RAF Women's Auxiliary Air Force, was refused passage overseas.

With the formation of the Canadian Women's Auxiliary Air Force (now Women's Division) she came to Ottawa from Flin Flon to apply for enlistment, was accepted and, with the first 150 girls, took her basic training in the fall of 1941. Until her first pay parade, the monetary angle of the service had never entered her head. 'I'll never forget how the other girls teased me when I made a fuss over getting paid for serving my country," she said.

Her first Air Force job was instructing in 'chute packing.

In April, she was posted to Hagersville for a "glorious five weeks," her only time on a station. There she worked as an administrative corporal and subsequently was posted to the RCAF recruiting centre in London from where she was commissioned.

Worked For Year

After taking her Officers' Training Course in August, 1942, she was interviewed in Ottawa by Group Captain R. Collins (now Air Commodore) Director of Repair and Maintenance. As a result of this interview she was sent to an RCAF Repair Depot in Calgary for a year's expjerience before being posted to Ottawa in September of last year.

When you ask where her home is, the answer is "Canada." "I was born in Montreal, went to Vancouver while a baby, went to school in Montreal, Winnipeg, Edmonton, Banff, Vancouver, Seattle, Bellingham (Washington State), Chicago and New York. Her parents, now deceased, were graduates of McGill University, and her father was a civil engineer. Her brother, Frank Flint, lives in Toronto.

Because her mother believed she should have a vocation "to fall back on," she took her teacher's certificate and for a time supervised art classes in the junior high schools of a Winnipeg suburb. After school hours she organized an Airplane Club and taught 48 eager lads the theory of flight and elementary aerodynamics. The prize for coming among the first six in this group, was a "flip." Now most of those lads are with the Air Force, the majority of them with commissions.

Does Art Work Too

"My family were preachers, professors and artists," said Miss Flint, disclaiming any inheritance for her liking for things mechanical. Her mother had been interested in science and had taken Arts only because no woman was then permitted to take a degree in science. Miss Flint sold her first painting at the age of 12 in a Bellingham, Washington, art centre, which is still asking for more of her work. As a youngster she took lessons from W. J. Phillips. Her specialty is landscapes and old houses. One of her recent works, is of Ottawa's old Bytown Market.

"The most prominent artist in the family," Flight Officer Flint said, "was my cousin, Dickson Patterson, who was commanded by Queen Victoria to paint a portrait of the late Sir John A. MacDonald. It was the only portrait for which Sis John A. ever sat."

Her brother Frank Flint, now a producer with the Canadian Broadcasting Company in Toronto, was 27 times through the Panama Canal before he was 21, celebrating his 21st birthday in Lima, Peru.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, December 21

CONFLICTING conditions are noted in this day's astral prognostications. It is probable that there may be many problems and perplexities, with sudden, unforeseen and far-reaching upheavals, upsets and possibly uprooting from old-established foundations or affiliations, which may have had destructive or unprofitable factors. In a way, such drastic uprooting may be the open sesame for new ventures, with fresh foundations promising more lucrative, firm and enduring bases. With determination, well-organized plans, industry and sound judgment, disaster may be turned to discipline and failure into productiveness and future security. Intuition or subtle urges may play a part in this.

For The Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year in which sudden and swift tearing-down processes, devastating and deep-seated, may eventually make way for an entire reconstruction of objectives, plans, purposes built upon outgrown and unproductive situations, associations or aims. This uprooting should be a benevolent iconoclasm, since it makes way for a fresh start, with sounder bases for firmer foundations. Well-organized plans, sound judgment and advice, persistent effort and industry are bound to bring stability, security and enduring good fortune. An undercurrent of subtle forces, with intuition or peculiar source of energy or enterprise, is indicated.

A child born on this day will have much character and ingenuity, with constructive ability, endurance and industry to surmount sudden blows or reversals, rising to stability and ultimate sound fortune.

In South-west Holland the Canadian Army drove north to the Rhine which flows westward, as the Waal River, into the North Sea. The Canadians took Bergen Op Zoom, fought northwards to Steenbergen and the river. The British took Roosendaal and went north to the river on the right flank. On the right flank of the British the Americans and the Poles jumped ahead to the river too. On November 9, in the first flurry of winter snow, the Poles eliminated a suicide pocket of Germans holding out at the southern end of the demolished Moerdijk bridges over the lower Rhine. This ended the battle for South-west Holland.

The American-British six-army offensive went in shortly afterwards and the Canadians relieved British troops in the Nijmegen salient. Some units took up positions inside the German border east of Nijmegen.

On the Schelde, Canadian troops saw as heavy fighting as the 3rd Division had in the beachhead and around Caen.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

CAGED WIFE WANTS EXCITEMENT

Girl Wedded to Older Man Bound to Make Fair Return for Wealth

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — I am a young woman of 19 and have been married for two years to a man of 55. He can't dance or play cards and he won't take me out in the evenings. He sits around in his bedroom slippers and smokes his pipe. This man is rich and I have all the money I want, but he is an old Grandpa and I simply hate him.

I won't get a divorce because I don't know how to do a thing to earn my living and yet I can't stand this life a day longer. What shall I do?

ELEANOR G.

ANSWER—Well, it seems to me, Eleanor, that the thing for you to do is to play fair. If you sold yourself for money, deliver the goods without welching on your bargain.

You still think that the wife job is easier than a job behind a counter or a typewriter and you are right about one thing, at least; It does pay bigger wages. You wouldn't be able to live in a fine house and have beautiful clothes and a big car if you were supporting yourself.

So you are honor bound to make a fair return for all your husband gives you by making him a happy, cheerful home and hiding your distaste for him. Certainly you have little to complain of if all the fault you can find with him is that he doesn't dance, play cards or like to go out in the evenings. There are many women who would like to change shoes with you.

Old Maids Husband Spoilers

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am 40 years of age. I intend to marry an old maid of 51 years, but sometimes I wonder if we will be happy. We have known each other for many many years. What do you think?

C. E. M.

ANSWER—Generally speaking, I think it is a mistake for a man to marry a woman eleven years older than he is. But there are always exceptions to every rule, and circumstances sometimes justify one man in doing a thing that would be folly for another man to do.

I take it that this must be one of those cases. You know what particular charm your elderly fiancee has for you. Perhaps she has a brilliant mind and is a spellbinder as a conversationalist, one of those women with whom no one ever has a dull moment. Perhaps you love her for her sheer goodness. Perhaps she is a woman who has a highly developed maternal instinct and you are one of the men who likes to be mothered. Perhaps she is a crackerjack cook. Perhaps she is rich.

At any rate, a man of 40 should know his own mind and what he wants in a wife and if you have been friends for many, many years, surely you have had time to think it over and to know exactly what you are getting in the way of temper and disposition.

And, whist, brother, old maids are the greatest husband-spoilers in the world. After a woman has waited that long for a husband and gets him, she keeps him in cotton wool and pampers him like a prize Pomeranian pup and waits on him hand and foot.

Invited Insult

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a young girl just starting out to enjoy myself and have a good time. The other day I let a young man pick me up on the street and take me out riding and he insulted me. However, he has apologized and has asked me for a date. Should I forgive him and accept him, or should I not trust him?

PEGGY.

ANSWER—You have no right to resent the young man for insulting you because he had every reason to think that you were not a respectable girl. No nice girl gets acquainted with young men in that way, nor does she get into a car with a strange young man of whom she has never heard before. It simply isn't done.

A man can judge a girl only by her conduct and if she acts like a woman of the street, he can only surmise that she knows what she is about and that she belongs to

3 Peterboro Men On Hospital Ship

Three Peterborough men and three district soldiers have arrived in Canada aboard a hospital ship which docked recently, and all have seen heavy action in the European theatres of war.

Capt. Harry G. Marsh, son of Mrs. Jennie Marsh, 507 Homewood avenue, and popular Peterborough athlete, is among the returning casualties. A member of the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, he was wounded during the fighting on D-Day and has been out of action since that time. He has been overseas since September, 1942.

Another well known Peterborough man, Lieut. W. O. Thirnbeck, has been invalided home. His wife and son live at 418 Water street. He was wounded in Belgium early in October when he was with the British Second Army.

The third Peterborough man on this list is Pte. B. G. H. Woodcock, whose wife, Mrs. Audrey I. Woodcock lives at 459 Chamberlain street.

Other casualties back include: Gnr. A. C. Brooks, son of Mrs. Elsie Brooks of Millbrook; Pte. C. G. Brown, son of Mrs. Vera Brown, Port Hope; Sgt. L. L. Grew, whose wife Mrs. Yvonne Grew, lives on Raglan street, Campbellford.

Obituary

MRS. EZEKIEL BRISBIN

ROSENEATH, Dec. 20.—(ENS).—The funeral of Mrs. Ezekiel T. Brisbin who died Saturday, was held Monday afternoon at the family residence, Rev. R. C. White, pastor of Roseneath United church, officiating. He used as his text Verse 35, Hebrews XI and Miss Betty Atkinson sang "Sweet Hour of Prayer."

Interment was in Bethany (Macklin's) cemetery and pall bearers were: G. L. Tucker, M. D. Brown, L. E. Down, R. Crego, N. W. Sherwin and Andrew Brown.

Mrs. Brisbin had been in failing health for two years and had been confined to bed for about two months. She was Martha McCleary, daughter of the late John McCleary and Caroline Spencer McCleary of Dartford, and is the last member of a family of four sons and four daughters. She was born near Dartford and was in her 84th year. On September 5, 1883, she was married to Ezekiel T. Brisbin, of Roseneah, and on that date in 1943 they celebrated their diamond anniversary. They have lived in Roseneath village for the past thirty-three years.

Mrs. Brisbin was a member of Roseneath United church and a member of the W.M.S., and as long as health permitted she took an active interest in community welfare as a member of the W.I. for many years. She was well known and loved.

She is survived by her husband a daughter, Mrs. A. M. Curtis, of and son, Delbert, of Roseneath, and Montreal. A daughter, Mrs. Fred Talling, predeceased her mother some years ago, and Lois Talling, her infant daughter, now Mrs. J. C. Arber, was raised by Mrs. Brisbin.

There are seven grandchildren and four great grandchildren.

speaker, and told of the necessity for today's children to realize that the responsibilities which lie ahead of them are too great to be undertaken without God's help. He felt that Sunday School and church attendance were as much needed as regular school and health measures, and stressed the importance of discipline. "The spirit of discipline is obedience" he said. "A child should only be told to do anything once. If he is to grow up in favor with with God and man, he must learn to accept the necessity for sacrifice and living for others" he concluded.

"Junior and Pre-school Children—Their Parent and Teacher Problems" a report made from a discussion of junior parents and teachers at a recent conference, was read by Mrs. R. L. Hales. The president, Mrs. A. G. Stock, reminded members of a special meeting to be held January 15 in the Y.M.C.A., where Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H., will speak and show pictures, for the drive against venereal disease. Mrs. F. Waston gave the secretary's report, and Mrs. Stock presented appeals from the "Save the Children Fund" and the British War Victims' Fund. It was decided to send donations to these, and the Milk for Britain Fund. Mrs. G. Gedge gave the treasurer's report.

F. E. Kerr, the principal, reviewed current events at home and abroad, and the attendance book was awarded to Miss Dickson's class. Mrs. A. Stevens moved a vote of thanks to all who had taken part in the evening's entertainment, and Mrs. C. Batchelor and her committee served refreshments. The children received small gifts of candy and Mrs. C. Searles was at the piano during the evening.

Forecasts Slums

Three Men Face Six Charges In County Court

COBOURG, Dec. 20 (ENS)—Six charges were read against Jerry Semowonyk and Mike Cembal of Oshawa and Pte. Walter Moscall of Petawawa in county court Tuesday to which they pleaded not guilty before Judge J. C. M. German. The charges are as follows:

For December 31, breaking, entering of Cobourg liquor store; December 28, theft of a car in York township from Ira Lorie; December 31, with intent to resist lawful apprehension, did shoot at Provincial Constables R. Duncan and W. Thompson of Bowmanville; during the month of December, theft of license plates from the car of Lewis Taylor in Markham township, the license number being 86W77; December 29, theft of a car at Oshawa, the owner being William Duncan; December 31, breaking, entering and theft of garage at Port Hope, property of Gordon Rose. All offenses took place last year.

Arthur Greer of Oshawa is solicitor for Cembal and Fred C. Richardson of Cobourg is acting for the other two accused. Harry Deyman of Cobourg is prosecuting the charges.

Testify To Theft

William Duncan of Oshawa testified that his 1941 black Buick was stolen on December 29 from his garage. The car was a two-door sedan. Lewis Taylor of Langstaff testified that he had put his car in the garage some time between December 26 and December 30 last year and that when he saw it again on December ? the license plate, No. 86W77 was gone.

Ira Lorie of Toronto, owner of a 1941 Chrysler, said that on December 28 at about 2.30 in the morning his daughter awakened him to tell him that somebody was in the garage. He got up and ran to the window in time to see the car being driven away. Witness identified a whisk, which he said was in the glove compartment of the car. He also identified a radiator cover as being from his car. His evidence was corroborated by his employee, Charles Clayton.

Key Witness

Key witness in the case is 17-year-old Herbert Stire of Darlington township who identified the three accused as having been in a parked car in Darlington township on the morning of December 30. Stire said that he was looking after his trapline when at 11.30 a.m. he saw two cars in the swamp. One was a Chrysler with the wheels stripped of their tires. In another car were three men. Cembal was in the front seat behind the wheel, with an orange toque on his head. Beside him was Semowonyk and in the back seat was Moscall, Stire stated.

A soldier's wedge cap was on Moscall's head but Stire said he was unable to tell what the three wore. All three men were asleep at the time and the car was only ten feet from where Stire peered at them from among the trees. The car was still there in the afternoon, witness related. As the car drove out of the swamp around 4 p.m. that day, he noticed that Cembal was driving but didn't notice where the other two were. On his way to notify the police, he caught sight of the license number as the car rounded a turn and noticed that it was 86W77. At that time he could see that three were in the car. He next saw Moscall in a police line-up at Oshawa and later at Cobourg picked Semowonyk and Cembal out of the line-up at the jail. Stire was subjected to a very searching cross-examination by Arthur Greer and Fred Richardson.

Charles Stire, father of the previous witness said that he saw Cembal behind the wheel as the black two-door car drove out of the swamp that afternoon. Three men were in the car, one of which he identified as Cembal. He noticed that the Chrysler was stripped of its tires. His brother, Fred Stire, corroborated his evidence as to the driver of the car but testified that he only saw one person in the automobile.

Garage Entered

Gordon Rose, proprietor of a Port Hope service station, said that his premises were broken into on December 31 and that oil, anti-freeze, brake-fluid, box of tools and cigarettes were stolen. These articles were later identified by him in Bowmanville police station.

W. E. Cooper, manager of the liquor store at Cobourg, testified that the store was broken into on December 31. When he was called to the store by police in the morning he found that the door had been forced open and on the counter was a wrecking-bar. Mr. Cooper identified the bar produced in court as similar to the one found after the break-in.

Constable Roy Doherty, formerly of Cobourg Police Department and now a member of the Belleville police force, testified that he found a car parked in front of the liquor store at Cobourg around 5.10 a.m. December 31. As he approached the car from the front he saw three men run and get in the automobile. Two of them were soldiers and the other was a civilian, Doherty said. A shot was fired and he passed around to the rear of the car in order to get the license number as it roaded away. The number was 86 W77, he recalled. The car was a black Buick two-door sedan. The constable said that he fired four shots at the car as it headed east. He found that the lock on the door of the liquor store had been broken and stuck in the door was a wrecking bar. This bar he identified in court by two file marks which he had placed on it after it was found.

The hearing went on Tuesday night.

Charlie Chaplin Shows Anger In Court Case

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20 (AP) — A new and violently explosive Charlie Chaplin—one who shouts "That's a lie! that's not true!"—faces his second day of grilling today in Joan Berry's suit to have him decreed the father of her baby.

The Chaplin acquitted last April of a charge of transporting her to New York for immoral purposes was calm and almost icy when he addressed a Federal court jury then.

Now he slashes the air, twists and turns and pounds the witness rail, and cries:

"I have committed no crime . . . Your Honor, I am human . . . this man (Joan's Attorney) is trying to infer that I am a monster . . . I have been verbally pilloried and lynched . . ."

Joan wants the 55-year-old comedian ordered to pay $2,500 monthly for the support of her 14-months-old Carol Ann—who cooed so loudly in court yesterday that Joan's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Berry, had to carry her out.

The changed Chaplin emerged as he was prodded with questions by Joan's 77-year-old attorney, Joseph Scott, veteran of more than half a century at the bar.

Mr. Scott, in outlining his case to the jury of seven women and five men, said evidence would show that Carol Ann was conceived in Chaplin's bedroom the night of Dec. 23, 1942.

Mr. Chaplin denied this. He said he and his former drama pupil had broken off their "intimate relations" months before.

"She came to my bedroom," he said, referring to the date of Dec. 23, 1942. "It was close to midnight. I was telephoning someone. She was in the door to the bathroom with a gun in her hand.

Had a Gun

She circled around, and I asked her what she was up to. She said she was going to kill herself. I said 'why do you come to my house?—in order to create a scandal?' She said she was going to teach me, that she was destitute.

"I said, 'why do you do this when I've tried everything in the world to build you up materially and spiritually, to give you a reputation to teach you how to act?'

"I believed in that girl.

"I said, 'you have broken into my house several times. Why? I've tried to be your friend.' I lectured her on our relationship. She said, I'm going to kill myself if you come near me or try to put me out of this house.' I said, 'why are you doing this?—why are you harassing me when I've tried to be your best friend?"

"What did she say?' demanded Scott.

"That she had no place to sleep. I said, 'why this attitude, this drama, when Ive sacrificed a whole year in which I've tried to build you up?"

"What happened after the lecture?"

Chaplin said he finally consented to her remaining overnight and that she slept in the guest room.

Scott had told the jury he would prove that Chaplin "petted her" and that they had an act of intercourse in his bed. But when asked about this, the comedian shot back:

"No—that is not a fact!"

"When did you last have sexual relations with Miss Berry?"

"I don't know. I think it was somewhere back in February (1942). I know we ceased our intimate relations."

"I'm talking about sexual relations," thundered Scott, and Chaplin exclaimed:

"That's what I'm talking about, but that term is so very harsh."

that sisterhood. Hence, if you want men to treat you with respect, you must be dignified and discreet in your conduct.

I heartily sympathize with a young girl's desire to have a good time, but I think she is taking the wrong road to happiness if she goes joyriding with strange men. I think her fun will be short and that she is taking the path that leads to lifelong misery and disgrace.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NO END OF END PLAYS

APPARENTLY there is no limit to the variety of lead-throwing end-plays. When an opponent is tossed in, he may have all sorts of different unpleasant options among which he can choose. Returning a low card of a certain suit may give the declarer his contract by one procedure, and a high card of the same suit will do it in another way. Still another process will be employed if the defender returns a certain other suit, and yet another if it is neither of those suits, but something else.

Rowley W. Phillips edified his partner, J. Harlin O'Connell, himself a great end-play and squeeze specialist, on this deal during a rubber bridge tournament of the Union club in New York. Mr. Phillips put one of the fanciest finishes on the hand that has been seen in some time.

Winning the club J lead with the A, he found all sorts of gaps in the other suits, but figured out how to make even the gaps work for him. He led the diamond 5 to the 10 to force the A, ruffed the returned club K with the spade 4, led the spade 5 to the A, scored the diamond K, discarding the heart 6, then led the heart 2 to the K and A.

There was poor West in the lead. East was due to get one more trick with the spade K, but another could not be picked up. If West returned a low diamond, the J would furnish a discard of the heart 8. If he returned the Q, South would ruff and lead the spade 2 to the 3 to force the K, leaving the 8 as an entry to use a diamond for the heart discard. If West returned a club, the heart 8 could be discarded on a ruff by the dummy. If he returned the heart J, the Q would win and the 10 be good. So he returned the heart 9, but the 10 won that, and only the spade K remained out as a winner for the defense. Anything West did would have wrecked him. It was a neat play of a gaudy hand.

Three Men Face Six Charges In County Court

COBOURG, Dec. 20 (ENS)—Six charges were read against Jerry Semowonyk and Mike Cembal of Oshawa and Pte. Walter Moscall of Petawawa in county court Tuesday to which they pleaded not guilty before Judge J. C. M. German. The charges are as follows:

For December 31, breaking, entering of Cobourg liquor store; December 28, theft of a car in York township from Ira Lorie; December 31, with intent to resist lawful apprehension, did shoot at Provincial Constables R. Duncan and W. Thompson of Bowmanville; during the month of December, theft of license plates from the car of Lewis Taylor in Markham township, the license number being 86W77; December 29, theft of a car at Oshawa, the owner being William Duncan; December 31, breaking, entering and theft of garage at Port Hope, property of Gordon Rose. All offenses took place last year.

Arthur Greer of Oshawa is solicitor for Cembal and Fred C. Richardson of Cobourg is acting for the other two accused. Harry Deyman of Cobourg is prosecuting the charges.

Testify To Theft

William Duncan of Oshawa testified that his 1941 black Buick was stolen on December 29 from his garage. The car was a two-door sedan. Lewis Taylor of Langstaff testified that he had put his car in the garage some time between December 26 and December 30 last year and that when he saw it again on December 31 the license plate, No. 86W77 was gone.

Ira Lorie of Toronto, owner of a 1941 Chrysler, said that on December 28 at about 2.30 in the morning his daughter awakened him to tell him that somebody was in the garage. He got up and ran to the window in time to see the car being driven away. Witness identified a whisk, which he said was in the glove compartment of the car. He also identified a radiator cover as being from his car. His evidence was corroborated by his employee, Charles Clayton.

Key Witness

Key witness in the case is 17-year-old Herbert Stire of Darlington township who identified the three accused as having been in a parked car in Darlington township on the morning of December 30. Stire said that he was looking after his trap-line when at 11.30 a.m. he saw two cars in the swamp. One was a Chrysler with the wheels stripped of their tires. In another car were three men. Cembal was in the front seat behind the wheel, with an orange toque on his head. Beside him was Semowonyk and in the back seat was Moscall, Stire stated.

A soldier's wedge cap was on Moscall's head but Stire said he was unable to tell what the three wore. All three men were asleep at the time and the car was only ten feet from where Stire peered at them from among the trees. The car was still there in the afternoon, witness related. As the car drove out of the swamp around 4 p.m. that day, he noticed that Cembal was driving but didn't notice where the other two were. On his way to notify the police, he caught sight of the license number as the car rounded a turn and noticed that it was 86W77. At that time he could see that three were in the car. He next saw Moscall in a police line-up at Oshawa and later at Cobourg picked Semowonyk and Cembal out of the line-up at the jail. Stire was subjected to a very searching cross-examination by Arthur Greer and Fred Richardson.

Charles Stire, father of the previous witness said that he saw Cembal behind the wheel as the black two-door car drove out of the swamp that afternoon. Three men were in the car, one of which he identified as Cembal. He noticed that the Chrysler was stripped of its tires. His brother, Fred Stire, corroborated his evidence as to the driver of the car but testified that he only saw one person in the automobile.

Garage Entered

Gordon Rose, proprietor of a Port Hope service station, said that his premises were broken into on December 31 and that oil, anti-freeze, brake-fluid, box of tools and cigarettes were stolen. These articles were later identified by him in Bowmanville police station.

W. E. Cooper, manager of the liquor store at Cobourg, testified that the store was broken into on December 31. When he was called to the store by police in the morning he found that the door had been forced open and on the counter was a wrecking-bar. Mr. Cooper identified the bar produced in court as similar to the one found after the break-in.

Constable Roy Doherty, formerly of Cobourg Police Department and now a member of the Belleville police force, testified that he found a car parked in front of the liquor store at Cobourg around 5.10 a.m. December 31. As he approached the car from the front he saw three men run and get in the automobile. Two of them were soldiers and the other was a civilian, Doherty said. A shot was fired and he passed around to the rear of the car in order to get the license number as it roaded away. The number was 86 W77, he recalled. The car was a black Buick two-door sedan. The constable said that he fired four shots at the car as it headed east. He found that the lock on the door of the liquor store had been broken and stuck in the door was a wrecking bar. This bar he identified in court by two file marks which he had placed on it after it was found.

The hearing went on Tuesday night.

Charlie Chaplin Shows Anger In Court Case

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 20 (AP) — A new and violently explosive Charlie Chaplin—one who shouts "That's a lie! that's not true!"—faces his second day of grilling today in Joan Berry's suit to have him decreed the father of her baby.

The Chaplin acquitted last April of a charge of transporting her to New York for immoral purposes was calm and almost icy when he addressed a Federal court jury then.

Now he slashes the air, twists and turns and pounds the witness rail, and cries:

"I have committed no crime . . . Your Honor, I am human . . . this man (Joan's Attorney) is trying to infer that I am a monster . . . I have been verbally pilloried and lynched . . ."

Joan wants the 55-year-old comedian ordered to pay $2,500 monthly for the support of her 14-months-old Carol Ann—who cooed so loudly in court yesterday that Joan's mother, Mrs. Gertrude Berry, had to carry her out.

The changed Chaplin emerged as he was prodded with questions by Joan's 77-year-old attorney, Joseph Scott, veteran of more than half a century at the bar.

Mr. Scott, in outlining his case to the jury of seven women and five men, said evidence would show that Carol Ann was conceived in Chaplin's bedroom the night of Dec. 23, 1942.

Mr. Chaplin denied this. He said he and his former drama pupil had broken off their "intimate relations" months before.

"She came to my bedroom," he said, referring to the date of Dec. 23, 1942. "It was close to midnight. I was telephoning someone. She was in the door to the bathroom with a gun in her hand.

Had a Gun

She circled around, and I asked her what she was up to. She said she was going to kill herself. I said 'why do you come to my house?—in order to create a scandal?' She said she was going to teach me, that she was destitute.

"I said, 'why do you do this when I've tried everything in the world to build you up materially and spiritually, to give you a reputation to teach you how to act?'

"I believed in that girl.

"I said, 'you have broken into my house several times. Why? I've tried to be your friend.' I lectured her on our relationship. She said, I'm going to kill myself if you come near me or try to put me out of this house.' I said, 'why are you doing this?—why are you harassing me when I've tried to be your best friend?"

"What did she say?' demanded Scott.

"That she had no place to sleep. I said, 'why this attitude, this drama, when Ive sacrificed a whole year in which I've tried to build you up?"

"What happened after the lecture?"

Chaplin said he finally consented to her remaining overnight and that she slept in the guest room.

Scott had told the jury he would prove that Chaplin "petted her" and that they had an act of intercourse in his bed. But when asked about this, the comedian shot back:

"No—that is not a fact!"

"When did you last have sexual relations with Miss Berry?"

"I don't know. I think it was somewhere back in February (1942). I know we ceased our intimate relations."

"I'm talking about sexual relations," thundered Scott, and Chaplin exclaimed:

"That's what I'm talking about, but that term is so very harsh."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

NO END OF END PLAYS

APPARENTLY there is no limit to the variety of lead-throwing end-plays. When an opponent is tossed in, he may have all sorts of different unpleasant options among which he can choose. Returning a low card of a certain suit may give the declarer his contract by one procedure, and a high card of the same suit will do it in another way. Still another process will be employed if the defender returns a certain other suit, and yet another if it is neither of those suits, but something else.

Rowley W. Phillips edified his partner, J. Harlin O'Connell, himself a great end-play and squeeze specialist, on this deal during a rubber bridge tournament of the Union club in New York. Mr. Phillips put one of the fanciest finishes on the hand that has been seen in some time.

Winning the club J lead with the A, he found all sorts of gaps in the other suits, but figured out how to make even the gaps work for him. He led the diamond 5 to the 10 to force the A, ruffed the returned club K with the spade 4, led the spade 5 to the A, scored the diamond K, discarding the heart 6, then led the heart 2 to the K and A.

There was poor West in the lead. East was due to get one more trick with the spade K, but another could not be picked up. If West returned a low diamond, the J would furnish a discard of the heart 8. If he returned the Q, South would ruff and lead the spade 2 to the 3 to force the K, leaving the 8 as an entry to use a diamond for the heart discard. If West returned a club, the heart 8 could be discarded on a ruff by the dummy. If he returned the heart J, the Q would win and the 10 be good. So he returned the heart 9, but the 10 won that, and only the spade K remained out as a winner for the defense. Anything West did would have wrecked him. It was a neat play of a gaudy hand.

A. Walker Lauds Legion Branches

OTTAWA, Dec. 20 (CP).—Alex. Walker, Dominion president of the Canadian Legion yesterday congratulated Legion's 1,400 branches in a Christmas message on bringing the "reinforcement issue" to what he termed a "definite conclusion."

Mr. Walker's message said in part:—

"For the Legion, the year just past has been a most eventful one. A great many problems have arisen to confront us, but it is doubtful if, in Legion history, there has been any more serious challenge than that of the reinforcement issue which came to the fore a few weeks ago and was brought—more by Legion efforts than anything else—to a definite conclusion.

"This was a national issue of grave significance and one we had been watching carefully for many months and years. When we decided to act, we did so with promptness and determination.

"However, our determination would have meant very little had it not been for the whole-hearted and immediate support we received from all Legion branches across the country."

Life Membership Is Given Mrs. B. Cheyne

GORE'S LANDING, Dec. 20—(ENS). — A life membership certificate was given a charter member of the W.M.S., Mrs. Bert Cheyne (formerly of Peterborough) in memory of her sister, the late Mrs. J. D. Fowlie, at the December meeting of the W.M.S. on Friday afternoon. An address was read to Mrs. Cheyne, to which she gave a suitable reply.

This was the annual meeting of the W.M.S. and was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas Cheyne, Rice Lake Boulevard. The president, Mrs. Ames, was in the chair, and opened the meeting with a hymn. A reading on Goodwill, also a Christmas meditation, was followed with prayer by Mrs. Fisher.

Reports were given by Mrs. T. Neill, literature secretary, and Mrs. Lynn MacDonald for the Good Cheer Committee.

The treasurer reported $127.06 on hand, with allocation $126. Mrs. Fisher presided at the election of officers for the coming year, with the entire executive returned for 1945. Mrs. T. Cheyne moved a vote of thanks for the work of these officers.

The secretary, Mrs. J. Harris, gave her 17th annual report for the society which was organized 18 years ago. She paid tribute to the officers of the past year whose co-operation and faithfulness contributed so much to the success of the year. Her story of the year showed 11 meetings held, of which four were special meetings; six members attended all meetings, and Miss J. Fowlie has attended every meeting in the last five years.

An interesting worship service was conducted by the group leader Mrs. W Pratt, and Miss E. Waldon gave a Christmas reading. The January meeting will be held at the parsonage.

HUNS SMASH 35 MILES INTO BELGIUM

Huns Launch Big Drive Near Faenza

Canadians Capture 40 Prisoners In Brisk Battle

ROME Dec. 21 — (AP). — German forces are throwing heavy tank-led counter-attacks against the Canadian bridgehead across the Naviglio Canal north-east of Faenza, but the Canadians are holding fast despite the ferocity of the thrusts, Allied Headquarters said to-day.

There was sharp action in the sector last night during which the Canadians took 40 prisoners.

The counter-attacks at the canal bridgehead, north of Bagnacavallo, were blunted by the Carleton and York Regiment of St. Stephen, N. B., which smashed 13 German assaults in nine hours, it was disclosed.

The Canadians received personal congratulations from Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard L. McCreery, commander of the British 8th Army, for "capturing and holding the bridgehead against repeated infantry and tank counter-attacks."

Other 8th Army troops—presumably Polish and Indian—crossed the Lamone River at two points near Ronco, occupied Formellino half a mile north of the Bologna-Rimini lateral highway and joined additional units north of Faenza in seizing San Silvestro and San Pietro Laguna.

At the same time, New Zealanders cleared the east bank of the Senio River for three miles north of the highway.

South of the highway— Route 6 along which the British 8th Army is grinding its way toward Bologna present chief Allied objective in the Italian campaign—action was confined to patrol operations.

Previously almost all enemy resistance had been reported cleared from south-east of the Senio and south of the highway.

With the prisoner-bag standing at more than 1,500, men of the Canadian Corps were menacing the strongly-defended junction of Bagnacavallo on Tuesday night, Canadian Press War Correspondent William Boss reported in a delayed

Stettinius May Go To London

By FLORA LEWIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21 —(AP)— The possibility arose that State Secretary Stettinius might go to London as a preliminary to a big three meeting.

Foreign Secretary Eden called for a re-establishment of "quarterly meetings of foreign secretaries" of the great powers in the House of Commons yesterday.

British spokesmen have clearly shown for some time their ardent wish to have a high Allied conference on their home ground; but it seems improbable that Marshal Stalin would be willing to leave Russia to meet Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in Britain.

The flare-ups in Greece and Italy bared differences in Anglo-American policy towards liberated Europe which both sides have expressed their interest in talking out.

Allied Headquarters Imposes Time Lag On News Concerning Western Front Battle

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, PARIS, Dec. 21. —(AP).—It was announced officially last night that hereafter positions of German and Allied armies will be made public once daily—after a sufficient time lag to make sure the enemy will get no benefit from the information.

The decision was announced after protests from almost all the Allied world over recent suppression of news concerning German gains on the western front.

Headquarters explained the news blackout had been imposed because of the fluid military situation and the belief by Allied generals that information on troop positions, even if it were days late, might help the Germans.

It was indicated the time lag in announcements henceforth probably would be between 24 and 48 hours.

Germans Upset Time-Table May Be Caught In Big Trap

By DEWITT MACKENZIE—Associated Press War Analyst

The great German counter-offensive appears — as still viewed uncertainly through the partial dim-out of the news censorship—seems to have slackened slightly in violence today, with immediate prospects much beclouded. That's not to say, of course, that the ultimate outcome isn't clear. The vastly superior Allied strength ensures victory in the long run, but it must be admitted that meantime many things can happen in fighting which once more has become fluid and is swirling over a battlefield that covers literally hundreds of square miles.

This giant engagement may be the last clash of such magnitude on the Western front. It might even be decisive as regards the whole German war. The Germans apparently are committing their entire available strength in the West to this effort.

The Germans of course are gambling on upsetting Eisenhower's offensive plans and so on prolonging the war with the vague hope of securing a compromise peace. They are too good soldiers to have any expectation of winning the war.

The way things look, Von Rundstedt already may have achieved the object of upsetting the Allied timetable badly. There won't be any white Christmas on the fighting front. So far as concerns a compromise peace we know that there's no possibility of such a thing.

Rundstedt may indeed achieve the delay which his masters so eagerly seek. However, we shouldn't overlook a point which he most certainly has uncomfortably in mind: his offensive might boomerang and knock him out completely.

The Germans are flinging everything they can lay their hands on into this great effort. An avalanche of men and supplies is disappearing into the maw of this great battle. True, the cost is terribly heavy for both sides, but the difference is that the Allies can far better stand the losses than can the Nazis.

We are entitled to believe that Eisenhower has a large reservoir of reserves. If he also has the necessary supplies there is always the possibility that he may turn the German advance into a terrific debacle.

However, while we may speculate along this line, and even hope that the battle may take such a turn, we shouldn't do any wishful thinking about the Allies being able to spring a trap on the Germans. The possibility exists, but the Germans are past-masters of the art of getting out of traps.

If Push Fails War Shortened

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21—(AP).— War Secretary Henry Stimson said today if the German counter-offensive fails it definitely will shorten the war.

He coupled with this assertion, however, the statement that the Germans' ability to launch the huge offensive is significant.

Mr. Stimson, in his weekly review of the war given at a news conference, said the Germans chose for their attack a sector "which had been loosely held by both sides. It was a terrain which had not offered to the Allies much incentive for exploitation."

In response to a question Stimson said he based his statement concerning a possible shortening of the war on his recollection of events 25 years ago, when he fought in the First Great War.

"I was there when they drove almost to the Channel, again almost to Armentiere," he said. "Again when they drove to the Marne. I remember how we felt—as if they would never stop. And then I remember how, suddenly, on the 18th of July (1918) we bit into the German salient and it shrivelled up like a toy balloon.

"And I remember how in what seemed a very short time after, the surrender came."

Mr. Stimson made these other points in his estimate of the European situation:

"Our armies are being steadily reinforced and the movement of sup-

Canadian Units Have Grand Record

ROME, Dec. 21.—(CP-Reuters).— Two Canadian units of the British 8th Army—the Carleton and York Regiment of St. Stephen, N.B., and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Picton, Ont. — have smashed 13 vicious German countre-attacks in nine hours during the recent heavy fighting north of Bagnacavallo..

The 8th Army commander, Lt.-Gen. McCreery, in messages of congratulations to each unit, said:

"Best congratulations on the splendid achievement of your battalion in capturing and holding the bridgehead over Canale Naviglio against repeated infantry and tank counter-attacks. The great and gallant endurance and determination of all ranks won this important success."

2 Stronghold Cities To Fall Soon

Soviet Columns On Three Sides Of Slovak Centres

MOSCOW, Dec. 21.—(AP).—The Red army pushed the Germans back on a 125-mile front in southern Slovakia to-day and battled with battered Nazi garrisons on the outskirts of the strongholds of Kassa and Rimaszombat.

Soviet columns last night were on three sides of both these heavily-defended south-eastern Slovakian towns which control highways and railways connecting with direct routes to Bratislava, Vienna and Prague to the west.

In advances up to five miles, a communique said, the Russians captured 13 towns in the Rimaszombat area in a drive aimed at the key citadel of Losonc, 17 miles westward. Chief of them was Tornala, 13 miles east of Rimaszombat and a strongpoint of formidable enemy defences on the east bank of the Slana river.

Latest reports had Soviet troops preparing a climatic attack on the Torysa river fortifications two miles outside Kassa.

Front reports said the great battle raging farther to the west, north of the Danube Bend, was going favorably for Red army troops struggling for other routes westward toward Bratislava and Vienna.

The German High Command was reported throwing in large numbers

British Report Greek Progress

ATHENS, Dec. 21 (AP)—Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, announced progress today in clearing insurgent forces from Athens and Piraeus in a routine statement issued three hours after the time he had set for beginning a full-scale attack on the rebel gun positions.

In an ultimatum last night the British general said that as of 9 a.m. today (3 a.m. EDT) any E.L.A.S.

Mutiny Is Suggested In Greece

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP) — Lord Faringdon, sharply assailing Britain's armed intervention policy in Greece, warned in the House of Lords today that "mutiny" may arise among British troops detailed to quell civil strife in that troubled land.

Cries of "monstrous" greeted his statement. Lord Faringdon once served on committee to investigate Britain's non-intervention in Spanish civil war.

"I should not be surprised if our commanders had not already met with cases of men who show great unwillingness to fight Greeks and who may have refused to bomb Athens," said Lord Faringdon, a former member of the Fabian League executive.

"It may be this will go further and we shall have a mutiny among men in Greece and a refusal to fight the Greeks."

His strong language drew an immediate storm of protest.

Lord Samuel said there would be "universal condemnation" of Lord Faringdon's speech and added:

"Such language ought not to be used in this House."

Lord Samuel, leader of the Liberal party in the House of Lords, declared "I am sure on further consideration Lord Faringdon will regret he has been betrayed into these remarks."

Lord Faringdon had suggested that the "King of Greece did not deserve and was in fact an unsuitable recipient of the respect and authority with which British Government invested him."

"I think there is no possibility," he added, "that the King has hardly any personal support in Greece. The Greek people inevitably hold against him that it was he who brought in dictatorship in Greece and who maintained Dictator Metaxas in power."

Lord Faringdon claimed that armistice conditions advanced by Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, "are clearly unacceptable."

"They are terms of surrender," he said. "I hope he may be directed to withdraw these terms and offer terms which are more acceptable."

Can't Halt Drive This Week Germans Using 200,000 Men

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 21 —(AP) — The German counter-offensive has driven 35 miles into Belgium beyond Malmedy, cutting the Liege-Bastogne-Arlon road at a point about 14 miles south of Liege fortress, Supreme Headquarters disclosed today. Field Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt's massive winter push across the Allied lines of communications had developed into two deep wedges as massive formations of five to six armored divisions and eight to nine infantry divisions poured into a wide breach under the concealment of fog and cloud.

The second deep wedge had penetrated three-fourths of the way across Luxembourg. This drive farther south appeared directed toward Sedan, scene of the 1940 break-through.

This drive carried 14 miles from the frontier town of Vianden to just east of Wiltz, 10 miles east of Bastogne and 48 miles northeast of Sedan. Wiltz is 28 miles north of the city of Luxembourg. A parallel German column was in the vicinity of Clervaux, seven miles northeast of Wiltz.

Check One Spot.

These were the positions at noon Tuesday.

Supreme Headquarters still did not permit up-to-the-hour pinpointing of German positions, and field dispatches quoted "good authority" on the 1st Army front as saying the German drive was not likely to be checked this week, although the northernmost prong of the German attack had been stemmed.

First Army reinforcements rushed to the scene by Lt.-Gen. Courtney H. Hodges since Saturday, when the German counter-offensive was unlimbered, had succeeded in stopping any northward push from the line running through the American-held towns of Monschau, Butgenbach, Malmedy and Stavelot, front line reports said.

But the German drive was reported turning south and west of St. Vith, farther south, in the most potent threat.

American troops were fighting back, giving and receiving their heaviest losses of the war, as Von Rundstedt concentrate from 13 to 15 armored and infantry divisions—up to 200,000 men—into a massive bid for a break-through.

(The German high command claimed its spearheads had penetrated the Ardennes forest and cut the 45-mile Liege-Bastogne highway one of the main north-south highway linking the American 1st and 3rd armies.

Through Ardennes

(Bastogne is a Belgian town four miles west of the Luxembourg border and 40 miles northeast of Sedan. It was through the Ardennes forest that the Germans made their great break-through in 1940, smashing across the Meuse at Sedan.)

Security regulations still blacked out the names of towns which German advanced elements had reached 48 hours ago.

But on good authority it could

American 1st Army Blocks German Thrust On Line Running From Malmedy, Stavelot

WITH U.S. 1ST ARMY, Dec. 21, 10.35 a.m.—(AP).—Reinforced elements of the 1st Army have stemmed the northernmost prong of the German offensive while containing the flank of this spearhead on a line running through Malmedy and Stavelot.

The forward push of crack enemy armored units in this thrust was checked by a head-on collision with veteran 1st Army troops. They were backed up by additional artillery, armor and tank destroyers, which swung into action without a moment's delay and drove forward in a bid to stem the German advance.

Other Americans swung into position along the northern flank of the German salient which has been pushed back southward at several points. Considerable forces of enemy armor were chewed up and the German infantry suffered heavy losses,

American Units Suffering Heavy Losses Battling Nazis

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press War Correspondent

IN THE STAVELOT SECTOR, Belgium, Dec. 21—(AP).— American troops engaged in trying to stem the German break-through are suffering a big battle price in men and material, but are making the enemy also pay a fearful cost in blood and munitions for his great Western front counter-offensive.

Along this sector of the front the German advance has been stemmed and broken and was hurled back this (Wednesday) morning when the Germans launched a series of fierce attacks at points on a 20-mile front. These blows failed in piles of broken bodies and twisted metal.

One American unit knocked out eight Panther and Tiger tanks in two hours this morning. Farther south, however, the German Panzer advance was showing the professional punch the enemy exhibited in 1940.

As various units fought their way back to this sector through the German lines, it was beginning to be possible to piece together a picture of the early fighting.

One infantry unit returned to 1st Army lines in bits and pieces, but its losses were amazingly small considering that the group claimed to have killed 1,200 Germans. The unit had lost much of its equipment, except for rifles and bazookas.

Another badly-mauled American formation, which bore the full fury of the assault, claimed to have stopped 60 German tanks in three days. But it, too, had lost great deal of its artillery and motorized equipment.

The enemy troops are using every trick ever tried during this war. There have been several authenticated cases in the last 48 hours where the Germans used the old trick of waving a white flag as if they were going to surrender and then advancing near the American lines to a favorable position, dropping down and opening fire.

Several miles to the south the Germans operated four American Sherman tanks, calling infantry to come up close for support and then opening fire on them with machine-guns.

Canadians Dent German Line

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP-Reuters) —Karl Praegner, German D.N.B. Agency war correspondent, reported today that Canadian units in Italy after a "curtain-raiser" of at least 100,000 shells, early yesterday punched a dent of more than a mile in the main German battle line.

The German correspondent did not identify the point of the Canadian penetration, other than saying that the large-scale attack of the British 8th Army north of Faenza continued with undiminished fury.

Canadian units of the 8th Army have been fighting on the Naviglio canal bridgehead, stretching north from the road hub of Bagancavallo, about 10 miles northeast of Faenza.

Allied headquarters in Rome reported today that the Canadians were hoding fast to their bridgehead positions despite heavy, tank-led German counter-attacks.

More V Bombs Batter England

LONDON, Dec. 21—(CP). — The Germans continued to batter southern England with V-bombs last night while pressing their offensive on the Western front. A government announcement reported both casualties and damage.

Yesterday the press warned that if possible the Germans may step up their flying-bomb attacks on Britain. Damage and casualties were caused Tuesday and Tuesday night.

German Push May Reach Brussels Port

Threat To Ruhr Industries Made Western Front Action Imperative For Nazis

By WILLIAM STEWART
Canadian Press War Correspondent

The dangerous German counter-attack between the Maas and Moselle may have been imposed by the necessity of removing the American threat to the vital Ruhr, but evidently is intended to deal with a situation that was anticipated by the enemy.

The counter-offensive doesn't have the appearance of an operation hurriedly put together, but rather of an attack well-planned and weeks in the making.

Its strength may also prove that a long-expected development in Germany's defence strategy has now become fact. That development, forecast after Allied successes in France and Belgium, was that the German High Command would be forced to switch its top defensive priority from the eastern to the western front.

It would be no surprise if the crack German infantry and tank forces making the drive into Belgium and Luxembourg included seasoned reserves from the eastern front. They may have been out of action reforming and have been moved to strike against the Americans on the threshold of the Ruhr.

It seems certain that Germany could carry on the war no longer than she could hold the Ruhr and keep its great concentration of war industries intact.

The Germans would have anticipated that the Ruhr would be one of the prime targets of the Allied drive and planned counter-measures for the time the threat to the area became imminent.

While two American armies hacked their way closer to this vital Rhineland territory, they apparently built up for their defence-by-attack.

Helped By Weather

It is seldom that the organizattion of an operation on such a scale can long escape detection of opposing forces because of the efficiency of air reconnaissance. However, bad weather which has dogged the Allied western offensive since D-Day seems to have played into the enemy's hands once more by restricting air operations severely for weeks at a time in late autumn.

While our planes were grounded it would have been possible fo the Germans to start their buildup with comparative secrecy, which seems to have given them the element of surprise they needed.

At the same time the seasonal uncertainty of the present weather will continue to play into German hands by restricting the employment of the big Allied tactical air fleets, which would be effective in breaking up the counter-attack. Bad weather possibly will prevent the use of Allied air strength with any where near 100 per cent effect.

A Telling Spot.

Even though the Germans may have been forced to carry out this attack as the best means of defence their front has been well chosen and the blow is being delivered at a telling spot.

It is near the hinge between the Americans and the British and Canadians. If it achieves great success and travels any great distance westward before it can be stopped it could represent a threat both to Brussels, now an important Allied communications centre, and the port of Antwerp, which is the nearest to the Allied ront and one of the best in Europe.

Whereas on Eastern front similar German counter-blows would have to be carried forward long distances to have any considerable effect, the Germans now apparently are little more than 60 miles either from Brussels or Antwerp.

The German operation is under the direction of Marshal Von Rundstedt, shrewed commander and victor in the battle of France in 1940 in which the Germans burst from their border along the same general path the present attack is following.

Enemy commander in the west at the time of the invasion, Von Rundstedt was dismissed for recommending withdrawal from Normandy when such a move would have saved the German 7th Army from encirclement and destruction at Palaise. He was restored to his command in late summer when the Germans adopted their delaying tactics in the defence of the French ports, which undoubtedly have a bearing on the ability of the Germans to make their present offensive move.

The attack represents the strongest German military reaction to the Allied effort in the west since the invasion. That fact recalls a British slogan applied to the Germans during the beachhead battles:

"The German reacts most violent when he is hit where it really hurst him."

Dirigible Service Planned

Australia-Canada-U.S. Service Considered

By JAMES J. STREBIG.
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 — (AP) — Australian interests were reported to-day to have made considerable progress in a plan to establish airship service between Australia and Canada and United States.

The project contemplates the use of two, and possibly four, lighter than-air craft already designed by the Goodyear Aircraft Corporation, with a gas capacity of nearly 10,000,000 cubic feet and a payload of 92 tons on flights of 2,500 miles.

J. Landon Smith, president of Smith Wylie Australia, Ltd., investment bankers of Sydney and Melbourne, and Conrad F. Hawley, chairman are understood to have initiated the project in October and to have obtained the support of a widely-known United States banking firm after conferring with Goodyear officials.

Unless Australia signs the transit or "freedoms" agreement written at the Chicago World Air Conference, she would have to negotiate with the United States for the right to use San Francisco and Hawaii. Promoters of the plan have outlined alternate routes, however.

One would touch Vancouver, B. C., the Fanning Islands (just north of the equator), Auckland, N. Z., and Sydney. Total estimated time is 122 hours or 5¼ days.

The other route would be from San Francisco to Sydney with stops at Honolulu and the Canton Island. The time is estimated at 94 hours or 3½ days.

No airplane now in construction would have a comparable payload for such distances.

It would be at least two years, perhaps longer, before the airship could be put into service.

Must Double Coal Output

Owner-Miner Committee Studies British Industry

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP Cable).— A joint owner-miner committee, described as the most hopeful development for many years in the troubled British coal industry, now is at work trying to iron out long-standing differences which have caused reduced production and brought a serious winter fuel shortage.

Its first meetings coincided with a statement by Maj. Gwlym Lloyd George, Feul Minister, that industry's long-term goal must be "almost to double" the present output of each man, and his thinly-veiled warnings to workers and employers:

1. That unless out put is quite substantially increased in the meantime, miners cannot hope to maintain existing minimum wages after their present agreement with the owners ends.

2. That in the last resort the structure of the coal industry would be decided by parliament if voluntary efforts fail —apparently an indication that there would be much stricter government control or even nationalization if considered necessary.

Under the Coal Bill of 1937 all the coal in Britain passed into ownership of the state, by gradual stages. Owners retain financial control of operations, under government regulations.

The Scottish coal fields committee, in a report issued yesterday, recommended that the rapid decline in the big Lanarkshire coal field be countered by the speedy sinking of new pits.

The committee recommended establishment of a Scottish coal board to obtain development of coal fields in the national interest, although mineworkers representatives advocated nationalization instead.

Yamashita Line Smashed In Leyte Drive

GEN. MACARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Philippines, Dec. 21—(AP)—American conquest of rugged Leyte Island—the outcome "will decide the fate of the greater east war," Japan's Premier Koiso said Dec. 12—neared accomplishment today.

"The battle is rapidly drawing to an end," announced Gen. MacArthur two months and a day after he returned to the Philippines Oct. 20.

On Mindoro Island "there was no enemy ground activity and his air action was light," today's communique said. Nine raiding planes were downed.

Disaster was depicted for the enemy on mountainous northwest Leyte. That decisive battlefield is crossed north and south by a single corridor road from Pinamopoan to Ormoc and linked by a supplementary road to the west coast at Palompon.

Two American divisions slashing south from Pimanopoan and a third north from Ormoc have fought to within a mile of a juncture along the corridor road, "thus completing destruction of the Yamashita Line."

Cohesion Gone

Lt.-Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, who boasted his success at Singapore would be repeated on Leyte, had formed that line at heavy cost with reinforcements landed from bomb-blasted convoys prior to the loss of Ormoc.

Yamashita's "cohesion now is completely broken up and he is no longer capable of an integrated defence," today's communique said. "The small remnants of his forces, divided into isolated groups, are able to resist temporarily only at independent points. Scattered elements are fleeing toward Palompon in an endeavor to reach the northwest coast of Leyte."

Libongao, where the Palompon Road feeds into the corridor, was seized by the U.S 77th infantry division. A mile to the north, dismounted 1st cavalry division troops captured Kanango in a three-mile push south from Lonoy. Some of the enemy's isolated groups are squeezed between 1st Cavalry and the 32nd Infantry division farther north.

Enemy losses in the Leyte campaign, including more than 30,000 drowned at sea in aerial destruction of reinforcement convoys, recently were by headquarters at close to 80,000.

plies to support them has been greatly enlarged and improved. Germany, with the winter upon her, is being subjected to a steadily increasing aerial attack which has assumed vast proportions.

"But menacing to the Germans as the situation has been on the Western front, the German high command must also be prepared to meet the Russian winter offensive wherever it may strike...."

Mr. Stimson said Allied countermeasures are under way and then added:

"But in the fluid state of the fighting, if I gave you detailed accounts of German activities, it would inevitably throw light on our assessment of their current plans and capabilities. This, in turn, would throw light on our counter-measures. The success of our operations and the safety of our men depend upon a certain amount of restraint and patience at a moment when the stakes are high."

NEW YORK, Dec. 21 —(AP)—A special Christmas message from Pope Pius XII to prisoners of war, internees and all "who are suffering from this prolonged conflict" was broadcast last night from the Vatican.

HUNGARY'S CAPITAL UNDER SIEGE—Red Army forces have increased the pressure on German defenders of Budapest and furious artillery and tank battles are now being fought in many sectors about the almost-encircled city. Unconfirmed enemy reports say that fire rages out of control in many sections of the metropolis.

Market Reports Moderate Gains

TORONTO, Dec. 21 (CP)—Moderate gains were boarded by all index groups in the early session today while trading moved at a dull tempo. Volume was 226,000 shares for the first three hours.

The Abitibi 7 per cent pfd stocks jumped 20 points on a report that a settlement had been reached regarding the position of this stock in the proposed new capital set-up. The 6 per cent pfd advanced more than 2 points and the common was down slightly. Other paper issues held firm.

The golds were strong generally. Giant gained 40 cents to $9 and minor gains were posted by O'Brien, Bear, MacLeod-Cockshutt, Wasa Lake and Donald. Smelters was stronger and Steep Rock was off 5 cents. Other base metals showed little change.

Western oils held steady in the main. Home weakened 5 cents and British-Dominion was up a cent.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—(AP).—Superfortresses in substantial force today pummeled industrial targets in Mukden, Manchuria, it was announced here.

Up to 60 B-29's of the 20th Bomber Command participated in the daylight blow against the Japanese-dominated puppet state.

The War Department announcement said a communique will be issued on the mission when results of operational reports are received from the theatre.

In the 20th Bomber Command's last attack against Mukden Dec. 7 the giant planes netted their biggest bag of enemy aircraft—63 Japanese planes shot down or damaged.

Food Production Is Up 70 Per Cent

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP) — By plowing up grassland, reclaiming waste areas and specializing in crops for human food, Britain during the war has increased her production of foodstuffs by at least 70 per cent in both calory and rotein value.

Now the aim is to maintain that high production into the peace, to save foreign exchange for other purposes abroad and help provide employment in a stable, prosperous agricultura industry.

Statistics in a government White Paper on Britain's war effort showed that land in crop or fallow increased from 8,800,000 acres in 1939 to 14,600,000 this year and temporary grassland increased from 4,100,000 acres to 4,800,000.

Germans Continue

north along the Roer front to Duren and Linnich the situation was unchanged.

1st Army Gains

South of the 1st Army sector, the U.S. 3rd Army hacked deeper into the Siegfried Line after penetrating its primary defences by finally clearing the Germans out of all Dillingen three miles north of Saarlautern.

The U.S. 7th Army in slow going, drove the Germans out of two Maginot Line forts, Simserhoff and Schiesseck, one and two miles west of Bitche, and hammered at Siegfried Line defences in the Wissembourg Gap near the Rhine after penetrating seven lines of pill-boxes.

Fog-wrapped quiet continued on the front of the 1st Canadian and British 2nd Armies in northern Germany and Holland.

There was a feeling here that it may be days before the enemy can be slowed or stopped—weeks before the U.S. 1st Army can regain positions it held in Germany last Sunday when the Prussian generals plunged headlong into a major bid for victory.

From news so far disclosed it appeared the Germans already have torn Gen. Eisenhower's winter campaign time-table to shreds. It was clear that with the 1st Army falling back the strategy of the flanking U.S. 9th and 3rd Armies must be altered.

Despite the American reverse—already the greatest setback suffered in two years of fighting in Europe and Africa — there was some tendency among military men to welcome the German attack. A belief prevailed that "this was it"—the big battle that could eventually lead down the road to final victory.

There was no doubt that the Germans were expending vast reserves, and a defeat of the attacking forces could be so decisive as to shorten the war materially. An American officer in the field declared that "The war can be won right here." be said that the German onslaught was not likely to be halted this week, although counter-measures have been in progress since the German attack began rolling Dec. 16.

American troops suffered considerable casualties and several elements were completely surrounded south and west of St. Vith.

(Crossing of the Liege-Bastogne road would represent a 17-mile advance west of St. Vith for the Germans, or a minimum penetration of Belgium and Luxembourg of 14 miles. The road is approximately 35 miles east of the north-south course of the Meuse as it flows through Givet, Dinant and Namur.)

Low grey clouds and fog for the second day bound Allied air forces to the ground and robbed the U.S. 1st Army of its best chance of pulling down the German offensive to a complete halt immediately.

With the fields crawling with German armor and roads jammed with German transport, the weather was a tragedy for Allied air power. Only six Allied planes got off the ground yesterday.

2 Days Old.

The last reported positions of the Germans were two days old because of an Allied Supreme Headquarters time lag in announcements for security reasons.

But dispatches from the 1st Army front said Von Rundstedt's offensive had slackened slightly in violence today and showed signs of slowing up to consolidate positions.

Other dispatches from the 21st Army group front to the north said Allied counter-measures on the north side of the German wedge were beginning to take effect, but that the German offensive must be expected to make more progress. The dispatch did not explain what these counter-measures were.

From Monschau, the northern shoulder of the German wedge,

Ontario Cities Observing Boxing Day

By The Canadian Press

Observance of Boxing Day—it's an old English custom—will make a long week-end for many Canadians this year, many of them leaving their jobs Friday, Dec. 22 and not returning until next Wednesday. Though not a statutory holiday in Ontario, more people in the province will benefit by the day-after-Christmas holiday than in any of the other eight.

Boxing Day is a public statutory holiday in British Columbia, Alberta and Manitoba and cities in those three western provinces will prolong the Christmas holiday spirit for an extra day. However, the fourth of the western provinces will find Tuesday, Dec. 26 almost generally observed as a holiday since the Saskatchewan government will close all business concerns, except Federal offices and banks, will close throughout the province.

East of Ontario observance will be slight or not at all. In Halifax, Saint John and Fredericton, no holiday plans have been made, but a civic holiday has been proclaimed in Moncton, N.B.

The province of Quebec, which observes four more statutory wartime holidays than any other in the Dominion, does not observe the old English Boxing Day custom, and only in Montreal will some of the stores remain closed for the day after Christmas.

Complete observance of the holiday will be made in more than 20 Ontario municipalities including Guelph, Kingston, Gananoque, Napanee, Chatham, Brockville, Cornwall, Woodstock, Ingersoll, Kitchener, Waterloo, Galt, Welland, Sault Ste. Marie, London, Timmins, Belleville, North Bay, Sudbury, Port Arthur, Fort William and the Dominion capital.

Only partial observance, with stores closing and industries remaining open, will be made in St. Thomas, Peterborough, Hamilton, Windsor, Brantford and Stratford. Though the day has not been authorized by the Niagara Falls City Council, mose stores in that city will be closed. In Toronto, as in Montreal, only several of the large department stores will observe the holiday.

Havelock Boy Dies Of Wounds

HAVELOCK, Dec. 21—(ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Ketchen of Havelock have been officially notified that their son, Pte. Donald Ellister Ketchen of the 48th Highlanders, has died as result of wounds received in action in Italy, death occurring the same day he was injured.

Pte. Ketchen enlisted in September, 1941, at the age of 18 years, and went overseas in March, 1942. He trained at Peterborough and Camp Borden.

His brother, Sgt. Air Gunner Jack Ketchen is serving overseas with the R.C.A.F.

forces still holding out would be attacked "with all the arms at my disposal."

A communique issued at noon made no mention of this warning, but said further prisoners and weapons had been captured.

Jean Allis, the pro-Nazi former premier who escaped from the Averoff Prison two days ago when the insurgents stormed the building, was recaptured last night.

A reply was awaited from King George II in London on whether he would accept or reject a suggestion that the country's leadership be turned over to Archbishop Damaskinos as regent. It was stated last night that Premier George Papandreou had advised the King by message to accept such a regency. Some cabinet members, however, are understood to have urged the King to oppose such a move.

In leaflets labelled "urgent warning," and dropped by R.A.F. pilots, Gen. Scobie had warned the E.L.A.S.—militia forces of the leftist E.A.M. party—that he intended to use machine-guns, rocket weapons, bombs, mortars, naval and land artillery in an all-out effort to silence insurgent guns which have been active for 10 days.

Greek King Stays In London At Request Of Churchill

LONDON, Dec. 21—(CP).—A member of the House of Commons unsuccessfully sought assurance today that the British Government would ask King George II. of Greece, who now is in London, to remain here until the Greek people decide whether they want him back. Tom Dryberg, Independent, asked Prime Minister Churchill whether he would invite the King "to state publicly that he has no intention of returning to Greece until after the question of the monarchy has been settled by a free plebiscite of the Greek people, and that he is willing, meanwhile, that a regent acceptable to all parties should be appointed."

Answering for the Government, Deputy Prime Minister Attlee said he had nothing to add to the statement made yesterday by Foreign Secretary Eden.

Mr. Eden had said the King was remaining in London on the advice of Mr. Churchill and himself. He revealed also that the British Government had taken the lead in advocating a regency.

Mr. Dryberg argued today there was danger that a plebiscite "might be prejudiced" by the premature return of the King.

This drew from Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative, the retort that such a request from the British Government "would be a most unwarranted interference with affairs of the Greek people."

"We have interfered more than that," broke in Emmanual Shinwell, Labor.

Shouts of protest arose when Edith Summerskill, Labor, inquired: "Is it proposed that the wishes of one man—the King of Greece—shall be allowed to stand in the way of a settlement?"

George Struss, Labor, broke in to ask: "Is this not the time when the British Government could interfere with very great benefit in the Greek situation?"

Papers Satisfied

Despite the new outburst, Mr. Attlee declined amplification, saying there had been "considerable opportunity for discussing these matters yesterday."

Some British newspapers, expressing satisfaction over Mr. Eden's explanation of British intervention in Greece, urged improved machinery for diplomatic collaboration among the three great powers. The Times of London warned:

"As defeat of Germany draws near — and the utmost attainable success of the enemy's present offensive could do no more than defer it—it would be idle to pretend that omens for future unity are all auspicious."

Saying United States opinion "belongs overwhelmingly to the universal school of thought," the Times asserted that "it is inclined too readily to condemn political regionalism as 'power politics'....and economic regionalism as 'discrimination'."

The Times contended that "to strengthen and perfect machinery of collaboration through regular meetings of leading representatives, whether heads of government or foreign ministers, is a duty which can no longer be safely neglected."

Discussing steps in Greece, the Yorkshire Post commented "we hope American and other critics will now see how far their emotions led them astray from facts."

Chinese Troops Score Advances

CHUNGKING, Dec. 21 (AP) — Chinese troops are closing on Hochih, important Kweichow-Kwangsi railway town 95 miles west of the fallen former U.S. airbase of Liuchow, the Chinese high command announced tonight.

The Chinese were battering at the city yesterday, the high command said, and on the day before had slain more than 100 Japanese near the city.

Meanwhile, Chinese units which had by-passed Hochih on the south reached the vicinity of Chinchengkiang, on the railway 15 miles farther east. In improving weather the U.S. 14th Air Force was out in strength to support the Chinese advance.

British Troops Aim At Mandalay

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 21 (CP-Reuter)—Troops of the British 14th Army have captured two important Japanese bases of Wuntho and Nankan, on the Myitkyina-Mandalay-Rangoon railway.

This brought the Allied forces a further 50 miles in their southward drive down the railway corridor to Mandalay, which is about 130 miles south of Wuntho.

The capture of these towns means that 14th Army troops crossing the Chindwin had reached the railway for the first time since it was attacked by the Chindits early this year.

Nankan lies some 35 miles southwest of Indaw and Wuntho is 41 miles by road from Pinlebu, which was captured earlier in the advance from the Chindwin.

In eight days these troops— then west of the Chindwin River—have crossed the river and advanced more than 150 miles.

In the northern combat area, troops of the 30th Chinese division yesterday captured three villages near the Bhamo-Namkham Road, killing 200 Japanese, taking equipment and ammunition, a communique said.

Six Transports Lost

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP-Reuter)——The Allies have lost six large transports in the Schelde Estuary, to "novel" weapons of the German Navy, the German D.N.B. Agency reported today.

"The vessels, laden with supplies, aggregated from 30,000 to 35,000 tons," the Agency added.

Roseneath WA Holds Annual Meeting

ROSENEATH, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The annual meeting with election of officers of the United Church W.A. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the town hall. Mrs. M. Davey had charge of the devotional exercises based on the theme "The Message of Christmas."

Annual reports were presented as follows: Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite, secretary, reported 24 members on the roll, 11 meetings held with an attendance of 172 members and 135 visitors, and an average attendance of 27.

Sunshine convener Mrs. Fred Norris' report read by the president, said 32 cards including sympathy, convalescent and congratulatory, were forwarded.

Sales were $19.70 as compiled by Mrs. H. Hugh, committee convener.

Mrs. Davey for quilt committee announced receipts of $49.50 from this source and the financial statement presented by Mrs. C. Grigg, treasurer, revealed receipts $486.83, expenses $406.42, balance in treasury $80.41. The receipts included $82.45 from Fenella United Church women towards parsonage improvement fund $5, from Centenary W.A. to the same fund. The expenses included $210 for a chesterfield suite for the parsonage, and a $50 Victory Bond.

It was decided to remember the ill and aged in the community at Christmas with card or flowers; to make donation of $5 to the Peterborough Examiner's Christmas Cheer for British Children fund.

Elect Officers

The election of officers was conducted by Rev. R. C. White. The executive was returned to office as follows:

President, Mrs. G. L. Tucker; vice-president, Mrs. B. Thackeray; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Braithwaite; treasurer, Mrs. C. Grigg; organist, Mrs. Ella Brown; assistant, Mrs. B. Thackeray; press, Mrs. A. Nill.

Committees: Devotional, Mrs. Davey and Mrs. R. C. White; parsonage, Mrs. Grigg, Mrs. Charles Sandercock and Mrs. Frank Adams; flower, Mrs. Davey, Mrs. E. Waldie and Miss Hildred Taylor; Sunshine convener, Mrs. E. Braithwaite; sales, Mrs. H. Taylor, Mrs. H. Hugh, Mrs. Arthur Braithwaite and Mrs. Charles Sandercock.

Refreshments were served by the executive and a social half hour enjoyed.

Triplets' Mother Refused Larger Home

FORT ERIE, Dec. 21—The MacDonald boy triplets, whose birth 3 months ago attracted wide interest because two were delivered 54 hours after the first, will spend their Christmas in a three-room apartment, the only living quarters which their mother, Mrs. Alma Jacobs MacDonald, has been able to provide in this crowded border town.

The father, PO. MacDonald, stationed with the R.C.A.F. in British Columbia is not considered a war worker by officials of the Fort Erie Wartime Housing Project so his family does not qualify for an apartment there, according to the triplets' grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Jacobs, 171 High Street. PO. MacDonald is expected home some time in January for his first visit to his three sons. He was unable to obtain a Christmas furlough.

Oblivious to their mother's worries over housing and maintenance problems, the triplets have developed into lusty specimens of babyhood. They weight about 8½ pounds each, more than double their weight at birth. Mrs. James Moore, who lives with Mrs. MacDonald in the apartment at 13 Walnut Street, assists her in caring for them. Until deep snow made sidewalks impassable they were taken out daily in their carriages, two riding in a twin-sized buggy, and the third in a single buggy. Their names are Sanford Charles, William George, and Archie James.

"When PO. MacDonald arrives next month, he expects to find more adequate living quarters, but may have to purchase a home," said the grandmother. "There are a few vacant houses here for sale, but the owners will not rent them."

She added that the additional Government allowance for the babies has not been added yet to the monthly alowance cheque. The allowance will be $12 per child, but it will hardly cover the cost of the special formula the babies receive, the grandmother stated.

Only One Applicant

London, Dec. 21 (CP-Reuter)

A MARRIED woman teacher, with an 11-weeks-old baby, was the only suitable applicant when a London headmaster advertised for a mathematics mistress. So he asked her to bring the baby to school, where two girls, preparing for a nursing examination, took charge of it.

Judge To Check Election Ballots

COBOURG, Dec. 21— (ENS) — Scrutiny of the ballots cast in connection with the fixed assessment by-law for Cobourg has been requested by the town council and this will be conducted by Judge J. C. M. German on December 27. In addition on the same date there will be a recount of the ballots cast for council in connection with William Wenn who was defeated by James Rollings by one vote. The following affidavit was sworn to by E. A. Hircock, returning officer in regard to the vote on the assessment bylaw which lost by only two votes:

"I am the deputy clerk of the town of Cobourg and have full knowledge of the facts hereinafter set forth: At the time of the voting on the proposed bylaw to grant the Cobourg Lumber Company a fixed assessment, which took place on December 5 at the time of the annual municipal elections, I was the returning officer for the said election. With respect to the official returns from six polling subdivisions, it appears there were ten rejected ballots in polling subdivision No. 2, in polling subdivision No. 5 there were two rejected ballots, and in polling subdivision No. 6 there were ten rejected ballots

"With respect to the result of the vote for polling subdivision No. 6, I am informed by the poll clerk and deputy-returning officer of that polling subdivision, that the said deputy - returning officer when counting the ballots, rejected ten ballots because they were illegally polled. The deputy-returning officer gave as his reason that one Isaac Whitefield had obtained a number of ballots which the deputy-returning officer stated had not been properly initialled and to which he was not entitled in that subdivision because he was not shown as an owner. I am informed by the said Whitefield that he did forcibly exercise his right to vote and secured a ballot or ballots for himself over the objection of the deputy-returning officer."

Trial Adjourned Because Witness Ill

COBOURG, Dec. 21 (ENS) — Trial of Mike Cembal and Jerry Semowonyk of Oshawa and Pte. Walter Moscall of Toronto was adjourned late Wednesday afternoon until January 23, 1945, in order that a defence witness could be heard. The trial of the three men started on Monday morning and proceeded all day Tuesday, including Tuesday night until ten o'clock and resumed again Wednesday morning at ten. The trio were charged with attempted breaking and entering of Cobourg Liquor Store, two charges of car theft, one charge of theft of car markers, breaking and entering a Port Hope service station and shooting at police officers to resist apprehension.

The Crown closed its case on Tuesday night. Detective John Copeland of Toronto produced photographs of marks left on the trunk of Ira Lorie's car which he compared with marks made by a wrecking bar on an ordinary piece of lead.

The officer asserted that marks on the lead and on the truck were from the same instrument, a wrecking bar found stuck in the door of the Cobourg Liquor Store after the attempted robbery here.

Constable Robert Carr of Port Hope testified that on January 2 at 4.30 in the afternoon he arrested Semowonyk and Cembal in a swamp near Bowmanville where police had replaced a cache of stolen service station supplies with a dummy cache. The pair had come there in a car and had made for the cache when arrested.

Provincial Constable R. Duncan of Bowmanville testified that at about 7 p.m. on December 31, he and Constable W. Thompson spotted a car bearing the license number, 86W77. They chased it but lost it in Oshawa after they had been fired upon by the occupants of the car ahead. Constable Duncan told of visiting Cembal's home with a search warrant and of finding a whisk. This whisk was also identified by Ira Lorie as from his car.

Wanted Certificate

Mike Cembal took the stand in his own defence Wednesday morning to testify that on December 29, he called at the office of Dr. Charles Russell in Oshawa to get a medical certificate to present to his plant superintendent in order to explain his absence from work. Cembal testified further that on December 30 he saw his superintendent. On the same date he visited his sister, Mrs. Rose Allan in Oshawa.

Mrs. Allan testified that Cembal and his wife called on her on the afternoon of December 30 and came back on the evening of December 31 in order to celebrate New Year's Eve. Cembal was there from two in the afternoon until five on December 30, she testified.

Dr. Russell was called by the Crown in reply, and Dr. Russell testified that Cembal had visited his office on the night of December 29. W. L. Morrow, superintendent where Cembal works, was unable to recall when Cembal showed him the doctor's certificate. The defence announced that it wanted to bring a witness from Oshawa, who was under the doctor's care, and the hearing was laid over until January 23.

Soldier-Author Dies In London

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP).—Major Francis Yeats-Brown, 58, British author, soldier and airman, died yesterday.

His books included "Bengal Lancer," "Golden Horn," "Dogs of War" and "Lancer at Large." One of the most widely travelled of modern writers, he once lived among the natives of India to study their religion and politics.

Born in 1886, at Genoa, where his father was British consul-general, he went to India as a lieutenant in the British Army in 1906 and remained there for seven years. He was a prisoner of war in Turkey from 1915 to 1918.

He was assistant editor of the London Spectator from 1926 to 1928 and for a short time was editor of the London Weekly Review.

Ross Munro Arrives Home

(By The Canadian Press)

Straight from the battle fields of Europe where he has been covering the war for The Canadian Press, Ross Munro has arrived back in Canada on leave aboard a Canadian warship.

In his coverage of war, the tall friendly reporter made five landings with the Allied troops on enemy soil—at Spitsbergen, Dieppe, Sicily, Italy and in France on D-Day.

It is his first visit to his homeland in two years.

Investigate Case

TORONTO, Dec. 21. — (CP).—Chief Inspector Albert H. Ward and Inspector Frank Kelly of the Criminal Investigation Branch of the Ontario Provincial Police, are in Fort Frances and Kenora pursuing further inquiries in connection with the hot stove murder of Mrs. Viola Jamieson of Flanders, Ont., last summer, it was learned yesterday. Death sentences of William Schmidt and Anthony and George Skrypzky, three of four men convicted of the murder, have been deferred pending hearing of the appeal.

The German Offensive

Last Saturday the Germans launched an offensive southwest of Aachen which has increased in ferocity ever since, and has spread over a considerable area. The latest report is that the situation is "definitely better", but it is impossible to judge what this means, for neither the enemy nor the Allies will give any information about the fighting. The Germans have been covering some of the ground over which they made their sudden thrusts in 1940, and they have been using fast troops, armoured battle groups, tanks, planes, parachute troops and heavy artillery; furthermore, they are using robot bombs and rocket bombs in a manner which is new to our forces. There can be no doubt about it, the Germans have given us a nasty surprise, and we dare not underestimate its importance now or for the future.

* * *

How they have managed such an offensive is nothing less than a miracle, unless all the information which we had about their resources was unreliable. During the last six months the enemy are supposed to have lost 2,500,000 men, as well as 60 satellite divisions which would account for at least half a million more men. And of this number 1,150,000 are said to have been lost on the western front. In addition to these very heavy losses, our persistent and heavy bombing of German industry and communications was thought to have reduced the German potential strength very decidedly. And yet they have staged an offensive on a big scale which has cut through our lines and has not yet been checked.

* * *

It is not comforting for us to realize that this has been done at a time when shortage of reinforcements was a problem, and when official complaints came from the fighting front that necessary ammunition and supplies were lacking. Without attempting to be dogmatic on the matter, it looks very much as though we had assumed that the Germans were beaten before we had really beaten them. Every country engaged in this war has, at some time, made a gigantic effort which has astonished its opponents. Now Germany has made a gigantic effort which has astonished us.

* * *

There is no question of a German victory, now, but there is always a danger that the Germans may manoeuvre a negotiated peace. If this offensive cannot be checked, the war on the western front might settle down into a stalemate, and we might at last have to make terms with Germany. That would give Germany a moral victory which would be invaluable to her in preparing for yet another world war. Unless Germany is beaten so irrevocably and undeniably that even the Germans admit the fact, we shall have no peace.

* * *

It may be that Field Marshal von Rundstedt has thrown all his reserves into this offensive, risking everything in the hope of a victory which would give Germany a basis for bargaining. If that is so, it might work to our advantage if we could turn his offensive into a disaster, but there is nothing to show that we have done so yet. We have, in fact, been caught off-balance by the Germans. We outnumber them in the air by ten to one, but we have not been able to stop them. Allied Headquarters says that there is no reason for 'undue alarm', which is what Headquarters always say when they cannot think of anything better. But it looks very much as though the Germans were taking advantage of the obvious dissensions and weaknesses which the Allies have revealed, and only a brilliant rapid action will foil them.

The report that the liquor ration will be cut to 13 ounces next April is a dainty bit of Christmas news for the bootleggers.

Christmas And The Burma Road

It has become commonplace during the war years for newspapers to comment at this time on the disparity between the terrible war in which we are engaged and the Christmas message of 'Peace, goodwill toward men'. This year the news of what has been happening on the Burma Road gives particular point to such observations; a dispatch from London tells us that 25,000 men have died while working on that Road under Japanese control, and that of this number more than 24,000 were English, Australian and Dutch. The 60,000 prisoners on the Road work under conditions of unimaginable horror; the Japanese care nothing for the loss of life among their captives; the wretches who sweated and died to build the pyramids of Egypt did not suffer more.

This is terrible news for those who have relatives among the captives in the East. But it is horrible news for the rest of us, as well. After nearly two thousand years of Christianity — or at least of the Christian church—men who have grown up in freedom and with all the benefits that civilization can bestow can, by a sudden reversal of fate, be turned into slaves who toil until they die of overwork, cruelty and starvation. This might lead us to bitter reflections: we might say that Christianity had failed; we might says that our twentieth century civilization was a savage joke. But we would be wrong; both observations are shallow.

There is nothing wrong with our civilization or Christianity so far as they are permitted to exist, but there is much that is wrong with ourselves. Too few of us, who are citizens of democratic western states, give any serious attention either to Christianity (or to any of the other religions which resemble it in essence) or to civilization; we consider ourselves Christian and civilized people, but too often we are neither; we are merely passive adherents of narrow local codes of behaviour which are in themselves travesties of real faith and real civilization. We are content with very little from life, and we are content to ask very little of ourselves. We are, in fact, civilized and conformist in our behaviour because of outside pressure, rather than because of any deeply held convictions.

This is not a sin which is peculiar to our age; it has existed in all ages, and it has been responsible for much of the misery of humanity. An optimistic statesman has called this the Century of the Common Man. If that is so, it is high time that the Common Man woke up to some of his responsibilities, and made use of some of the great gifts which are so freely offered to him. It is his defection which keeps the world in a condition of brutal savagery, overlaid with a thin and easily ruptured membrane of civilization.

What Happened To Hitler?

Much valuable time and newspaper space is consumed these days in discussing where Hitler is, and whether he is alive, or demented, or merely deposed and frightened. But we think that the best attitude toward the matter is that revealed in this conversation which, although it is supposed to take place some time in the future, was recorded in a recent issue of the New York Times:

"One more question, Daddy. What finally became of this terrible Hitler?"

"For a long while, my child, nobody knew. There were stories. He was hiding in Spain, Japan, Argentina, Eire. You took your choice. Then, in 1960, a rug collector named Donnerblitz died of indigestion in Chicago. That was Hitler. He had been living there sixteen years".

"But didn't any one guess, Daddy?"

"No. You see, except for changing his name and shaving off his moustache, he went right on being himself, damning Russia, England, democracy, the Government at Washington and the U.S.A. in general. So the neighbours took him for just an ordinary American crackpot and never gave him a second thought".

Just why the Times chose Chicago as the scene of Hitler's retirement and demise from excessive spleen we cannot guess, of course, unless it might be a journalistic gibe not comprehensible by the unitiated.

Historic Attitudes

(By GRANT DEXTER)

ACROSS the terrain of national politics, the question of Canada's participation in overseas wars, culminating in conscription in 1917, runs like a watershed. The Military Service Act of the last war divided Canada as it had never been divided before.

What consequences are likely to follow the imposition of conscription for overseas service in 1944?

Beyond the fact that the solid Liberal bloc from Quebec has been broken, it is too early to attempt any forecast in political terms. But comparison is now possible between 1917 and 1944 up to the point where conscription has come into force. What differences are there between the arguments of the Quebec anti-conscriptionists in 1917 and in 1944? In what respect, if at all, has the case against Canada's full participation in overseas war—including conscription—been changed? And to what extent do such differences hold out the prospect of greater unity or disunity in this country? After all, the purely political or party consequences are of secondary importance.

IN outlining the origins of the anti-conscription movement in Quebec in 1917 it is impossible, in the space of newspaper articles, to do more than generalize. The source material is available in Hansard, in the Bourassa pamphlets and speeches, the Ewart Kingdom and Independence papers and such pamphlets as "The disruption of Canada," and in the editorial columns of the time.

The French Canadian point of view, basically, is a purely Canadian attitude. French Canadians, severed from France since 1769, feel no loyalty to their own motherland, and understandably so. And, naturally, they have never felt the attachment of their English-speaking compatriots to Great Britain. To this day, Quebeckers call themselves "Canadians" and the people of the other provinces "English." Their loyalty to Britain has always been the result of reason and not of emotion.

It was well-established doctrine prior to the Boer war that a self-governing colony owed no support to the Imperial power, to which it belonged, in foreign wars. Its obligation ended when it helped in its own defence. Authorities to support this doctrine abound. It was the position taken by successive British ministries and Canadian governments. It was confirmed in the War Office memorandum to the Colonial conference of 1902:

"Prior to the outbreak of the war in South Africa, so far as any general scheme for the defence of the Empire as a whole has been considered, it was assumed that the military responsibilities of our great self-governing colonies were limited to local defence, and that the entire burden of furnishing reinforcements to any portion of the Empire against which a hostile attack in force might be directed must fall on the regular army."

The domestic political problem posed by the Boer war solved by the Laurier government by sending a small contingent of volunteers. Mr. Bourassa, hitherto a supporter of Laurier, broke from the Liberal party on this policy and was joined by a number of Quebec Liberals. He moved a resolution protesting this act as an infringement of Canadian autonomy, resigned his seat in further protest, and was returned by acclamation on this issue. The Nationalist party was formed shortly after by Oliver Asselin, a follower of Bourassa. Asselin's position, as expressed by himself, was:

"You are confronted with this conclusion, that as long as a colony is a colony, she is entitled to the armed protection of the Mother country."

AS the German peril grew, the pressure for Canadian aid to Britain became stronger and the Nationalist counter-movement grew also. The Laurier naval policy of 1909-10 was an attempt to solve this difficulty by the creation of a Canadian navy. This policy, however, was decried alike by the Imperialist Conservatives and the Quebec Nationalists. And the main argument against Laurier, in substantial degree, was common to both extremes. The Nationalists argued that a Canadian navy would be just as much His Majesty's navy as the Royal Navy, and equally bound to participate in all His Majesty's wars. Since Canada was a self-governing colony, without any voice in British foreign policy, this was, clearly, a case of obligation without representation. As such it was argued to be indefensible. The Nationalists promptly assailed Laurier as an arch-Imperialist and the Naval bill as a means of delivering Canadians over to service in all British wars.

The Conservatives conceded this Nationalist point. They approved of the principle of automatic participation in British wars. But they demanded that Laurier agree to some form of Imperial consolidation so that Canada would have a voice in British foreign policy. The move to consolidate or unify the Empire had been under way since the 1880's.

Sir Robert Borden put it as follows (Hansard, Nov. 24, 1910, pages 227-8):

"I think the question of Canada's co-operation upon a permanent basis in Imperial defence involves very large and wide considerations. If Canada and the other Dominions of the Empire are to take their part as nations of this Empire in the defence of the Empire as a whole, shall it be that we, contributing to that defence of the whole Empire, shall have absolutely, as citizens of this country, no voice whatever in the councils of the Empire touching the issues of peace or war throughout the Empire?

"I do not think that such would be a tolerable conditions; I do not believe the people of Canada would for one moment submit to such a condition. Shall members of this House, representative men, representing constituencies of this country from the Atlantic to the Pacific, shall no one of them have the same voice with regard to those vast Imperial issues that the humblest taxpayer in the British Isles has at this moment?"

THE record of the attempts in the first decade of this century to consolidate the Empire are well known. They failed. The master quotation, in this regard, is from a speech by Mr. Asquith at the 1911 Imperial conference. Mr. Asquith was dealing with a resolution moved by Sir Joseph Ward, of New Zealand, that the Empire had now reached a stage of development which rendered it expedient that there should be an Imperial Council of State, with representatives from all the constituent parts of the Empire.

Such a council, said Mr. Asquith, would impair, if not altogether destroy, the authority of the government of the United Kingdom in such grave matters as the conduct of foreign policy, the declaration and maintenance of peace, or the declaration of war.

"That authority," he said, "cannot be shared, and the co-existence side by side with the cabinet of the United Kingdom of this proposed body—it does not matter by what name you call it for the moment—clothed with the functions and the jurisdiction which Sir Joseph Ward proposed to invest it with, would in our judgment be absolutely fatal to our present system of responsible government."

In a constitutional sense, therefore, war in 1914 found Canada a colony—self-governing, but still a colony. Canada automatically was at war from the moment Great Britain declared war. Technically, there was no answer to the main argument advanced, later on, by the Nationalists.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

WE ARE REBUKED FOR JEALOUSY

Sir,—We read your editorial "Toronto Sees Some Snow" with sorrow and some dismay.

Citizens of Peterborough County take pride in the Examiner, and feel that the Examiner, like the Peterborough citizen, can stand on its own feet with manly pride, with jealousy of no one. Yet here is evidence of petulance because Toronto, the Queen City of Ontario, metropolis of the area, had a heavier snow fall. Toronto has many big things—bigger than Peterborough. It has a bigger debt. Toronto has a much larger traffic congestion, far ruder pedestrians. Its rivers carry more sewage than the Otonabee. The waters of Toronto Bay are richer than those of Little Lake. Yet Toronto editors do not boast of these unduly.

The editorial states that Toronto owns no snow shovels. Quite right. But such is the spirit of Toronto's citizens that all through depression days the lightest fall of snow was the signal for every able-bodied man to pick up the youngster's tin snow shovel and hie him to the nearest city yard to clear the walks in gangs of fifty men per fifty feet of frontage. The inch or two of snow would fairly fly and before the day was done the walk was cleared.

Moreover, Peterborough can only boast of one automatic snow loader while Toronto has three, although its fall of snow was less than three times as great.

And when the great snow fell, Toronto did something about it. All street car streets were closed to motorists—the rest were closed with snow, and many still are. Schools did not open so that boys and girls might celebrate the occasion. Buses stopped across the streets. Historians dug up past records and found that seventy years ago the fall was nearly seventeen inches, the greatest on record.

Toronto had beaten all records, an all-time high of twenty-three inches in a single fall of snow. Let Toronto all rejoice!

But what is this? Hamilton's fall was one inch heavier. The Ambitious City has beaten Toronto's proud record. Mister Editor, let us all sympathize with Toronto! Sincerely,

A. J. ARNOTT.

Lakefield.

A Little Common Sense

(JEAN-CHARLES HARVEY IN 'LE JOUR')

IF our ultra-nationalists refuse to accept the federal or national measures which displease them, there is nothing henceforth to prevent the ultra-loyalists of Ontario and the Orangemen from revolting against any law which would be in some way advantageous to the Province of Quebec or Roman Catholics; nothing to prevent British Columbia from refusing to pay, say, taxes profitable to the East of Canada; nothing to prevent Manitoba from fomenting a rebellion every time the majority rubs it the wrong way.

It is not admissible that Quebec can become a sovereign state, or that it can continue indefinitely to be a state within a state. From the three-fold viewpoint of geography, economics and politics it is a foolish dream. The St. Lawrence is not, and it never will be, French-Canadian; it is an artery both national and international. The peoples who live west of the Ottawa river will never abandon, nor will ever consent to be imprisoned in its limits without any free outlet to the sea; and all North American peoples would not permit a handful of individuals, badly armed and numerically small, to keep to themselves alone the first and principal invasion route of the north east of North America. Economically and politically speaking, we are irrevocably dependent on our neighbours. Our ultra-nationalists are therefore very greatly deceiving themselves.

There is more to it than this. The whole of Canada, including the Laurentian valley, it is well understood, will depend for many years to come on the United States and the British Commonwealth. Most of the really big decisions of international scope which these two powers take have immediate repercussions with us. From this solidarity we have drawn tremendous advantages, and if anybody talks about taking such advantages away from us, we are not backward in shouting about persecution; but we are also associated with them in misfortune; for example, the war. I wonder why we should be in a hurry only to harvest the benefits of an association of this kind, why we should refuse to accept equally from it the most burdensome responsibilities. What would you think of a friend who, after feeding at your table, refused when fire broke out in your house to lend a hand?

To this the nationalists of good faith reply: What we want is the sovereignty of Canada. Very good. A larger measure of sovereignty than that granted by the Treaty of Westminster is desired. What way do you wish it? A flag? We have one. A national anthem? We have one. A complete independence with reference to decisions of the British Government? We have that too. We are then in agreement on these essential points.

But it would be childish to believe that the total independence of Canada would shelter the latter from world conflicts and from conscription. Sovereignty brings with it precise obligations, among others that of defending the frontiers and even of going abroad to fight the enemy who is out to destroy us. This means that we should be strictly obliged to establish compulsory military service in peacetime and conscription in the days of war. Our ultra-nationalists in order to be logical with themselves, should be the first to agree with this, since they claim to be the foremost champions of patriotism.

From all these reflections, it may be assumed, I think, that the Province of Quebec, in spite of its different upbringing, its somewhat out-of-date opinion, its kind of special life, cannot isolate itself either from the rest of Canada or from North America. It is tied, both by its democratic way of life, expressing itself by mean of the majority, and by its inevitable role of "junior partner" between the United States and the British world, the two principal world powers of our time.

Now, in the present political crisis, the Canadian nation and the great neighbouring powers are directly or indirectly interested. In such a gathering, Quebec racialism only counts as a ridiculous idle fancy.

The Negro Does His Part

The American Negro can be proud of the figures just given out by the War Department as to his part in this war. He has contributed 701,678 men to the Army, of whom 411,368 are overseas. There are 5,804 commissioned Negro officers, including dentists, nurses and other medical corps officers, and chaplains. It is clear that the Negro has made progress since the last war, both in the types of service open to him and in his educational fitness for them.

It may be a long time before the Negro has exactly the same opportunities, given the same talents and character as his white fellow-citizen. The important and hopeful truth is that he has more opportunities than he used to have, that his soldierly qualities in war are being given fairer recognition, and that his achievements in the arts, in the sciences, in the professions and as an industrial worker are now too manifest to be denied. In the overwhelming majority of cases the Negro has subdued whatever resentments he may have felt to the nobler emotion of loyalty to his country. His record stands up beside that of his white neighbour. When the profits and losses of war are balanced, these things ought to be remembered in his favour. They should count for something when, after saving democracy abroad, we begin again the long task of perfecting it at home. — New York Times.

A Bible Message

Balaam the son of Beor hath said, and the man whose eyes are open hath said.... I shall see him, but not now: I shall behold him, but not nigh: there shall come a Star out of Jacob, and a Sceptre shall rise out of Israel, and shall smite the corners of Moab, and destroy all the children of Sheth. (Num. 24: 15, 17.)

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him.

When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. And when he had gathered all the chief priests and scribes of the people together, he demanded of them where Christ should be born.

And they said unto him, In Bethlehem of Judaea: for thus it is written by the prophet, And thou Bethlehem, in the land of Juda, art not the least among the princes of Juda: for out of thee shall come a Governor, that shall rule my people Israel. Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared....

When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. (Matt. 2: 1-7, 9-11.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Military experts say that the piercing of the German defences in Russia must have been planned by men of great intellect. A brains thrust.

✧ ✧ ✧

There are many good stories told around the well-known American woman columnist, Dorothy Parker, of which the following is one:

An American millionaire had a lovely place in Pennsylvania that was flat land until he renovated it into an attractive paradise. He was telling Dorothy Parker how he bought thousands of pine trees, built a huge pool, and purchased acres of floral things, etc.

"Think what God could do", sighed Miss Parker, "if He had your money".

DEBATE ON THE WAR

(Hansard)

Mr. Graydon: Is my hon. friend referring to me? I have not followed his speech.

Mr. Dupuis: I am talking about the former leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Graydon: It is a new experience for me to be accused of being a rich man.

Mr. Dupuis: I said that the hon. member knew in his heart who were behind this movement. It is a small group of rich men who control the industry of this country. They want to create a smoke screen of prejudice against race and religion for the sole purpose of achieving their aim. Their aim is very simple—they want the head of the Prime Minister. They are the direct descendants of the daughter of Herodias.

Mr. Hanson (York-Sunbury): I want to deny that I am any relation to Herodias.

A "SACRED TRUST"

The principle that the well-being and development of backward peoples is a "sacred trust" of civilization was a great improvement on the old imperialism which sometimes (though not always) regarded colonies as nothing more or less than a profitable field for investment and exploitation. We are likely to find that on this subject public opinion in the United States and official opinion in Soviet Russia is ahead of opinion in this country, though perhaps it might not be so if they were colonial Powers and we were a Continental Power, instead of the other way round. But this surely is a matter which should be dealt with by the United Nations or whatever the new League is to be called. Will this be one of the responsibilities of the Economic and Social Council, along with other "human rights and fundamental freedoms" or will it be decided by the Great Powers in the Council?—Manchester Guardian.

Britain's Fighting Men Take Over Important Posts

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staf Writer

LONDON, Dec. 21.—(CP).—Britain's fighting men are gradually coming home to help govern their country and already a few of them have been called to high administrative offices.

Scores have been chosen to represent the various parties as candidates in the general election which Prime Minister Churchill has virtually promised for late next year.

The latest to get a big government appointment is Cmdr. R. A. Brabner, D.S.O., of the Royal Naval Volunteer Reserve. At 33, he has become Parliamentary Undersecretary for Air. The appointment came as a surprise to many politicians for three years ago in his maiden speech he attacked the government for what he termed inefficiency in leaving British forces in Crete defenceless against the invading Germans.

Lieut. Alan Lennox-Boyd, 40, of the R.N.V.R., left the command of a motor-torpedo boat a year ago to become Parliamentary Secretary to the Aircraft Production Ministry.

And 36-year-old Captain Richard Pilkington, who became the first Member of Parliament to win a decoration when awarded the Military Medal while serving with the Coldstream Guards in France four years ago, was appointed in 1942 as Civil Lord of the Admiralty.

Bright Future.

Maj. William Philip Sidney, who won the Victoria Cross at Anzio, recently was returned unopposed in a Chelsea by-election and was chosen to propose the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne when the new session opened.

"It is the appointment of these Brabners, Lennox-Boyds, Pilkingtons and Sidneys," said the Daily Express, "that suggests that there is a bright future in the government of their country for men returning from the fighting fronts."

Maj. Sidney is the second V.C. to help express the Commons' thanks to the King. The first was Cmdr. Peter Dean, Conservative member for Blackburn who won his award at Zeebrugge in 1918. In the next year he seconded the address in reply.

Maj. Sidney, 34, and banker son-in-law of Lord Gort, V.C., was elected by acclamation as Conservative member for Chelsea, and his address after Parliament's opening, was his maiden speech.

His seconder, Tom Fraser, 42 year old miner representing Hamilton constituency in Lanarkshire, is recognized as one of the brighter lights in the Labor party. He worked underground in the coalfields from the time he was 14 until he entered Parliament about 18 months ago.

The Lost Freedom Of The Air

By B. T. RICHARDSON

CHICAGO: The freedom of the air, which has become the headline phrase of international aviation, is no longer a vague doctrine. As a result of the Chicago conference, it has become a practical basis of discussion of multi-lateral transit and traffic rights on international air routes.

The requirements of an international airline are simple. It needs the right to fly through the air space of other nations, and to make stops for fuel and repairs and for emergency landings. These are the transit rights, which conference experts called the first two freedoms. But an airline also needs passengers and cargo. The third freedom is the right to disembark your traffic when you arrive in a foreign country. The fourth freedom is the right to embark traffic in a foreign country and carry it to your own country. Is there enough traffic in the third and fourth freedoms to make an airline pay? The answer is No.

Pre-war international lines, which obtained their traffic rights through bilateral agreements, invariably carried traffic between foreign countries, this being fifth freedom traffic, and in some cases even carried traffic that was purely domestic in foreign countries. This final category is called sixth freedom traffic, technically known as "cabotage."

Rights to air traffic are practical and valuable things. On the basis of economic interest, should Canada permit big American and British lines running from New York to London to stop en route and pick up Canadian passengers? This would be stiff competition for Trans-Canada Airlines on its Atlantic run. But the reciprocal advantage would be that TCA might develop competitively all across Europe, picking up traffic everywhere its planes stop; and on its routes to Cuba, the West Indies, and South America, it would have the right to fill up with paying passengers in the United States.

Canada's Mr. Symington successfully, and at first single-handedly, fought the United States plan of setting a series of bilateral agreements as a conference objective. Mr. Berle felt there was no reason why the nations should not arrange bilateral bargains, and his delegation had suggested the nations submit lists of routes in which they were interested so the conference might fit them together into a world pattern. If this had been proceeded with Mr. Symington argued, the conference would be foreclosed on a limited objective. The American desire to get running rights of the air as quickly as possible was evident.

But the conference went ahead to canvass the doctrine of air freedom, to see if it could be won or lost in Chicago. Reporting on November 22, Mr. Berle said:

"The fundamental problem which is not an issue between us but a problem for all of us, is that if the whole purely bilateral approach to the air was abandoned, and if what the Canadian delegation felicitously christened 'the freedom of the air' were granted, certain problems of public order would then be raised."

He believed a solution would be "extremely difficult," that it might have to be left to later negotiations. Freedom of the air was desirable, but how should it be administered — through unrestricted competition as the Americans wished, or through binding regulations as the British suggested? Lord Swinton agreed with Mr. Berle that the issue could hardly be settled in Chicago. Was the conference to deal only with technical things like airworthiness and weather reports?

Mr. Symington said the conference was called "to get some form of regulation so that things will not run wild in the air and by means of a convention to avoid a series of bilateral agreements." He pleaded that "this world expects more." The effect was electric. Delegates applauded for several minutes, Mayor La Guardia seized the cue and made a stirring speech. The freedom of the air, he said, was "the meat" of a convention, "all the rest is sauce."

The A, B and C countries—America, Britain and Canada—prepared drafts to cover the freedom of the air. Basing their argument on the claim an international airline would fail to become self-supporting without the right to pick up intermediate traffic, the Americans argued for full grant of the fifth freedom. The British based their case on the claim that regional and local air services must be protected against big through-line competition, and argued an international line should fly only the number of planes required to carry the traffic embarked at its starting point. The weight of argument was on the American side, and many smaller countries quickly realized their interest was in securing service from through airlines. Otherwise, their passengers would be left watching the big planes go by. But there was merit, too, in the British proposal, for the smaller countries did not wish to surrender forever the right to start airlines of their own. This right is their main bargaining weapon against through-route competition.

The Canadian compromise attempted to find a formula to deal with the difficult problem of permitting, under a convention, a nation to increase the number of frequencies flown by its international airlines. It recognized the right of an international line to pick up intermediate traffic. But, for purposes of raising frequencies, only one-third of its capacity was to be counted in. As a practical operating principle, this is substantially what pre-war airlines did on the average.

At that time, with traffic rights a matter of bilateral agreements, international lines running in South America, the Far East, and Africa not only carried intermediate traffic between foreign countries, but also engaged in cabotage by arrangement in some instances. About 10 per cent of the business was sixth freedom traffic and another 15 to 25 per cent was fifth freedom category, on both British and American long lines.

When the British delegation delayed over this compromise, the American delegation introduced its document to separate the air freedom entirely from the convention. That is how the conference ended, with a separate air freedoms treaty in two parts, one granting two freedoms and other five, available for ratification, and the problem of incorporating air freedom in a general convention left for "continuing study." The separate document may permit the spread of air freedom by stages, as single countries or groups adhere to it.

How narrow was the margin by which the Canadian compromise failed? Mr. La Guardia said he thought the Canadian plan could have been accepted by the United States, and the press received guidance from Mr. Berle to the same effect. Lord Swinton said it was all a matter of having an effective organization to see that justice was done to all. With greater goodwill it is obvious, the gap could have been closed.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Lions, skippered by Gordon Johnston clinched first place in the Y.M.C.A. House Basketball League race Wednesday night when they knocked off Clarence Davern's Cougars 27 to 14. Cougars were regarded as chief opposition to the unbeaten Lions who had shown real strength in their first two games but the leaders, reinforced by Joe Stewart proved to have too much power for the Davernites in last night's tilt which nevertheless was a real ball game. Stewart racked up 14 points for the winners, equalling the total score made by the Cougars. The latter had persuaded Pete McArthur to come out of retirement and had a full lineup in action but the Lions' close checking tied up the losers' attack. In fact in the first period Cougars only found the range for two baskets. They did a bit better after the rest period but at that Lions increased their margin in the second half and were good value for their win.

Gladys Mortimer, the Peterborough girl who is president of the Provincial Women's Softball Union has named girls' softball nominees for the award of the outstanding girl athlete in Ontario during the year. Miss Mortimer, called upon to speak for the women's end of softball in Ontario has named Alma Wilson, outstanding Toronto senior pitcher as her first choice and listed Greta Harmer, reliable twirler of the intermediate champion Stratford Kroehlers as her second selection for the honor. The prexie has made a couple of choices that will take some beating. Alma Wilson was the outstanding girl pitcher in senior company during the past season setting up an imposing win mark and string of strikeouts that will likely stand for some time. As for Greta Harmer she had the distinction of winning every playoff game she pitched, including two victories over our own Westclox team in the provincial finals. The Big Bens are ready to admit that the Stratford twirler was invincible in the pinches and her reliable work was undoubtedly the chief factor in Kroehlers' success in winning the title for second year in succession. When the Stratford team lost its crack 1943 battery it looked as if their chances to repeat were not worth bothering about but Greta Harmer arose to the occasion with a brilliant and consistent performance.

Why They Won

If anybody is wondering why the St. Louis Cards won the National League, aside from the great work of a fine pitching staff, the answer will probably be found in the league fielding records which have just been released. They show that the Cards led the loop in club fielding with a percentage of .982 which set a new major league record and smashed the mark set by the Cincinnati Reds who fielded at a .981 clip in 1940. St. Louis also led in double plays with 162 and equalled the National League record by making two triple plays. Still another team record made by the Cards was the achivement of making only 112 errors in the season, the lowest number of boots ever recorded against a major league club. The previous low was 117 misplays, set by Cincinnati in 1940. In addition Billy Southworth's club racked up another new league record by reeling off nine games in a double-header. The figures speak for themselves. They show accuracy and precision in the field that have not been surpassed in the history of major league ball.

* * * * * *

Individually the Cards also grab off a large share of the spotlight. In fact three out of four of the infield spots have been grabbed off by the National League champs and Johnny Hopp, Card gardener led all the outfielders in the loop. Ray Sanders of the Cards led the first basemen with a fielding average of .994, Slats Marion of the same club was the leading shortstop with .972 and Whitey Kurowski topped all the third-sackers with .965. The only infield position in which a Card did not lead the parade was at second base where Williams of the Cincinnati Reds copped the honors with .971 but at that Emil Verban of the Cards was close up with .968. Johnny Hopp was the prize outfielder on the season's play with only one error in 319 chances for a percentage of .997. Outside of these Cardinal exploits, Ray Mueller, catcher of the Cincinnati Reds, was one of the other individuals to get the head lines. He caught all the 155 games played by his club and thereby smashed a record that was set 35 years ago by a Canadian, George Mooney Gibson, catcher for the Pittsburg Pirates. At that Mueller did not lead the catchers in fielding during the 1944 season. That distinction went to Al Lopez of the Pirates who fielded at a .984 clip. It was the 12th season in a row in which Lopez had caught at least 100 games, and his feat tied Gabby Hartnet's mark.

Getting Soft

According to Chick Appel, Stratford sport scribe, the athletes of today are getting soft. Chick should have travelled with the Petes the winter before last when they had to take to the road for every game and travel in all kinds of weather—and nearly all kinds of cars over all kinds of roads. Anyway here is the way he looks at it: "Why the athletes nowadays don't know the word 'hardship.' They're becoming too soft, like one puckchaser who refused to make a trip out of town in a comfortable, well-heated car, because it was not equipped with a radio. Wonder what some of them would think if they had to buy their own equipment, including skates, shoes and sticks, as the old timers did, and then were asked to dig down in their jeans and help pay the cost of transportation? The old players who did that really loved the game and wanted to play hockey. They didn't know what it was to have a nice hot shower after a game, nor a change of underwear. It was just a case of freeze on the way to a game, climb into your hockey togs, shed them when the game was over and don street clothes again. They never gave any thought to a change of underwear. That dried out or froze stiff on the body on the return trip."

New York Rangers made sure of spending Christmas day out of the cellar last night when they travelled into Chicago and spoiled the evening for Black Hawk fans by coming up with a 3 to 1 win. Hawks scored first early in the second period on a goal by Cully Dahlstrom but Phil Watson evened it up three minutes later and Hank Goldup tossed in what proved to be the winning goal late in the same period. Kilby MacDonald made it sure with a third period counter. The Hawks could have pulled up on even terms with Lester Patrick's outfit with a win but they were outplayed by the Young Men of Manhattan and blew their opportunity. Only 8,881 fans saw the game but that does not prove anything for it is a matter of history that Chicago attendance on week nights is only about 40 to 50 per cent of the Sunday night total. Somehow or other the Hawk enthusiasts do not like their hockey on any other night than Sunday.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Jackie McLean will be out of the Toronto lineup for at least a month with injuries....Oshawa Generals knocked off the Toronto Marlboros in a game at Oshawa last night 7 to 2.... The Motor City boys are still tied with Galt Red Wings for third place. ....Story from Oshawa says that the crowd was small and the game of the scrambly variety....It cannot be that the home on the road of junior hockey champs will support nothing but a champion outfit....The Belleville junior B group has a 30-game schedule and the playoff arrangement calls for four of the six outfits to figure in the group playoff series....There should be plenty of hockey for everybody in that setup. ....It might be that rough-neck hockey players could get a few helpful ideas if they realized that the birds who are heading the N.H.L. scoring lists are the players who spend very little time in the penalty box. Toe Blake for instance hasn't been off this season and Bill Cowley's penalty record totals two minutes for the whole campaign up to now....It all goes to prove that you can't score goals from the bench in the sin bin... City Five League will hold their annual turkey roll tonight.

SEEMS TO BE HEADIN' HOME—The ball appears to be headin' home—shot to the basket by Bill Levine (16) of City College. Arkansas' Bill Wheeler (71) jumps high in an effort to thwart the score. ## Hershey Bears Beat Pittsburgh

By The Canadian Press

Hershey Bears now stand only four points behind Buffalo Bisons, leaders of the eastern division of the American Hockey League, following their second consecutive victory last night over Pittsburg Hornets 8-3.

Paced by Gooden with three goals and Forgie with two, the Bears came out of a hectic first period with a 2-1 lead. From there on it was Hershey all the way.

Cooper opened the scoring in the first frame for Hershey but Klein evened the count with the first of his two goals for Pittsburg. During the second period Gooden tallied three and team-mate Pozzo added another, while Klein scored the period's only Pittsburg counter.

Forgie increased the Hershey margin with two goals in the third period after Rossingnol had beaten Hershey netminder Damore for the third Pittsburg goal.

Lions Increase Y.M. League Lead

Gord. Johnston's Lions went further out in front in the Y.M.C.A. House League race last night when they defeated the threatening Cougars 27 to 14 in a close-checking low-scoring battle. Cougars had added Pete McArthur to their roster and had their strongest team of the season in action, but were unable to hold Joe Stewart under control, and his 14 points proved the big factor in the Lions' win.

The Johnston outfit outscored Cougars 12 to 4 in the first half, and the low total of two baskets for the losers indicates how close the checking was.

Don McTavish was top scorer for the Cougars with six points. The teams:

Lions 27—Matthews 2, Plunkett 3, Estlick 2, Griffin 4, Stewart 14, Johnston 2.

Cougars 14 — W. Turner 2, A. Turner, McTavish 6, McArthur 2, Davern 4, Cauley, Whittaker.

In the other game on the card Ray Routley's Panthers outscored the Tigers 49 to 27 in an interesting battle. It was a scoring duel between Ed Nicholls who racked up 21 points for the winners and Steve Csumrik who registered 19 for the Tigers.

However in addition to Nicholls' effective sniping, the Panthers had the advantage of a lot of good shooting by the entire cast. They were in front 24 to 12 at half-time and kept right on going in the second-half.

The teams:

Panthers 49—Nicholls 21, Jones 8, Collins 10, Mathias 2, Routley 8.

Tigers 27—R. Johnston 6, Seabrook, Bouck, Csumrik 19, Waterman, Spears, Sisson 2, Smith.

Junior Hockey Games Changed

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—(CP). —The Ontario Hockey Association today announced changes in its junior A series for the Christmas holiday season.

A game scheduled for St. Catharines Friday night between St. Catharines and Toronto Marlboros has been postponed to Jan. 16. A Saturday afternoon game in Toronto between Marlboros and Toronto Young Rangers will be played as scheduled. A Tuesday night game in Toronto between Oshawa Generals and Young Rangers has been postponed to Saturday afternoon, Dec. 30. The game originally scheduled for Toronto Dec. 30—Marlboros and Young Rangers—has been postponed to a later date.

A revised schedule, made necessary by the withdrawal of Port Colborne from the series, will be announced in a day or so.

Christmas Trees Plentiful

By The Canadian Press

Canadians preparing for their sixth wartime Christmas are not without the customary Christmas tree.

While decorations may be scarce, a survey today by The Canadian Press revealed there were plenty of trees for sale from coast to coast with prices on a par with last year.

Only city where a minor shortage appeared was in Vancouver where it was reported production was cut 25 to 30 per cent below the 1943 total.

Export trade, usually a boon to some in British Columbia, Ontario and Quebec, was on a light scale this year. In most provinces this business was curtailed by the wartime shortage of rolling stock and labor shortage in the woods. However, United States railways provided rolling stock for shipment of more than 1,000,000 trees from British Columbia's East Kootenay district. The total is a little more than half the number exported in 1943.

There appeared to be plenty of trees of all sizes in Toronto, with prices ranging from 75 cents to $4 or more. Salesmen were doing business from corner lots, service stations and some stores. Most trees were brought to the city from district points, contrary to pre-Christmas reports that none would be sold in Toronto due to lack of trucking and railway facilities. The city's record-breaking snowfall Dec. 11-12 hampered early sale. There was little export business from Toronto, but some southwestern Ontario centres shipped a few trees to the United States.

Model Testifies Chaplin Father Of Child

By GENE HANSADKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 21—(AP)—Joan Berry, 24, who testified that Charlie Chaplin is the father of her baby but said when she implored him to give the child his name he replied: "You know my views on marriage; I don't believe in it."

Miss Berry faces a jury again today in her suit to have the 55-year-old comedian declared the father of her 14-months-old Carol Ann.

She declared yesterday she had had "no relations" with any other man since meeting Chaplin in June, 1941; and said they had been sexually intimate on four occasions.

Several times during her testimony she appeared on the verge of tears.

"I asked him at least five times to marry me," she said. "I told him, I'll even divorce you after the baby is born if that's the way you want it. But he said: "I don't want any part of anything like that."

She said the comedian "jumped up" and exclaimed: "I'd rather spend 20 years in jail and have my peace. I'm a great artist. I've got to protect my soul. No woman is going to force me into marriage. Babies are a biological mistake. For all I know, I might have a lot of other children running around, and all of those women don't want me to marry them."

Joan testified yesterday in the absence of the screen veteran, who had told the jury earlier in the day that he was physically capable of begetting a child.

(A daughter was born 4½ months ago to Chaplin's wife, Oona O'Neill, 19-year-old daughter of Playwright Eugene O'Neill.)

When Joan informed him she was pregnant, Chaplin asserted, "I told her it was impossible that I was responsible; that I hadn't seen her for almost a year."

Carried A Gun

On the night of Dec. 23, Joan continued, she broke into Chaplin's home by smashing the glass in a door. She was carrying a gun.

"I went upstairs to his room," she said. "He turned around and said 'Hello, Joan, are you going to kill yourself?' I said 'No.' He said 'Are you going to kill me?' I said, 'No'."

"Did you tell him you were going to kill him at any time?"

"No—never...He sad on the bed and said, 'Joan, don't be silly.' I said, 'I've got to keep the gun; I am almost out of my mind. I have waited and waited, but you haven't called me."

Cardinals Set 2 Major Records

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK Dec. 21—(AP). — Defensive skills of the St. Louis Cardinals painfully obvious to the Browns in the World Series, were officially recognized to-day in the National League fielding records showing the World Series champions set two major league team records and swept four of seven individual titles.

Billy Southworth's Red Birds established a record for both leagues with a .982 percentage and, by committing only 112 errors, erased the standard hung up by Cincinnati in 1940. It was their third successive fielding title to back up three straight pennants.

Ray Sanders at first base, Marty Marion at shortstop, Whitey Kurokski at third base, and Johnny Hopp in the outfield showed the way in their divisions, leaving to "outsiders" such scattered laurels as best fielding second baseman Woody Williams and Pitcher Bucky Walters, both of Cincinnati, and Catcher Al Lopez of Pittsburg. The leadership in all positions, except pitcher was based on playing 100 or more games.

Sanders' .994 mark was just two points better than Frank McCormick of the Reds. Marion nosed out Eddie Miller of the Reds by one marker at .972, Kurowski's .965 gave him a wide edge over Steve Mesner of the Reds, and Hopp showed the way among the regular outfielders with .997, four ahead of the Giants' Joe Medwick.

Williams' nearest rival was Emil Verban of the Cards, but the winner had a three-point edge at .971 and Walters was one of 26 pitchers appearing in 10 or more games to field 1.000, but he had most chances 70.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Intimation that the Interprovincial Rugby Football Union would operate next fall was made yesterday at Ottawa when J. J. McCaffrey, manager of the Ottawa Football Club, applied to board of control for playing dates and practice facilities at Lansdowne Park. McCaffrey said the "Big Four" was preparing to operate in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and Hamilton and that a meeting of the league executive had been called for Jan. 20 in Toronto.

In the meantime, Ottawa Trojans of the rival O.R.F.U. have an application for dates at Lansdowne Park next season. It was suggested by McCaffrey, however, that the clubs would co-operate in arrangements.

The death in action in Normandy July 21 has been reported of Pte. Norman R. Morrison, 26, of Galt while serving with the Essex Scottish. Prior to enlistment he played for Galt hockey teams in several O.H.A. series, and also for an army sextet in England last winter.

Hockey's Big Seven

LONDON—(CP) — Crystal palace, glass-domed auditorium in south London which was destroyed by fire several years ago, will be restored after the war at a cost of approximately $4,500,000.

Burr Scores 4 In Cornwall Win

LACHINE, Que., Dec. 21—(CP). Bobby Burr's four goals paved the way for a 9-5 victory by Cornwall Cookies over Lachine Rapids in an Interprovincial Hockey League game here last night. Burr scored two in the second period and two in the third.

Lachine scored the only first-period goal on Amard's shot and in the second frame Abel sent the Rapids ahead 2-0. Burr's first two counters tied the score and Bernie Lauzon and Andy Perron put the Cookies ahead 4-2 before Trigg drew a third for Lachine.

In the final period, Bobby Carragher, Derocher, and Proulx added goals with Burr bagging his second brace. Boucher and Abel scored the other goals for Lachine.

The line-ups:

Cornwall — Goal, J. P. Renaud; defence, Depuis, Tapin; centre, Carragher; wings, Perron, Burr; subs, Lauzon, Gravel, A. Renaud, Hebert, De Derocher, Savard, Proulx, Marechal.

Lachine—Goal, Lemaire; defence, Demers, Whitehead; centre, Boucher; wings, Morrow, Abel; subs., Bean, Bathgate, Terriault, Trigg, Valliere Chapman, Paulsen, Amard.

Officials—Mullins and Bennett.

Last Night's Stars

Have a "Coke"= Merry Christmas

... adding refreshment to holiday cheer

The spirit of good will rules the Christmas season. It's a time to get together with friends and family . . . a time when all we mean by home in its graciousness and friendliness is at its peak. In such an atmosphere Coca-Cola belongs, ice-cold and sparkling with life. There's a whole story of hospitality in the three words Have a "Coke"— three words that express a friendly spirit the whole year 'round. Yes, Coca-Cola and the pause that refreshes are everyday symbols of a way of living that takes friendliness for granted.

"Coke"=Coca-Cola
It's natural for popular names to acquire friendly abbreviations. That's why you hear Coca-Cola called "Coke". 517

Rangers Clip Chicago 3-1

By The Canadian Press

So far Coach Frank Boucher has done a creditable job of keeping his charges out of the National League cellar where they wallowed hopelessly all last sason.

Stung by three days' shared ownership of last place with Chicago, the Blueshirts turned in one of their better efforts last night to clip the Hawks 3-1 in their own nest. The triumph, their second road decision of the year and their first anywhere since Nov. 30, gave the New Yorkers title to fifth place by a full game.

Hank Goldup, converted forward who does a workmanlike job on the Ranger defence, reverted to the attack to share scoring laurels with veteran Kilby Macdonald. Each registered a goal and assist to manufacture the victory margin after the teams had established a 1-1 tie.

A pass interception by Pete Horeck gave Hawks a brief lead early in the second, with Cully Dahlstrom converting Horeck's relay. Phil Watson, scrappy New York centre, evened it three minutes later when he scooted out of a pileup before the Chicago net to beat Mike Karakas. Ab Demarco and Grant Warwick were given assists.

Goldup, helped by Macdonald, fired the winning shot five minutes before the close of the period, and they reversed roles early in the third to make it certain. Fred Thurrier also assisted.

Sport In 1944 Survived Demands Of War

By SID THOMAS,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Hockey and other major amateur sports in Canada during 1944 reeled under a blow the pessimists calculated would scuttle the ship, when the services banned blue- and khaki-clad players from competing in inter-district play-offs. But they staged a major recovery to chalk up a most successful season from the standpoint of spectator interest, although from a quality viewpoint the war brand of game left much to be desired in many cases.

The same thing was true in double measure for the National Hockey League ,which proved conclusively that when Gun Phan has plenty of jingle in his pockets he will turn out for games no matter who is playing. Attendance records are being shattered and threatened all along the line, although the big leageu has lost dozens of its top players to the services and replaced them with youngsters who in pre-war days would be hanging wistfully over the rails dreaming of the distant future when they too might crack the big time.

When the R. C. A. F. and the Army, followed in slightly less drastic fashion by the Navy, banned its athletes from taking part in any competitions leading to Dominion championship play, it looked like quite a blow, especially since the two Allan Cup finalists n 1943 were service teams, and the cup winners in 1942 were R. C. A. F. Fliers.

But the servicemen were dropped from the teams, the service squads played in their own bailiwicks and everything turned out fine. There weren't many senior civilian hockey squads in Canada, but those left put on quite a show with the powerful Quebec Aces winning the Allan Cup in three straight from Port Arthur Shipbuilders.

Basketball produced a strange situation in 1944 as a result of the service sport ban. The logical champions of the west were R. C. A. F. Patricia Bay Gremlins, 1943 senior men's champions, but they were unable to get permission to travel east for the finals, although at one time they offered to travel on their time if they all could get leaves together. This fell through, however, and a team they had beaten, United States Army Engineers from Edmonton, went east to fall before Merriton Hayes Steel of St .Catharines, three games to one.

Mann Cup to Ontario.

Championship play in other sports saw St. Catharines Athletics topple New Westminster Salmonbellies, lacrosse finals, while Montreal Navy lacrosse finals ,while Montreal Navy proved the exception to the rule as it captured the Dominion football title and the Grey Cup. The combined team from H. M. C. S. Donnacona in Montreal and H. M. C. S. Ste. Hyacinthe won the navy its first major championship in sport, strange contrast in a year which saw service teams in other sports take it on the chin.

The greenbacks rustled through the parimutuel windows at a merry pace as horse racing enjoyed one of its most successful seasons, although there wan't much in the way of record-breaking. Bets totalling $37,068,199 were placed during 298 days of racing at 35 meets, with all centres except Montreal marking up substantial increases over 1943. This was nearly $4,000,000 higher than wagering in 1943, and just under $1,000,000 less than the previous high mark reached in 1930, at the end of the golden boom era.

Far-reaching changes were made in regulations governing the historic King's Plate at Woodbine Park in Toronto, won this year by H. C. Hatch's Acara. For the first time, the race was thrown open to all Canadian-bred horses as in previous years. Larger purses for future runnings also were assured as nominations closed in November for the 1945 and 1946 races, with the 1946 stakes expected to exceed $17,000.

The Montreal Canadiens roared through the N. H. L. season and play-offs smashing records right and left to bring the Stanley Cup to the Forum. They humbled their long-time rivals, Toronto Maple Leafs, rubbing their noses in the dirt with an 11-0 trouncing in the last game of the semi-finals then mowed down Chicago Black Hawks four straight.

The military situation intruded itself in the professional league as a rule was introduced barring any players who had been deferred from military service on any grounds except physical disability. At the time this was considered an attempt to "get" Canadiens, who were believed to have many players on war jobs deferments, but the season opened and they lost only two men because of the rule. Other teams weren't seriously affected either, and the 1944-45 season got underway with the fans again jamming the turnstiles in record proportions.

TORONTO, Dec. 21 — (CP). — Post-war Department: If some of the athletes now pastiming in the National Hockey League and other organized sport leagues are wondering what they will do when the war is over, they might take a tip from Paul Robeson, the American singer and actor. Robeson, a member of Walter Camp's 1918 all-American football squad, says that his athletic career helped him a great deal in his stage activities later. Sports helped him build that imposing physique that didn't hurt him in the public's estimation — even though some crooners get by on much less.

There was much wailing last winter when players of juvenile age in Ontario were allowed to play both in their own bracket and in junior circles, so the rule was changed this year to put the two on a twain-never-meet basis. Now there is discord over that. Some junior teams are finding they can't get enough players, since the older boys are enlisting while the juveniles won't play junior and lose their status. The Port Colborne Junior A club has had to drop out already, and some other teams are in none too happy a position. Which all goes to show that everyone can't be kept satisfied.

Mechanized blitz:

Suspicion that there are deep-laid plans to end the day of the super star in hockey circles are voiced by Andy (Toronto Star) Lytle. He voices the opinion that the N.H.L. rule makers put their heads together and exploded new rules all over the place to make the game a mass attack instead of a field where individual stars could distinguish themselves. Either that or else the increasing dearth of players in that super star class since the outbreak of war forced them to do a little camouflage job to keep the willing customers happy.

Remember the day:

Jimmy Foster, now coaching Macdonald's Airports in the Winnipeg Civilian Senior Hockey League, lists as the outstanding thrill of his career the time he blanked Saskatoon Quakers twice in a row when the Moncton Hawks won the Allan Cup for the second successive season in 1934. Next to that is the time he fended off pucks galore as he helped the English Olympic hockey squad down Canada 2-1 in the 1936 hockey World Series.

Oshawa Juniors Move Up Into 3rd Place

By The Canadian Press

Oshawa Generals, defenders of the Memorial Cup, crept into a third-place tie with Galt Red Wings in the O.H.A. Junior "A" race by virtue of an easy 7-2 win over Toronto Marlboros last night at the motor city. St. Mikes, with 14 points, houd lead position in the standing and St. Catharines are second, four points better than Generals and Red Wings.

For Oshawa, the tilt was more or less a routine contest against the tail-enders who have copped only one decision in nine starts. Generals had a 2-1 edge in the first period, made it 4-1 in the second and rounded out the 60 minutes with three more counters against one additional marker for the visitors.

Sullivan scattered scoring successes throughout the contest with one in the first stanza, a repeater in the second and two more in the third frame for a total of four goals, to equal his previous scoring record for the season. Taggart, Gallagher and Low were the other Oshawa scorers. Samanaki of Oshawa, who has yet to bag a goal, contributed two assists while other play-makers included Petsura and Matthews.

Paul Kane and Cameron were Marlboro scorers, with Jack McNabney and Ed Michamik getting credit for an assist each.

Browns Best Comeback Team

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—(AP).—St. Louis Browns, already tagged as having furnished the year's biggest sports surprise in winning the American League flag, landed new laurels today as the No. 1 comeback team of 1944.

So decided 87 sports editors participating in the country-wide Associated Press poll, 20 of whom pointed the comeback finger at Luke Sewell's boys, along with seven other voters who picked 'em for the place or show spots.

On a basis of three votes for first place, two for second and one for third, the Browns piled up 71 points to beat out Sam Snead, golfer who came back from two years in the navy to win the first tournament in which he played. Snead, with 10 first-place votes, had a 56 total.

Fifty-two individuals and teams came in for comeback attention by the scribes, but the Browns, in boosting their 72-80 won-lost percentage of 1943 into an 89-65 pennant winning mark in '44, were clearly a standout. The Browns, after losing the league lead, swept the last four games from New York to nose out Detroit by a single contest.

Norwood Rink Opens

NORWOOD, Dec. 21—(ENS)—Norwood rink opened Tuesday evening with a good crowd of young people enjoying free skating. The committee in charge are planning a big year in hockey. Hastings is entering a team in the O.H.A. and are grouped with Stirling, Campbellford, Tweed, Trenton and Belleville. The manager will be Stanley Stevenson.

REIGNS OVER ANGLING TOURNEY—Doing a spot of fishing herself, here is Virginia "Jeni" Freeland, 19-year-old "personality girl" of Miami High School, Fla., who has been named queen of the 10th annual Metropolitan Miami fishing tournament, which opens January 7 and runs for 99 days to April 15. Miss Freeland is 5 feet 6 inches tall; weighs 116 pounds.

Youth Direction Stressed By W.I.

BETHANY, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The Christmas meeting of the Women's Institute, was held at the home of Mrs. E. Mason Monday evening, with 12 members and two visitors present.

Miss Hannah Staples, president, was in the chair. Mrs. A. H. Monk, secretary, read letters of thanks from local boys overseas who had received Christmas boxes from the society. They are Dr. John Clarke, Gordon Jarvis and Stewart Thompson. They said they appreciated the women's thoughtfulness and sent greetings to all their friends. It was decided to send a gift of money to Mrs. Reg. Palmer of Ajax to send her son a box. He is a prisoner of war in Germany. Mrs. Mason tuned in to a radio program under the National Farm Forum. The topic under discussion, "Rural communities can be attractive."

A debate arose over the idea of supervised activities for the young people of the community. It was finally decided that Mrs. Staples, Mrs. C. Pomeroy, Mrs. J. Clarke and Mrs. E. Mason be a committee to call upon the minister and find out if they would be leaders. It was felt that the co-operation of the parents was also needed. Mrs. R. W. Price, reporting for the war work, said that every quota undertaken was completed and shipped to the Red Cross headquaretrs for 1944. She also explained there would be some changes in the articles needed in the future.

Mrs. H. Bristow took charge of short program which followed, Gerald Bristow and Creighton Carr sang an interesting group of western songs, playing their own accompaniment on guitars. Mrs. Mason gave a reading entitled "Merry Christmas" telling of the Christmas customs in other lands.

A delightful social hour followed when sandwiches and cake were enjoyed. A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Price to all those assisting in the evening's entertainment.

The many friends of Miss Betty Phillips of Peterborough were sorry to learn she had to be rushed to Nicholls Hospital for an appendix operation and her mother of Glengarry Road was unable because of the storm to get to her until afterwards.

Miss Morton of the public school staff spent the week-end at her home in Colborne.

News of the passing of the late Mrs. Harvey Gray in Toronto on Sunday was learned with regret although little hope has been held out for a recovery. The funeral service was held in Toronto yesterday.

Held Prisoner Four Years, French-Canadians Home

By The Canadian Press.

Prisoners of the Nazis for a period ranging up to four years, four French-Canadians have returned to the Dominion after sufferings, escapes and adventures in Germany, Poland and France

As they chewed appreciatively on thick steaks in a railway diner, the four recounted how one of their number had escaped and hid out on the Nazis for a year, another had been freed by the Allied liberators of Paris and the other two had been repatriated.

They were Edward Fiset of Quebec City, who brought back the Parisian girl he married five weeks before internment; Fernand Charpentier, Montreal; Demetrius Boule of Montreal, and William St. Pierre of Ottawa.

All four were trapped in the fall of France. Boule had been interned in Bordeaux fortress for more than 2½ years. In stumbling English, he told how he escaped from the prison in 1943, and made his way to Brittany.

Eventually, he went free when the Allies arrived.

Four years and three months in German custody in Germany and Poland was St. Pierre's lot. "I tell you, it was pretty hard," he said. "The food was very scarce. Sometimes, there would be 12 of us to a loaf of bread for 24 hours.

Fiset, Quebec City architect and nephew of Lieut.-Governor Eugene Fiset of Quebec, was studying architecture in the Fine Arts School of Paris at the fall of France, when he was interned.

The 34-year-old Quebecker has been appointed by the French Government as liaison man between destroyed French towns and the Canadian communities that have adopted them. He plans to continue in architecture.

On Good Manners Y.P.U. Hears Talk

MILLBROOK, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The cultural convener, Miss Betty Lunn, was in charge of the Young People's Union meeting on Monday evening, held in the chapel room of St. Andrew's Church, the singing of Christmas carols, with Elaine Argue at the piano, opening the service.

The Christmas story as told in Luke's gospel, was read by Miss Marian Rowe, and the talk on deportment was taken by Mrs. Edmund Ball. A few of the points stressed were that actions in public place a tag on people, either well mannered and cultured, or ill mannered and crude, that all may read; that good manners should be worn as a habit all the time, and especially in the home; that "manners are the fine flower of civilization and everyone may have them," and the root of good manners is kindness and consideration for the feelings of others.

Thoughtlessness she said, is at the root of all ill manners, and the golden rule, "Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you," is a fine base upon which to build good manners. Also being well mannered is not a 'sissy' business, but it requires a lot of self-control and a grave spirit to quietly ignore rudeness shown to oneself, and treat the other person, as though he had treated you with the utmost courtesy. With Paul, who said "I keep under my body and bring it into subjection," we need the help of a Higher Power to measure up to the highest ideals and win the victory over our lower selves.

The president, Jean Fisher, took charge for the business period, announcing that the next meeting will be the second Monday in January, with the worship service in charge of the Christian Fellowship convener, Miss Margaret Smith, and the missionary convener, Miss Mary Blair, taking the program. The newly-elected executive will have a business meeting at the president's home on Thursday evening, January 4, and a recreational period closed the gathering. The first meeting in the New Year it is expected will be open to the public, the offering giving the missionary fund a good start for the 1945 activities.

$1,000 Reward

TORONTO, Dec. 21—(CP)—Chief Constable D. C. Draper last night announced that a $1,000 reward would be given for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the slayer of Michael Jakiwchyk, 52-year-old cobbler, last Saturday.

No Overtime

TORONTO, Dec. 21—(CP). —Ontario liquor stores and wine shops will operate on the usual daily hours of 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. during the Christmas and New Year season, it was announced by the Ontario Liquor Control Board yesterday. In former years it was the custom to keep later hours during the holiday season.

CWL Sends Clothing For Overseas Work

MARMORA, Dec. 21—(AP)—The December meeting of the Catholic Women's' League was held in the vestry at Sacred Heart Church after mass on Sunday. Mrs. E. D. O'Connor presided.

It was decided to send Christmas boxes to sick members of the parish and members were asked to contribute home-made cooking and candy for the purpose. It was also decided to pack a box of used clothing for overseas, and members were requested to donate articles. Arrangements were made for a card party to be held in Sacred Heart School January 8.

Would Use Helmets As Hen's Nests

OTTAWA, Dec. 21—(CP)—Alexander McPherson Wilson, Ottawa's hard-bargaining Scot from Aberdeen, and L. K. Garwood of the War Assets Corporation, failed to strike a bargain today for 30,000 army helmets, but both hope an agreement will yet be reached.

Wilson was willing to pay 30 cents apiece for the helmets, but he wanted the War Assets Corporation to pay delivery charges.

"The War Assets people want to sell those 30,000 helmets worse than I want to buy them," said Wilson, who planned to resell the helmets as hens' nests. "They'll be back with another offer, and at my terms."

BABY'S CRY IS NOT ALWAYS TEMPER

DISTINGUISH between your baby's cry of pain and cry of temper. The "pain cry" should have instant attention. For the feverish distress due to gas on stomach or bowels or those common digestive upsets, give Baby's Own Tablets at once. Mrs. May Mundy, of Toronto, finds they work every time.

"I am the mother of nine children, three of them prize babies, and Baby's Own Tablets have been my only medicine in raising them to the healthy children they now are. As soon as my children became a little feverish I at once gave them Baby's Own Tablets and in a very short time the fever disappeared and the children were normal again."

Equally effective for constipation, upset stomach, teething troubles and other minor ailments of babies.

Quickly effective. Sweet-tasting — easily crushed to a powder, if desired. No "sleepy" stuff — no dulling effect. Get a package today. Sickness often strikes in the night. 25 cents Money back if you are not satisfied.

Heater Ignites In Marmora Garage

MARMORA, Dec. 21 — (ENS) — Louis Hulsman of Marmora township suffered the loss of his tractor, a large kit of tools, parts of machines and a bicycle when the garage in which this equipment was housed, caught fire Tuesday morning.

Fred Hulsman, son of the owner, got a badly burned right hand in endeavoring to save the equipment. The fire was caused by a heater in the garage. An adjacent hen-house was also partly burned.

Mr. Hulsman, who has been an employee of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company for the past twenty-five years, was called from his work and with the help of neighbors the fire was prevented from spreading. The loss is partly covered by insurance, the loss after payment of the insurance being estimated by Mr. Hulsman to be approximately $1,000.

Main Street Topics

OFFICERS' PARTY

There will be a gay group ringing in 1945 at the Armouries New Year's Eve, when the officers of the 2nd (R) Battalion and their wives will attend a party there. Dancing will begin shortly after midnight.

BURNING BUTTER

Firemen received one call Wednesday evening to the residence of F. Maher, 9 Park Street South, where some butter placed in the oven took fire. There was no damage.

NO PARADES

There will be no more parades for the 2nd (R) Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers, until January 9, it was learned to-day. This is because of the Christmas and New Year's holidays.

BARN ABOUT READY.

The new stables for the horses owned by the city and used in the collection of garbage will probably be occupied this week, Alderman Swanston, chairman of the property committee, told the Examiner today. Men and horses will have comfortable and efficient quarters down at the yard on Townsend street, with all the facilities for keeping it bright and clean, and the stock in first class condition.

WOMAN'S ACCOLADE.

He has four sons in the military services, including one in the Merchant Marine, he was in the last war himself, and got as far as the Home Guard in this one. And if he ever thought about it all he must have felt that he and the family could look even Montgomery in the eye. Still, a woman called him a "Zombie," and maybe you could imagine the telling-off, because he is one of the explosive type. But, it must have been a sizzler.

LINDSAY HOLIDAY

Mayor Lamb of Lindsay has declared Tuesday, December 26 a civic holiday

NEW MEMBER

Owen Gray Bullock, of Lakefield, enlisted this week in the 2nd (R) Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers.

CAKE WITH COFFEE

The Coffee Club is still running in luck. The other day it was the pilfering of G. N. Gordon's Roquefort cheese. This morning's largesse was a Christmas cake made by Westons, gift from the manager, John W. Simmons, to the Club's session at the Churchill.

GEESE 34 CENTS.

One figure in the local market report for Wednesday caused some enquiry this morning, pointing to a typographical error in quoting geese at 36 cents a pound instead of the ceiling 34 cents. The bargain item, according to the scale of ceilings was in chickens selling at 32 to 36 cents. Early in the morning 38 cents a pound was reported, but generally the trend was downward. And the permissible top is 46 cents for first grades.

NEW ENLISTMENTS

During the past week, seven men from Peterborough and district have enlisted in Canada's active army, and have proceeded to Kingston for medical examinations. It is possible some will be rejected on medical grounds. They are: M. J. Wilson, 166 Adeline street; Alvin Ross Little, 554 Sherbrooke street; Ronald C. Hodson, 130 Perry street; Aubrey E. K. Ferguson, 255 Engleburn avenue; Frederick G. Simpson, 112 James street; C. W. Mongraw, 129 James street, and William C. McDonald, 54 Adelaide street, Lindsay.

Early Days In Roseneath Depicted In Christmas Play

ROSENEATH, Dec. 21 —(ENS) — A play "This Land of Ours," a story of life among the pioneers of Alnwick and the building of Roseneath school, was presented by members of the Y. P. U. in conjunction with Roseneath school Christmas concert on Tuesday night.

The play is a story of the Campbell family, woven around real life in Roseneath school section.

The Campbell family six of whom are represented in the play are taken from real life, and lived in the large white brick house on the Campbell farm. James Campbell was reeve of Alnwick township for nine years. The story centres around the purchase of a piece of land on which to build a new school, to replace the log building standing at that time at Coyle's Corners. Eventually the land was bought and a two-room school erected. James Yule owned the farm from which the school ground was taken. The present owner of this farm is J. W. Pacey.

The writer and director of the play is Miss Helen Weir principal of Roseneath school, and great-grand-daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Campbell. Her paternal grand-mother was Isabell Campbell, she married William Weir and their son Walter of Warkworth is Miss Weir's father, Mrs. J. Campbell gave Roseneath its name, naming it after her village home in Scotland, previously Roseneath was called "The Corners."

Early Days.

The play opens in September 1867 about two months after Confederation, the young school teacher Andrew McTavish has arrived on the community to teach in the little log school, and is boarding around as was the custom then, and is staying with the Campbell's. He. Mr. and Mrs. Campbell are in the room called at that period, the parlor. They are discussing the possibility of a new school.

In act two one year has elapsed and the family is preparing for a husking bee. This act has two scenes before and after the husking bee.

In act three, it is Christmas Eve 1868, with a happy ending to the story.

A love story runs through the play and the last act ends happily after a traditional difficult courtship when Andrew McTavish and pretty Katie O'Flynn are married. The deed recording the purchase of land for the new school is read when Andrew the groom announces the purchase of the land, and Colin has come home from a lumber camp for Christmas.

The cast of characters includes: Ambrose Atkinson, Adelaine Mouncey, Victor Morrow; Doris Roberts, Betty Atkinson, Mrs. Sam Black, Clarice Atkinson, Douglas Coyle, and Fred Lewis.

Musical Program.

Numbers on the program preceding the play, and presented by the pupils included a chorus, "Christmas Cavalcade," by the school; recitations by Billie Murphy and Billie Coyle, a recitation in unison by juniors; recitation in unison by John Coyle, Gerald Adams, and Garth Waldie; a recitation by grade one. "A Christmas Thought." Retation by seniors, "A Visit from St. Nicholas. A dialogue, "A Coon Concert, by four boys and four girls. Song, "Vespers, by juniors. A Backwards Drill by eight boys. A dialogue, "Friday Afternoon Compositions. "Milk Maid Song by six junior girls. Two songs: "Lets Keep the Christ in Christmas," and "Britain's Bells Will Ring Again," by seniors. A Christmas Wreath drill. Dialogue, "A Few Friends to Dinner." Song, "The Little Skeptic," by junior boys.

Preceeding the arrival of Santa Claus, the school sang a chorus, "Santa Claus is on His Way." The teachers, Miss Weir and Miss Clarice Atkinson, presented the pupils with candy and gifts, and Rev. R. C. White acted as chairman. The concert was held in the Orange Hall, and proceeds of the entertainment were $54.20.

Special prizes were presented by Miss Weir to Barbara Adams for best attendance, and to Muriel Spiers and Leona Pringle for best posters advertising the concert.

Employees Of Western Clock Co. Gives $100 To Christmas Fund

The real true spirit of Christmas lies in giving happiness to others, rather than of seeking it, but it can also be said that from such an act, one does really secure a happiness that can be attained in no other way.

A real sport does like to help the other fellow when he is down, particularly if that situation arises through no fault of his own, and since there is a real sports loving group of people up at the Western Clock Co., Ltd., it follows that they would take a delight in assisting the fund being raised locally to give British child victims some cheer for Christmas.

That this is so, may be seen from a nice donation of $100 recorded in their name today, a practical demonstration of what must surely be an inward urge in this respect.

Eight other groups may be seen in today's list, the foremost of these being the members of the Prince of Wales Rangers (R) Sergeants' Mess, seen on a number of occasions in this column, who keep a jar handy for this purpose, and when the secretary of the fund attended after their Tuesday night parade, this was found to be packed tight. When counted it contained $32. It was typical of the comradeship that they have for each other, that during the later evening's proceedings, a call for a period of silence was made to honor the highest sacrifice paid by Capt. Sam Patte and Capt. Don Weese in the service of their country.

The CGE and Genelco total was enlarged to $731.34 by the 4th annual draw at Genelco, Ltd., which produced $22, and a gift of $23.50 from the Cost Department of the CGE Co., Ltd.

Three church groups include the CGIT of Knox Church, the proceeds of a Christmas party at Gilmour Memorial Church, and the Young People's Union of Plainville United Church, which incidentally came in through CHEX.

The Roundabout Euchre Club of Otonabee already had given once to the Christmas Fund, so their gift of $8 marks a further urge to be of assistance in this effort, and the Keene Carry-On Club is another group from the district who has also helped on former occasions, further accentuated by the penny boxes in the same place.

No less than 24 different gifts of a purely personal character are noted, among which can be noted that listed as "Janey," who appeared only a few days ago, evidence of an increased desire to help, and mayhap a little civic pride in wishing to see the fund top its objective.

Children Sacrifice To Give

It is a wonderful thing to see young children sacrifice something in order to help others less fortunate than themselves, and their was distinct evidence of this in Room 2, Grades 7 and 8 of Central School taught by R. K. McKee, for these young folk gave up their interchange of gifts in order to give $6 to the boys and girls in Britain, while Grade 5 at Queen Alexandra School taught by Miss F. A. Rahmel went to work to earn the $7 they gave, and an accompanying note from Jimmy Johnston one of their number, stated they were very happy over being able to do this to make others happy.

Rooms 4 and 5 at Norwood Public School taught by Mrs. R. E. Pakenham and Miss B. A. Borland sent in $5.15, and the Home and School Association of King George through Mrs. May Gedge sent $9 representing balance of the proceeds of a tea held at the school last month, which also comes into the school group.

Today's receipts total $330.21, leaving yet a balance of $588.11 required to complete the full objective of £2,000 for the Christmas donation.

Norwegian Flier Escapes With 60 Patriots

There is nothing dramatic about escaping from occupied Norway in a fishing vessel, according to a young Norwegian airman, now stationed in Canada, who outwitted the Nazis and fled to England, to continue the fight against the invaders of his native land.

His name cannot be disclosed, for he has many relatives including his parents still living under German domination in Norway, so he uses Ola Nordmann, a Norwegian name, roughly equal to "John Doe". At the present, Lieutenant Nordmann is visiting Fred Barton, assistant advertising manager of the Examiner. For many days he carefully planned with other who also escaped, the ways and means of getting out of Norway. Powerfully-organized underground forces aided in every way to get the expedition started. If the attempt failed, the penalty imposed by the Nazis would be death. Death, not only to those making the break, but also to anyone with the intentions of escaping, or withholding information about an escape. There was much information in Norway in 1941, which the Nazis wished kept in Norway!

Two severe storms dogged the travellers on their trip to England. Their purpose was one; to fight Germans; and every member of the band of 60 Norwegians survived the trip. Since then, many have been killed on active service with Allied forces; others are still holding high the torch on major battlefronts all around the world.

Watch Actions

Lieut. Nordmann described the difficulties of avoiding the suspicion of attempting to escape by the Nazis.

"One must be perfectly normal, and it is a hard thing to do. If one is too frank, he is suspected; if he is too quiet, he is suspected. On the surface, everything must be the same as before. To be observed in any way is to be, as you say, done for!"

He outlined one of the amazing examples of Germany's insidiousness in connection with the Norway coup, telling of how at the time of the invasion, the German infantry commander-in-chief, General Von Falkenhurst, was living in an Oslo hotel, under the guise of a salesman of women's clothing. When the Germans landed, the apparently harmless "salesman" blossomed out in full German battle regalia, armed, and decorated with Nazi flags. Norway, he said, has been for many years anti-German, and very pro-British. In the first few hours of Germany's invasion, people did not know as a fact whom the invading armies were; they did know from their own general knowledge, that Germany was taking over. Nazi treachery was shown in the glaring light of day when the first Wehrmacht trooper landed, and supposedly harmless German "fishing boats" off the coast became troop ships, and ships carrying trained men who were to take over control of the country administratively.

Had To Get Away

Lieut. Nordmann said he did not for an instant think of attempting to smuggle his parents out of Norway. He did not escape from Norway to be safe, he said, but to fight!

He made up his mind to get out of the country in the autumn of 1941. For a few weeks following the invasion, he was on active service with armed Norwegian ground forces. He joined them after going north, when German troops marched into Oslo. After he decided to leave, it was a constant vigil against suspicion; work to be done; coordination with the underground, and always, through days and nights, assuming an air of normalness.

Now, it is in the past. He is not a slave of the Germans, but a free man in Canada, who is working and fighting until the day he will return to his country.

Norwegians, have studied a certain amount of Canadian history and geography. "In Norway, I knew Canada had nine provinces but I didn't know why or what their names were. I also learned that your Confederation was in 1867. Ottawa is your capital, and you are a self-governing nation of the British Commonwealth of Nations".

"I like Canada," Lieut. Nordmann said. "There are great differences of course, but many things are the same. We have newspapers in Norway much the same as the Examiner in Peterborough, with features, funnies, and everything else you have".

Appreciates Kindness

Lieut. Nordmann is appreciative of the way people treat Norwegians here in Canada, and said that it would be a long time before he ever forgets about his life here.

"Before that night in Oslo, when I heard air raid sirens, I never even dreamed I should ever see Canada," he laughed.

He was a university student in Oslo, until that day in April, 1940, when German panzer divisions swept through the land, to temporarily put and end to Norwegian freedom. He attained the equivalent of a Bachelor of Arts degree in English, and for some time taught school there.

Now, he is in Canada, waiting patiently for the day when he will return to his own country, carrying memories of a far-away land that was his until Norway was liberated. Across an ocean, and a thousand miles away, in a land beautiful with snow, fjords, and deep lakes, his parents wait, just as sure that their son is alive wherever he may be, as their son is sure that they are alive . . . wherever they may be!

SERVING ON MINESWEEPER —LSA. Frank T. Adam, nephew of Mrs. E. M. Austin, 114 Dufferin street, is serving on the minesweeper Cowichan. Formerly employed at Braund's North store, he enlisted in March, 1942. He has served on both the destroyer Hamilton and the corvette Shawinigan and for a while was one of the crew of a large infantry landing craft.

Smokey Smith Soldier's Pal

REGINA, Dec. 21 — CP). — Pte. Ernest Alvia (Smokey)) Smith, 30-year-old Seaforth Highlander from New Westminster, who won the Victoria Cross for single-handedly holding a vital Italian bridgehead against German tanks, self-propelled guns and infantry, had a "complete disregard for promotion," Gordon Cameron, a war veteran pal of his, said here yesterday.

Cameron, now a Regina newspaperman after serving with the Seaforth Highlanders in Italy, termed "Smith a right guy to have near you in a scrap."

"It seemed a natural thing for Smokey to win the V.C.," he said. "I well remember his devil-may-care grin, his nonchalant attitude, his complete disregard for promotion, and his open-handedness to all his pals. Nothing ever rattled Smokey. He was everybody's friend."

UNWELCOME VISITOR

The police department succeeded in getting somebody's goat Wednesday. It all came about when a nanny goat that had bobbed up mysteriously on Elcome Crescent so alarmed a couple of women that they had to take refuge in a house on that street. Three boys who happened along took charge of the goat, succeeded in bundling it into a car and drove it to the police station. Bert Withers came to the rescue of the police and took nanny to his place for shelter. The owner of the animal is unknown.—F.D.C.

Rubbers Help Identify Young Attacker

Declaring that on all the evidence a conviction was the only conclusion possible Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning found John Hubert Maloney, 17, guilty of assaulting Mrs. Rita Allore on Sherbrooke street on the night of December 9.

The youth was sentenced to one month in the county jail, to date from December 11.

The story of how the rubbers worn by the accused were used by the police in identifying him as the assailant formed an interesting part of the case.

Mrs. Allore could not postively identify Maloney as the youth who attacked her, although she said that she thought accused was the man.

She said that she had been hurrying home on the night of the assault, and as she reached the intersection of Park, Reid and Sherbrooke streets she noticed a man come down Park street and turn west on Sherbrooke street.

Struck On Head.

She said she ran past this man and then he attacked her from behind, striking her about three times on the side of the head with his open hand, she thought. Mrs. Allore said that she screamed and the youth ran southeasterly across Sherbrooke street and south on Reid street.

The witness said that a coat produced in court looked very much like the one worn by the youth who attacked her.

Constable C. J. McGillen, Sergt. Gordon T. Puffer and Provincial Constable L. A. McClure told of the arrest of Maloney near his home at 148 Park street, and of how the rubbers and boots worn by the accused were taken off him and used to compare with the footprints leading across Sherbrooke street from the scene of the assault and also near the spot where Maloney was arrested. The police evidence was the rubbers of the accused fitted perfectly into the tracks.

There was also evidence that just before he was arrested Maloney had been seen to jump out of a car with another man in front of his Park street home and that a car had been removed from the rear of 133 Rubidge street.

Constable McGillen said that Maloney was drunk when he was arrested.

W. J. Arthur Fair did not call any evidence and Magistrate Langley said that he was satisfied that Maloney had been identified as the man who had assaulted Mrs. Allore.

"It's time these assaults on the streets on Peterborough women were stopped," remarked Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., before sentence was passed.

Another charge against Maloney of theft of the use of an automobile was adjourned until December 27.

Douglas Samuel Fergus, who pleaded guilty to being drunk, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

A charge against Frank A. McLean of obtaining $200 and three $50 Victory Bonds from Charles J. Waldron by false pretenses was enlarged because the Crown was not ready to go on. W. R. Philp appeared for the accused.

By The Canadian Press

DEC. 21, 1940—British Air Ministry announced at least 144 Italian planes destroyed in first 12 days of North African offensive; 13 R.A.F. planes lost, but five pilots saved. British bombers raided Brindisi, Italy.

GETS COMMISSION — Pilot Officer George W. Wilkins, RCAF, who has been overseas since March, has just been given his commission, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Wilkins, 372 Rubidge street, have been notified. Formerly employed in the Nobel plant, he enlisted in June, 1943, and trained as an air gunner. PO. Wilkins is now on operational duty.

No Relief Yet For Farm Water Supplies

The snow of a week ago, filling roads all over the province, features the weekly "crop" report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

A dry fall, followed by early depth of snow, have complicated rural affairs and added to difficulties of labor shortage.

This is Stormont County: "A slight thaw last week helped to replenish the water supply in some of the shallow wells and creeks but the general picture in regard to water is improved very little. In many cases, stock will have to be reduced unless there is some relief from the standpoint of water supply. Well drillers cannot begin to cope with the situation." Then, Prescott-Russell: "Still in very bad need of rain or thaw. The water situation for livestock is very serious." Carleton: "Hundreds of wells have played out and the water situation is serious for many dairy farms."

Poultry marketing day in Lennox-Addington, December 14, reported turkeys 43-45c; chickens, 29 to 30c; geese, 30c, and ducks, 34c.

Most Renfrew farmers have been selling turkeys direct to the consumer at 42c a pound, ungraded. Haldimand relates that a farmer was plowing in his field a week ago Monday. By Wednesday he was still plowing, but it was a traffic struggle through two feet of snow. The Niagara peninsula described that storm as the worst in one hundred years.

Shelter Children Tendered Christmas Party

Children at the Children's Aid Society shelter presented their annual program at the Christmas party given for them by members of the Board of Directors of the Society, Wednesday evening at the shelter.

After the program, for which Alderman James Dutton was chairman, community carol singing was led by Mrs. L. R. Mitchell, accompanied by Miss Mary Jane Wharry with her violin, and Santa Claus paid a visit, to distirbute gifts to the children. He was ushered in with the singing of Jingle Bells, and the children were well remembered, and delighted with their gifts.

Arrangements were in charge of Mrs. J. S. Fanning, and the program was arranged by Mrs. K. Lech. Women of the Board served refreshments at the close of the evening. Mrs. W. J. Gordon was accompanist.

The entertainment was as follows: Recitations, "The Christmas Greetings," by Mary Taylor; "Christmas Telephone" by Lillian Mahaffey, and a "Christmas Story" by Danny Detlor; monologue, by Ernest Detlor; a whistling solo by Misses Mignon Mayneord, and moving pictures, in charge of L. Bird; a short dialogue, "Watermelon Pickle" by Barbara MacMillan and Vera Derrett; a toe ballet by Miss Marine Fletcher; a series of Christmas carols by a group of young women; a step dance by Ernest Detlor, accompanied by Mary Taylor; a solo by Mrs. L. R. Mitchell; recitation by Marion Bond, and a tap dance by Doreen Jewell; an instrumental solo by Mary Robinson; solo by Miss Andrew Fenner; a piano solo by Norma Bond.

Parkhill Group Helps Children

The Parkhill Fellowship Group held its Christmas meeting at the home of Mrs. McBride, and it was decided to donate $5 to the fund for Christmas cheer for British children.

Mrs. McBride read an article on "Save the Children Fund," an appeal for clothing for children in the occupied countries, and it was decided that every member should bring an article of clothing to the next meeting.

Two solos were sung by Mrs. H. Corner, accompanied on the piano by Miss L. Brown, "Bethlehem" and "The Holy Child." Mrs. M. Dollman gave a reading "The Secret of Christmas" and Mrs. G. Cuffe read Brett Hart's poem "Peace on Earth." Mrs. A. Emslie conducted an amusing contest of words.

The group enjoyed a half-hour of carol singing, after which the hostess served lunch. The next meeting wil be held on January 18 at the Dixon House.

YPU Entertains Sunday School

HASTINGS, Dec. 21.—(ENS). — The Young People of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church entertained the Sunday school children and their teachers at a supper served in the basement of the church. The rooms were decorated in green and red in keeping with the Christmas season.

Mr. Davey acted as chairman for the program, which opened with a sing-song of Christmas carols, led by Donald Beamish; instrumental, Madge Jones; recitations by Sam Beamish, Darlene Johnston, Betty Ryder and Shirley Sherwin; duet by Lillian and Phyllis Johnston, entitled "Christmas Joy." A candle service was given by 14 of the senior boys and girls. All joined in singing "Holy Night, Silent Night," followed by "Jingle Bells" when Santa Claus arrived with a parcel for all the children present.

Mr. Davey moved a vote of thanks to all those who helped make the evening such a success, especially to Iden Bonds, Sr., who donated all the oranges for the party.

Vimy Ridge LOBA Names Officers

Visitors from Lakefield and Millbrook were present at the installation of officers for Vimy Ridge L. O.B.A. in the Orange Hall, Brock street. Members of the Eastern Star L.O.B.A. served a turkey supper after the meeting.

King's Own Class Elects Officers

A Christmas party sponsored by the King's Own Bible Class of St. James' United Sunday School was held Wednesday night at the home of Mrs. A. Wilson, Westcott street.

The class was fully represented and the cosy home was decorated throughout in the Christmas theme with Christmas trees, bells and streamers.

Mrs. W. K. Sloane led the devotional service which opened with the class hymn and prayer by the teacher, Miss M. Collins.

Mrs. W. R. Moncrief read the Christmas story from St. Luke's Gospel and the Bronson sisters, of radio fame, sang a trio, 'Listening at the Heart's Door" and "O That Joyful Day," accompanied by Mrs. H. F. Doig, and a reading, "Just A Day At A Time," was given by Mrs. Ernest Kitney.

Both monthly and annual reports were received in the business session, including those by secretary, treasurer, sunshine and visiting conveners. The treasurer's report showed that this active class had raised over $500 during the year. Out of this, generous donations were voted to the board of stewards, Sunday School, the M. and M. fund, Mission Band, W.M.S., Anson Home, the junior department of the Sunday School, British War Victims Fund and the Red Cross.

Elect Officers

Mrs. George Rowe reported for the nominating committee, and the pastor, Rev. F. W. Craik, in words of commendation for the splendid work being done, took charge of the election of officers.

Next year's class executive will be: Teacher, Mrs. E. Kent; assistant teachers, Mrs. G. Aitchison, Miss M. Collins; president, Mrs. Ernest Kitney; 1st vice-president, Mrs. R. Allen; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. W. Prest; secretary, Mrs. Walter Wright; assistant secretary, Mrs. James Goldie; treasurer, Mrs. E. R. Frost; assistant treasurer, Mrs. S. Hanlon.

Class conveners: Sunshine, Mrs. Burnside; sewing, Mrs. Meeks; assistant sewing, Mrs. W. K. Sloane; telephone committee, Mesdames Finnie, Briston, Tate, B. Pitchford; program, Mrs. G. Butcher; devotional, Mrs. W. K. Sloane; envelopes, Mrs. Hess; pianist, Mrs. James Goldie.

Gifts of cups and saucers were presented to both the retiring and the newly-elected teachers, Miss M. Collins and Mrs. E. Kent on behalf of the class by Mrs. E. Kitney and Mrs. Burnside.

Mrs. Butcher presented her entertaining program in which Miss Loretta McDougall sang the solos, "Deep River" and "The Song Divine." All joined in singing Christmas carols, accompanied by Mrs. Doig.

Distributing the gifts from the Christmas tree, Ken Meredith was a realistic Santa Claus providing much merriment. The social committee served refreshments and a vote of thanks was tendered to the hostess and to all assisting by Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Meeks.

DeLaval Gives Treat To All Children

As their annual Christmas treat, the De Laval Athletic Association distributed Christmas gifts to children of all members of the association, up to the age of 14 years. The detail of this work was supervised by the zone captains, assisted by Misses Mary Walker and Mildren McIntyre, who took charge of the purchasing of the gifts.

Another part of the Christmas entertainment sponsored by the association was a Christmas bowling tournament at the Duffus bowling alley. Arrangements for the evening were under the direction of the bowling committee: Misses Hazel McMasters and Pauline Shaughnessy, and Joe Gatfield, Stan Ivison and Ivan Pearson.

Winners were as follows: Ladies' high single, Miss B. Houlihan; ladies' high two, Miss V. Harris; men's high single, J. O'Brien; men's high two, H. Gordon. A draw for turkeys and chickens was also conducted, resulting as follows: Turkeys won by Miss Pauline Shaughnessy and Ross Jordan; chickens won by P. Johnson and H. Lee.

Nurse Shortage Improved Some

TORONTO, Dec. 21 —(CP)—Bart Sullivan, Ontario regional superintendent for the Unemployment Insurance Commission, said Tuesday there is still a shortage of nurses in Ontario but the situation has improved greatly since last June.

A Dominion-wide survey six months ago showed a shortage of 1,856 graduate nurses, 881 in Ontario. Ontario mental hospitals needed 204, sanitario 12 and general hospitals 556.

"Since June there has been a marked improvement in the situation," said Mr. Sullivan. "This has been aided by graduate nurse homemakers who, in large numbers, have given four or five hours daily or three or four days a week in floor-duty nursing. Members of the community graduate nurses registries which operate under the Registered Nurses Association of Ontario, undertook to give one or two months to general floor duty in general hospitals and sanitaria. From this group of private nurses, many have taken regular staff positions for general duty."

The department of labor had established regulations to encourage women trained as nurses to leave their present jobs and return to nursing in hospitals for the duration of the emergency. At present the only locality with a surplus of nurses is Windsor, he said. Selective service made a special effort to interest some of these in taking positions elsewhere and as a result several went to posts throughout the province.

Instal Officers Of Eastern Star

The following officers of the Order of the Eastern Star, 161, were installed in the Chapter Room recently: Worthy Matron, Mrs. E. Monk; Worthy Patron, Robert Hendry. Other officers are: Mrs. A. Spencley, Robert Paris, Miss Rose Sexsmith, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. R. Hendry, Mrs. W. Wheeler, Mrs. H. Jocelyn, Mrs. P. D. Windrim, Mrs. W. A. Greenslade, Miss Hazel Rennie, Mrs. H. Green, Miss Margaret Martin, Miss Frances Rosenburgh, Mrs. N. Munro, Mrs. G. Todd and Mrs. E. Newton.

A social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting and a draw was made for the quilt on which tickets had been sold, with proceeds to be used for the minesweepers and war charities. Mrs. W. J. Gould, 425 Stewart Street, formerly of Western Canada, was the winner.

QUESTION: I make a chicken pie that is good, but doesn't look very professional. I was never taught to make a chicken pie, and would like some good instructions from you. I am going to make either a chicken or a turkey pie from leftover chicken or turkey for the dinner after Christmas Day, so please be sure you print it. Thanks for past help.—Madge Scott.

ANSWER: One 4-lb. fowl, 1 sliced carrot, 1 stalk celery, 1 sprig of parsley, 1 slice onion, 1 teaspoon of salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, plain or puff paste, 4 tablespoons flour, ½ lb. sliced sauteed mushrooms. Wipe dressed fowl with cold, damp cloth. Put in pan which has cover and cover fowl with cold water. Add the vegetables and bring to the boiling point. Reduce heat, cover, and let simmer until fowl is tender, about 3 hours. Season with salt and pepper when half done. Remove fowl from liquid, and as soon as cool enough to handle remove skin and bones, keeping the meat in as large pieces as possible. Line sides of baking dish with plain paste. Put in pieces of chicken. Reduce chicken stock to 3 cups by boiling. Skim off fat and strain. Mix flour with cold water to make a paste, and stir into stock, until boiling. Add stock and mushrooms to chicken. Cover with plain or puff paste. Bake at 450 degrees Fahr. for about 15 to 20 minutes.

NOTE. — To make chicken pie from cold cooked chicken, put cold chicken in pastry lined pan, pour over mushrooms and liquid made from diluted leftover gravy, and put on top as above. You may need additional salt and pepper.

QUESTION: You printed a recipe for making cranberry sauce by boiling the cranberries in a sugar syrup. Of course I've lost the clipping and hope I'm in time for you to print your way of doing it before Christmas. If it is not asking too much I want a good chicken salad recipe, too.—"Oh, Min."

ANSWER: I was looking through my files this week, and found a letter from you dated September, 1937. Welcome back.

Cranberry Sauce.

One and three-quarters cups each granulated sugar and water, 1 quart cranberries. Bring sugar and water to boiling point. Add washed and picked-over cranberries and let boil gently uncovered, until one or two of the cranberries burst their skins, then immediately remove from heat and cool.

Chicken Salad.

To 3 cups chicken chopped in ¼ to ½ inch cubes, add 2½ cups very finely chopped white celery. Season with salt and pepper and marinate in French Dressing (1 cup oil, 3 tablespoons vinegar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon sugar, ⅛ teaspoon each pepper and paprika) for one hour in refrigerator. Drain well. Moisten generously with mayonnaise (1 egg yolk, 2 tablespoons of vinegar, ¼ teaspoon mustard, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 cup salad oil—add oil to first five ingredients by teaspoons while beating) and mound in salad dish, or pile on individual plates on well-cupped pale lettuce leaves. Little mounds of cranberry jelly are a nice garnish this month.

Good additions to the above chicken salad are, capers, sliced hard-cooked egg, radishes, walnuts, olives—either in the salad or used as a garnish.

DEB DANCE DRESS — Some of the most attractive and appealing frocks of the season are those designed for girls of deb age for holiday dances. Boue Soeurs designed this delightful dance dress, making it of taffeta, with slim bodice and full skirt which has an unlifted hem finished with ruching. A white lace collar gives an extra demure touch to the bow-finished neckline.—By Alice Alden.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Today we have some recipes that are oh so good around this season of the year. If you like having a change for your family at meal times try all the following recipes.

Lemon Raisin Pie.

Cup raisins, cup water, tablespoon butter. Boil 15 or 20 minutes. Add yolk of one egg, a small cup of sugar, juice and grated rind of a lemon, tablespoon cornstarch, or more if necessary, ⅛ grated nutmeg. Have pastry ready and fill with mixture. Beat white of egg, pour over top and brown.

Orange Pudding.

Pare and cut fine 3 oranges, sprinkle over them 2-3 cup of sugar. Make a boiled custard by stirring one teaspoon cornstarch wet with cold milk, into one cup of boiling milk. When it has cooked a few minutes, stir in the yolks of two eggs, well beaten with two tablespoons sugar. Pour this custard over the oranges, make a merinque of the white of the egg, spread over top and brown slightly in the oven. Cool and serve.

Lemon Biscuits.

2 eggs beaten separately, 2 cups sweet milk, 2½ cups sugar, 1½ cups butter,* 5 cents worth oil of lemon, 5 cents worth baking ammonia, flour to make dough as stiff as for cookies. Cut in squares and bake in a hot oven. Be sure to dissolve ammonia in either hot water or milk.

Baked Apples.

12 apples, cored. Make a filling of ½ lb. dates, ½ cup sugar, put on stove and boil together. Add ½ cup chopped nuts. Fill the centre of apples with above filling, put in the oven and bake. When ready, serve with whipped cream.

Christmas Dinner in 1944 Best Meal of the Year

By MARY MOORE

A super poulterer—a gentleman whose knowledge of the turkey market should be the last word—says it is an understatement to say that turkeys are scarce.

So, basing my choice on his word, I am giving in—and placing one chicken and one duck in the place of honour on our Cookery Page Christmas Dinner Menu.

Doesn't it seem luxurious, and affluent and interesting? Father can say "light or dark meat, Dear, or duck,—or all?"

The stuffings are important for both, because I want you to make them with a delicious touch. Also to serve just the right accompaniment for each.

Christmas Dinner 1944

Fresh fruit Cocktail sherry-flavored
Cream of Mushroom Soup
Roast Chicken and Roast Duck Stuffed
Giblet Gravy Pan Baked Apples
Apple Jelly Duchess Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower with Parsley
Avocada and Head Lettuce Salad with French Dressing made with Lemon Juice
Steamed Almond and Raisin Pudding Foamy Sauce
Salted Assorted Nuts Mints
Black Coffee

The Fruit Cocktail

Make a syrup of ¼ cup sugar and 1-3 cup water and boil 1 minute. Add ½ cup sherry. Chill. Cut prepared fruits into this: Seeded, halved grapes, sections of orange free of membrane, sections of grapefruit free of membrane maraschino cherries.

Cream of Mushroom Soup

Three or four tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ¼ to ¾ teaspoon salt, shake of pepper, 1 teaspoon grated onion, ½ lb. fresh mushrooms, 2 cups whole milk, or 1 cup whole milk and 1 cup cream. Saute the washed and sliced mushrooms and prepared onions in the butter for 5 minutes stirring. Add the flour, and stir to blend. Add the salt and pepper and preheated milk and cream, and stir until thick. Keep hot in top of double boiler. The appearance of mushroom soup is improved by the addition of finely chopped pimiento and parsley just before serving.

Stuffing For Duck (Peanut—highly recommended)

Three cups soft bread crumbs, ¾ cup chopped peanuts, ½ teaspoon onion juice, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 2 tablespoons butter or cooking oil, ½ cup meat stock or water. Mix crumbs and peanuts. Add onion juice, salt, pepper and parsley. Moisten with butter which should be melted in hot stock or water. Mix well.

Stuffing For Chicken (Celery)

Two cups toast crumbs, 1 cup diced celery, 1 small onion, minced, 4 tablespoons melted fat, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspooon pepper, ¼ teaspoon sage. Toast bread and crumble it into small pieces. Fry celery and onion gently in fat for a few minutes. Add to crumbs and add seasoning. A little hot water is needed to mix it lightly.

Baked Apples

These may be roasted in pan with duck. Do not sweeten them. Peel them 1-3 way down from top, and baste when you baste duck.

Select potatoes of uniform size, wash, pare and let stand in cold water 1 hour. Boil in salted water water until tender; drain off all water and force through potato ricer. To 3 cups hot riced potatoes add 2 tablespoons butter or fat, 1 teaspoon salt, few grains paprika, and the beaten yolks 3 eggs. Force through pastry bag into different shapes if desired, or form into mounds and brush with beaten yolk diluted with 1 tablespoon water. Bake on pan in oven of 350 degrees Fahr. or until delicately browned.

The Celery, the Avocado Salad and the French Dressing you know how to do, or can easily find out.

Steamed Almond and Raisin Pudding

Three tablespoons shortening, 2 cups flour, ¼ teaspoon soda, ½ teaspoan mace or nutmeg, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, ¾ cup corn syrup, ⅛ lb. blanched almonds, ½ lb. sultana raisins. Melt shortening. Sift flour, measure, add dry ingredients and sift again. Mix syrup and milk and add to dry ingredients. Add shortening. Fold in nuts and raisins. Pour into greased mould, cover, and bake in moderate oven of 325 deg. Fahr. 2 hours or steam 3 hours. Serve with

Foamy Sauce

One-quarter cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 cup milk, 1 egg yolk and cook over hot milk until thick. Add flavoring and nutmeg. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. This sauce must be served as soon as made to be at its best.

Happy cooking and a Merry Christmas!

WHAT IS A GOOD WIFE MADE OF?

Rubber, Sugar, Steel, Soap, Diesel Engine, Contribute to Women's Stamina.

IF, according to the old nursery rhyme, little girls are made of sugar and spice and everything nice, what are good wives and mothers made of? Well, of course, they appear to be constructed of flesh and blood, even as the millrun of humanity is, but when I perceive the marvels they perform, I often wonder if the Creator didn't throw in a lot of extra material when He made them that enables them to carry on with their jobs.

How else, for instance, could a wife survive all of the many jolts of marriage unless she was about 90 per cent rubber and able to snap back after finding out that she was not united to a romantic hero but to a plain he-man, who was more stomach than heart and who made her the stand-in or all of his temper and grouches?

And what, except the God-given rubber in a woman, enables the one who is married to a philanderer to forgive him time after time and erase from her memory his sidestepping when he promises never to look at another cutie again or to hire a secretary under 70?

Family Bumper

And, furthermore, isn't it the preordained lot of every woman to be the bumper in her family who stands between the children and papa, and the little dears who fight with each other like the Kilkenny cats, and take all the hard knocks? And could any constitution stand that that didn't have the resilience of rubber.

Every good wife and mother has also concealed about her person a backbone that is made of chilled steel, though her husband and children may never even suspect it. The iron hand in the velvet glove is Mother's. She keeps a grip on her youngsters that they cannot break and holds them in the right road until they develop into fine men and women. And many a weak man owes his success to his wife lending him her backbone to brace him up.

And who can doubt that Providence mercifully has provided wives and mothers with trick eyes that enable them to see what they want to see in their husbands and children and make them blind as bats to faults and foibles that they would rather die then recognize?

Sugar Not Rationed Here

And thank the Lord, sugar wasn't rationed when the recipe for making wives and mothers was devised, so that is why the world is still blessed with sweet women who go on loving the unlovable, forgiving the unforgiveable, helping the shiftless, rocking babies to sleep and ministering to the old and cranky with a patience that never fails. How so many women manage to keep sweet, instead of being turned into dill pickles by the hardships and injustices they have to bear, is one of the miracles that can never be explained. We can only be grateful for it.

In addition to the sugar in women, there is a lot of good soft soap that goes into the making of every successful one, and that is another thing for which we have to be thankful. For it is the diplomatic women who rub our fur the right way, who soothe our vanity, who take the rough edges off of life and keep domesticity running smoothly.

And, not the least important of all, every good wife and mother has a Diesel engine in her makeup, for how else could a frail little woman be a wife, mother, cook, laundress, caterer, seamstress, sick nurse run the family budget, write the family letters, keep up the family social position, belong to clubs and yet have time to play bridge in the afternoon?

A SET FASHION—Match mates have it all their own way this season, which finds hats teamed up with bags or gloves, belts with shoes and other combinations. Robert Dudley is responsible for this handsome and striking duo of hat and gloves. That hat, a skilfully draped turban is in brown and white "spotted-cow" ribbon with a large bow trim in back, a favorite device with this designer to give height. Gloves are of suede and matching ribbon. He has created several glove and hat sets, all interesting.—By Alice Alden.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 22

WHILE this is presaged to be an exceedingly lively and exciting day, yet the auguries are not considered propitious or promising. There are many loopholes for errors, mistakes, poor judgment and rash or tricky personal behavior. These may be strengthened by outside forces spelling treacherous, aggravating, deceitful and sinister situations that may incite to unreasonable, extravagant, indulgent and other reckless acts running counter to safety, popularity with those in high places and in intimate relationships. A nervous and high-tensioned state of health and mind may invite loss and ill favor.

Birthday Signs

Those whose birthday it is may experience a year of high pressure, excitement and agitation, with things moving at high tempo, but all probably unprofitable and regrettable, since difficult, tricky, and deceitful circumstances may warp the judgment, react on the nerves and health and culminate in reckless, indulgent, extravagant and quarrelsome conduct, with regrettable friction and inharmony with superiors, elders and others in close relations. Unless firm restraints, straightforward activities and sound sense be used, there are ominous denouements in sight.

A child born on this day, although enterprising and energetic, may be disposed to extravagance, overdoing in finances and personal conduct, with tendencies toward misrepresentation and expediency rather than high principle, unless given sound early training and discipline.

Fellow Employees Honor Maj. Hamilton

Major Archie Hamilton, recently invalided back from overseas, was entertained at a dinner at the Kawartha Club Monday as a gesture of welcome home. The hosts were the G. Whitaker Company and their employees. All the male employees of the firm were guests and 27 persons sat down to the dinner which was presided over by Gordon Monkman. The latter in a neat speech welcomed Major Hamilton home and made a presentation to him. Major Hamilton's foot is still in a cast and he still has to use crutches but he is in good physical condition. He is spending a month's leave here after which he will report to Kingston.

Obituaries

MISS MARY JANE BURKE.

The funeral of the late Miss Mary Jane Burke was held from her residence, 103 Parkhill Road on Tuesday, to St. Peter's Cathedral where High Mass was offered at 9 o'clock by Rev. F. A. Marrocco.

During the time her remains rested at her late residence, many came to express their sympathy to her bereaved family and give spiritual offerings.

Casket bearers were Edward Curtis, Edward Finn, Vernon O'[illegible]te, John Lynch, D. J. Burke and [illegible] Burke.

The remains were placed in the vault at St. Peter's Cemetery and interment took place on Wednesday morning, Rev. Father Marrocco reciting the burial prayers.

ERNEST HENRY CROFTS.

A veteran of the last war, Ernest Henry Crofts, died Wednesday at his home, 377 Mark street. He was born in England fifty-two years ago, son of Eli Crofts and his wife, Alice Fielding. He had lived in Peterborough thirty-two years, and for more than thirty years was employed at the Quaker Oats Company.

Mr. Crofts was ill nearly a year and a half, and it was believed that his service in the Great War was a contributing factor of his decline in health. He enlisted in Peterborough with the 8th Canadian Mounted Rifles in 1915, with whom he went overseas. In his later years he was a member of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion. Mr. Crofts was a member of St. Luke's Anglican Church.

He is survived by his mother in this city; three brothers, Bert of this city, William of Toronto, and Hubert of Rochester, N.Y.; also by his stepbrother, Alfred Davies, and stepsisters, Mrs. Wm. Hales and Mrs. Charles Shannon of Peterborough, and Mrs. Reg Field of London, England, and his half-sister, Mrs. John Wolstenholme of Peterborough.

The funeral will take place Saturday at 2.30 p.m. from the funeral home of A. Comstock and Sons, Water street, to the Little Lake Cemetery. Rev. A. J. Arthur will conduct the service.

SCOTS BACK TO SCOTCH.

STONEHAVEN, Scotland —(CP) —Ten men produced 5,000 gallons of whiskey at a Stonehaven distillery one week recently, the first production in Scotland since early in the war. It may be sold to the public in 1947.

Canada To Sell 180,000,000 Eggs To Britain

OTTAWA, Dec. 21.—(CP).—Agriculture Department officials said today that next fall Canada hopes to provide the United Kingdom with 180 million fresh eggs, in what used to be the season when Canadians themselves were drawing on storage stocks.

They estimated that surplus 1944 fall production to be bought by the Special Production Board will be more than 70 million eggs. They termed "one of Canada's most notable agricultural achievements of the war" the production increases in seasons of low production in the past.

These increases have made Canadian consumers independent of storage eggs, and none has been stored for domestic consumption for four years.

"In addition to meeting all domestic requirements during the deficiency period, and these are much greater now than in the prewar days owing to improved quality and a more nearly uniform price throughout the year, Canadian producers will produce a surplus between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31 in excess of 200,000 cases (of 30 dozen each)," an official said.

"These contain a proportion of pullets and grade 'B,' but the indisputable evidence is there that, with but little additional effort, Canada could produce a substantial surplus for export to Britain in the fall."

The department is suggesting that earlier and better-grown pullets and summer moulted yearlings are the keys to enlarged fall production of eggs. The United Kingdom is most anxious for enlarged egg supplies from Canada in the fall season.

"We are pointing out that the program for enlarged fall production next year means earlier chicks, not more chicks," an official said.

With more and more shell eggs being sent to the United Kingdom, fast boats are carrying a substantial part of the Canadian egg exports and arrangements are being sought to further facilitate shipments.

Rudolph Hess Peculiar Has 30 Guards

LONDON, Dec. 21 (CP) — The London News Chronicle said today that Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy who flew to Britain in 1941 with a purported peace bid, has a permanent guard of nearly 30 officers and men, and that his "trying moods," including "towering rages," make guarding him "a very trying task."

The newspaper's account was publisher a few hours after the Press Association British News Service, had cancelled a story reporting that Hess was suffering from frequent 'brainstorms," and that during one he had leaped over a banister of his prison and suffered a fractured leg.

The news agency said it was informed by the directorate of public relations at the War Office "that there is not a word of truth in the report Hess broke a leg during a recent brainstorm."

The News Chronicle, in a story datelined "A West Country Town," said Hitler's former deputy is "only really happy and at peace" when he visits a near-by ruined Norman castle.

The castle custodian, Mrs. Emily Jones, was quoted as saying on his first visit Hess was "particularly interested in the slits for bow and cross-bow fire."

Hess lived in a large brick bungalow in the grounds of a building erected as a mental hospital and taken over as an ordinary hospital when the war started, the paper said.

"His health varies considerably," the News Chronicle added. "At times he is fit enough, but he has long periods of intense depressions, punctuated by furious outbursts about trivial things."

The Daily Mirror in a front-box item asked: "What is the new mystery of Rudolf Hess?" It said for some time he was kept in an apartment in the Tower of London, but now has been removed to the country.

It mentioned the story issued and subsequently cancelled by the Press Association, and asked: "Something started it all. What is the explanation?"

Bridgenorth School Elects 1945 Officers

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 21—(ENS) —The annual meeting of the Bridgenorth United Church Sunday School was held recently at the parsonage. The reports showed that 1944 has been a very successful year for the school.

The teachers and officers elected for next year are: Superintendent, W. A. Sidey; assistant Supt. E. Ball; teachers, Mrs. E. Ball, Mrs. Wm. Robinson, Mrs. Johnson, Mrs. Sampson, Olive Sidey, Mr. Ball, and Mr. Sidey; assistant teachers, Mrs. Petterson and Mrs. Hardill; secretary, K. Robinson; treasurer, Mr. Ball; cradle roll superintendent, Mrs. Earl Nicholls; home department superintendent, Miss L. Udy; missionary superintendent, Mrs. Wm. Robinson; temperance superintendent, Olive Sidey; pianist, D. Johnson; assistant, Mrs. Johnson.

Committed For Trial

TORONTO, Dec. 21.—(CP).—Mrs. Vivian Hodge yesterday was committed for trial on a charge of manslaughter in the deaths of two boys from nearby Thornhill. The boys—10 year old Norris Codo and nine year old Henry Wolfreys—were killed when struck by a car as they were cycling, last Nov. 22.

Wind Saves Village

SHELBURNE, Dec. 21.—(CP).—A strong west wind yesterday probably saved the village of Honeywood, 12 miles north of here, from destruction as fire destroyed one home and damaged two others. The village, isolated by snow-blocked roads, could not be reached by fire-fighting equipment from nearby communities.

Sgmn. James Devlin Injured In Italy

William G. Devlin, 190 Charlotte street, has been notified that his brother, Sgmn. James Devlin of the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals, has been injured in action. He is suffering from injuries to the right hand and head.

Sgmn. Devlin has been overseas more than two years and has been serving in the Italian war zone. His cousin, Pte. Joseph Devlin, Cricket Place, who has been wounded twice, is also in Italy.

Post Office Sets New Mail Record

Bumper loads of mail in 1944 have constituted a record for the Peterborough Post Office, Charles Lacheur, postmaste, said to-day. Increased flow of mail to members of the armed forces scattered all over the world has contributed to the new high, and Christmas mail in particular has been extremely heavy this year.

Letters, cards and parcels are moving well, Mr. Lacheur said, and this is because the people of Peterborough have shown admirable co-operation with the postal workers by mailing before deadline dates, and clearly and correctly addressing mail.

A New Trial

HAMILTON, Dec. 21.— (CP). — Roderick McIntyre, 20 year old soldier from Port Colborne, Ont., will come before the courts here next month for a sixth time on a charge of rape as result of the Supreme Court of Canada granting him a new trial.

A COUP AT THE START

MOST OF the fancy plays which are known by fancy names come near the end of a hand, or else somewhere in the middle. But it is altogether possible for them, or at least most of them, to be employed on the very first trick. That is true of squeezes, and the devices known as coups of one kind or another. Even the principle of the Deschapelles Coup can be applied then—deliberately sacrificing an honor by its lead from your own hand in order to build a later entry into your partner's.

North: ♠ A 9 3; ♥ 9 7 5 4; ♦ 7 5; ♣ 9 8 5 2

West: ♠ K J 10 8 7 2; ♥ Q J 10; ♦ A 2; ♣ K 3

East: ♠ Q 6 5 4; ♥ 8 6 3 2; ♦ 3; ♣ Q 7 6 4

South: ♠ None; ♥ A K; ♦ K Q J 10 9 8 6 4; ♣ A J 10

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 5 ♦ | | | |

That bidding was merely sketched on to show how South might get into 5-Diamonds, the contract in which he finds himself on this problem deal created by Carlton Russell, contract bridge entrepreneur of St. Petersburg, Fla. Giving only two clues—the contract and that on both sides were "foxes," Mr. Russell offered prizes for the best answers to: "Can the contract be made against the best or any defense? Name the cards played to tricks one, two, three and four."

With ability to win the first trump trick, West leads the club K. If South takes that and leads a trump, West wins, puts in East with the club Q, then ruffs the returned club. West's lead is really a try at the Deschapelles Coup, but South, playing the J after East signals with the 7, virtually turns it into a Bath Coup, which it would be if West also had the Q.

Stuck with the lead, West realizing that if East's signal betokened the A, there is no hurry, and if it indicated the Q he would not want to put it under the axe, switches to his heart Q. South takes that and leads the diamond 4. West, knowing that if East can't beat this, declarer can get in dummy to use the spade A for a discard or finesse clubs, or both, plays low. The 5 wins, spade A gives the club discard, and South is safe.

Keene News

Special Christmas service will be held in the United church next Sunday at 11 a.m. and the annual candle light service at 7.30. At the evening service there will be a candle lighting processional with the young people providing an interesting reading and dramatizing the Christmas story.

"The Value of Christian Missions" was the topic of sermon at the United church Sunday, using the text, "They made known abroad the saying that was told them." A progressive Christian church is one that is missionary minded, said the Rev. G. Murray, like the statement of Shakespeare, "It blesses those who give and those who receive." The school, universities, hospitals, as well as the churches in Canada are the product of Christian missions, also many charitable institutions. A duet was sung by Miss Bryce and Mrs. A. Rennie with Staff Sergt. D. F. Murray at the organ.

During the Christmas season the Blood Donor Clinic in Peterborough will be open only on the mornings of December 27 and January 3. Otonabee has exceeded the 100 mark, and one donor has given his 10th donation.

PATCHED UP HEART—One of the most unusual surgical operations performed since D-Day on the Western front was described by Lieut.-Col. Stuart Welch (above), of Albany, N.Y., who wielded the scalpel. Holes were torn in the heart muscles of a U.S. captain and the organ was hanging from the pericardium when the patient went under the knife. The heart lining also had been grazed by shell fragments and a lung perforated. After removing the shell splinters, Col. Welch sutured the heart and its lining and the wounded officer showed almost immediate recovery. The damaged heart was exposed for 90 minutes during the operation.

Township Schools Present Concert

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 21—(ENS)—A musical concert was presented by the schools of South Monaghan Monday night in the basement of the Anglican Church, under the direction of Mr. Dolan, music teacher for the township schools. Harry Campbell acted as chairman for the evening.

Because of snow-filled roads, two of the schools, known as Bensfort and The Brick, were unable to be present, while Donaldson's, Lakeview and Baillieboro junior and senior rooms gave a worth-while program of choruses and carols. Some individual numbers were a piano duet by Marilyn and Velma Barnard; a solo, "White Christmas," by Grace Thornhill; a recitation, "The Unwise Man," by John Malcolm; a solo, "I Had a Girl Named Annabelle," by Kenneth Hall; a drill by Lakeview school, and a rythmn band by the juniors of all three schools.

Mr. Charleton, inspector of schools, spoke a few words of welcome and appreciation, and also spoke briefly on the subjects of "Township School Areas," "Farm Forums" and "The Disadvantage of the Small School of Six or Seven Pupils."

Bridgenorth Has Christmas Party

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 21—(ENS)—The W.M.S. were the guests of the Mission Band on Sunday afternoon at a Christmas party held in the basement of the United Church.

The president, Majory Forsythe, led the devotional period, and welcomed the mothers, and the W.M.S. members. The program consisted of reading, "Let Us Keep Christmas," by the leader, Mrs. Edmison; "Away in a Manger" sung by Nancy Heard; "Christmas Celebration in China," read by Doris Fowler; Christmas recitation by Sally Ann Hartman; "A Merry Christmas" read by Doris Jopling; "While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks By Night" sung by Margaret Nicholls; piano duet by Doris Fowler and Doris Jopling; and all the children joined in the short play, "Spirit of the Christmas Tree."

After a short business period Mrs. Hanscome of Peterborough told the children in a very interesting manner the importance of Mission Band Work. Mrs. J. Johnson, president of the W.M.S. voiced the thanks of the society.

A very tasty and bountiful tea was served. Mrs. M. Fowler and Mrs. Wallace Nicholls assisted Mrs. Edmision; Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Pettersone poured tea; and the older girls of the band served.

Then Santa Claus arrived and distributed presents and bags of goodies. Donna Doughty made a farewell speech.

Mrs. A. Edmison was the recipient of a beautiful pair of gold ear rings, a gift from the band.

Admiral Fraser Commands Powerful Fleet

PEARL HARBOR, Dec. 21 (AP)—Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser, commander-in-chief of the new British Pacific Fleet, conferred today with Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, commander of the United States Pacific Fleet, on plans to extend the sea and air blockade of Japan.

The conferences began some days ago but just have been disclosed. It recently was reported from Melbourne that Sir Bruce's fleet alone was capable of challenging the entire Japanese fleet.

Felt Tired, Nervous, Rundown Back Ached; Stomach Rebelled

Is Delighted With Improvement in Health and Recommends Syntona To All Who Suffer Similarly — Says Stomach Felt Better From First Few Boxes — then Nerves Relaxed and Pains Went Away.

"There has been such a definite improvement in my health since I've been taking Syntona that I will be only too glad to have others know about this medicine," said Mrs. Wesley Harrison, 151 Tragina Avenue North, Hamilton, in a recent report:

"In the last year I was troubled constantly with a dull ache in my back and, no matter what I tried, I couldn't get rid of it. I had become rundown, my nerves were bad, and I couldn't sleep, so I felt tired and worn-out right from the beginning of each day. My appetite wasn't very good and what little food I did eat just seemed to sour in my stomach and cause gas, bloat and cramps I was subject to frequent headaches and I often felt light-headed and dizzy.

"My husband was using Syntona, and it seemed to be helping him, so I decided to take some, too, and it helped my stomach right from the first few doses. Now after a few weeks, I am feeling ever so much better. My nerves are relaxed and the pains have gone from my back so I can get a good night's sleep and ready for the day's work. I am free of those dizzy spells and headaches and I can now enjoy my meals without all that gas and indigestion."

Syntona produces these results without the aid of harsh drugs or depressors. It is made only from the pure extracts of herbs, roots, and barks that have long been known for their medicinal value. Make up your mind to take Syntona yourself. See how much better you can be feeling in just a short time.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Shock Troops Drive Deep In Slovakia

Russians Resume Danube Drive At Lake Balaton

MOSCOW, Dec. 22 (AP)—Russian shock troops wedged deeper into southern Slovakia today while new operations by two powerful Russian Army groups threatened to seal off beleaguered Budapest from the west.

Units of Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukraine Army drove to within 14 miles east of the big Slovak rail city of Losonc (Lucenec), seizing 30 more localities, including the important communications centre of Rimaszombat, on the Kassa-Losonc highway.

Fall of Rimaszombat opened an important gateway into the Matra mountains and brought relief within sight for an isolated force of Slovak Patriots estimated at 25,000.

The Germans admitted alarm over the resumption of Soviet pressure on the west side of the Danube in the vitally strategic zone between Budapest and Lake Balatan, where Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 3rd Ukraine Army paused early this month to build up greater striking power.

The new onslaught by Tolbukhin's forces, already linked with elements of the 2nd Ukraine Army, would be pointed to blast through the German flank riveted on positions southwest of the Hungarian capital and on the fortress city of Szekesfehervar.

At Great Bend

The Germans also confessed anxiety over Red Army attacks in the vicinity of the Great Bend of the Danube northwest of Budapest, where the river veers west toward Austria.

(Berlin announced yesterday that 100,000 Soviet troops had hacked out gains on a 40-mile front southwest of Budapest in a new offensive aimed at taking the Hungarian capital from the rear and opening the most direct invasion route to Vienna. The Nazis said Szekesfehervar already was menaced.)

In northern Hungary, other units of Malinovsky's troops captured 50 localities on a winding 50-mile front southeast of Losonc, gaining up to 12 miles from previously-reported positions.

They freed a railway spur of the Moskolc-Losnoc line and seized part

Rush Seaman Around World

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.—(CP). — Leading Seaman Leonard Williams of Birmingham, England, arrived in San Diego, California, today and was transferred immediately to a Montreal-bound plane where he will make connections for the United Kingdom and his home where his wife and two children are gravely ill.

Special passage was arranged at Sydney, Australia, for Williams aboard the Commando, Liberator AL-504 of the R.A.F. transport command, now on a round-the-world flight when naval officials there produced a priority radio signal dispatched an hour earlier by the British Admiralty at London instructing that Williams' passage home be arranged by the quickest possible means.

Williams was driven to the airport at Sydney in the car of the admiral commanding, a few minutes before the Commando left for New Zealand and North America. Thus he will be with his stricken family in England within a few days, whereas the sea voyage in a fast ship from Australia would have taken more than six weeks.

CANUCKS GO INTO ACTION ON THE DUTCH FRONT — Canadian assault troops leap out of their truck to go into action on the Dutch front.

Gen. Foster Succeeds Vokes

ROME, Dec. 22—(CP).—The hard-hitting 1st Canadian Division, now in the Italian front line, got a new commander today, Maj.-Gen. Harry Wickshire Foster of Winnipeg and Picton, Ont., in the latest of a series of shifts of Canadian generals between the Italian and the Western fronts. The announcement that Gen. Foster, who led the Canadian expedition to Kiska in the Aleutians in 1943, had succeeded the colorful Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes of Winnipeg and Ottawa, gave no indication of Gen. Vokes' new post but it was considered likely he had taken command of a division in Western Europe.

This new line-up in the Canadian high command came just two weeks after defence headquarters in Ottawa announced that Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, 41, of London, Ont., had succeeded Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. (Tommy) Burns of Ottawa and Westmount, Que., as commander of the 1st Canadian Corps in Italy.

Under that move, Gen. Burns relinquished the acting rank of Lieutenant-General he held while corps commander and became general officer commanding Canadian lines of communication and officer-in-charge of the Canadian section, 1st Echelon, British 21st Army Group in Northwest Europe.

Promoted.

It was announced last October 21 that the 42-year-old Gen. Foster was commanding a formation of the 1st Canadian Army in Northwest Europe, the announcement coming a few weeks after his promotion to Major-General was announced.

Gen. Foster led a Western brigade of the Canadian 3rd Division in the immediate post-invasion action. He commanded the Westerners during the assault of Courseulles-sur-Mer on the Normandy beaches and was the brigadier singled out by Field Marshal Montgomery, 21st Army Group commander, for special praise for the stand the brigade made at Bretteville and on the Caen-Bayeux highway during the first week of the Normandy campaign.

Gen. Foster, a Permanent Force officer, was born in Halifax, a son of the late Maj.-Gen. G. L. Foster, Director-General of Medical Services in the Canadian Forces overseas during the First Great

Japanese Given Many Poundings

SAIPAN, Marianas Islands, Dec. 22 (AP)—(via Navy Radio)—A sizeable force of B-29s bombed Nagoya, Japan for the third time in 10 days today.

Returning to the huge aircraft manufacturing centre, the first Superfortresses over the city bombed through an overcast in the early afternoon.

Other formations kept coming over the target area for 2½ hours.

Since December 13th's attack on Hatsudoki factor of the Mitsubishi aircraft works, more than 670,000 square feet of its roofage has been burned off. Today's raid may have been designed to finish off the target.

20,000 Greek Rebels Mass Major Battle Likely Soon

By STEPHEN BARBER—Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Dec. 22—(AP).—An ELAS army 15,000 to 20,000 strong was reported today to be moving in on territory held by Rightest guerillas of Gen. Napoleon Zervas' EDES in strife-torn Greece. Zervas informed British authorities that the Leftist ELAS forces already had entered his territory in Epirus and were massing on Dhriskos ridge, overlooking the town of Yanina, which has been his headquarters.

The British said Zervas charged that Albanians were among the force threatening the EDES territory.

Evacuation of 3,000 ELAS prisoners by sea to an undisclosed destination was reported earlier by British headquarters while Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie's troops were mopping up the port of Piraeus.

British troops were reported extending the area under control in southern Athens against light resistance.

Another 1,000 E.L.A.S. prisoners remained under guard. British headquarters emphasized that the total of 4,000 military captives included only those taken in battle.

Greek police, under British supervision, were weeding out some civilians from additional groups of prisoners.

Unloading operations at the port of Piraeus started again. British headquarters said 700 union stevedores were employed and an official added that "numberless" applicants volunteered to help Tommies unload.

Recruiting for the Papandreou government's new national militia commenced in Piraeus this morning. Officials said 2,000 enlistments were anticipated.

These developments came as a new assault landing was carried out across the main harbor on western Piraeus and reinforced troops swept through the dockyards.

Stiff resistance developed from E.L.A.S. strongpoints in the north-

Reds Promise Eastern Attack

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(AP).—Soviet Russia has promised to meet the rising Allied demand for Red army action by hurling some three army groups against the Germans on the eastern front.

The forthcoming offensive as it expands probably will involve up to six army groups and its route may well be across the broad Polish plain directly into Germany.

The Red Army High Command has informed Britain and the United States of the offensive's starting date, Soviet sources in Washington said. This could not be confirmed in military quarters here but there is evidence that the Allies are counting on the coming winter drive.

Informed sources said the projected drive will disclose newly-aligned Red army forces. Since last summer, when the Leningrad front, three Baltic, three White Russian and four Ukrainian fronts were in action, the line-up of Russian armies has been a mystery.

Russian military activity in the Balkans has been confined to single fronts or army groups. Farther north, Soviet armies already far advanced from the White Russian, Baltic and Leningrad regions have

Enemy Breaks North Of Bagnacavallo

Tank-Led Counters Fail To Dislodge Canadians

By DESMOND TIGHE
Reuters Staff Writer

ROME, Dec. 22 —(CP-Reuters)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army, by their capture of Bagnacavallo, about 10 miles northeast of Faenza on the Ravenna-Bologna road, after two days' hard fighting, have knocked a key stronghold out of Field Marshal Kesselring's Po valley defence system.

Although only a small village, Bagnacavallo was vital to the enemy along the Adriatic as a road and railway link wtih Bologna to the northwest and Lugo and Ferrera to the north.

The 1st Canadian Corps under Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes of London, Ont., and Victoria, B.C., also have reached the river Senio on a broad front opposite Fusignano which, 12 miles west of Ravenna, stands on a secondary road linking the main highways from Ferrera to Ravenna and Faenza.

In their slashing advance, Canadian infantry and tanks drove ahead more than three miles to cross the Munio Canal, where they previously held a narrow bridgehead. The German lines were penetrated two miles west of Villanova, located on the Lamone River about four miles north-east of Bagnacavallo.

This flanking threat forced the Germans to give up their powerfully-held positions in Bagnacavallo where they had used church towers as observation posts and erected street barricades.

The Canadians entered the town from the north-east yesterday after what appeared to be a rapid flight by the Germans.

Large piles of booty and equipment also were found.

The Germans also pulled back south of Bagnacavallo, reducing the wide salient notably under continuing smashing pressure from the troops driving north-east from Faenza.

"Unrelenting pressure by Canadian troops of the 8th Army has broken enemy resistance north of Bagnacavallo."

Pravda Attacks Argentine Stand

MOSCOW, Dec. 22.—(AP).—Pravda attacked Argentina to-day as an "asylum of Hitlerites," declaring its rulers continue to aid Germany against the United Nations.

"This aid can be seen in the incessant supplies of food and war materials sent via Spain to Germany, as well as the freedom of action given Hitlerite agents and spies in Argentina," said the article, spread over five columns on the Communist party newspaper's foreign page.

"Hundreds of millions of dollars already have been transferred to Argentina by German criminals," Pravda declared.

Huns 40 Miles Into Belgium New Attack In Luxembourg

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 22 —(AP) — The Germans' winter offensive slowed down today after a 40-mile penetration into Belgium, field dispatches reported, and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower called upon all his armies to administer a crushing defeat. (The German High Command claimed several spearheads crossed the Ourthe river, which at one point in its meandering course is seven miles west of Werbomont, the deepest previously announced point of the enemy's dagger-like wedge At this point the river is about 30 miles from the Meuse at Namir and about 16 miles south of Liege, also on the Meuse).

Field Marshal Karl von Rundstedt had come out of his fixed defences in a last great gamble on a winter counter-offensive, Eisenhower said in an order of the day.

Although the main enemy drive had been turned aside and slowed down, the counter-attack broke out in a new sector 20 miles south of the city of Luxembourg last night.

A battle involving 10 tanks and two companies of infantry was fought at dusk last night in a newly-active front some 20 miles south of the city, field reports said. The German were repulsed.

After six days of a slashing assault in which German forces had driven a deep wedge 32 miles deep into Allied lines by Tuesday noon, Field Marshal Von Rundstdt's columns in Belgium have been turned aside in some sectors and forced to a slower pace in others, said a field report time at 8:55 a.m. today.

Along the 32-mile German north flank, veteran Allied forces had swung into action after speedy marches across snow-topped mountains. Fierce tank battles had been fought in head-on collisions with German armor, and cool veterans of river crossings all the way from the Volturno in Italy to the Moselle in France had mowed down waves of Germans attempting to force the turbulent Ambleve. This flank was firm.

Confused Picture.

Along the southern flank of the bulge the Allied situation also was improved, but still confused.

However, the initiative still was in the hands of Von Rundstedt and groups of 20 to 30 German tanks still made slashing penetrations here and there and roved behind Allied lines.

Both sides were pouring tens of thousands of men into the critical phase of the battle every few hours as the intensity of the conflict in the fog-shrouded cauldron mounted.

Except for a few field dispatches, however, there was no new word as to the depth of the German penetration.

Not until 4 or 5 p.m. EDT was Allied Supreme Headquarters expected to make a new announcement of positions. This announcement was expected to cover the situation only up to Wednesday night under recent security decisions.

(The German radio said the German high command also had adopted a policy of secrecy and called it "battle of silence.")

St. Vith, four miles from the German border, with two German wedges driven far past it on either side, was still held by the Americans despite the frontal attack of a full German S.S. Division.

Fighting through fog, snow and mud, American fighting men were

German Command Making Supreme Effort To Break Out And Is Gambling Everything

ALLIED SUPREME HEADQUARTERS, Paris, Dec. 22—(CP-Reuter).—Gen. Eisenhower, in an order of the day to all members of the Allied expeditionary force, warned today that the Germans were making a supreme effort to break out of their desperate plight.

His order said: "The enemy is making a supreme effort to break out of the desperate plight into which you forced him by your brilliant victories in the summer and the fall."

"He is fighting savagely to take back all you have won and is using every treacherous trick to deceive and kill you," the order said.

"He is gambling everything but already in this battle your gallantry has done much to foil his plans.

"In face of your proven bravery and fortitude he will completely fail.

"But we cannot be content with his mere repulse.

"By rushing out of his fixed defences the enemy may give us the chance to turn his great gamble into his worst defeat."

General Eisenhower concluded:

"So I call upon every man of all the Allies to rise now to new heights of courage, resolution and effort.

"Let everyone hold before him the single thought—to destroy the enemy on the ground, in the air, everywhere—to destroy him.

"United in this determination and with unshakeable faith in the cause for which we fight we will, with God's help, go forward to our greatest victory."

Huns Fear Mosquito Planes Fly Too High For Ack Ack

By ALLAN NICKLESON—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 22—(CP Cable).—Special anti-aircraft guns installed by the Germans to keep versatile Mosquito aircraft from Berlin have been thwarted through a new type of this "plywood wonder" which operates at a height of nearly six miles, it was disclosed today. The latest Mosquito, known officially as the Mark XVI has been used in ever increasing numbers against the German capital since the first attack by these planes last March. It operates at a height of more than 30,000 feet through use of a pressure cabin.

Night raids against Berlin by 50 or 60 of these light bombers, each carrying one 4,000-pound bomb or six 500-pounders now are quite common.

Of all Allied aircraft, Berliners are reported to dread most the fast, highly manoeuvrable Mosquito, which they call "the menace raider." The city's special guns fire flak to twice the height at which bombers usually fly but the new type is beyond the range of the guns.

Could Bring Chaos.

So great has been the destructive effect of Mosquito raids that one expert said if bombing strength was increased to 1,000 of these planes there would be chaos inside Germany.

Already Mosquitos have dropped 12,000 tons of explosives on Germany. They also "mark" for heavy bombers or help divert enemy defences through fake attacks on as many as 12 towns in a night.

The new "Mossies" are designed for a night striking forces which is a part of the Pathfinder force under command of Air Vice-Marshal D. C. T. Bennett, probably the world's greatest all-round aerial navigator.

Air crews for these Mosquitos, including many Canadians, were first tested in a chamber which reduced the air pressure until it equals that at a height of seven miles.

Canadian Army On The Alert

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST ARMY IN HOLLAND, Dec. 22 (AP)—Battle-tested Canadian veterans of Caen, the Schelde Estuary and other great victories over the Germans have been on their toes in their Holland sector night and day, alert for any German counter-blow such as fell against the United States 1st Army to the south.

Ground activity along the Reichswald Forest, where a Canadian spearhead thrusts into Germany, has been quiet the last few days although the montony of the long, cold nights has been broken by the lights of flying bombs racing each other across the skies far back into Allied territory.

However, long-range German artillery is firing at a bridge near Grave, about eight miles southwest of Nijmegen, which is a vital link across the half-mile Maas River and feeds Canadian troops in the Nijmegen salient inside Germany.

The long concrete and steel structure has been subject also to German night bombing attacks and fire from rocket projectiles since it was captured intact by American airborne troops late in September.

A Canadian artillery officer said the present shelling apparently was coming from railroad guns about 20 miles away.

Great Offensive Has Not Reached Crisis

Test Of Resources To Come Soon As Element Of Surprise Passes

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The great Nazi counter-offensive hasn't yet reached its crisis but remains in that nerve-torturing, betwist-and-between period of uncertaintly which tries the morale of generals and anxious home-fronts alike.

Probably the climax won't long be deferred, for Supreme Commander Eisenhower is pouring weight into the crucial sectors. However, the enemy continues to hold the initiative, as would be expected at this stage of a drive of such magnitude, and the battle grows in intensity as it mushrooms out over a vast area of open country and becomes more fluid as it spreads.

As this was being written a bulletin arrived from the Western front reporting that the German offensive force appeared temporarily blunted and compelled to slow down. That's encouraging, but in assaying its significance we should take into account the fact that the drive has arrived at the point where it naturally would lose momentum somewhat. The time has arrived for German consolidation of position in some freshly-acquired places, and the problem of making supplies keep pace with the advancing troops is becoming hourly more difficult for the enemy.

German military commentators say the offensive has reached the phase which they characterize as the battle of material. That covers the situation fairly well. The element of big-scale surprise is past, and now comes the test of resources—manpower, weapons, supplies. Field Marshal Von Rundstedt struck with his full weight when he launched his great gamble, throwing his opponents off balance. However, the Allied superiority in all categories of resources is increasingly making itself felt, and even Berlin and Tokyo commentators are warning their publics against over-optimism at this crucial stage.

The danger points for the Allies in the German offensive are in two great wedges which Rundstedt has driven into the U.S. 1st Army front. One of them, on the north, has penetrated some 30 miles into Belgium in the general direction of the fortified city of Liege. As previously pointed out in this column, Liege is the main supply base and distributional centre for the extensive 1st Army front.

Loss of Liege would be very grave indeed, but word today is that the American northern flank is holding firm against the German onslaught.

The second great German thrust is on the south in the direction of Sedan. Here again, today's report is that the American position seemed somewhat improved, though confused.

Needle Eliminates Scars

Used By Surgeons For Facial Surgery

A CANADIAN HOSPITAL IN BELGIUM, Dec. 22 (CP) — A tiny curved, triangular needle has helped eliminate the risk of serious scars from facial wounds.

This hospital has a ward known officially as "Mazillo Facial"— unofficially "Max Factor"—and an operating theatre which deals exclusively with serious face injuries.

Men who suffered such wounds in the first Great War were left with bad scars. Now new technique and improved equipment have reduced the risk of that. A definite progression of operations and treatment has been established and even before a wounded man leaves the continent for further hospitalization in England the first scar-obliterating steps have been taken.

It is in this first operation that the triangular needle with a cutting edge is so important. It is an especially small needle and is used in every case of facial surgery since the scar it leaves is almost imperceptible.

Riots Planned In Advance

Premier Denies Police Started Trouble

LONDON, Dec. 22 (CP) — The Daily Telegraph, in an Athens dispatch, today quoted Greek Premier George Papandreou as saying he could "produce proofs" that revolution had already been decided upon by the E.L.A.S. before the Dec. 3 rioting which set off the Greek civil strife.

"I deplore the loss of life among the crowd Dec. 3," Papandreou was quoted as saying. "I deny this loss of life was the cause of insurrection. I deny police fired the first shots. The revolution already had been decided upon. I can produce proofs."

The newspaper quoted the Greek Premier as declaring Britain never had done Greece a greater favor than this December when "she stood up on behalf of an unarmed government representing the great majority of the country, against an armed minority bent on imposing Nazi-like tyranny."

"We are defending Greece against terrorism. There are left-wing leaders in America and Britain who are against us. I protest their misapprehension."

Comedian Dies Starred On Stage, Screen

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 22—(AP)—Harry Langdon, veteran comedian of the stage and screen, died today after suffering a cerebral hemorrhage. Langdon, who was 60, had been ill for several weeks.

Langdon, former Mack Sennett comedian and recently a film writer, attained to a $1,000,000 film contract in 1925 from a beginning as an amateur vaudeville actor at the age of 12.

He played in carnivals, circuses, tent shows, vaudeville and musical comedies and made his film debut in 1923 with Sennet. First in two-reelers and then in feature length films, he rose to fame on the silent screen.

With the advent of talking pictures, he returned to vaudeville but returned to pictures later.

Married five times, Langdon once blamed his marital affairs for his troubles. His ex-wives, he said, "keep me from being funny every time their attorneys remind me of my alimony arrears."

He is survived by his widow, Georgena Langdon, whom he remarried in 1938 after they had been divorced a year; a daughter Virginia, and a son, Harry, Jr., nine, the child of his third wife, Helen. Langdon was born in Council Bluffs, Ia.

HOME FOR CHRISTMAS—Gnr. Leslie J. Field, who has been serving overseas since 1939, and who arrived in Canada earlier this week, arrived home tonight from Toronto to spend his 30-day long service furlough. He will be with his wife and family, 137 Lock street.

Dutch Patriots Dodge Huns More Than Year

By MARGARET ECKER,
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Dec. 22—(CP) — In a straw hut in the centre of a pine forest, somewhere in Holland, a valiant band of Netherlanders hid successfully from the German conqueror of their country for more than a year.

German soldiers sometimes passed within a few feet of their sentry boxes. The refugees themselves took and held prisoners in the compound of their camp. In the last few days before the liberation of this part of Holland, they sallied forth to commit acts of sabotage against the harassed Germans.

A young civil servant, one of the founders of the camp, guided us through mud-choked back roads and inding forest trails to the hut in the pine trees. It seemed small, like a hut a woodsman might use to store his tools.

Inside it proved to be large, and comfortable, with three wings.

"Here I cooked," said the young Hollander as he pointed to the rusted stove and tables. Another wing was a dormitory with 24 bunks made of rough hewn pine wood. All the furniture was hand hewn by the men.

The third wing was a lounge, furnished with rustic furniture the men in hiding had made themselves.

In the courtyard behind the hut was another, a smaller hut. This was the prison where eight pro-Nazi Netherlanders were kept prisoner.

One, two at a time they had been seized and carried to the forest hideout. They didnt even know where they were until the day of liberation when they were handed over to the Netherlands military administration.

The story of the camp in the pines is a story full of gaps that cannot yet be completed. All that can be told about these men is that they hid, chiefly, to escape the Gestapo, or to escape being sent as slave laborers into Germany.

Their daily life was a fight not only to remain hidden but to keep their moral equilibrium.

On a sport field screened by trees they held sports meets.

Every man stood guard duty, two hours on, four off.

A farmer who lives perhaps a mile from the hideout provided the refugees with food and equipment.

Power for the radio and the field telephone was supplied by a dynamo operated by a static bicycle which the prisoners pedalled in shifts.

(A new Russian offensive aimed at taking Budapest, Hungarian capital, from the rear and opening the most direct invasion route to Vienna, Austrian capital, was announced yesterday by Berlin. Moscow did not confirm the new drive.)

Though mounted to speed Germany's defeat, the promised Red army drive probably will not affect immediately the western front where the Wehrmacht in a slashing counter-offensive is advancing into Belgium.

The Russian offensive has been delayed, it was said, by the fact that the Polish plain freezes later than the Russian steppes.

Children Hold Carol Service

Three hundred school children attended the Christmas Carol sevice in Peteborough Collegiate auditorium Thursday evening although unusually cold weather kept many more from being present.

Members of the Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., Boy Scouts organizations and the C. G. I. T., also turned out to join in the singing of the beautiful carols, time-honored paens of praise, "and on earth, peace to men of good-will."

Quirt McKinney led the singing, and Miss Elsie Chambers was at the piano. A choir of school children from Central School sang several selections, under the direction of Miss Musia Cox.

During the evening, Mr. McKinney presented a motion picture dealing with the Ukrainian people's way of celebrating Christmas in Canada. It was a production of the National Film Board. For sheer entertainment, the Y. M. C. A. sent a film to be shown for the children, entitled, "Jack Frost," a cartoon filmed in color.

The program was a huge success and was enjoyed a great deal by everyone who attended. Undoubtedly, more moderate weather would have brought more children to the service.

The committee who organized the Christmas Carol service is as follows: Mr. McKinney, chairman, Ernie Wolfe, representing Boy Scout organizations in Peterborough, Mrs. R. Whalon, C. G. I. T., Miss Cox, Miss Gall, of the Y. W. C. A., and Don Duncan, of the Y. M. C. A.

He was educated at King's College, Windsor, N.S., Berkhansted, England, Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, Que., Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., and McGill University, Montreal.

He joined the Permanent Force and served with Lord Strathcona's Horse in 1924 and became a captain 10 years later. Gen. Foster was a General Staff officer, 3rd Grade, at Military District No. 1 (London, Ont.), from 1935 to 1937 and later went to the Imperial Staff College at Camberley, England, from which he graduated in 1939.

Overseas Early.

Appointed a brigade major in the Canadian Infantry Corps at the outbreak of war, he went overseas with the First Contingent.

Serving as a General Staff officer, 2nd Grade, at 1st Division Headquarters during 1940, he was promoted a lieutenant-colonel and given command of a mechanized cavalry regiment in 1941, subsequently he was recalled to Canada to lead the Canadians against Kiska. He was appointed a brigadier in 1942 and served on the Pacific Command General Staff until posted overseas.

Last June he was awarded the United States Silver Star and previously had been awarded the American Legion of Merit as a mark of appreciation by the United States Government for his participation in co-operation with United States Forces in the occupation of Kiska.

Gen. Foster's wife and two sons live in Picton.

Gen. Vokes early this year succeeded Gen. Simonds as a Division Commander in Italy.

Gen. Vokes led the veteran 1st Division in the attacks last spring that helped break the Gustav and Hitler lines in the Cassino area.

cutting down Germans by the hundreds and taking heavy losses.

Fifty-five enemy tanks were destroyed along the northern flank of the German thrust yesterday, field dispatches said, when groups of roving armor were trapped here and there.

However, these roving armored groups often were doing much damage.

The tenor of front line dispatches suggested that the German foray south of Luxembourg was one such roving mission. Third Army dispatches, however, said 60 German planes were spotted north of Metz last night.

The main axis of the German thrust apparently was still westward, with the Germans vainly endeavoring to curl their armored spearhead northward.

Unless Von Rundstedt succeeds in fanning out behind the main part of the 1st Army to the north shortly it is possible he will be confronted with a great weight of men and material bearing down on his right flank.

(The Germans said the Allied front opposing the German push still was not "coherent," but suggested they already were feeling the effects of 1st Army reinforcements rushed from the north, and 3rd Army action from the south.

(One Berlin broadcast said the 3rd Army bridgehead across the Saar at Ensdorf, near Saarlautern, had been abandoned. This was without any Allied confirmation.)

Already one Allied counteraction in the Monschau area, northern hinge of the German line, had cut nine miles into the German salient, reducing its base to 46 miles.

This attack had cut across some of the German supply lines from the road centre of Schleiden. But the lines to the likely main bases of the German drive, such as Stadtkyll, Prum, Bitburg and Trier, were intact.

Elsewhere on the long Allied front there was almost no activity reported.

German Spies Get Inside Allied Lines

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press War Correspondent

NEAR STAVELOT, Belgium, Dec. 22 (AP)—German spies were inside the American Army's frontlines yesterday.

A captain and three privates wearing American uniforms drove along a forest road in a jeep. They halted near Capt. Fordyce Gorham of Coudersport, Pa.

The strange officer said he was looking for his tanks.

A little later things began to pop. Pte. Theodore Watson of Brooklyn, N.Y., was standing by a stone farmhouse.

Suddenly two jeeps sped up the road. From one jumped the men who had talked to Gorham a short time before. Four other men, also masquerading as American soldiers, jumped out of the other vehicle.

Watson became suspicious. When he heard one of the strangers call to another in a heavy German accent "Where is it?" he felt sure he was right.

Jumping out he pointed to the eight men and yelled to troops in foxholes, "They're Germans!" The eight men, who apparently had been looking for a German tank to guide them back to their own positions, took off like deer for the German lines.

"Shoot them they're Germans!" Watson shouted. But because the fleeing men wore American uniforms the troops hesitated. They fired just as the eight men reached a woods and wounded one of the Germans and two American soldiers nearby. However, all eight Germans escaped.

Americans Close Leyte Pincers

ADVANCED SOUTHWEST PACIFIC HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 22.—(AP).—American pincers have snapped shut on the Japanese on northwest Leyte, and pocketed enemy troops are being destroyed while American planes range over the Philippines from a new base on Mindoro, less than 150 miles south of Manila, headquarters reported today.

Climaxing a laborious fight north and south along the Ormoc corridor road, the U.S. 10th and 24th Army corps fought to a juncture near where a supplenentary road forks west to the enemy escape port of Palompon.

On Mindoro, on the western side of the Philippines where torrential rains do not fall as they have on Leyte, the air base completed there in five days already is demonstrating its importance. The communique told of Mindoro-based planes downing 11 of 29 enemy raiders Wednesday at a cost of one plane. No sizeable enemy ground resistance there yet has been reported and today's communique specified inactivity.

A 6,000-ton Japanese freighter-transport was spotted off the northwest coast by a reconnaissance bomber which set the vessel aflame.

Luzon's Batangas airdrome was attacked by fighter planes; other fighters ripped into airdromes on Negros; and Cagayan airdrome on Mindanao was raided.

Mining Groups Score Gains

TORONTO, Dec. 22.—(CP).—Index gains were boarded by the mining groups and the industrials in the early session to-day and the western oils held unchanged. Volume was small at 220,000 for the first three hours.

Better prices ruled for the utilities, steels and miscellaneous issues and other industrial groups were steady. The golds posted a margin of gains, the strong issues including Macassa, Giant Yellowknife, Donalda, Bear, Beattie and Transcontinental Resources. Frobisher firmed to 7.50 for a gain of 35 cents. Steep Rock, Noranda and Hudson Bay were base metal gainers.

The western oil share market was steady for light trade. British-Dominion and mid-continent were up narrowly.

Film Reveals Soldiers Killed

WITH THE U.S. 1ST ARMY, Dec. 22 (AP)—Films taken from a captured German photographer have provided visual verification of recent frontline accounts of the massacre of American prisoners by Nazi machine-gunners.

Developed by the U.S. Army Signal Corps, the films proved to be pictures taken after the massacre and showed the bodies of American troops lying where they were mowed down. That they were not ordinary battle casualties was indicated by the absence of equipment which American troops always carry into action.

All the bodies had been stripped of belongings—in several cases even of shoes.

The shooting incident was reported in a front line dispatch Dec. 18 by Associated Press War Correspondent Hal Boyle, who interviewed a handful of infantrymen who escaped the massacre by playing dead. Later dispatches from headquarters said the incident had been fully confirmed.

Cattle, Sheep Prices The Same

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP). — Cattle, sheep and lamb prices were unchanged in trade on the Livestock Market here this week. Calves gained 50 cents to $1 cwt. and hogs were 25 to 35 cents cwt. higher.

Some 600 fresh cattle loaded before last week's embargo became effective were on the opening market along with 2,700 common cattle left from last week. The supply was cleared by Tuesday and the embargo was lifted on Wednesday. Subsequent arrivals were fairly well cleared at steady prices.

Cutter and canner cows were $5 to $6.50, with butcher cows $7-$9. Boner steers and heifers were $5.50-$7.50, a few butcher steers $9-$11.50, heifers $11 downward, medium to good weighty steers $11-$12.35, and some choice steers reached $12.85. Fed yearlings were $12-$13.50, a few bulls $6-$8.50. There were no sales of any account on stockers. Good milkers and springers were $130 to $150 each.

Calves worked higher on a moderate run closing $15.50 to $16.50 for choice, with occasional tops $17, common to medium vealers $9-$15. A few grass calves were $6 cwt.

Lambs were $12.50 to $15 cwt. Bucks were $1 cwt. discount, and culls $6-$9. Sheep were $2 to $5.

Receipts for the week were: Cattle 1955, calves 1136, hogs 4475, and sheep and lambs 2042. Receipts for the year to date were: Cattle 260,805, calves 104.051, hogs 173,816, sheep and lambs 162,373. Receipts last year from January 1 totalled: Cattle 229,647, calves 94,770, hogs 170,787, sheep and lambs 125,694.

British Advance Eight Miles

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 22.—(CP-Reuters).—The road to Mandalay has been shortened by eight miles with the capture of Kawlin, on the railway from Myitkyina, by troops of Lt.-Gen. Sir William Slim's 14th Army.

The north Burma capital now is less than 120 miles away.

On Gen. Slim's flank troops of the 38th Chinese Division, also driving towards the capital, have been consolidating their gains between Bhamo and Namhkan.

Far to the southwest, naval guns were today aiding the 15th Corps in the pass down the Arakan coast strip by bombarding the port of Rathedaung, on the Mayu River, between the Mayu range and the coast.

Forward troops on the Chindwin front were today 17 miles east of Shewegyin, on the Shwegyin-You road.

IN BELGIUM Dec. 20.—(Delayed)—(AP).—This is Belgium to-day with her tidy industrial towns and rolling hills once again threatened by German attack.

You can see the fear of the Teuton in almost every eye. Women, young girls and old men cheer and wave to each troop truck and tank moving toward the front. When a convoy is headed the other way they glance at each other with mute, questioning looks that seem to ask without words, "have the Germans broken through?'

In most cases the troops just shake their heads silently without answering. They have been warned of spies and enemy agents who might be trying to pick up information this way.

The troops have lost much of the boyish exuberance with which they chased the Germans across Belgium three months ago. They ride to battle now with grim and serious faces. There is little talk now of now soon the war will end, and jests about "home by Christmas" bring only tired smiles.

Obituary

H. BRUCE CARVER.

The death occurred suddenly in Ottawa on December 16 of H. Bruce Carver, son of the late Henry M. Carver, formerly of Peterborough. Mr. Carver was in his usual good health and went to business, but an hour later died of a heart attack.

He had lived the greater part of his life near Hamilton, where he was well known and highly respected. He was born 60 years ago in Douro, and leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, two sons, eight grandchildren, and one sister (Mae), Mrs. Martin Whaley of Caledonia, Ont. Mrs. Mabel Wood of Aylmer Street and Miss Alice L. Carver, Charlotte Street, are cousins of the deceased.

Canuck Sailors Are Commended

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 —(CP) — Crews of the Canadian minesweepers Guysborough and Georgian have won commendation for "loyal and devoted service" in operations off the coast of France after D-day, June 6.

A navy press release said the tribute came from the senior officer of the Royal Navy's 14th Flotilla, in which two Canadian sweepers served. The ships have since rejoined a Canadian group.

The tribute said in part:

"You have been a credit to he Canadian Naval Service and the spirit which has animated this flotilla has been in accordance with the est tradition of the British navy."

Guysborough's commanding officer is Lieut. B. R. Russel, of Halifax and Red Deer, Alta., and Geogian is commanded by Lt. Cmdr. D. W. Main of Brooklyn, N. Y.

Starting sweeps before D-Day, Georgian was the first Canadian ship to dispose of a mine during the flotilla's assault sweep. She had the greatest number to her credit —six in all.

Careless Driving Charge Dismissed

The charge of careless driving against Mrs. Rose Sopha, R.R. 1, Havelock, was dismissed by Magistrate E. A. Gee after His Worship had listened to the evidence of what happened on Highway 7, eight miles east of Peterborough when a car driven by the accused, eastbound, and another automobile driven by Roy Horne of Norwood collided.

Horne claimed that the woman driver had come over on to his side of the road but after hearing the evidence Magistrate Gee found Mrs. Sopha not guilty of the charge.

T. J. Carley, K.C., defended the accused while Provincial Constable Price Morris who laid the charge prosecuted the case.

Even pri- to their latest advance, the Canadians' Naviglio bridgehead formed an upper jaw of an Allied pincers threatening to clamp tight on the enemy's entire Lamone River salient north of Faenza.

Tank-led German counter-attacks, many in number and desperate in nature, had been hurled back time and again by the Canadians.

Two crack regiments—the Carleton and York regiment of St. Stephen, N.B., and the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment of Picton, Ont.—at one point won personal congratulations from 8th Army commander, Lt.-Gen. Sir Richard McCreery for smashing 13 fierce German counter-attacks within nine hours.

So fierce was the fighting in the Naviglio bridgehead for a time that front dispatches nicknamed it "the Anzio of the Adriatic."

Today's communique, without giving any details, reported other 8th Army units north of Faenza "made gains against strong resistance."

Only patrolling was reported from the Allied 5th Army front in Central Italy.

Father J. P. Collins Addresses Kinsmen

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 2. — (ENS).—An informal talk by Rev. J. P. Collins of St. Mary's church and the visit of six servicemen as guests was the feature of the Kinsmen club's regular meeting at Woodlawn.

Father Collins was introduced by Kinsman Roy Barnum. He complimented the club on their interest in sending milk to Britain, the Blood Donors' Clinic and the local hockey for the children. He welcomed the boys from overseas and reminded his hearers that all the men in the forces should be remembered at this Christmas season, particularly. He spoke of Cardinal Villeneuve's visit abroad. In closing he voiced his admiration for the work carried on by the service clubs and wished all a happy holiday season.

W. J. Callaghan reported that 17 Christmas bales were being distributed to needy families.

The service men present were: Army, Max Free, Art Bateman, Borden Copperthwaite; navy, Peter Battman, NaDoo Reynolds; R.C.A.F., FO. Art Abernathy.

Many Birds Perish

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 22 — (CP Cable). — Smothered in heavy oil, thousands of sea birds are reported dead or dying along a section of the Newfoundland coast. (The St. John's cable made no mention of the source of the oil nor did it identify the area.)

Honshu Island American Target

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—(AP)—Superfortresses resumed their attacks of Japan's home production centres today, attacking industrial targets on the island of Honshu.

The aerial task force was "in sizeable force," indicating that up to 100 of the big planes participated.

The attack was carried out by B29s of the 21st bomber command based on Saipan, a war department communique said.

Additional details will be announced later.

Today's blow was the second in five days by Saipan-based Superforts against this principal island of the Japanese archipelago. Gen. Hansell's planes bombed an aircraft factory at Nagoya Monday.

B29s winging from Asiatic bases hit another enemy aircraft factory at Omura Tuesday following a Monday strike at Hankow, China.

On Honshu are located the key shipping and war production cities of Tokyo, Yokohama, Nagoya, Kyoto, Kobe and Osaka.

Unusual Ailment Kills 3 Children

VICTORIA, Dec. 22 —(CP) —Two small boys have died from an ailment of undetermined nature, a third is in a serious condition in Ashcroft, B. C., hospital and a baby girl is ill in a tragedy which struck the Hewlitt family at Spatsum, B. C., in the Central Interior, Provincial police reported last night.

A radio message from Kamloops reported that the bodies of the two boys had been taken there for post mortem examination to determine the nature of the fatal illness.

Provincial police also are conducting an investigation at the Hewlitt home.

Five-year-old Harold Hewlitt died in Ashcroft Hospital Tuesday and his three-year-old brother, Martin, died on his way to hospital Wednesday. Thomas, seven, and his nine-month-old sister, Winnifred, became ill Wednesday night, the radio message said.

President Says Charter Valid

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22—(AP)—President Roosevelt said to-day he thought "the objectives of the Atlantic Charter as valid as when they were announced in 1941."

He permitted direct quotation on that point during a news conference discussion of the Charter — which he said Tuesday never existed as a formal document.

Mr. Roosevelt said that through the years certain documents had seemed to maintain a good deal of importance, some affecting public thinking on objectives of a better world.

The objectives of the Atlantic Charter still stand, the President said, just as do objectives of documents which go back many centuries.

The objectives in some instances have never been obtained, Mr. Roosevelt continued, but they still are good. He said he thought the Charter would take its place in history as a major step forward—just as Wilson's 14 points constituted something we all would like to see attained. They, too, he said, were a step toward a better life in the world.

(President Woodrow Wilson's 14 points listed peace objectives in the First Great War.)

French Plants Aiding Allies

PARIS, Dec .2 — (AP).—Reviving French industries now are supplying hundreds of needed items to the Allied Air Forces on a reverse lend-lease basis, Col. Melvin C. Smith, Chief of the Air Service Command Procurement Section, said to-day.

Smith disclosed strategic and tactical Air Forces already had received 2,225,000 cubic feet of hydrogen gas for use in weather squadron drift balloons, and 3,500,000 feet of film for wing cameras.

French factories also have supplied the Air Forces with mattresses, stove pipes for pyramid tents, and various items of radio equipment and electrical appliances.

He Won't Quit

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 22 —(CP) — James A. Moore, 74-year-old retired farmer, has been Reeve of Elzivir-Grimsthorpe township 40 miles north of here for 34 years and he says he intends to keep right on with the job. The municipality "is financially sound and I'm in no hurry to quit." He has only been opposed in three elections since he first took office in 1911.

Gets 30 Years

ROME, Dec. 22—(AP)—Cornelia Tanzi, 36-year-old poet and artist identified in court as once a mistress of Benito Mussolini, was convicted on a charge of collaboration with the Germans today and sentenced to 30 years' imprisonment.

One day — each week,

The Boy who delivers your Examiner calls to collect

He has so many customers he can't afford to give credit for he must pay for his papers on fixed dates and counts on his collections to make his payments. Your courteous carrier boy assumes a financial burden he cannot afford to carry when you ask him to wait for his money. He collects on the same day each week — you know which day — and when he has to "call again" to collect from you, delivery of his whole route is delayed on several days. Have the money ready for the boy the day he collects—the correct change, if convenient. Help him to meet his financial obligations promptly, and to make delivery on time every day.

Ontario Women Praised By Song Writer

"The women of Ontario are simply wonderful. I mean especially and particularly the mothers of the fighting sons of this province," said Eddie Foley, Toronto, song writer and for the last three years and a half minstrel of the military camps and service canteens, 152 of them in Ontario and three across the United States border.

Mr. Foley was in the city today, frankly promoting his latest song "When the Boys Come Marching Home," had it warmly accepted by Miss Musa Cox of the Public Schools of the city, Sister St. Gilbert of the Catholic schools and also sang it at the Collegiate Institute.

"I don't need to say anything about our boys. You know them about as well as I do, and anything I say would be just a feeble tribute compared with the plain story of their deeds," Mr. Foley said. "But, I don't hear much said about our Ontario women. Certainly nothing like what I think they deserve. They are magnificent. I meet them at patriotic group affairs, Red Cross and so on, at Home and School associations.

"I sing for them every chance I get. They are mothers of boys in the army, the navy and air force, in the merchant marine and so on. Some of them have two or more boys, and girls, too, helping fight this war for us. I know how anxious they are; how some have suffered and their hearts are sad. I have seen them gather around and listen to me sing, and I think they are just about tops in sustained our morale. This isn't a plug for Eddie Foley and his songs, but you asked me my impressions from my round of the camps and canteens and club meetings and there it is, and it comes right from my heart. These women I am thinking of are heads of families. They are not the younger unmarried set. I don't meet many of them. I suppose they are at work. The mothers have their work, too, at home, but they are finding time to help the cause away from their homes. We know they wish the war was over and the boys and girls were back with them again, but I never hear any complaining."

Mr. Foley sang at a concert several weeks ago at the Marine Engineering Instructional School, and received a warm letter of appreciation from Commander J. L. Dunn. It was one of many. His collection of tributes includes one from General Eisenhower.

"If you publish what I said about our Ontario women I don't want any of them to think that my impression of them has anything to do with the sale of my song. The mothers of this province haven't much time to keep up with their music, those who can play. If you hadn't asked me that question, I wouldn't have mentioned them. We read about the women of England and Scotland, too, and we know how they have stood to all the pain and loss from this war. From meeting thousands of our own mothers in this province I believe they are equal to any demands and will compare with any other women in the world."

Incidentally, at a Prescott meeting Mr. Foley sold copies of his music amounting to about eight dollars. I sent five to the Toronto Telegram Fund for Milk for Britain and paid two and a half at the hotel. But, of course I can't do that very often. However, it has been a great experience meeting thousands of boys and girls and their mothers. Two years and a half ago I sang at your Peterborough Training Centre. The Commanding Officer gave me a fine welcome."

AB. Harry Hayward On Corvette Cobourg

COBOURG, Dec. 22 — (ENS).— Able Seaman Harry Hayward, only Cobourg boy serving on the corvette H.M.C.S. Cobourg, is home on leave. He brought to the town greetings from Lieut. Johnson, the commander of the corvette, and the ship's personnel.

Since the ship was dedicated at Cobourg last month, it has been on duty. After several applications for transfer to the Cobourg, AB. Hayward was successful last June in getting posted to the corvette named after his home town.

BROTHERS SERVE IN ARMY AND MERCHANT MARINE — Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bowes, 127 Rubidge street, are serving overseas, Pte. Cecil Allen Bowes (Left), who has been wounded twice while fighting with the Perth Regiment in Italy, and Carl Bowes (Right), who is aboard Norwegian Merchant Marine ships plying the Atlantic sea-lanes. Pte. Bowes, 21, was wounded in the foot September 1, and suffered chest wounds December 13 from shell fragments while in Italy. He is a former employee of De Laval Company, and has been in the army three years. Carl Bowes is only 17 years of age, and was employed at the C.G.E. before joining the Norwegian merchant fleet.

Emily Pupils Present Concert

OMEMEE, Dec. 22.—(ENS).—The pupils of S.S. No. 10, Emily, presented their annual Christmas entertainment on Wednesday evening.

The address of welcome was given by six year old Beverley Hoskin and the senior pupils then favored the audience with three Christmas numbers, 'Angels from the Realms of Glory,' 'The Holly and the Ivy' and 'Silent Night, Holy Night.' Jack McCarrell, boy soprano, sang 'The Wondrous Birth'; Betty Finley played a piano solo, 'Go to Sleep, My Dolly'; recitations were given by the junior pupils, Carol Ann Fowler, Dorothy Anne Jackson, Jeannie Hoskin, Douglas Jackson, Alvin Casey, Donald Finley, George Casey, Gerald McCall, Fred Bothwell and Jimmie Hoskin.

The rhythm band then delighted the audience with two numbers. The conductor was seven year old Douglas Jackson. Two junior girls, Carol Ann Fowler and Dorothy Anne Jackson sang 'Away in Judea,' and 'Away in a Manger.'

The second portion of the program consisted of the presentation of a Nativity play, 'The Adoration.' This consisted of three scenes, the reception at the inn, the hillside scene, and the manger scene. The part of Mary was taken by Olive Mae Faulkner and that of Joseph by Sherman Harrison. The three shepherds were Sidney Downing, George Bothwell and George Casey. The three wise men were Gerald Blackwell, Donald Faulkner and Fred Bothwell. Ione Irwin took the part of Angel Gabriel. The choristers who sang off stage were Betty Finley, Loreen Irwin, Laverne Irwin and Jack McCarrell. Some of their numbers were: 'O Little Town of Bethlehem,' 'While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks,' 'The First Noel,' 'In Excelsis Gloria,' 'We Three Kings of Orient Are,' and 'O Come All Ye Faithful.'

Walter Magee and Sam Carew moved a vote of thanks to the teacher, Milburn V. Jones, for the excellent program which had been presented. This was conveyed to the teacher by the chairman for the evening, Harry Jackson. Mention was made how the spirit of Christmas was displayed in every number and how through the presentation of 'The Adoration,' it is hoped that the children will not forget the real reason for the keeping of Christmas.

At the close Santa Claus arrived and distributed gifts from a brightly lighted and heavily-laden tree.

Delaying Action

BERN, Dec. 22 — (AP). — Swiss press comment on the German offensive in the west reflects a belief here that the drive is a last desperate gamble by the Germans to stave off impending defeat. A leading editorial in Die Weltmoche of Zurich described the offensive as "a retarding movement" that can only delay but not alter the outcome of the war.

They All Vary

FORT ERIE, Dec. 22 — (CP).—This part of Canada last night was appreciably warmer than the nearest point in the United States if two supposedly reliable thermometers were correct. The one at the Canadian end of the Peace Bridge read 12 degrees above zero, while that at the American side recorded five above.

Christmas Concert Given By Students

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 22.—(ENS). —Miss Hazel Johnston, teacher of school section S.S. No. 6, Belmont, or better known as the Old Havelock school and her twelve pupils, entertained the parents and friends at a social Christmas entertainment. Fred Rutherford was chairman for the following program:

Gifts were distributed and candies were given to all the children present.

Personal

The local war workers had a pot luck dinner and a beige quilt of poppy design was completed, and the gifts for men in service in Canada were wrapped for distribution.

Cornwall Police Organize Group

CORNWALL, Dec. 22—(CP).—Sgt. Cory Moore of Cornwall city police was elected president of the United Counties' branch of the Police Association of Ontario at an organization meeting here yesterday. The branch, to be known as Branch No. 27, will include in its membership police departments of Cornwall, Cornwall township, Morrisburg and Alexandria.

Other officers elected were: First Vice-President, Chief Clare Biccum, Morrisburg; Second Vice-President, Provincial Constable Robert Adie, Alexandria; Secretary, Sgt. Hermidos Poirier, Cornwall township police; Treasurer, Constable Arthur Dextras, Cornwall city police; Executive: Inspector Allan Clark, Constable Edward Osler, Cornwall city police; Constable Rose Dalbre, Cornwall township police.

Ship Lost

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., Dec. 22 — (CP-Cable)—Loss of the 50-ton Newfoundland schooner Mollie with all aboard her was indicated yesterday in wreckage picked up along the coast. How many men were aboard the vessel was not known here, but it was believed she carried a crew of three or four.

Huge Liberator Plane Flies Round World

MONTREAL, Dec. 22.— (CP).— The Commando, famed Liberator AL-504 of the R.A.F. Transport Command, has arrived in San Diego, California, on the last leg of the first round-the-world flight ever made from Canada, it was announced to-day at Transport Command Headquarters at Montreal airport at nearby Dorval.

The Commando was the plane which flew into the French battlefield in 1940 and rescued Gen. Sikorski, Polish commander-in-chief, and his staff, when they were hemmed in by the enemy, and also carried Prime Minister Churchill on his flight to Teheran, Iran, for the conference with President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin.

On the round-the-world flight from Montreal airport the aircraft has covered a distance of 24,652 statute miles in an actual flying time of five days, one hour and nine minutes. The average ground speed was slightly more than 203 miles an hour.

A Long Hop.

From Montreal, the plane flew to London and thence to Cairo, Ceylon, Perth, Australia, Sydney, Auckland, New Zealand, Fiji, Honolulu and San Diego.

The Commando was commanded by Wing Cmdr. W. H. Biddell, RAF, of East Grinstead, Sussex, England, and Montreal. Other members of the crew were: PO Aubrey N. Brodie, RAF, of Birmingham, England, and Montreal, co-pilot; FO John G. McArthur, RCAF, of London, Ont., and Montreal, navigator; Flt. Lt. W. F. Garnham, RAF, of Osterley, Middlesex, England, and Montreal, radio officer; WO Douglas J. Spence, RCAF, of Vancouver and Montreal, flight engineer, and Victor I. Bennister, London, England, and Montreal, flight clerk.

The hop from Ceylon to Australia is the longest over-water flight in the world, while the trip from Cairo to Ceylon, made non-stop, is considered one of the most hazardous flying operations anywhere.

Throughout the entire flight across five continents and six oceans, the Commando carried a maximum payload of government-sponsored passengers, war freight and mail, on all stages. From the Antipodes, the aircraft brought back passengers for Washington and Ottawa and others to connect at Montreal with the R.A.F. Transport Command's service to Great Britain, the Middle East and India.

In a telephone report today from San Diego, Wing Cmdr. Biddell said the flight had been uneventful and of a routine nature.

Flt. Lt. Garnham, the radio officer, said the aircraft always was in "constant and clearest" communication with the R.A.F. radio station at Montreal airport. At the point from Canada—12,500 miles— while crossing the Australian desert from Perth to Sydney, reception of messages was "of the highest quality."

BORDER PARROT — Richard McNab stands in Canada while his mother, LEFT, is in the United States. They are in Richard's grandmother's house located on the international border at Rock Island, Que. Mrs. Elric Cordeau, owner, had to ask permission from Washington recently to move her parrot from the kitchen to the living room, because the living room happens to be in the U.S.

Mrs. Cordeau says she knows the law and just when she has to ask permission from either Government to make living strictly legal. Shopping is a 50-50 proposition.

A Real Santa

ARMONK, N.Y., Dec. 22— (AP). — Armonk residents have become firm believers in Santa Claus. "Santa" is Ben Marx, 36-year-old druggist, who donned a red suit and whiskers and then stood on a main street corner presenting packages of cigarettes to passersby. He said he tired of trying to allocate smokes to his customers and so decided to give away his entire Christmas stock, 22 cartons.

Province Will Pay For Job Training

TORONTO, Dec. 22 (CP)—Veterans who receive "on the job" training under Ontario rehabilitation plans will receive wages under a method whereby the employing company will be reimbursed from public funds for part of the amount, Premier George Drew of Ontario said last night in an address broadcast over a provincial radio network.

"It is recognized that beginners receiving instruction in this way cannot earn full wages during the training period," he said. "For that reason the employment company will be reimbursed from public funds for part of the trainee's wages, worked out upon a diminishing scale as his usefulness increases."

"Under this plan travelling supervisors and field representatives will be appointed to visit the trainees regularly so that their progress may be followed and their rights protected."

He said that vocational and academic training is being given to war veterans in Ontario in a basis never before attempted in Canada.

Reviewing the work the province has done for veterans in co-operation with the Dominion Government Premier Drew spoke particularly of the Ontario training and re-establishment institute in Toronto, first of a number of similar training centres to be opened throughout Ontario.

The training was divided into two sections. One provided training in many different trades and included an arrangement under which men would be trained in industry. The other was academic, providing studies leading to university entrance.

Norwood Church Gives Annual Yule Concert

NORWOOD, Dec. 22 — (ENS). — The United Church Sunday School concert was held in the Town Hall on Wednesday evening, with a good attendance. The stage was decorated with a lighted Christmas tree and a varied program was given by the young people. The younger members sang a chorus of welcome, and the primary class sang "Jolly Jolly Santa Claus," and there were recitations by Patsy Atkinson, Douglas Blodgett, Ross Stewart and Joan Carbrey.

A piano duet, "Jolly Darkies," was played by Audrey and Geraldine McConnell, and preceded a three-act dialogue by Mrs. J. Stewart's class; "Christmas With a Bachelor," presented by Marion Cuthbertson, Annabelle Barrie, Isobel Giffen, Janet Giffen, Geraldine Fenner, and Dollie Detlor.

Miss Kirkes' class, consisting of 18 girls, dressed in yellow and white gowns, presented a Christmas tree drill; a recitation by Marion Cuthbertson, "Hitler's Dream," and a monologue by Audrey McMaster, and a schoolroom skit by the junior boys, consisting of Ronald Brown, Tom Starke, Marian Scott, Walter Clarke, Allan Munroe, Dewart Morrison and Carl Davis, was under the direction of Mrs. E. Munro, were also given.

Miss Frances Pakenham read the portions of Scripture represented by a tableau depicting the four Christmas scenes, "The Shepherds in the Fields," "The Announcement of the Angels," "The Shepherds at the Manger," "The Wise Men at the Manger," and all the scenes combined. Those taking part were Jean McAlpine, Isobel Giffen, Marjorie Davis as angels; Muriel Andrews, Mary; J. Hamblin, Joseph; the shepherds were David McNeil, Hartley Morrison, Delmer Rodgers, John Weir; the three wise men, Orville Hogg, John Barrie and Clarence Hubble. Rev. E. E. Pugsley acted as chairman.

WHERE GERMANS OPENED OFFENSIVE—In an order of the day to his troops Gen. Gerd van Rundstedt announced that "the hour has struck" to throw the Allies off German soil. Aided by the revived Luftwaffe and a new "secret weapon," about which there are no details, powerful German divisions are counter-attacking along an 80-mile front at the spot marked by the white arrows in the centre of the Allied line, held by the U.S. First Army. Reports said that the Germans have penetrated far into American lines, crashing into Belgium and Luxembourg. German press and radio are playing up the drive with the optimistic slogan, "Paris by Christmas."

Victim's Skull Thin Doctor Testifies

COBOURG, Dec. 22.—(ENS). — Adjourned from last week, the manslaughter preliminary hearing continued Thursday Magistrate R. B. Baxter committing Bandsman Fred Poole of Camp Borden for trial. Poole was charged as the result of the death on October 29 at Christie Street Hospital of Bandsman Herbert Johnson. Evidence given last week revealed that Johnson and Poole were in a fight at the local Armouries on October 28 during the stay of the band here in connection with the Victory Loan campaign. The hearing was adjourned in order that Dr. I. H. Erb, of Toronto, could be heard in connection with the postmortem report.

Dr. Erb testified Thursday that the death of Johnson was due to hemorrhaging from a fractured skull. Dr. Erb filed as an exhibit a small triangular piece of skull from Johnson's head, taken from the hemorrhage area. Dr. Erb pointed out that it was less than one-thirty-second of an inch thick, an unusually thin skull, he declared. The force of a blow which would fracture bone so thin would make little impression on a normal skull, he pointed out. Dr. Erb said that the average skull at that part of the head was from 1-16th to 1-8th of an inch in thickness.

The blow which fractured the skull might have been caused by striking the corner of a table or some object with a comparatively-pointed surface. The doctor added further that he was sure that contact with a flat, plane surface could not have caused the fracture. There was a small bruise on the lip which he felt did not enter into the picture. The fracture was on the right side near the temple, he said.

Freedom Of The Press In Canada

Last Sunday night Senator W. A. Buchanan, the president of the Canadian Press, the publisher of the Lethbridge Herald, and a man well-known to many citizens of Peterborough, made a national broadcast in which he called upon Canada's Parliament to declare itself for a "freedom of news" clause in the peace treaties which will follow this war. Senator Buchanan explained how the press in the Axis countries had been made the servant of a corrupt national policy, how news was distorted and suppressed for political ends, and how newspapers which opposed the Fascist regime were crushed out of existence. As the head of the great co-operative news-gathering agency of Canada, Senator Buchanan told his hearers that—

".. Directors of The Canadian Press last September took 'the Empire's first concerted stand toward making the world's news free' when they 'put this country's newspapers on record as wanting freedom (of news) written into the peace treaties'."

Canadian Press has played an important and honourable part in the crusade for honest news. In 1924 it resolved never to accept any financial aid from a government agency; in 1930 and again in 1935 at Imperial Press Conferences, the Canadian delegates urged the establishment of co-operative agencies for the gathering of news, and a direct result of this urging was that the British Press Association acquired Reuter's, the great British news agency, and established it on a irreproachable foundation as a source of untainted news. The Canadian Press has done much for freedom and accuracy of news in the British Commonwealth.

* * *

But what has this to do with a "freedom of news" clause in the peace treaties? At most, it could act as a moral agency; there is absolutely no way of keeping news either free or accurate in countries which do not want it that way. There is only one way of keeping news untainted, and that is for every individual newspaper publisher, and his staff, to be invincibly determined that it shall be so. If publishers are corrupt, news will suffer. And if governments are corrupt, the incorruptible publisher can be broken, just as many an honest publisher was broken in the early days of the Nazi regime in Germany.

* * *

The freedom of the press, about which so much has been written, is adequately protected in only two countries—Great Britain and the United States. In Britain there is no law which specifically protects the press from government pressure, but there is a body of legal precedent which acts very effectively in that respect. In the United States the First Amendment provides that "Congress shall make no law abridging the freedom of speech or of the press". But what about Canada? As the Montreal Gazette very ably points out, the press in Canada is without legal protection, for by the Statute of Westminster the precedents which protect the press of Britain do not apply to us here, and the British North America Act leaves the press without a rag to cover it. The British Columbia Special Powers Act, the Quebec Padlock Law, and the Alberta Press Act were all provincial laws designed to muzzle the press, and only the last of these was set aside by Ottawa. And if a government were to take office at Ottawa which wanted to silence newspaper opposition it could do so with the greatest ease by enacting special libel laws affecting the press, and by taxing subscriptions and advertising until newspapers would have to toe the line or be ruined. Freedom of the press in Canada exists by the grace of the government, and it could be forced to become a government agency, like the press in Germany, Italy and Russia.

* * *

An act of Parliament guaranteeing the freedom of the press in Canada would be of more practical benefit than a clause in the peace treaties demanding freedom of news. Every country must see that its own press is free, and is kept that way. If a free press is to exist the whole population, or a majority thereof, must desire it; the burden of using that freedom properly, and keeping news untainted, then rests on the publishers and editors of individual papers. Canada's' record in this respect has been a fine one, and we are sure that it will continue to be so, but in countries where governments are tyrannous and corrupt a free press cannot hope to exist except, as occupied Europe has shown us, in the form of an underground movement.

The Merriest Christmas

For the men of the Canadian Active Army from this city and district home from overseas on holiday leave, and their loved ones, next Monday will probably be the merriest Christmas of their lives. Some of the men who returned Sunday had been overseas for five years without leave.

The system of granting a month's leave, as a right, to soldiers with long terms of service overseas is one which has the approval of all Canadians. The number of leaves which may be granted at one time is, of course, limited, and the length of service is in most cases the governing factor. Those who have arrived in Peterborough on long-service leaves were among the lucky ones whose service terms won for them a Christmas holiday at home. Others will follow in the days after the holiday season, in numbers governed by prevailing circumstances.

To those who are home, and to others who may arrive before the holiday season, this newspaper extends its warmest wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. As we noted above, we are very sure that the occasions will be celebrated with rare merriment and happiness, for Christmas and New Year's must possess a special significance for these men who have spent several holiday seasons away from their loved ones. And the latter, no less than those who have returned to them, will find new meaning in the feast of Christmas and the celebration of the New Year.

Congratulating The Parks Committee

The Parks Committee deserve congratulation for their excellent provision and disposal of outdoor rinks this year; there are to be ten rinks altogether, and four of these are to be used for hockey at fixed hours every week; the other six are exclusively for skating and, with the rinks which are provided by a number of local industries, should give all the skating room which is needed in the city.

We have criticised the Parks Committee sharply from time to time, and for that reason we are particularly glad to be able to commend them for a good job; it is not pleasant to be carping all the time. Alderman Floyd Curtis, the chairman of the committee, and Mr. Armar Butcher, the parks superintendent, have earned the thanks of the city by the able manner in which they have met this problem and dealt with it.

The Examiner comments frequently on matters relating to playgrounds, because we feel tha. the provision of proper playgrounds is not only a matter of giving pleasure, but is also a contribution to public health, and a blow at juvenile delinquency. If children have plenty of playgrounds they are far less likely to get into mischief and to develop into neighbourhood gangs and street-corner loungers with unwholesome interests. The problem of juvenile delinquency has not been an important one in Peterborough, and it never will be as long as the city provides its children and young people with pleasant alternatives to misconduct.

"The Times"—World's Greatest Newspaper

(By J. H. B. PEEL)

IN the year 1785 a certain John Walter founded in London a newspaper called "The Daily Universal Register." His main reason for so doing was to prove the effectiveness of a new method of type-setting which set up whole words as well as individual letters.

The process, as it happened, was not a success, and was soon discarded, but the newspaper thrived, and today it is known as "The Times," universally recognized as the greatest newspaper in the world. On November 25th, 1944, its 50,000 issue was published.

THE story of "The Times" is far more than the story of a venture in journalism, for the newspaper became a power within the State, able to influence—at times even to direct—the Government's policy. Foreign ambassadors studied "The Times"—and they still study it—in order to learn what the cultivated Englishman was thinking upon current topics. "The Times" although not infallible, has for many years enojyed an unique reputation for authoritative and judicial statements of fact and of opinion.

In 1788 the "Daily Universal Register" assumed its now familiar name of "The Times," and was sold at 2½d, and soon afterwards at 3d. At once it set a new standard of reporting, and it was frequently able to print news of the progress of the Napoleonic campaigns before even the British Government had received the information.

In 1817 a new editor, Thomas Barnes, enlisted the services of many eminent Englishmen, and by the end of his editorship, in 1841, the newspaper had become a great power both in Britain and abroad. Such writers as Disraeli, Sterling, and Lord Brougham advocated what was then a policy of moderate liberalism, and among the great causes which 'The Times" effectively supported were the Reform Bill of 1832 and the repeal of the Corn Laws. It was in 1834 that the then Lord Chancellor, Lord Lyndhurst said "The editor of the Times is the most powerful man in the country."

THE advertisement section of the newspaper was carefully cultivated, and is today without equal in English journalism, for in its columns one reads of vacancies for University professors, for parlour-maids, and for commercial executives; motor cars are advertised, as well as mink coats, cigarettes, and the latest books. In its columns, too, are printed births, marriages, and deaths and the sacrifices of Britain's fighting men are remembered from year to year.

Towards the middle of the last century a regular city page was started and contained valuable information and comment for business men. Such writers as Thackeray, Thomas Moore, and Lord Macaulay were also engaged to write articles and literary criticism. Through them the high reputation which "The Times" had gained was maintained.

ON the technical side "The Times" continued to set the fashion in English journalism. In 1814, for instance, John Walter installed the Koenig press, the first steam-printing plant to be used in England. "The Times" used the first rotary printing press, in 1848, and the first type-setting machine in 1879. Aided by these technical devices the newspaper went from strength to strength. During the Crimean War it organized a staff of war reporters on a scale hitherto unknown, and, through the despatches of William Howard Russell, possibly the greatest war correspondent in history, it was able to expose the incompetence of British military administration. It was these reports, moreover, that led Florence Nightingale to go to the front to nurse the wounded there.

On the home front a team of writers (including Lord Sherbrooke, Lord Selborne, Dean Wace and the Warden of Merton College, Oxford) preserved a balance between the extremes of liberalism and of conservatism.

IN 1908 "The Times" was purchased by Lord Northcliffe. A number of famous supplements was first printed in the early years of this century—the Literary Supplement in 1902; the Engineering Supplement in 1905; and the Educational Supplement in 1910. After Lord Northcliffe's death in 1922, "The Times" was acquired by Lt. Col. J. J. Astor, who, realizing the authoritative position of the paper, decided to secure its future independence by establishing a board of five trustees whose consent would be required for any future transfer of ownership. The trustees include the Governor of the Bank of England, the Lord Chief Justice, and the President of the Royal Society.

In May, 1913, the price was reduced from 3d to 2d and in March, 1914, it was reduced to 1d, thus competing with the 'popular" newspapers. The move was an astute one, for the circulation was trebled, literally overnight, and when war broke out in August 1914, 150,000 copies of the newspaper were being sold every morning.

During the last war "The Times," so far from being swamped by cheap and vulgar competitors, maintained its lead in world journalism. Among its many wartime achievements were the unification of the Red Cross Society and the St. John's Ambulance Association; the launching of the Red Cross Fund, which brought in more than £16,000,000 for the relief of wounded allied men; and the bringing together of the Royal Army Medical Corps and the leading first-aid societies.

AMONG the fighting men its distributed millions of breadsheets—single sheets of close type bringing some of the most inspiring and consoling passages of English literature to the notice of many who would otherwise never have seen them.

"The Times" maintained also its philanthropical campaigns. In 1921, for example, it raised more than £170,000 towards the preservation of Westminster Abbey, and in 1925 it raised more than £250,000 towards the preservation of St. Paul's Cathedral.

In May, 1926, when the nation was nearly crippled by a general strike, "The Times" quietly installed a small printing press in its offices, and was in fact the only London daily newspaper that published an issue throughout the strike. One of the most valuable issues of "The Times" is that dated May 5th, 1926. It is a single small sheet printed on both sides by the multigraph machines that had been so adroitly installed. When the strike was over, the newspaper raised £241,833 16s 1d as a mark of the national gratitude for the way in which the police had stood loyal and handled the crowds with tact and resolution, thereby saving lives and property.

TODAY "The Times" flourishes as before. It costs 3d again, and, like all its English contemporaries, it is slimmer than formerly; yet its characteristics remain. There are the same advertisements for jobs, for goods, for contracts; the best experts write on current problems; and many eminent scholars contribute on academic matters.

All over the world, in fact, cultivated men and women, loving progress, yet chary of mere change for change's sake, read this greatest of all newspapers, which is indeed a mirror of what very many Englishmen—and, indeed, most responsible citiezns—are making and feeling about modern life.

On Re-Reading Tennyson

(By EDMUND SCOTT in the CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR)

TENNYSON seems to me one of the most grieviously underrated major poets of our literature. He made the mistake of writing a certain number of unfortunate lines which the reading public memorized with fatal ease, and which have done much to obscure his true greatness. Take a line such as: "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love". It has a Victorian twang; frivolous, and arch, and alas! dull.

Always, with Tennyson, it is the music of his lines that seems most satisfying in the end. His vocabulary is rich and excitingly exact, but the image he conjures up in such a passage as the following is secondary, beautiful as it is, to the insistent infinitely sinuous music:

Here are cool mosses deep,
And thro' the moss the ivies creep,
And in the stream the long-leaved flowers weep,
And from the craggy ledge the poppy hangs in sleep.

It is all too inadequate to point out that the first line has three feet, the second five, and the third six; objectively the passage is something like a wave that piles up, toppling high before it breaks: but it is a subtler thing than just an unsymmetrical cumulative arrangement of feet. The lines have, each of them, an individual motion of their own; the vowels and consonants affect the speed with which the lines are read; they wind mysteriously, unevenly, in the ear.

◇ ◇ ◇

There was no poet of the later nineteenth century who could have written so strange and yet so effective a line as

The long light shakes across the lakes.

But today there is an American poet in England, T. S. Eliot, who took that line and matched it with one of his own, an equally powerful line:

The long light shakes across the lake
The forces of the morning quake.

Tennyson had followed his superb line with

And the wild cataract leaps in glory which seems a poor thing beside the line that had gone before; poor beside Eliot's, too.

The most satisfying quality about Tennyson's best work is the quiet and moving nostalgia. But this great elegaic poetry excites the reader rather than depresses him. There is vitality, alertness, above all painstaking artistry that arrest the attention. The "Lotos Eaters" is certainly one of Tennyson's best and best-known poems. Though it is pitched in a minor key throughout, it is far removed from anything which could be thought gloomy. Its dreaminess never becomes somnolent; it holds the total attention from the first line to the last; the music of the lines is extraordinarily inventive, unexpected:

In the afternoon they came unto a land
In which it seemed always afternoon

And on, through that passage that is incomparable:

Branches they bore of that enchanted stem
Laden with flower and fruit, whereof they gave
To each: but whoso did receive of them
And taste, to him the gushing of the wave
Far, far away did seem to mourn and rave
On alien shores;

◇ ◇ ◇

Such poetry we cannot afford to neglect. It helps to harmonize the forces within us; and in harmonizing them makes us realize their exact nature clearly The understanding springs not only—in fact, not mostly—from the ideas expressed, but also from the rhythm and melody of the poetry. The power is "felt along the heart", not merely grasped intellectually. And that is an unmistakable mark of true poetry.

Scrap Books And Diaries

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

THE news stories telling of the death of Mr. Herbert D. Throop, for 30 years with the Parliamentary Library, pointed to his great interest in maintaining a scrap book.

It was often our pleasure to see these scrap books—for he kept not one but many—and there can be no doubt either of their value and comprehensiveness or of the fun he got out of keeping them going.

The keeping of a scrap book seems to be a fading hobby, along with the keeping of a diary. There's something about the rush of the world these days that dissuades us from recording the passing scene. Radios and movies and easy access to one another's homes have resulted in our spending fewer hours in our own rooms pursuing such hobbies as stamp collecting, posting a diary, keeping a scrap book.

It is possible that this is our loss. There is more to be gained from doing something than watching someone else do it. Today our tendency is the wrong way: we listen to radio concerts but don't play the piano, we go in thousands to watch sports events but don't play much ourselves, we read the collections of others' letters and diaries but we keep our own correspondence to the rudest minimum and only a small fraction of us keep diaries.

Mr. Throop, showing us through one of his scrap books that was a collection of press and other cuttings telling of what women had said and done in Canadian politics since Confederation, almost apologetically remarked: "I don't know why I started this one, but now that is has been accumulating for many years it really has quite a lot of interest." And it had, most certainly.

That is the secret with all hobbies. The gardener, beginning, sees little future in the labour of weeding and digging. But time and energy and a little of good taste will bring him in the end to the envied position of a man who knows about flowers. The diarist starts haltingly, seems unable to get anything on to his page except, the trivial. But let him stick at it some years and there will come a style and selection that makes the writing and reading of it a personal and intimate experience. The keeper of the scrap book, if he puts some thought to his work, is storing up for himself many hours of interesting relaxation in later years—and possibly gathering the material that another will turn into a novel or history or series of essays.

When the urgency of this war is over, when we shall be less immersed in our daily activities and less preoccupied with the whole dreadful business of conflict, this nation will do well to turn to hobbies. Hobbies create artists, artists create a distinctive nationality. That is important. But it is hardly less important that hobbies create a knowledge of how to employ one's leisure time; they are, too, the greatest insurance there is against old age.

A Bible Message

Verily, verily, I say unto you, He that entereth not by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber. But he that entereth in by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. To him the porter openeth; and the sheep hear his voice: and he calleth his own sheep by name, and leadeth them out. And when he putteth forth his own sheep, he goeth before them, and the sheep follow him: for they know his voice....

Then said Jesus unto them again, Verily, verily, I say unto you, I am the door of the sheep.... The thief cometh not, but for to steal, and to kill, and to destroy: I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly....

I am the good shepherd, and know my sheep, and am known of mine. As the Father knoweth me, even so know I the Father: and I lay down my life for the sheep. And other sheep I have, which are not of this fold: them also I must bring, and they shall hear my voice; and there shall be one fold, and one shepherd. (John 10: 1, 4, 7, 10, 14-16.)

Unconsidered Trifles

The big business man, obliged to take a quicker lunch than usual, went to a nearby cafe and ordered the best that could be had. Sitting opposite him was a well-built if over-slim young man, attacking some bread and cheese, and casting envious looks at his neighbour's plate. The latter, noting this, nodded sympathetically, and queried:

"Athlete on a diet, old chap?"

"No", came the reply, "one of your travellers on commission".

Two Irishmen worked side by side in a stone quarry. One of them, Flanagan by name, was careless in handling dynamite one day, and the other, Ryan, was given the job of carrying the sad news to his widow.

"Mrs. Flanagan", said he, "isn't it today when the fellow calls for the payment of your husband's life insurance?"

"It is that", was Mrs. Flanagan's reply.

"Well", proceeded Ryan, "ye can snap your fingers at him now".

Prophecy Is Dangerous

Prophecy in this war has been a pretty devastating business—for the prophets. Consider the following, reproduced by Time Magazine:

"Nineteen forty-three will see complete, absolute defeat for the Axis."....Admiral William F. Halsey, New Year's Day, 1943.

"I have an appointment in Berlin a year from today."....General H. H. Arnold, February, 1943.

"It is my hope and belief that before November, 1944, the Battle of Europe will have terminated in a smashing victory."....Lieut. General Mark W. Clark, December, 1943.

"The Allies will win the European war in 1944."....General Eisenhower, December, 1943.

"Victory over the Germans is not far off."....U.S. Under Secretary of War Robert P. Patterson, August, 1944.

"Before this statement is published, hostilities may have terminated in the European theatre."... General George C. Marshall, in the Army and Navy Journal, Dec. 7, 1944.

The above authorities are all American. But the British have had their prophets, too, and they have not fared much better. It was General Sir Bernard Montgomery who, shortly after D-Day, predicted the defeat of Germany by the end of the year, qualifying it only with the words "if we all work hard."

The truth, of course, is that no man in the world was wise enough to horoscope the duration of this war—it was on too vast a scale, with too many unknown factors And that, true through five years, still remains true today.—Ottawa Journal.

Weeping Yanks Fight Tanks With Knives Only

By JOHN WILHELM

WITH THE AMERICAN 1ST ARMY NEAR STAVELOT, BELGIUM, Dec. 20.—(Delayed)—(CP-Reuters.)—Standing in this wintry, mist-filled forest outside Stavelot, we can begin to piece together a tragic story—the story of American soldiers fighting huge "Royal Tiger" German tanks with only rifles and bazookas, fighting with tears in their eyes, realizing the extent of the German drive, fighting even when surrounded beyond hope.

Grey hordes of the Wehrmacht, with masses of 70 and 80 ton tanks, were thrown against this area by the German High Command, seeking to ride over the American infantry with brute forces.

The Boche has gained much ground, but he hasn't overrun these soldiers at Stavelot.

Beyond Stavelot, in the Monschau Forest, lies another story—a story of wrecked American equipment, similar (to the casual eye if not in its overall total) to the devastation of Dunkerque.

It is not only a story of bumper-to-bumper American vehicles frantically trying to pull back before the German colossus. It is also a story of some American troops overrun and surrounded and pounded by the German guns until a dull glaze formed over their eyes, and many surrendered.

German cameramen for the first time in this campaign were able to photograph long lines of American prisoners. Where there were dribbles before, now there were hosts.

I saw some of these photographs of the area beyond Stavelot and through the Monschau Forest, identified by road signs and background. They showed American vehicles crazily lurching off the road in an attempt to avoid the Luftwaffe, blackened, burned-out, jammed columns of American lorries and half-tracks and ambulances with American bodies—many American bodies—sprawled around them. These were non-combatant units of the 1st Army who attempted to break away as ground units fought to stem the German tide.

Devilish Trap

This tragedy of devastation, of miles of American troops and columns of armor trapped by a burning, overwhelming, bullet-ridden wave of death and destruction, has unbelievably altered the mental complexion of the troops of the 1st Army.

There is hatred and madness in their eyes, and bitterness in their hearts.

Reports filter back from the more forward lines of American soldiers so filled wtih remorse and revenge that they fall upon the enemy with but knives in their hands; with tears streaming from their eyes.

To realize what a devilish trap caught these American forces, you must understand the Monschau Forest with its thickness and few small trails over which to evacuate men and equipment.

Then you must visualize huge dumps of supplies and equipment and large rolling convoys which make up an army. Then slowly, you will begin to see a partial picture of what occurred when the German offensive overran this area and forced a retreat under bursting enemy shells and bombs.

American Plan To Budget Jobs When War Over To Ensure Full Work

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22 — (CP) —Latest and most comprehensive plan for ensuring full employment in the post-war period in the United States will go before the new Congress, which meets in January, in the form of a Bill calling for annual budgeting to make jobs for all.

The proposal has powerful backing, being the product of the Senate Military Affairs Sub-Committee on War Contracts whose members include Vice-President-elect Harry Truman of Missouri, Senators James E. Murray (Dem.-Mont.) and Chapman Revercomb (Rep.-W. Va.).

How the measure will come before Congress and who will sponsor it remains to be decided. So far it is merely a draft Bill submitted to Congress without further comment, for discussion.

In brief the proposal is that on the first day of each annual session of Congress the President submit a "national budget." Designed to make sure that the total production of goods and services in the year ahead will be sufficient to keep all employable persons gainfully occupied.

It is all in the planning and theoretical stage at present, but the proposal has been hailed as at least an attempt to show the way to producing the 60,000,000 jobs the administration has promised for the peacetime era.

It is common-place to find Canadiens holding important positions in Washington, but it was not generally known that Professor Henry Cassidy of University of Toronto has been running the clasess at the University of Maryland where 100 employees of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration are being trained for foreign posts. Professor Cassidy now is leaving to take a new chair in his old university. There are a half-dozen Canadians in the class and nearly 100 Canadians are among the 1,800 staff the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation

International Plan For Air Transportation

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

By B. T. RICHARDSON

CHICAGO.—The strange and contradictory problem of international organization is that nations and peoples who admire freedom are opposed to organizing it within an effective framework by which it may operate. This has been the paradox of the American position at the international civil aviation conference.

The United States delegation argued powerfully for proclaiming the freedom of the air, but not, emphatically not, at the expense of delegating any real authority to an international organization. The Latin American republics, 20 in number, were heard in chorus on the theme that nothing must be done to impair their sovereignty. In one case objection was taken even to assuming an obligation to maintain its airports for international use in uniformity with airports in other countries, with the international organization paying for improvements which a country cannot sustain.

The Chicago conference poses the question whether or not it is possible to establish international organizations, regulating aviation or anything else, in the face of American objections to conferring real power upon them. Paradoxically, the conference records encourage the belief that this problem is not insoluble.

The organization, in its interim form located in Canada, consists of an assembly to which each signatory will send a member. The assembly will have 50 or more members, and its function will be deliberative, except that it will approve the budget. Its executive body will be the council, consisting of 20 members, with a vacancy reserved for Russia. One of its initial weaknesses arises from the fact council member will be paid by their own countries. They will not be primarily servants of the international air organization. If the nations send their best aviation men, the council will soon assume a new character; but if this work is left to the professional diplomats, it may remain just another international body.

The functional principle, which Canada proposed in Chicago, by which true world aviation interests would be the basic yardstick of status and influence in the organization, was almost submerged. The first seven members of the council are those "of chief importance" in civil aviation, and the selections were: United States, United Kingdom, France, Netherlands, Brazil, Mexico, Belgium, with a vacant eighth seat for Russia.

No real effort was made to set up a yardstick to measure "importance." It would not be difficult, for statistical measurement of aviation rank is possible. Statistics are meagre now, but in a few years the records of the organization itself will show the order of importance of countries in all branches of civil aviation.

The next five members are "countries providing facilities" for international aviation, or "fly-through" countries. These selections were Canada, Cuba, Norway, Iraq and Peru, though Cuba and Norway both offered to retire to allow India to be seated, and Cuba's withdrawal was accepted. The third category, with eight seats, is intended to ensure geographical representation, and the selections were China, Australia, Czechoslovakia, Egypt, Turkey, El Salvador, Colombia and Chile. In this line-up Latin American republics secured six seats, even with Cuba's withdrawal, or 30 per cent. of the council membership; while Central and South America represents less than six per cent., on the basis of 1938 figures, of the world's domestic and international air route mileage.

The new air council will possess no regulatory powers. It will be purely advisory. In this respect United States policy won the day. The council's true working agencies will likely be its subsidiary air transport committee, air navigation committee and, during the interim period, its committe on a multilateral convention. A staff of between 200 and 300 will likely be required at the start, and considerable unfinished business remains in connection with technical annexes and the unresolved dispute over air freedoms and regulation of traffic.

In dealing with allocation of routes, control of rates and regulation of frequencies of service — three phases of civil air operations in which the most fierce competition may arise— the council has no power. The original Canadian proposal, which won support from the British delegation, was based on the Civil Aeronautical Board of the United States as a model.

The C.A.B. has basic authority in the United States in the light to administer civil aviation affairs of convenience and public necessity." It is true, the C.A.B. does not regulate frequences, but it does assign routes and regulate rate, and if airline operator began to step up frequencies so they were running empty planes to destroy a competitor, with the effect of damaging the public "convenience and necessity," there is little doubt the C.A.B. would be concerned.

But the concept of applying the C.A.B. as a model for an international organization was opposed by the U.S. delegation. Delegation of "naked power" to such an organization, said Mr. Berle, might lead to "arbitary" regulation.

Despite this, the A. B. C countries—America, Britain and Canada— did at one stage devise a rate control clause. This clause introduced what Lord Swinton called "a new principle." That principle was the consent of operators combined with the obligation of signatory states to enforce decisions, rather than leave it to the international council. First, airline operators would form an association and fix rates. Second, any operator could ask the council to review the situation and recommend, on the basis of expert evidence, a change. Third, if dispute still existed, the council could call all interested states into consultation and seek agreement. If assent were not secured at that level, the theory was that no recommendation could be enforced against an unwilling state. This plan, Mr. Berle said, was "a reasonable suggestion to resolve one age-old difficulty.

Lord Swinton carried it one step further, noting that since states are honorably bound to carry out recommendations of the council, "it is probably more effective that the states honorably assume that responsibility from

It takes a kid to make a Christmas... even when the kid is a six-footer, and twenty-two next birthday. Even when he's now a seasoned fightingman with a string of campaigns behind him, and maybe one or two ahead.

◆ To Mom and Dad this Christmas Eve he's still the little boy with the big eyes, who sneaked out of bed and peeked between the bannisters for a glimpse of Santa Claus.

◆ Funny little codger he was... hoping to catch Santa in the act of filling his stocking... trying to figure out how he managed to squeeze down the chimney ...forgetting all about it in the wild excitement of Christmas morning... stamping around the house beating his new drum, whooping it up, singing carols at the top of his voice... that was quite a while ago.

◆ Once again it's Christmas Eve. "I'll be thinking of you, Mom and Dad," he writes; "Gosh, it's hard to believe it's my fifth Christmas away. Bet the tree looks swell. And the candy canes and pop corn. Save 'em for next year and we'll all celebrate together."

◆ Mom can't see the postmark very clearly, or the writing either. Dad seems to be having trouble with his glasses, too. But when they look at the kid's picture they know from his cheery grin and big confident shoulders that the job he's doing is in good hands... that the Spirit of Christmas will live and flourish again all over the earth.

Rugby Mishap Places First In Queer Quirks

NEW YORK, Dec. 22 —(AP)—It was an earth-shaking, once-in-a-lifetime feat, but Ernie Lombardi, molasses-footed catcher of the New York Giants, did not contribute 1944's No. 1 sports oddity the day he beat out an infield hit against Boston Braves.

The majority of 86 coast-to-coast sports editors participating in the Associated Press poll agreed today the queerest quirk of the campaign came in the Army-Notre Dame grid game when Headlinesman Dr. Dave Reese of Dayton, Ohio, was caught between Cadet Fullback Doc Blanchard and two Irish tacklers.

Reese, one of the country's top officials, suffering a broken arm and was forced to leave the game, the score of which — Army 59, Notre Dame 0—was another well-backed oddity. The Reese episode, already voted the football oddity of the year, now moves to the top among all sports.

But there were plenty of other screwy situations.

For instance, three horses raced to a dead heat in the $10,000 Carter Handicap at Aqueduct; Tulsa's football team scored 67 points in two straight games—and lost both; Jim Ferrier used his mashie as a pool cue in making a golf shot out of a tree, and lost the San Francisco Open by a stroke; Illinois had 10 touchdown runs called back; four false starts and two gun recalls disqualified all six starters in the National A.A.U. 100-metre dash; the Hume brothers, Michigan milers, Bob and Ross, ran nine consecutive dead heats.

Two From St. Mike's Tied For Top Spot

TORONTO, Dec. 22. — (CP). — Johnny Blute and Johnny McCormack of St. Michael's College Majors moved back into a tie for first place in the Junior O.H.A. scoring race with 22 points each. Former leader Doug. McMurdy, St. Catharines defenceman, is next in line with 21 points.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

To the members of the Peterborough Curling Club and the members of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, and to the many friends who are interested in these two pastimes and who take time out to read our daily column, we wish to—

Just send this greeting at Christmas
To wish you the best of good cheer,
And hope that right after Chrstmas
There's a bigger and better New Year.

Our curling season will open this evening. It is expected that we will have several of the sheets of ice ready for play. It would be a good time for the skips to bring along their new members of their rink and show them what it's all about.

On Saturday afternoon we hold our first "week-end" bonspiel. The draw will be made from the board promptly at 2 o'clock. Telephone your name in and then, to use our old slogan, "Be on time."

We have the schedule books ready now for distribution. Call in at the rink and get one.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP). — Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs certainly don't seem to be imbued with the Christmas spirit to any extent, the way they are bandying around the pleasantries, but it makes a very interesting—if not edifying—spectacle.

If hockey attendances weren't already at a high level, the suspicious might say the whole thing was a frame-up to create interest in the doings of ahe N.H.L. boys. There isn't much point to that, however, because if they pack many more customers into the arenas, they will have to do a little roof-lifting.

The boys seem to be quite serious about the whole thing, in a manner reminiscent of the good old days when Conn Smythe and Art Ross were waging some of their pitched battles. Tommy Gorman of Canadiens and Hap Day of Leafs have been getting quite hot under the collar this week, and sports writers in both cities are taking up the cudgels.

The Montreal Star in a story bearing no by-line has branded Mr. Day the champion cry baby coach of the season for his recent vigorous complaints about hockey doings at the Montreal Forum. Among actions he decried were the reported tossing of an ice-cream container at Babe Pratt, and the mysterious dousing of the lights over the Leafs' goal at a crucial point in their last game.

The Star quotes an unnamed official of Canadiens as saying the lighting trouble was due to a faulty transformer. The same official suggests Leafs are "playing the most uninteresting hockey in the N.H.L. They simply grab the puck and shoot it up the ice."

The Star story then adds that it is passing strange that all letters from Leafs to the N.H.L. officials are signed by Hap Day instead of Frank Selke, and says that Canadiens "see the hand of a former leader of the Leafs behind the recent moves, including their refusal to include French-Canadian players on their team."

The last reference, which has been circulated before, apparently refers to Toronto's refusal to trade two of their brightest stars—Gaye Stewart and Bob Goldham, now in the Navy—for Goalie Paul Bibeault. The clubs reached an impasse over that deal after Montreal spurned a very chunky cash offer for the Bibeault hockey property.

The Montreal story also hints that Leafs aren't too happy about the fact that Canadiens are tripping along at the top of the league despite that much-discussed non-deferment rule which was expected to wreck the Canucks.

After all this, people are going to be very, very disappointed if the gore and teeth don't fly far and wide the next time Day's "blood-and-iron" Leafs meet Gorman's aggrieved athletes.

Hawks' Team Faces Shake-up

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 — (AP). — President Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks hockey team told the players on Thursday "there are going to be sweeping changes" in the playing personnel. The Hawks on Wednesday night dropped their 10th game in 15 starts, losing to New York Rangers 3-1.

Tobin announced that Johnny Harms and Harvey Fraser would be sent to Providence of the American League for a two-week period, while Joe Papike has been sold to Cleveland Barons. He said, however, that these shifts had nothing to do with the threatened shakeup

"I've taken over the responsibility of this club," Tobin said, "and Im not going to ask the Chicago public to put up with that kind of hockey any more." Apparently, Tobin referred to the Ranger defeat which firmly entrenched the Hawks in the cellar of the National Hockey League.

The Hawks president also announced a new player would join the team Saturday night in Montreal where the Hawks meet the Canadiens. He added that a school for Hawks' rookies would be established next spring in Western Canada.

Mueller Record Is Unmatched

NEW YORK, Dec. 21— (AP) — Individual and team fielding records of the St. Louis Cardinals could be subbed for the National League official averages, released Thursday, and, with three exceptions the leaders would be identical.

Woody Only Intruder.

Only Woody Williams of the Reds (.971) at second base breaks the Red Birds' infield domination. Al Lopez of the Pirates (.984) tops the catchers, and Bucky Walters of the Reds (1.000) is the best fielding pitcher, but all other laurels go to the Cardinals.

Ray Sanders at first base (.994) Marty Marion at short (.971), and Whitey Kurowski at third (.965), give the Cards three-fourths of an all-star fielding inner circle. Johnny Hopp, who made only one error (.997), tops the regular outfielders.

As a team, Billy Southworth's gang set a major league mark at .982, and a similar record for fewest errors at 112. Both previous standards were held by Cincinnati of 1940.

Endurance marks holds more interest than bare averages this year, especially Ray Mueller's feat of catching every Cincinnati contest, 155, and stretching his consecutive game streak with the help of a hold-over 62 from last year to 217 —unmatched in either circuit.

By catching 115 games Lopez tied Gabby Hartnett's feat of being behind the plate in 100 or more games for 12 seasons.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

The dip in the weather is expected to hasten the preparation of the outdoor skating rinks and that will be welcome news to the army of youngsters who are anxious for a chance to don the blades and get some action. Last week's blizzard threw a monkey wrench into the machinery for a while but the parks staff have overcome that difficulty and now the green light is showing for the hockey cushions. There is keen interest among young players in the setup for the season and there shouldn't be the slightest trouble in getting enough material to make up all the teams that it will be possible to handle. The hockey club is looking after the young element, with a league to be formed of teams made up of players under 16 and that will give the senior players who are to act as coaches an opportunity to handle youngsters at the right age to making instruction count for a lot. There are complaints all over the country that younger players are not being given a thorough basic training and the scheme launched here should help to take care of that situation.

The names of Peterborough athletes who in large numbers having been playing the bigger game in the armed forces are appearing prominently in the news these days and unfortunately the news is not always good. Capt. Don Weese, reported killed in action in Italy the other day was a basketball player who used to figure largely in cage contests at the Y.M.C.A. and was also a tennis player and had begun to show promise as a golfer when he enlisted. Major Archie Hamilton who returned home wounded recently is known as one of Peterborough's best cricketers and was also prominent as an amateur boxer. Two more athletes, badly injured overseas have just arrived back in Canada. One is Capt. Harry Marsh, who was one of the stars of the Collegiate football team in his school days and afterwards shone as a lineman with the Peterborough Orfuns. He was one of the best secondary defence players to be developed here and was also prominent as a basketball guard with the St. Paul's and Outboard Marines. The other is Lieut. Whitty Thirnbeck who used to play a useful game of hockey and more recently was in the limelight as a basketball coach and referee.

Some Odd Ideas

"Major Fred McLaughlin, who died over the week-end, was one of the pioneers of National League hockey in Chicago and long a power behind the Black Hawks," says Billy Westwick in the Ottawa Journal. "The Major was credited with many odd hockey ideas, almost as many as there have been coaches around the Chicago club. The Hawks hold something of a record in the coaching department. While Paul Thompson seems fairly well entrenched there now, there was a time when the turnover was very rapid in that sector. So, while the Major had some rather fixed ideas about hockey, they didn't always jibe with some of the generally accepted theories of experienced hockey managers; and when the latter failed to put them into effect the hatchet was wielded quite often. Even a Stanley Cup triumph didn't mean you were a success at Chicago and there were instances when coaches severed connections with the club at the least expected times."

* * * * * *

"For a long time McLaughlin's greatest ambition was to operate a team of strictly United States-born hockey players," continues the Westwick article. "He seemed to have given up on it in later years, but the McLaughlin influence was always evident in this respect and the Hawks have been more prolific, by far, than any other of the U.S. clubs in bringing in American-born hockey players. To date, Chicago is the only N.H.L. team to have ever won the Stanley Cup with a U.S.-born manager. Bill Stewart, a former major league baseball umpire and hockey referee, was at the helm for a cup triumph, but it wasn't long before Bill parted company with the Hawks and was back refereeing. Back about seven years ago McLaughlin realized one ambition. He sent out an All-American team, or a reasonable facsimile, and the Hawks knocked off New York Rangers. Roe Romnes, Louis Trudel, Alex Levinsky and a few others, rarely heard of before or after, were the American-born players. Under his guidance the Hawks sought and brought up some good ones, such as goalies Mike Karakas and Sam Lopestri, Roger Jenkins, Cully Dahlstrom, Johnny Mariucci and others."

Chick Not Chortling

"Unlike most other sports writers in Ontario, this one does not propose to chortle over the plight of the champion Oshawa Generals, now that they appear to be on the way out, so far as the O.H.A. junior 'A' title is concerned this year," Chick Appel remarks in the Stratford Beacon-Herald. "The Generals have ruled the roost for a long time. Too long, in fact, for the good of the sport. Yet it is doubtful if any other team will ever equal the Oshawa record, which should be plenty of consolation for the Motor City fans. The Generals are still a pretty good hockey club and may upset the dope, but few look for that while the powerhouses at St. Mike's and St. Kitts remain intact. Basing an opinion on the results to date, it would seem that the Irish and the Falcons have the inside track this winter. But don't sell those Galt Red Wings and Generals short, because one or two replacements could easily convert either of them into the best club. After a somewhat disastrous start Al Murray's gang down in Galt have come through with three straight wins, indicating that they have developed a winning stride and now show a better scoring punch, which they so sadly lacked the last time this observer witnessed them in action."

* * * * * *

The Detroit Red Wings tightened their grip on second place in the National League race and closed in on Canadiens last night when they handed the New York Rangers a crushing 11 to 3 defeat in Detroit. Flash Hollett who seems to be improving with age was the spearhead of the Red Wing attack, drilling three goals past Ken McAuley and assisting in two others, a really four-star offensive effort for a defence player. The veteran Mud Bruneteau also had himself quite a night for he fired two goals and set up another pair. Evidently after the effective sniping of his younger brother, Ed in the Wings last previous game Moderre had to stage this performance to show that he was still boss of the family. Wochy who is making a real bid for the best rookie award also had two goals. The game was costly for the Rangers for in addition to the one-sided trimming they also had the misfortune to lose two of their defence players Labrie and Moe through injuries.

Hundreds Honor Lupe Velez Before Funeral

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 22 — (AP). — Hundreds of friends and admirers yesterday thronged the mortuary for a final glimpse of the once fiery Lupe Velez, Mexican actress who last week took her own life.

Garbed in a white robe, the former star wore golden slippers and a diamond bracelet with gold links, the lone selection from her vast array of costly jewellery. Her head rested on a pillow of white gardenias and a gold crucifix as entwined in her fingers.

Floral pieces included gardenias from Harald Ramond, European actor named by Lupe in a suicide note as the father of her unborn child. The casket was encircled by white gardenias and chrysanthemums and topped by a cross of white carnations.

Chief mourners were Lupe's mother, Senora Josefina Velez Y Villa-Lobos of Mexico City; a sister, Josefina, and the latter's husband, Pte. Gordon Anderson, San Antonio, Tex.

The mother, weeping uncontrollably, carried a prayer book and a crucifix. "Hijita mia" (my little daughter), she sobbed.

Lupe will again lie in state to-day until the funeral which is scheduled for 2 p.m. The body will be sent to Mexico City for burial.

Colonel Weds

CHICAGO, Dec. 22 —(AP)—Mrs. Maryland Mathison Hooper of Chicago and Col. Robert R. McCormick, editor and publisher of the Chicago Tribune, were married yesterday in a quiet ceremony performed in the apartment of Chauncey McCormick, cousin of the bridegroom.

Fuel Problem

LONDON, Dec. 22 (CP)—Warning that zero weather might force closing of city schools was given yesterday by Superintendent G. A. Wheable at the final 1944 Board of Education meeting. He said it was difficult to heat schools sufficiently with inferior fuel provided.

Christmas Toys Are Scarce

—ELECTRIC TRAINS
—MECCANNO SETS
—TRICYCLES
—WIND-UP TRAINS
—METAL FIRE ENGINES
—METAL TRUCKS, etc., etc.

. . . in fact almost all the favorite metal toys, spring toys and electric toys are off the market owing to wartime restrictions. The toy makers have done well in producing other non-metallic toys but the children love those old favorites.

If you have such articles in your home and no longer need them you can sell them quickly and easily.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 22.— (AP). — During the last year this Dept. has at various times reported efforts on the part of organized baseball to encourage kids to play ball.... The results appeared rather discouraging after the recent minor and major league meetings when the majors failed to string along with the minors in appropriating money to support a series of "clinics" projected by the High school committee and all hands fought shy of imposing penalties for signing High school kids to professional contracts ....But we can't get pinched for trying, so here's another suggestion for baseball and other sports bodies that want to stimulate junior competition.

Leaders Wanted

This column's suggestion is that baseball (and the same goes for golf, tennis, hockey and so on) should establish some sort of "scouting" system to find the places where the game is neglected, both in and out of the schools....Then a special effort should be directed toward those places (finding one enthusiastic leader is the first important step....Once the kids start play, the job is to teach them to play to the best of their ability and that's where coaching clinics can come in....Finally, organized baseball could provide an even wider competititve program than is offered by recreation projects....There's nothing like a shot at a title and a trip out of town with the gang to keep a boy's interest alive.

Mare Awarded Place In Sun

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 22.—(AP). — Traffic Court, a failure as a brood mare but a whiz as a runner, won a place Thursday along with the Twilight Tears and the Pavots in a roundup of 1944 turf superlatives compiled by two of the sport's top racing secretaries.

John B. Campbell, secretary at all the New York tracks and a Hialeah race course steward, and Charles J. McLennan, secretary at Pimlico, Garden State, Suffolk Downs and Hialeah, agreed that Miller and Burger's six-year-old Discovery mare made the greatest comeback.

Scores Eight Victories

Kept away from the races for 27 months while she flunked a trial on the breeding farm, Traffic Court was put back into training and scored eight victories, four of them in stake races, this year.

Other Campbell and McLennan choices:

Best all-round performer —Calumet Farms' [illegible]light Tear, the horse of the year.

Greatest finish—the triple dead heat in the Carter Handicap at Aqueduct June 10, when the camera was unable to separate Bossuet, Brownie and Wait A-Bit. (Campbell, who handicapped the horses for the race, modestly left McLennan to make his selection.)

Best sprinter—McLennan picked Twilight Tear, while Campbell took Greentree Stable's 5-year-old Devil Diver.

Hard luck horse—Alex Barth, the perennial runner-up. The 6-year-old Millbrook Stable horse finished second in the eight races, five of them $50,000 stakes.

Biggest surprise—Vienna's victory over Twilight Tea, which closed at 1 to 20, in the Alabama Stakes at Belmont.

Most promising 2-year-old colt—Walter M. Jefford's undefeated Pavot.

Wings Smother Rangers 11-3 At Home

By The Canadian Press

Detroit Red Wings, after straying momentarily last week-end, today were back on the trail of Montreal Canadiens, sounding a new and louder menace.

Underlining their threat with a crushing display of offensive power, wings smothered New York Rangers 11-3 to move within three points of the league leaders, take a three-point margin over Toronto Maple Leafs in the second-place argument, and equal the team single-game scoring mark for the season. Leafs scored 11 to Black Hawks' five in downing Chicago Oct. 29.

Bill (Flash) Hollett, one of the finest rushing defencemen in the game, put on one of the year's top individual displays in firing three goals, two unassisted, and drew a pair of assists as well. Other standouts in the scoring avalanche were Mud Bruneteau with two goals and two assists, Joe Carveth with one and two, and Steve Wochy with two goals.

Their second straight triumph after Sunday's damaging 2-1 reverse by Chicago assured the Detroiters of a Christmas present of second place.

They can go a long way towards settling the question decisively in a two-game series with Toronto Saturday and Monday.

Jack Adams' men clinched the decision in the first period when they hammered in four scores against the visitors' one. They turned it into a rout by scoring five times without reply in the second and then shared four goals in the third.

Don Grosso, Carl Liscombe and B. McDonald accounted for three Wing goals and Grant Warwick, Fred Thurier and Ab Demarco scored for New York.

Threats of sweeping player shake-ups came from two league officials last night as Art Ross of Boston Bruins and Bill Tobin of Chicago Black Hawks expressed dissatisfaction with their clubs' showings.

Ross was particularly irked by his charges' inability to defeat the circuit's top teams, Montreal and Detroit, to whom they have lost seven decisions in as many starts. He mentioned no names, but emphasized "certain changes must be made."

Tobin announced that Johnny Harms and Harvey Fraser would be sent to Providence of the American League while Joe Papike has been sold to Cleveland. He said a new player would join the last-place Hawks for Saturday's game with Canadiens in Montreal, and added that the club would open a new hockey school in Western Canada next spring.

West Boasts Powerful Hockey Teams

WINNIPEG, Dec. 22.—(CP). — The hockey picture to-day from the lakehead across the prairies of Manitoba and Saskatchewan to Alberta and the Rockies generally shows a stand-out team leading each of the various junior and senior circuits. There is one notable exception — in the Southern Saskatchewan Junior League.

Senior hockey at the Lakehead —home of Port Arthur Shipbuilders, who lost out to Quebec Aces in the Allan Cup final last season—still awaits the season's opening whistle.

The juniors are well away, however, and the undisputed leaders so far are Port Arthur Flyers. They played the nine games of the series and final without a loss, and only one game ended in a tie.

In the Manitoba Inter-Services senior loop, it is Winnipeg's R.C.A. F. Bombers again. With 13 points they have lost only one game and drawn one.

In the junior set-up, the story is the same. Winnipeg Monarchs have gone undefeated in four games in the Manitoba Junior League south division, and Winnipeg Esquire-Red Wings have turned in the same performance in the north division.

Farther west, in the Southern Saskatchewan Junior League, competition for league leadership is keener. Moose Jaw Canucks are well ahead, but Regina Commandos are conceded a chance of overtaking the leaders with nine games to go.

Leading the Edmonton Junior League are Canadians, last year's champions, with three victories in as many starts.

In the three-team Alberta Services Senior League, the Calgary Army Club from Currie Barracks has scored four victories in five starts. Calgary Air Force, with three triumphs, is second, and Calgary Navy third.

Hamilton Players In Top Bracket

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP). — Dillon Brady and Johnny Conick of Hamilton Majors are tied for the scoring leadership in the Senior O.H.A. with 12 points each.

Barons Wallop Providence 8-5

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons broke a 4-4 second period deadlock in Providence last night to wallop the Reds 8-5, scoring a similar triumph to that of Sunday in which they defeated the Reds 6-5. In the other American Hockey League game last night, Indianapolis Capitals turned back the Buffalo Bisons and widened their lead in the Western Division.

Earl Bartholome's three goals paved the way for the Barons' victory, with Dan Sprout, Bartholome and Les Cunningham sending Cleveland ahead 3-0 in the first period. Goals by Forget, Lavoie, and Bergeron in the second period forced a deadlock which was advanced 4-4 on goals by Cunningham and Bellemare.

Tom Burlington. Ed Speaker and Bartholome added other tallies for Cleveland in the final frame, with Lavoie adding the last goal for Providence.

Indianapolis' victory was the ninth in a row on home ice, but the Bisons put up a bitter fight before 3,368 Indianapolis fans. Tony Bukovich scored three of the Caps goals with Dick Kowcinak netting the fourth. Pargeter and Emerton were the Buffalo scorers.

Hockey's Big Seven

(By The Canadian Press)

Syd Howe of Detroit collected one point to move ahead of Clint Smith of Chicago and hold fifth place in hockey's big seven as the Red Wings trounced New York Rangers 11-3 in the only scheduled National Hockey League game last night. Howe was the only player appearing in the big seven who was active and thus other leaders were held scoreless.

Frigate Rescues Eight Sailors

OTTAWA, Dec. 22 — (CP). — The story of the rescue of eight British Navy and Army men by the crew of the Canadian frigate Swansea from a sinking caison of one of the pre-fibricated ports erected on the French coast after D-Day was revealed to-day.

The great concrete caisson was one of many being towed to Normandy to form part of a harbor, the Navy said in a press release.

Swansea, in command of Cmdr. A. L. Layard, began rescue operations in mid-afternoon. Run after run was made past the listing caisson, but lines shot by coston guns each time were caught by the wind and dropped into the sea.

With the eight men huddled on a ledge and the caisson wallowing deeper in the water, Swansea decided to make a try with her sea boat. The whaler was lowered under command Swansea's executive officer, Lieut. John T. Band of Toronto, now acting captain of the ship, with a six-man boat's crew, but his attempt was unsuccessful.

With darkness approaching the Swansea had to get the men off the caisson before she could pick up the boat. It took another hour of cautious edging through the seas before, going slow astern, the frigate backed alongside the towering concrete shell. The boat had been out nearly two hours before Swansea came alongside and picked it up.

Other members of the boat's crew were Petty Officer George Ardy, London, Ont., Leading Seaman John Berryman, London, Ont., LS. Stanley Millions, South Porcupine, Ont., and Able Seaman Arthur Coveart, London, Ont.

Wind Insurance

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 22 —(CP)— Middlesex Federation of Agriculture yesterday endorsed a wind insurance plan for future protection against such disasters as last summer's unprecedented storm. The plan, which would be based on county taxation, will come before county council at its January meeting.

Canadian Clears Dieppe Harbor

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

DIEPPE, France, Dec. 21.—(CP). —The job of turning the junk heap of smashed concrete and twisted metal in the harbor of Dieppe into an operational port to supply Allied armies in Europe has fallen on the shoulders of a former Vancouver man, Lt.-Col. Harold Hacking.

From the quays that look out across the English channel it looks like a job for Hercules. Rusted funnels of sunken ships spear from the waters, and huge holes were blasted in the concrete quays by retreating Germans. Where once sheds stood is a pile of twisted concrete, metal and lumber. Cranes bombed into grotesque Chinese puzzles have to be cut away before railways and docks can be used.

After men of the British and Canadian armies and navies had been bulldozing their way through the debris for weeks there was still much to be done in this port which fell to the 1st Canadian army Sept. 1.

Col. Hacking said: "This business of rebuilding captured ports has grown up from experience—experience we got at Tobruk, Algiers, Bengazi, Naples."

The Canadian colonel has been in at them all. Working with him at Dieppe are another Vancouver man, Maj. E. T. Glendenning, and Maj. Bob Hunt of Toronto.

"It's a combined army and navy show," the Colonel went on. "The navy clears the channel of mines and wrecks that can be floated. Navy mine and bomb disposal squads working with army squads comb every inch of the quays.

"When the mines are cleared naval salvage people go to work on the wrecks in the harbor, and clear the sunken ships out of the way. Meanwhile the army port construction and repair group — engineers —go to work on repairing damaged quays and locks and almost simultaneously the army engineers of the port operating companies and maintenance companies begin to discharge ships."

As port commandant Col. Hacking co-ordinates the work of all these groups.

EXPECT TOURIST TRADE.

PORT OF SPAIN— (CP) —Trinidad is looking forward to an important tourist trade after the war. The chamber of commerce has asked the government to investigate the possibilities without delay and the tourist board suggests advertising campaigns supplemented by West Indian information bureaux in Canada and the United States.

Canadian Co-Operatives Did $352,785,598 Business In 1943

OTTAWA, Dec. 22.—(CP). — The Agriculture Department economics branch said in a report today that shareholders and members financially interested in Canadian co-operatives number 585,826 and patrons are estimated at 608,680. Their total business in 1943 was $352,785,598.

The report said the figures were based on information for 1943, the latest year for which detailed information has been obtained.

The department received returns from 1,675 active co-operative associations. Of these, 853 marketed farm products and 1,248 purchased supplies for their members or operated co-operative stores.

Total assets, after making provision for bad debts and depreciation, were $187,888,195 of which the book value of plant and equipment was $37,2s3,480.

The members' equity was $62,850,-226, consisting of paid-up capital of $13,325,560 and reserves and surplus of $49,524,666, an increase of $4,810,-155 in new worth over 1942.

Capital Increased

From 1942 to 1943 total working capital increased from $20,442,155 to $25,576,746. The relation of net worth to total assets has decreased from 46 per cent. in 1942 to 33 per cent. in 1943, due mainly to the large borrowings which were made to offset stocks of grain now in storage.

Sales of farm products in 1943 amounted to $295,499,274, sale of supplies and merchandise $55,689,-141 and other revenue $1,597,183, or a total business of $352,785,598.

Sales of grain by grain co-operatives were $134,000,000 for the year ending July 31, 1943, in comparison with $87,000,000 for 1942. The sales value of marketings of grain, dairy products, livestock, fruits and vegetables and poultry increased from $189,000,000 in 1942 to $272,000,000 in 1943 or an increase of 44 per cent.

43 Per Cent. of Grain

A. E. Richards and Lucienne Lalonde prepared the report.

About 43 per cent. of all commercial marketings of grain were handled through co-operatives. Organizations of livestock producers handled 17 per cent. of the total commercial marketings of cattle, calves, hogs and sheep and lambs.

Co-operatives handled about 14 per cent. of the total sales of fluid milk and manufactured dairy products and about 35 per cent. of the fruits and vegetables marketed. Marketing co-operatives handled about 24 per cent. of the main farm products entering commercial trade channels.

At the end of 1943, almost 1,800 credit unions were chartered in Canada, an increase of about 20 per cent. over 1942. During the year they loaned $16,900,000 for "provident and productive purposes."

Christmas Party Held By Red Cross

MOUNT JULIAN, Dec. 22. — (ENS).— An enjoyable Red Cross Christmas party was held at the home of Mrs. John Northey, with eight women present. An exchange of Christmas gifts and joke gifts was carried out and provided a great deal of amusement and pleasure.

A draw was made on a Christmas cake with Mrs. Harrison Bronson holding the lucky ticket. Several letters of thanks were read from boys in the armed services who had received their Christmas parcels.

A delightful Christmas lunch was served by the hostess in a beautifully decorated room.

LONDON, Dec. 22 — (CP). — Two Conservatives attacked British policy toward the Baltics in the House of Commons Thursday, but George Hall, Under-Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, declined to agree with a contention that the people of Latvia, Estonia and Lithuania had been "left in the lurch."

Sir Herbert Williams asked whether Russia's absorption of the countries was "in conflict with the principles of the Atlantic Charter and our agreement with the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics." He also asked the Government to explain "why we have left these peoples in the lurch."

"I don't know that it can be said that they have been left in the lurch," said Mr. Hall. "Since 1940 no government in these territories has sought or indeed been accorded recognition by the government."

He did not answer when Maurice Petherick, another Conservative, said the three Baltic countries had been under Russian domination for something under 100 years, and asked whether "you will see to it that what is condemned in the case of Germany will not be condoned in the case of Russia."

FOOL PENNY HOARDERS.

Obituaries

MRS MARY J HALES

The last remaining member of a family of nine children, Mrs. Mary J. Hales formerly Mary Joanna Nickle, 186 Reid street, passed away this morning in Nicholls Hospital, after a lengthy illness. She was 77 years of age.

Mrs. Hales came to Peterborough more than 20 years ago, formerly residing in Burleigh township, and Madoc township. She was born in Madoc, the youngest daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Nickle, and received her education there.

Mrs. Hales, whose husband, the late Richard Hales, predeceased her many years ago, was an enthusiastic member of the United church, and in Peterborough, attended the George Street United church. When she was living in Burleigh township, she taught a Sunday School class at the United church in Apsley for some time.

Mrs. Hales leaves to mourn her loss three daughters, Mrs. R. Tucker (Stella), of Peterborough; Mrs. C. Campbell (Elma), of Pembroke; Mrs. E. W. Watson (Mae), of Peterborough, and two sons, Zadock Hales, of Toronto, and Everett A. Hales, 186 Reid street.

The funeral will be Sunday afternoon, at 1.30 o'clock, at the family residence. Rev. Dr. James Semple, of George Street United church, will conduct the service. Burial will take place in Apsley cemetery, where Dr. J. R. R. Cooper will officiate at the service in the cemetery.

MRS. R. F. MERLIN.

The funeral of the late Gertrude Henrietta Merlin, of 647 Charlotte street was held from the Belleghem Funeral Home, 190 Hunter street, W. on Thursday, at 2 p.m. She leaves to mourn her loss, a sorrowing husband, one son Asthur F. of Montreal, one daughter Mrs. L. Maguire of 647 Charlotte street and two grandchildren, Miss Sheila Maguire of Peterborough, and Miss Marilyn Merlin of Montreal.

The funeral was attended by a large number of friends whom the late Mrs. Merlin had made since coming here from Halifax, N. S. two years ago. The floral tributes showed in what great esteem she was held.

The service was conducted by Canon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church and interment was at Little Lake Cemetery. Pall bearers were Hugh Campbell, C. H. Ackerman, William Meagher, J. McDonald, H. J. White and Major C. H. Stuart.

School Equity For Monaghan Set At $23,356

The equity of the remaining rural area of School Section No. 2. North Monaghan in the two schools which are coming into the city by way of annexation, Confederation and May's, has been estimated at $8,256 and $15,100 in a statement prepared by City Treasurer M. E. Shaver and City Auditor Ed Humpage.

They discuss May's school first, place its original cost at $20,000, prior to 1907, with $14,300 spent since then on additions to the building. On the basis of 40 per cent depreciation they fix the depreciated value of May's school at $20,580.

Two debenture issues for the construction of Confederation school, $30,000 and $16,000, amount to $46,000.

Twenty-five per cent. depreciation on the main section built first is adopted at 25 per cent of $30,000 or $7,500; and 5 per cent on the remaining part, or 5 per cent of $16,000, amounting to $800. Total depreciation on Confederation school 7,500 plus $800. Total $8,300, which subtracted from the $46,000, leaves $37,700 as the depreciated value of that school.

Equipment of the two schools is valued at $3,500.

Present depreciated value of the buildings, then, is $20,580 for May's plus $37,700 Confederation and $3,500 for equipment; total $61,780. From that sum subtract $20,500 for outstanding debentures, and the remainder is $41,280.

Estimates.

The city's two officials estimate that the rural equity in the property should be on pa with the property or assessment percentage outside the annexation area, but within School Section No. 2, and they adopted 20 per cent for that fraction.

The rural equity would then be one-fifth of $41,280 or $8,256.

In separate column these valuators arrive at an estimated replacement cost of the property. Of May's school they say: "Replacement cost, five rooms at $8,000 (according to township estimates of present building costs) $40,000.

Confederation school, six rooms at $8,000 a room, $48,000. Equipment for the two schools $8,000. Total for both properties $96,000, minus $20,500 for unredeemed debentures, leaving $75,500.

Equity of the rural area of the school section 20 per cent of $75,500 or $15,100.

The following comment is affixed to the report: "In view of the fact that the balance of School Section No. 2 remaining in the township is being deprived of these facilities which they state will have to be replaced with at least a four-room school, estimated to cost from $35,000 to $40,000, it would seem that a basis of settlement somewhere between the depreciated value as indicated herein might be agreed on."

So, the bounds of agreement which they mention are $8,256 as depreciated value and $15,100 as replacement value. These sums represent the share of the rural part of the school section in these two school properties which they helped to build.

Red Cross Workers Complete 80 Quilts

NORWOOD, Dec. 22—A group of Red Cross Workers met on Thursday at the home of Mrs. James Lobb when during the afternoon three large quilts were completed. Tops for quilts were donated by Mrs. Drain, Mrs. Webster and Miss Olga Metcalfe with the later also furnishing 14 blocks for another quilt. Four large quilts batts were given by Mrs. Lobb and Mrs. J. Gardner and Mrs. Webster turned in six boys' undervests.

During the past year 19 quiltings were held with an average attendance of 14 when 70 large and 10 small quilts were completed. Seventy of these were donated to the Red Cross. Sewing done included eight women's nght gowns, 12 boys' undervests;on turtle-neck sweater; one youth's sweater and four pairs of gloves. Six boxes were sent the boys overseas. It was also reported that the group since outbreak of war has completed 340 quilts.

The treasurer reported $10.23 surplus and Mrs. Golden Andrews invited the ladies to her home for the January meeting.

King Edward School Excels In Aid For Christmas Fund

Marching merrily towards their greatest achievement in the raising of a Christmas Fund to bring cheer to the boys and girls in Britain, and others in distress through enemy robot bombs the residents of this city and district once again are demonstrating the big heart they have for other people in trouble.

At the time this is being written, only $254.29 is required to complete the full objective of £2,000 which surpasses the previous greatest effort of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund by a full 25 per cent.

Playing a large part in to-day's receipts which total $333.82, are the teachers and pupils of King Edward Public School where Donald T. Crawford is principal, in a fine contribution of $93. Their Home and School Association donated $3.72 collected at the December meeting and the pupils of Grade 8 held a draw for a turkey and chicken, the latter donated by Bill Sheppard, a member of the class, which was responsible for some $30 of the amount named.

The secretary of the fund made this draw which resulted in the turkey being won by G. E. Foley, 68 Aylmer street and the chicken by Lee Conley, 123 Monaghan road. This effort was in charge of Marylin Davidson the class president and Bob Self, chairman of the service committee.

The balance was made up by the pupils foregoing their own Christmas treats, a true spirit of Christmas, assisted by the teachers who backed up the leadership they gave, by adding their own contributions as well.

Other schools who also take part in to-day's gifts are Zion S. S. No. 13, Otonabee; Grade 3 Alexandra School; S. S. No. 6, Dummer and South Dummer School; Grade 4, Queen Alexandra School; Grade 4, Central chool;, and Room 26, Prince of Wales School.

Church groups include those most steady of supporters, the Primary Class of Bridgenorth United Church, Mark Street United Church with $20 from their White Gifts Service, with the choir of the same church, and the Roseneath United Church Sunday School who sent in $8.84 through CHEX.

Coffee Club Adds $60.

For the past month or more, the morning Coffee Club has had a boy going the rounds for the odd coppers, and this last few days started to make things hum by holding a daily draw themselves for prizes donated by G. S. Matthews, W. C. Hughes, H. L. Garner, N. Hambley, G. Shires, R. Faryon, and H. S. Routley, which quickly boosted the ante, so that a sum of $60 is to-day credited in their name.

When it comes to digging down deep into the treasury, no one can do more than give all they have, and that is just what the members of the 33rd Infantry Reserve Company of Canada, V. G. C. did, when their O. C. Fred Hills handed over $25 to the fund. This has happened before now from the same group, and is all the more to their credit.

The Jeannette Scott Chapter I.O.D.E., Miss Isabell Weddell Regent, Mrs. Comstock treasurer are also to be found in this day's list with a gift of $25 another patriotic group who thus play a real part in this worthy cause to help others in distress.

Some 13 personal gifts are to be seen in to-day's returns, notable among which are two from one who gives under the name of "Britisher" which display the British characteristic of doing a job well, for combined they make a total of $40, three quarters of which is specially designated for the Christmas Cheer fund.

Then it is only a few days since D. J. Newell was represented in this column, his repeat also displaying a further urge to be of more service in this city and district effort, while others may be noted from Belleville, Trenton, Hastings, Keene and Stirling, which came through assistance given by CHEX, and a lovely memoriam from "Norfolk" is also included.

Houses Adjourn Until Jan. 16 Amid Criticism

By NORGROVE COX
Reuters Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 22 (CP-Reuters)—Both Houses of Parliament will adjourn today for the Christmas recess—until Jan. 16—amid considerable political ferment.

Feelings at Westminster have been sharpened of late, partly by the knowledge that next year will almost certainly see a general election, partly by the knowledge of controversial legislation ahead, and partly by recent criticism of the government's attitude toward Poland and Greece.

In spite of concentration on the war, parliament has carried through during the last 12 months some notable contributions towards the re-establishment of Britain after the war. An outstanding instance is the government version of the "Beveridge security plan."

The government national insurance bill has still to come but plans have been laid before parliament to provide everyone with security "from the cradle to the grave" and in general these have received overwhelming approval.

The cost will start at about £650,000,000 ($2,600,000,000) annually, rising eventually to more than £831,000,000 ($3,324,000,000).

A second big measure carried through was an educational bill which will eventually add £80,000,000 ($320,000,000) annually to the cost of training the young.

A third big measure placed on the statute books during the year was the so-called "town and country planning bill." The object of this act is to enable "blitzed" cities like London, Coventry and Plymouth to be replanned on a big scale.

The act also provides for completely redeveloping what now are called "blighted" areas — such as South Wales which suffered severely during the depression of the '30s.

A host of lesser but still important measures have reached the statute books at Westminster during the last 12 months, covering such subjects as the re-establishment of the herring fishing industry and the training of disabled servicemen.

PTE. MERLE CLARKE

Pte. Merle F. Clarke Wounded In Action

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22—(ENS). — Official word has been received by Mrs. T. Clark of Havelock that her son Pte. Merle Francis Clarke of the Calgary Highlanders, has been wounded in action in Holland, the nature and extent of wounds not yet available.

Pte. Clarke enlisted in April, 1940, at the age of 16 years, going overseas in July 1940. Because of his age, he served as an orderly in the R.C.A.M.C. in England until he was old enough to transfer back into the infantry.

Stew Burns Up

BUFFALO, N.Y., Dec. 22—(AP). — James Littlejohn put a pan of his wife's stew on the fire to warm and fell asleep while sniffing the aroma. He was revived by a fire department inhalator after he was overcome by the smoke from his burning snack.

SERVING OVERSEAS — Pte. Don Frick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ab. Frick of St. Catharines, formerly of Peterborough, and grandson of Mrs. A. Frick, 47 Jackson avenue, and Mrs. D. Moore, Keene, is now serving with the Canadian Army overseas.

Lack Of Evidence Delays Trial

When the crown announced in police court Thursday afternoon that it was unable to proceed with the false pretences charge against Frank A. McLean, Toronto, W. R. Philp who appeared for the accused, objected to the delay.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., agreed that the case should be expedited. The charge against McLean, he suggested, should not have been laid until the crown had its evidence available. It looked to him like a charge that might take a long while to prove.

"As a matter of fact I don't see how you are going to prove it anyway. Part of the charge is not false pretences at all but merely breach of contract," said His Worship.

McLean was charged with having obtained $200 in cash and three $50 Victory Bonds from Charles J. Waldron, Peterborough, under false pretences. The crown alleges that Waldron was told that McLean had a contract with the Chinese government and that he was promised by McLean that he would be made a partner in the contract.

Crown Attorney McElderry stated that he had been making every effort to secure evidence in regard to the alleged Chinese contract but had so far not been successful.

"You are not going to bring some one from China, I hope" remarked Magistrate Langley.

The case was finally enlarged for a week and His Worship reduced the bail to $1,000.

McLean said that he would have difficulty in procuring the bail.

Car Strikes Transport Suffers $60 Damage

Joseph Graham, 191 Rink street, reported to the police early this morning that his car suffered $60 damage when it collided with the rear end of a trailer transport on Stewart street. Graham said that he was driving north on Stewart street and that the trailer combination was parked on the east side of the street facing north and near King street, with no lights.

Graham told the police that he did not see the parked vehicle in time to avert a collision and that when his car crashed into the rear of the trailer the transport got under way, drove north on Stewart street and west on King street and that he had been unable to secure the number.

Both headlights on Graham's car were broken, the radiator grill was smashed and the radiator punctured.

T. L. Church Asks Questions About Writer

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 22—(CP)—Standing on the Commons order paper, to be answered when the session resumes in January, is a question by T. L. Church, Progressive Conservative member for Toronto Broadview:

"Who is the anonymous person called Mr. A. Spokesman, in the Department of Defence (Army), who is sending out interviews across Canada, daily, and who instructs him?

"What is his rank; has he served in the combatant army overseas, and where?

"Who authorized his remarks?"

Spokesmen had no comment on the question.

Success: A delegation of Nova Scotia miners who were in Ottawa this week, whether or not they were successful in their submissions, could report they had brought down the house.

The delegation appeared before the National War Labor Board, and reported afterwards that they had mistakenly thought an Ottawa office building would be free of the physical hazards they might expect in a coal mine deep beneath the Atlantic.

The hearing had just started when ceiling blocks, newly installed to improve the acoustics of the board room, started to fall. The miners offered to "timber up" the ceiling but then agreed to the suggestion of the chairman, Mr. Justice M. B. Archibald, that safer quarters be sought until the blocks had been securely installed. The hearing was delayed while stenographers were hurried out of another room to make it available to the board.

Food: Strife-torn Greece continues to have the benefit of Canadian relief wheat, just as it did in the days of German occupation. Officials say that the grain is carried from Canada in Swedish ships and distribution in Greece has been in the hands of a Swedish-Swiss commission.

Some 15,000,000 bushels have been shipped under the program.

DOROTHY DIX

BUSINESS WORLD ETIQUETTE

Cause of Young Employee's Offense May Be Ignorance, Not Intent

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR MISS DIX — Will you please write something about girls having good manners in business offices. I am at my wit's end to know what to do with a hard-boiled kid in our office who has been there but a month, but who thinks she knows it all and makes some pert and impudent reply to everyone who tries to correct her.

She doesn't wear enough clothes for common decency. She treats everyone with the utmost familiarity and calls everyone in the office, no matter what his age or his position, by his first name. I hate to fire her as she is poor and needs the money, but I will have to do so unless she can learn that there is an etiquette in the business world as well as the social.

AN EMPLOYER.

Tell Her Her Faults

ANSWER—Why do you not call your littlehoodlum into your office and have a heart-to-heart talk with her, and tell her that unless she minds her manners, she is going to lose her job. She is probably sinning through ignorance and not through intent. She thinks that her free and easy ways are ingratiating, that her freshness is wit and that she hasn't a doubt that when she drapes herself over a desk and snuggles up to a man, she is vamping according to the best method used in the latest movies.

Business men have a curious reluctance to telling their women employees honestly and frankly of their faults. They prefer to dismiss them on some trumped-up charge. This is grievously unjust to the girl for, ninety-nine times out of a hundred, she would be glad enough to correct her mistake if she only knew what it was.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — What will be the effect of continuous novel reading where a person neglects home, family, business, church and social duties to sit and read novels?

CORA T.

ANSWER—Novel reading can become a vice if indulged in to excess. In moderation, it is one of the greatest pleasures and consolations of life.

There are novels that present history in a vivid and dramatic form that makes the past live again for you. There are novels that take you to the far places of the earth and make you acquainted with strange countries. There are novels of adventure that stir your blood and fire your imagination; novels of sentiment that touch your heart; novels that educate, that humanize, that preach more powerful sermons than any delivered in any pulpit.

There are times when we are tired and worn, when to read a good novel is the best of all rest cures. There are seasons of grief and anxiety in which we would break under the strain if we could not foget our own troubled lives in following the lives of some hero and heroine in a book.

But, on the other hand, novels can become a potent source of debauchery if one steeps oneself, day after day, in the erotic fiction that reeks of sensuality and that teaches that men and women have a right to indulge their passions. There are plenty of novels that are nothing but mental garbage cans, and to spend one's time reading them is to have one's soul poisoned. I have known more than one woman who wrecked her life by incessant novel reading.

The novel reading habit is as great an evil as the dope habit if it makes us neglect our real work and live in an unreal instead of a real world.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a pretty orphan girl of 15. I have several aunts with whom I live and each one of them wishes me to do something different. One wants me to be a singer, another wants me to be a pianist, while another thinks I should be an artist. What career should I choose?

MARGIE.

◇ ◇ ◇

ANSWER — You must be very happy to be possessed of so many talents, but my advice to you is to take a good course in stenography or domestic science so that you can support yourself while you are waiting for genius to blossom. Released by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Orphans Enjoy Jolly Party Given At YWCA

Over 250 gym youngsters, and children from St. Vincent's Orphanage and the Children's Aid Shelter, and war guests, gathered in a happy and jolly group for an afternoon of fun on Thursday, when the Y.W.C.A. gave them their annual Christmas tree party.

The beautiful Christmas tree, with its colored lights and multicolored presents dominated the gymnasium. The program included the bluebirds, yellow canaries and tiny kittens dancing a ballet story, and the Y. Cadets leading in a Christmas carol singing with Miss Mary Richardson and Robert Ross at the piano and violin.

Santa received a royal welcome from the excited children when he made his appearance in the balcony, and then distributed presents from the tree and oranges to every happy child. The Health Education committee of the Y.W. assisted him in the distributing of the gifts. Extra presents were donated by the Business and Gym girls and the Alpha Theta Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi. Mrs. J. H. Vernor donated the oranges. Mrs. Mildren McBride was pianist

The names of the winsome dancers are as follows: Bluebirds, Mavis Alexander, Betty Williams, Nancy Rowell, Doreen Smith, Beverly Martyn, Phyllis Peryer; canaries, Carol McKenzie, Margaret Martyn, Barbara Lewis, Anne Gray, Linda Dundas, Yvonne Grant; kittens, Catherine McGee, Helen Walker, Betty Edgar, Peggy Meiklejohn, Joan Shipman, Susan Martin and Margaret Young.

The C.W.A.C. doll, donated by Cpl. Sybil Ecobichon to the Babies' class, was on display, and Cpl. Ecobichon made the draw, with A. Miller, Sherbrooke street, being the lucky winner. Proceeds, amounting to $35, will be given to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund, as a donation from the Babies.

Other Christmas entertainments at the Y.W. included the party for the Business Girls' gym classes. Refreshments were served, and community singing of carols was enjoyed, with Mrs. Mildred McBride at the piano. Miss L. Wood assisted. The Thursday Business Girls' gym classes also enjoyed Christmas carols and refreshments served after class in the Recreation Room. The "Y" Gym Auxiliary were in charge of refreshments. Mrs. McBride was pianist.

Loss Of Legs Fails To Daunt Girl

TEANECK, N.J., Dec. 22—(AP).—Jessie Simpson, who at 18 was "Miss New Jersey of 1936," lost both legs under a train in 1937, and became Mrs. James Steward in 1940, was doing well last night a Holy Name Hospital, and so was her 5 pound 8 unce baby boy, born Wednesday.

The Hackensack bathing beauty was a $12 receptionist in New York when she drew attention to herself once more by her courage after she slipped and fell under a railroad train she was trying to board on her way to work. Both her legs were severed. Equipped with artificial legs, she learned to dance, skate and drive an automobile.

Contracts came her way, and Jessie was able to make a normal life for herself. Three years after the accident she married James Steward of Hackensack, young advertising manager. At the time of her marriage a physician is said to have advised against her having a child.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

So much is always written just before Christmas about Christmas foods. Many recipes are for turkey, plum pudding and fruit cake which are all very good, just for that one Christmas dinner. However, you may have guests who remain for a few days after Christmas, so we are going to give you the following recipes for after-Christmas meals.

Cottage Cheese Croquettes

1 cup cottage or cream cheese, ¾ cup cold cooked rice (not too moist), ¾ up dry bread crumbs, (rolled fine), 1 cup peanut butter, ¼ teaspoon powdered sage, 1 teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 1 tablespoon finely-chopped onion, 1 tablespoon fat. Cook the onion in fat until tender, but not too brown. Then blend with peanut butter and cheese. Mix all dry ingredients with bread crumbs. Add to the first mixture, blending all ingredients thoroughly. Form the mixture into croquettes or small rolls dip into egg, roll in bread crumbs and cook in deep, not fat until browned. Drain on paper. Serve hot with tomato sauce.

Cranberry Salad With Cheese Balls

2 oranges, 2 cups cranberries, 1 cup sugar, 1 cup boiling water, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, 4 tablespoons cold water, 1 cup finely-diced celery, ½ cup blanched almonds (if obtainable), cream cheese. Put the oranges through a food chopper, add cranberries, sugar and boiling water and cook 20 minutes. Add gelatine soaked in cold water and stir until dissolved. Rub through a coarse sieve. When mixture cools, fold in celery and almonds. Pour into a ring mould and chill until firm. Turn out on a bed of salad greens cream cheese. This quality will and fill centre with balls made of make eight or 10 servings.

Fewer Soldiers Placed This Year

This year the W.V.S. Hostess committee reports that the trouble has not been locating homes for Christmas for soldiers at the camp, but men to go to the homes. To date about 55 have been placed and there are about three homes for every soldier.

Miss Gertrude Cox, convener stressed that this was not because the men did not want to go, but said that many had already made friends in the time they had been stationed here and had places for Christmas, which considerably reduced their number.

Several soldiers who will be in camp at New Year's have signified their desire to spend it with some Peterborough family and the W.V.S. is suggesting that perhaps some of the families who were disappointed at Christmas might like to entertain them at New Year's.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, December 23

IN SPITE of stubborn obstacles, crystallized or static conditions in several directions, yet there is indication of very lively, productive and progressive advance in pushing desired objectives and ambitions to high levels of accomplishment. With application, persistent effort, patience and shrewd and practical analysis of thwarting conditions, it is possible to spurt ahead in all sorts of interests. The personal aspect is of influence, with tact, charm, graciousness, and youth winning against obstacles. Sidestep intrigues and all forms of subtle and tricky baits and lures, in both business and private relations.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a year in which important objectives and ambitions may be highly successful and productive against tenacious congestions, and other forms of opposition or impediment. With patience, perseverance and keen analysis of frustrating or delaying circumstances, there may be a rather spectacular and gratifying push toward high goals, with a stabilizing of the fortunes and dubious lures, but use to advantage personal magnetism, charm, cleverness and intuition in business as well as private affiliations. Change and travel are probable.

A child born on this day should have great versatility, initiative and skill, moving ahead against obstacles by shrewd, persistent and aggressive measures.

TAILORED ELEGANCE—No matter how elaborate the season's fashions may be, there are always women who want a simple but beautifully cut casual or tailored frock for wear under a warm topcoat for general or busy day wear. Alice Orovan does this elegantly casual one-piece frock in raspberry sheer woollen, marked by intricate seaming on the easy bodice. Cuffed sleeves with easy armhole. A black calfskin belt and a monogrammed black-and-white striped ascot accessorize the costume.—By Alice Alden.

How to Roast the Chicken

By MARY MOORE

First catch him, then persuade some kind soul to get him ready so that all you have to do is wash, stuff (see elsewhere on page), roast and eat the bird.

Roast Chicken.

One 4 to 6-pound roasting chicken, celery stuffing (see elsewhere on page), ¼ cup butter and ¼ cup drippings, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, flour for dredging.

Dress chicken and wipe with cold damp cloth. Put in stuffing. Fasten wings and legs close to body with skewers or by tying. Spread 3 tablespoons butter or dripping on breast and legs. Sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour. Also sprinkle bottom of roasting pan with flour. Place chicken on back in pan. Put in hot oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for 15 minutes. Baste with remaining butter and fat which have been melted in ½ cup boiling water. Reduce heat to 350 deg. Fahr. and roast until thigh is tender, or about 2 hours. Baste every 10 minutes, add a little water if necessary. If you sprinkle lightly with flour during baking it forms a nice thick crust. Birds up to 4 lbs. require 30 minutes to the pound, larger birds require 22 to 25 minutes per lb.

Giblets should be boiled in water to cover in covered dish for 3 hours, then chopped and returned to liquid in which they were boiled. To each 2 cups liquid use 4 tablespoons flour stirred into ½ cup cold water until smooth—stir this into the liquid until thick. Add salt and pepper to taste. Serve very hot.

French Cabinet Examines 20-Year Treaty

PARIS, Dec. 22 — (AP). — The new French-Russian 20-year alliance was sent to the French Cabinet to-day for what was expected to be certain satification following its approval yesterday by a unanimous vote of the Consultative Assembly.

At the conclusion of yesterday's debate on the pact, which is designed to contain Germany between Continental Europe's most powerful post-war countries, Gen. Charles De Gaulle declared France was determined to help form a world peace organization.

The Consultative Assembly adopted a resolution calling for companion pacts which would build up to the world security organization.

"The world is beginning to realize," Gen. De Gaulle said, "that it is impossible to settle the great problems of the world without France. Perhaps she is also beginning to realize that victory cannot be gained without France. In both spheres France assumes full responsibilities."

Earlier, Foreign Minister Georges Bidault told the Assembly France intends to help mount guard on the Rhine after the war to keep the Rhineland and Ruhr industries out of German hands. He also declared France intends to help Poland expand westward into Silesia.

During the recent conferences in Moscow which culminated in the alliance, the French were reported to have promised to support the Russian demand for the Curzon line frontier in Poland.

Holes are clipped in new skin to avoid internal bleeding. Only small scar will remain.

Purse Snatching Count Dismissed

A positive identification by crown witnesses ran into a solid alibi on the part of the defence in police court Thursday afternoon and as a result of the clash Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., dismissed a charge against Wilfred S. Wilson, 24, of London, Ont., and formerly of Peterborough, of having assaulted Mrs. Eva Stevenson, Armour Road, with intent to rob her.

Mrs. Stevenson and Miss Mabel McKinley, who was with her on the night she was attacked at the east end of the Hunter street bridge and thrown down so heavily that she broke her arm, identified Wilson as the man who had committed the assault. Wilson himself, and John Arthur Taylor, janitor of a London public school, with whom the accused has been boarding, both swore that on November 12, the date of the attack, Wilson was in London.

W. R. Philp defended Wilson and Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., prosecuted.

Mrs. Stevenson, first crown witness, swore that she had been walking east on the south side of Hunter street on Sunday night, November 12 when she noticed Wilson at Queen street. She said she knew Wilson because she had been introduced to him at the home of a friend some time before and after that had seen him on a subsequent occasion on Hunter street.

Her Arm Broken

On the night of the assault, she swore, Wilson had followed her and her companion across the Hunter street bridge. As they reached the corner of Burnham street, the accused, she said, had caught up to them and tried to grab her purse. He did not succeed in getting it and he had then grabbed her by the back of the head and tripped her, Mrs. Stevenson said she fell heavily and knew at once that her arm was broken. She had screamed and her assailant had run south across the Riverside softball grounds.

To Mr. Philp Mrs. Stevenson said that the man who attacked her had worn an overcoat and hat. She had not seen his eyes and had only seen the side of his face.

Miss McKinley corroborated the evidence of Mrs. Stevenson. She said that she had first noticed the accused following them near Belleghem's on Hunter street and that he followed them east on Hunter street and across the bridge. She identified Wilson as the man and said she had seen him try to grab Mrs. Stevenson's purse from underneath her left arm and then trip her and throw her to the ground.

Constable C. J. McGillen said that he was in a police cruiser near the scene of the assault on the night of December 12 when he received a radio message and went to Hunter and Burnham streets where he found Mrs. Stevenson, evidently in great pain.

The Defence Evidence

Called to the witness box by Mr. Philp Wilson told the court that he had been discharged from the Canadian army in 1942. He said that for some time before the beginning of November he had lived in Peterborough but stated that he had no recollection of ever seeing Mrs. Stevenson or of having been introduced to her.

His wife had taken up residence in London, he swore, and accordingly he had asked for and received permission from Selective Service officials to leave his employment here and take a job in London. He stated that he left here for London on November 2 and hitchhiked reaching his destination that night. Wilson declared that he had obtained a job in London a day or two after he arrived there and had remained in London from that time on. He flatly denied that he had been in Peterborough on November 12 or that he had assaulted Mrs. Stevenson.

To Mr. McElderry accused admitted previous convictions in Owen Sound and Toronto for theft.

"I had a spotty court record before the war" Wilson said "but I have gone straight since then."

John Arthur Taylor, janitor of the Lady Beck school in London, swore that Wilson and his wife had been boarding at his house in London since the beginning of November, and that outside of the trip he made to Peterborough on Novembr 2 to get his clothes the accused had been at the Taylor home.

Taylor declared that on Sunday, November 12, the date of the assault, Wilson had been at the Taylor place all day. Taylor swore that outside of the time in the morning and evening when he himself had gone to church, he had seen Wilson around the house.

Mr. McElderry, K.C., said that it was only fair to say that the police had learned that Wilson worked at his job in London until noon on Saturday, November 11, and that he was at work at 7.30 oclock on Monday morning, November 13.

Magistrate Langley in dismissing the case said that there was too much doubt to make a conviction safe. The two women he said, were no doubt honest in believing that Wilson had been the man who assaulted Mrs. Stevenson but there was too great a possibility in view of the alibi evidence, of a mistake to justify finding the accused guilty of the charge.

Army Commends Canadian Fliers For Cooperation

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

AT AN ADVANCED R.C.A.F. AIRFIELD IN HOLLAND, Dec. 22 —(CP). — Flt. Lt. Joe Lyall of Winnipeg and Banff, Alta., put down the phone in the intelligence caravan of this Typhoon fighter-bomber wing the other day and said over the wind howling around the tent:

"That was the Army, boys; they phoned to say 'Thank you for a wonderful job.' Now you've cleaned up that pocket of Nazis which was holding them up the advance towards the Rhine can go on."

Canadian pilots standing around in furred Irvine jackets, some still with radio headphones around their necks, grinned a bit and went to look for a cup of coffee. Once more this R.C.A.F. squadron, working in close co-operation with the Army had cleared the way for the men on the ground. Anyone who had been on this advanced airfield that day when the clouds were low in the cold sky and a high wind was sweeping the runways knew the difficulties through which the pilots had fought their way to give the Army a hand.

At the briefing that morning the Canadian pilots, among them Flt. Lt. Johnny Carr of Morrisburg, Ont., were standing around a detailed map of the Western Front while position of enemy anti-aircraft was outlined.

"We like to work with the Army," said Flt. Lt. Carr, "though our first ops this morning was lots of fun." He told how a flight of the squadron had set out to bomb a rail intersection only to find an ambulance train painted with red crosses there.

"We cut the rail line behind the ambulance train, but let it go on into Germany. Then we went train hunting and caught a freight train going west. We pranged it pretty well and it sure wasn't going any place when we left it."

Then came time for the operation and the pilots went out into the wind-driven rain.

About an hour later they were back with a story of blasting the Germans from their strongpoint, and the phone was ringing with the Army's commendation for a job well done.

Two racing secretaries, John B. Campbell of New York and Charles J. McLennan of Pimlico and other tracks, yesterday gave their combined choice to Traffic Court, Miller and Burger's six-year-old mare, as "the greatest comeback of 1944." After spending 27 months on a breeding farm, she scored eight victories, including four stake races, during the past season.

Roy and Earl Mack, sons of Connie Mack, revealed at Philadelphia yesterday they planned to create a baseball museum at Shibe Park, with exhibits consisting of their fathers diamond relics, including autographed bats and balls, pictures of every Mack team since 1901 and the original proclamation for the annual observance of Connie Mack Day in Pennsylvania on May 17.

Jockeys John Pollard of Butte, Mont., and Ernest Barber of London, Eng., were seriously injured in a three-horse spill at Gulfstream Park, Miami, yesterday. Charlie Chaffin, on the third mount, was uninjured. Pollard's horse, Good Ante, was the first to go down and the two others fell over him.

With reference to the move to revive the Interprovincial Football Union in 1945, reported from Ottawa, President F. M. Hatch of the Hamilton Football Club said last night: "If the Big Four operates next year, Tigers will field a team and we are ready to go at any time, providing the war is over." This would be the official stand of the Hamilton Tigers when the matter is discussed at the Big Four annual in Toronto January 20, he added.

A former all-round athlete of Welland, Ont., Cpl. Alexander McCrae of the 48th Highlanders, has been reported wounded in action in Italy from the explosion of a mine, which resulted in the loss of his left foot. Sgt. Albert Napper, another Welland athlete, is reported to have been wounded on the Italian front.

the start." The treaty obligation of the permanent convention is clear. It a state is not conforming and the council so decides, then each state undertakes "not to allow the operation of an airline" of the offending state through its air space. In short, by action of individual states, an offender may be outlawed. This clause was not included in the interim convention.

In the Two-Freedom and Five-Freedom appendices, the protection of states from "injustice or hardship" at the hands of another state. rest unequivocally on the power of the assembly by two-thirds vote, to suspend a state which shall "unreasonably fail to take corrective action." In the air freedom documents and in the permanent convention, provision is made for arbitration. These enforcement provisions indicate that the difficulty of reconciling American opposition with effective powers is not insuperable, and that this problem could have been solved with goodwill and skilful handling at Chicago.

BRITAIN BACKS SPLIT OF POLAND—Before the House of Commons, Prime Minister Winston Churchill endorsed the Soviet Union's plan to demand territorial concessions from Poland. The Russian plan claims a post-war "buffer state" carved out of eastern Poland for Russia, while in return, the greater part of East Prussia would be ceded to Poland. Churchill suggested that there would be no objection from Great Britain or Russia if the Poles also pushed out their borders into Germany proper. The United States has been tacitly invited to make public its stand on the Russo-Polish dispute.

CCF Commends Action In Grey

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP). — The Ontario C.C.F. executive last night issued a statement commending the North Grey C.C.F. Association for its decision to contest the by-election there on February 5.

Already named as candidates are Defence Minister McNaughton, Liberal, and Mayor Garfield Case of Owen Sound, Progressive Conservative.

The statement:

The Ontario C.C.F. executive welcomes the decision of the North Grey C.C.F. Association to contest the Federal by-election on February 5. The voters of North Grey would find little to choose between the planless drifting of the present Government and the reckless political opportunism of the Progressive Conservative Party.

The C.C.F. will fight this campaign on its program of making all members of the armed forces immediately available, without discrimination, or general service; and national planning or full employment and social security after the war.

The Ontario C.C.F. will place its full resources behind the candidate to be chosen by the North Grey Association. We will let the voters decide whether they prefer to go back to the hungry 30's with the old parties or go forward with the C.C.F.

DEPENDENT UPON MAN.

McLaughlinDid Much For Hockey

TORONTO, Dec. 22. — Passing of Major Frederic McLaughlin of the Chicago Black Hawks seems to have been dismissed very lightly in a wartime hockey realm that is uninterested in the romance of the world's fastest sport.

For the benefit of those who came in late, and for those still steeped in the lore of hockey's sentimental side, it isn't inopportune to point out that Maj. McLaughlin was one of the pillars of our modern National Hockey League.

Worked Behind Scenes.

Although never a limelight figure in professional hockey, Major McLaughlin played an outstanding role in the pioneering and development of our modern production. He was seldom referred to in hockey by any other tag than "Irene Castle's husband." But few hockey operators worked so effectively behind the scenes as this multi-milionaire coffee manufacturer.

Back in the summer of 1926, Frank Patrick went marketing. He made arrangements to sell the Western Canada Hockey League, lock, stock and barrel to Eastern Canada and Eastern States interests for $300,000. The deal represented six clubs, $50,000 per club. Saskatoon owners decided Patrick's commission price of $5,000 per club was too much and withdrew. Patrick disposed of the other five clubs.

Buys Rosebuds.

One of the clubs involved in the biggest hockey turnover in history was Portland. The Portland Rosebuds were bought up by Chicago. The late Pete Muldoon was transferred with the club as manager and coach. Major McLaughlin was the new boss.

Chicago's National Hockey League entry of 1926-27 was labelled "Black Hawks" by Major McLaughlin, who had commanded a United States Army unit in World War I. that bore the same tag. Chief Black Sparrow Hawk was a legendary figure in Illinois dating back to 1767. He was both romantic and ambitious, first as an ally of the British and later ar a bitter opponent — Britain's colonization program.

NOTICE

Application to Legislative Assembly

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Corporation of the City of Peterborough intends to apply to the Legislative Assembly of the Province of Ontario at the next Session thereof for special legislation:

1. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4401 of the Corporation of the City of Peterborough which By-law authorizes the issue of debentures for Seventy-five Thousand Dollars ($75,000.00) to provide aid in the construction of a Memorial Building as the first unit of the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre.

2. To approve, validate and confirm By-law Number 4399 authorizing an agreement between the Corporation of the City of Peterborough and the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre providing for the construction, general management, regulation, control, and financing of the said Memorial Building.

3. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to vest the general management, regulation and control of such Memorial Building in a Board of Trustees.

4. To authorize and empower the Corporation of the City of Peterborough to acquire any lands by expropriation (if necessary) which may be required in order to provide proper facilities for recreation and sports for the children, youth, industrial workers and the citizens generally of the City of Peterborough and a forum for public gatherings.

The existing Debenture debt exclusive of local Improvements and other indebtedness which by the provisions of certain Ontario Statutes is not to be reckoned in ascertaining whether or not the limit of the borrowing power of the Corporation has been reached is $2,376,520.70, and no part of the principal or interest thereof is in arrears.

The amount of the rateable property of the Municipality, according to the last Revised Assessment Roll of the Corporation, is $25,501,689.00.

DATED at Peterborough, this 11th Day of December 1944.

WILFRID F. HUYCKE, K.C., Solicitor for the Applicant.

With The Armed Forces

By JEAN STENTON

The editor of this column will welcome extracts from letters from boys serving or any other information concerning them.

Anyone serving in the ground crew of the RCAF never has any time to get settled in northern Europe, writes LAC Johnny Hodson, whose wife lives on McGill street. When the RCAF left England he travelled with it and he is now in the front line area in Holland.

"The six months I was in England seemed to pass very slowly, but I know that is where I had the best time. I travelled from one corner to the other and the best scenery and food was in Wales; and the best people in Scotland; Then I spent two months in France and it took us quite a while to settle down after we got to our first field. We stayed there for nearly a month, digging in, and we felt quite safe although we had some exciting times.

"The next move we made, we didn't bother to dig in, as it looked as if we wouldn't be there very long and we were used to what was going on We were there two weeks, the worst two weeks I have ever put in. The next two weeks we spent moving through Belgium, spending two days here and two days there on the way checking the equipment while the planes were in action.

"Belgium was altogether different. We came through Brussels a few days after it was liberated and did they ever show us a good time. We were on the outskirts of that city for two weeks and then moved again about 25 miles away for another two weeks. It will be a long time before we get treated the same as we did there.

"We have been in Holland about a month now and it is something like France. You don't feel as safe among the people here. I thought not being able to speak French, Belgian or Dutch would be quite a handicap, but most of the people can talk and understand some English, enough to get by."

Although it means being away from home, the young airman writes that everything considered he would not have missed the experience for anything. Prior to enlisting, LAC Hodson drove a freight truck for the C. P. R.

In Nick of Time

During the fall, women of the different auxiliaries in Peterborough have spent many hours working and packing so that boys in the forces could have something to remember their home town by at Christmas. Several letters have reached the Navy Auxiliary conveying gratitude for the attractive boxes.

"The parcel arrived just a few days before the end of the month and if you know anything about sailors, you will understand what I mean when I say it was just like "pennies from Heaven," writes W. D. Richardson from Montreal. "I assure you it was as timely as it was welcome and I would like you to accept this little thank you."

Sig. J. D. Csumrik writes: "I wish to express my appreciation for your generous parcel and to thank those who contributed their time for the packing and wrapping of it. It is rather difficult to express one's gratitude enough to compare with the joy undergone on reception of a parcel that is unexpected.

"It is encouraging to know that people at home have not forgotten the men and women in the service and I am sure that all the others who received them will feel as I do." Sig. Csumrik is a member of the crew of HMCS Buckingham.

Another sailor, Gordon Patterson, at Shelbourne N. S., also thanks the Navy Auxiliary: "I wish to thank you for the really grand parcel I have received. I must say it surpasses any parcel I have gotten yet from any organization. We fellows out here manning ships salute you or doing a swell job.

Doing Big Job

The British Y.W.C.A. is working for women in the forces in nearly a thousand places in Great Britain. There are 118 club canteens, 84 leave hostels, 83 civilian centres providing facilities for service women, 13 station rest rooms and 21 mobile club vans visiting more than 600 units.

In the Middle East, Iraq-Iran and North and East Africa, there are 25 centres and in Italy six clubs and leave hostels are open. There are 250 Land Army hostels and 30 munition workers' hostels in addition to War Workers' Clubs.

Costs of War.

The rubble and wreckage of the villages through which Allied soldiers pass on their way to the front lines stir up uncomfortable remorseful feelings in the men who helped in the destruction, as they drove the Nazis back, every step bitterly contested. Spr. G. Elliott, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Elliott, 93 Melbourne street, Lindsay, has endeavored to give some of his reactions as he wandered through a little village where he is stationed.

"It is now 3 o'clock in the morning and I am at work. Right now there is a lull, so I am writing while I have the chance. I am now working as a "chef de train," actually I am a conductor and anything else that is needed in the terminal. We are working with the Yanks and since there are only two units here, this job consists of 16 to 20 hours a day.

"To-night I took a walk through the remains of the town I am stationed in. Not very long ago this was a beautiful provincial town, noted for its famous churches and cathedrals. To-day it is a twisted, torn mess of ruins. Silhouetted high above the rest of the city is a basilique which seems to be standing guard and looking down on the pitiful remains of what was once its coutryards.

Surrounded By Horror.

"This basilique is virtually untouched as the Canadians who took this territory did their best to avert its destruction, though it cost them a great number of men. It is a beautiful structure made of white material. When the moon shines on it, it would appear as if it were lit from within and glows faintly. I walked along the street below, the moonlight faintly illuminating the bomb and shell craters and heaps of rubble that were left. Underneath are bodies of men, women and children. No one knows just how many.

"But in addition to the bodies, lay the shattered remains of homes, dreams and all the things that make up the lives of individuals and families. The gleam of the lamps would show through the boarded-up windows of the houses where the people had moved back into the one or two rooms of their homes still standing. It give you a strange feeling to walk through the streets. This city has been alive, shops were busy and people lived happy normal lives. Then from the skies rained death and destruction. When it was over, it was a city of death."

Spr. Elliott wrote that it seemed as though the city were dead forever, but people, a very few at first, came out and surveyed the ruins of their homes, and with a calm philosophical shrug, set out to rebuild what it had taken them years to complete. Further along the street he saw a huge pile of stone on either side of the street. The larger pile was the remains of a very beautiful church, the smaller one, was what remained of a small modern apartment house.

Terrible Price

"As I walked past it seemed as though a voice was jeering 'yes, you and your bombers are responsible for this wreckage.' I couldn't say any more. It had been our day and night bombers which had reduced the city to its present state. We too had paid a terrific price, for there is a large and well filled cemetery which bears mute testimony as to just how high it has been. In the end our men were buried just where they fell.

"I suddenly felt cold and shivered involuntarily—this is the price of war, a war which we did not want, but which at any cost we must win. For if the French can pay the price they have for freedom, then to us who have lost so little in comparison, it is little enough to give."

Thanks For Everything

Although he is with the troops fighting in Holland, Gnr. Jack Page has taken time out to thank the Active Army Auxiliary for the Christmas box which he received, and which helped to brighten his weary days.

He said he received his box about the middle of November and the contents were thoroughly enjoyed. Describing Holland, he said that the Dutch are clean living people and their homes are spotless. He found everything almost ultra modern and commented that their trains are streamlined and fast.

"The people here dress much the same as they do in the rest of the world. They do not all wear the costume of Holland as many people believe. In fact there is only one small town that I know of where they wear Dutch costume. A lot of people are wearing wooden shoes at present because there is a shortage of leather in Europe. However, most of them just wear wooden shoes for working in the garden."

Like Maple Leaves.

One of the little touches which has been most appreciated by the boys getting Army Auxiliary boxes, was the maple leaf enclosed in each one. L.-Bdr. Hugh L. Abbott with the RCA declares that it was a wonderful idea, as many of the boys hadn't seen one in a long time. After expressing his delight over the box, which was unexpected, he wrote:

"I wish that you people, who go to all the trouble of looking after us boys, could be around some time when we get our parcels and see how contented a fellow looks with a mouthful of Canadian chocolate or chewing gum. You would realize at once how much your work is appreciated."

Not Wasted.

Sometimes, the boxes arrive too late for the men who didn't live to enjoy them. But they are not wasted. A letter to the Auxiliary from a Welfare officer of a regiment tells how the matter is handled. The box for M. A. Clough fell in this category.

"We wish to acknowledge receiving a parcel of foodstuffs addressed to M. A. Clough who paid the supreme sacrifice. Accordingly we have divided it among men who do not receive parcels, which I am sure would be his desire. The good spirits of our men in these difficult times is in no small part due to organizations such as yours in bringing some measure of cheer to them."

Huns Massacre 55 Italians

NEW YORK, Des. 22 —(AP) — Fifty-five men, women and children of the 200 inhabitants of the Italian village of Madonna Dell Albero, 5 miles south of Revenna, were massacred by German Elite Guard troops November 24, according to an overseas dispatch reported today to the office of War Information.

The dispatch said Lieut. H. N. Acker of Toronto, a signals officer of the 1st Canadian Division, had revealed the massacre after talking to the remaining villagers. Acker, the dispatch said, had arrived at the village as the last 31 of the victims were being prepared for burial.

The Germans were angry, the villagers said, "because they suspected some of the men had gone to the Allied lines with information."

NOT PUNY, BUT MIGHTY

NO MATTER how puny and insignificant a little card might seem, it may swing the entire result on a hand. That principle can apply to low cards used as signals, to those retained so that you are able to lead to a higher one in the opposite hand, to little trumps played with the deliberate idea of having them over-ruffed, and in a variety of other types of situations.

South took the spade Q lead with his A and promptly embarked on the enterprise of setting up a club to discard a diamond loser. East won the club Q with the K, scored the spade K and led to the 10, whereupon West switched to the diamond 10. The Q got that, the heart 4 was led to the 9, the club J was covered by the A and ruffed by the heart 8, and the heart 10 to the Q put the lead in the dummy again.

Next came the crucial play. South pulled the club 10 from the dummy and on it discarded the diamond 9, East having discarded a diamond on the trick. It was now impossible for the contract to be set, for South ruffed the next club and merely ran trumps, plus his diamond A.

If East had ruffed the club 10, South would have been obliged to over-ruff or else let the defenders set him with that very trick. Having ruffed it, he never could have got rid of the diamond 9, which would have had to be lost as the setter.

East apologized to his partner later for thinking his heart 5 was so puny and small that ruffing the club with it could not have done any good, when he already knew South to be blank by then in the suit and able to over-ruff him. But sacrificing that little card would have changed the entire course of events.

Air Corporation Activities May Be Probed

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 22.—(CP Cable.)—A suggestion that the government consider appointment of a committee to inquire into affairs of the British Overseas Airway Corporation was made in the House of Lords to-day by Lord Morris during a debate in which some pointed questions were asked about the B.O.A.C. director-general, Brig.-Gen. A. C. Critchley, formerly of Calgary.

Lord Morris' request brought a defence of B.O.A.C. from Lord Swinton, new Minister of Civil Aviation, and Lord Brabazon, former Minister of Aircraft Production.

Lord Morris' questions were largely aimed at bringing out the connection of Gen. Critchley and B.O.A.C. personnel generally with the Greyhound Racing Association, whose offices were taken over by the Airways Corporation.

But, Lord Morris said, "this great corporation has unfortunately fallen into the doldrums."

In reply, Lord Swinton said that in the questions asked and speech delivered by Lord Morris, "it is alleged that a disgraceful racket is being conducted by the chief executive officer of the corporation."

Lord Swinton said that Gen. Critchley is paid £5,000 (about $22,500) salary and £1,000 expenses annually and "that is the whole."

There had been the implication of "some corrupt, improper bargain, something underhand," Lord Swinton added, but he said he was informed that Gen. Critchley, having been interested in the Racing Association premises, took no part in the negotiations for taking them over. Independent valuators had approved the rental which was the same as the previous tenants paid.

Lord Swinton said that only two men previously employed by the Association were employed by the B.O.A.C. More than 1,400 former R.A.F. personnel had been transferred or seconded to the corporation.

Declaring the B.O.A.C. was doing a good job, Lord Swinton added "I don't say that it cannot be improved but it has been doing its work on the whole well."

Mayoralty Fight Expected In Toronto

TORONTO, Dec. 22 — (CP) — A two-way fight for the Mayor's chair in this city, second largest in Canada, was definite prospect today with only two nominated for the office. One is Mayor F. J. Conboy, seeking his fifth term, and the other is Robert H. Saunders, a member of the city's Board of Control.

Both are expected to qualify for the election which will be held on New Year's Day.

Eight were nominated for the four Board of Control seats, including David Balfour, and W. J. Wadsworth of the 1944 Board. Others were: E. C. Bogert, Harry Bradley, H. E. McCallum, Dr. G. J. Millen, Leslie H. Saunders and Stewart Smith.

Nominations for Aldermen and School Trustees are being held later in the day.

A Daring Crime

TORONTO, Dec. 22—(CP)—Police yesterday announced they were offering $100 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the persons or person who killed three beavers at the Riverdale zoo here late in November. The beaver pelts were removed and some time later a fourth beaver was killed.

St. Paul's Holds Christmas Party

MARMORA, Dec. 22—(ENS)—St. Paul's Sunday School held its Christmas tree and entertainment in the town hall Wednesday evening. Rev. J. M. Brownlie, rector, acted as chairman. The program opened with a picturesque presentation of the Indian play, "Little Scarface" by senior boys and girls, concluding with an Indian carol. Two Christmas numbers, "O, Come All Ye Faithful" and "Good King Wencelas." The two primary classes sang "Away In a Manger" with motions and a playlet by three boys "The King and the Miller" was presented the cast being Ivan Lavender, James Hickey, John Wells.

Marjorie Brownlie for a piano solo, chose "The Chimes." The senior boys put on a tableau in which boys overseas were shown reading letters from home. Rev. J. M. Brownlie then sang "I Cannot Tell." The senior girls under Mrs. W. M. Regan followed with an artistic drill.

Santa Claus was announced and soon the goodly sized audience became hilarious over his pranks. He assisted the rector and teachers in the distribution of prizes for best attendance and presents from the tree.

Those receiving prizes for best attendance were: Class I—1, Margaret Ann Smith; 2, Betty Harris. Class II—1, Kenneth McInroy. Class III—1, Helen Lummiss. Class IV—1, Ivan Lavender; 2, Donald Davidson. Class V—1, Audrey Lummiss and Dorothy Lummiss. Class VI—1, Glen Phillips.

Candies and oranges were distributed before to the audience. Mrs. L. R. Rundle, Mrs. H. Rennie and Miss Marjorie Brownlie were pianists for the evening.

Soldiers Given Travel Preference

TORONTO, Dec. 22—(CP)—The Canadian National Railways and the Canadian Pacific Railway announced last night in a joint statement that uniformed men and women of the armed forces will have priority over civilians in boarding Canadians trains and will have first choice of seats during the Christmas holiday travel season. The policy became effective last night.

"The supply of passenger equipment is limited," said the statement. "The men and women of the armed forces are entitled to enjoy Christmas at home. This can be assured by civilians refraining from travelling. Members of the armed forces will be given preference."

Millbrook News

Sgt. Henry Gray of the Prince of Wales Regiment, who has been in the west, returned here on Sunday and joined his wife, expecting to remain until after Christmas.

Dr. Arthur Walsh, who has been visiting his cousins, Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Campbell, left at the week-end for Toronto. He will remain in Port Hope with Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dawson, his uncle and aunt. Dr. Walsh is remaining in the east for some time before returning to his home in Vancouver, B.C., receiving treatment for a serious eye trouble. His father, Dr. C. W. Walsh, of Vancouver, is an old Millbrook boy, having been born and brought up here.

Friends of Mr. J. R. Eakins, who recently underwent a major operation at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, will be glad to learn that he was able to be brought home on Friday. Though still confined to bed, Mr. Eakins is making a s good progress toward recovery as can be expected.

Mrs. George Hetherington, who rented her home on Tupper street to Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Powell for the winter, has gone to Toronto to remain until spring.

Pte. Fred Ridge is home for the holiday week with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Ridge. He has been training at Ipperwash, near Sarnia, in recent weeks.

Errol Hansman, of Victoria, B.C., is spending the holiday season with his sisters, Mrs. H. W. Johnston, who accompanied him home from Toronto, and Miss Eva Hansman; also his brother, Mark Hansman.

Mr. and Mrs. George Fallis, and Mrs. James McMillan, of Peterborough, spent the week-end at the former's home here.

The Town Hall was practically filled again on Saturday evening for the second night when the Continuation School Commencement program was presented. The draw for the pair of artistic electric lamps, donated by Harry Ridge, of Peterborough, was made by her brother, Private Fred Ridge, Mrs. John R. Thompson holding the winning ticket. Proceeds from the lamps go to the Red Cross. The students and their friends enjoyed a dance after the concert.

United Church Holds Concert

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22—(ENS)—The annual Sunday School Christmas entertainment of the United Church was held in the school room of the church on Tuesday evening with the superintendent, B. Smith, as chairman for the program which opened with the singing of "Hark the Herald Angels Sings" and prayer by Mrs. M. Kinnaird.

The highlight of the program was a novelty dialogue entitled "Amateur Night at Station BUNK" presented by members of the classes of Miss Joyce Fielding and Mrs. F. E. Rogers. Most of the players used scripts throughout the dialogue as in real broadcasting studios. Dialogues were also given by Miss L. Wing's class and Miss L. Menzie's class. Vocal solos were sung by Sandra Vansickle, Margaret Wilkinson, Delores Stevenson and Joan Page, a vocal duet by Elda and Blanch Derrett, a vocal trio by Jacqueline Puffer, Ruth Wilkinson and Stella Wilkinson and a chorus by Mrs. W. M. Patterson's class, recitations were given by Donald Wilde, Joe Harnden and Sonya Ronald, a monologue by Helen Anderson and a reading by Albert Smith.

At the conclusion of the program Santa Claus arrived and distributed the presents on the large decorated Christmas tree and following this each child was given an orange.

Germans Fear Disaffection Among Officers

By DON WHITEHEAD
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE U.S. 1ST ARMY IN GERMANY, Oct. 8 (delayed by censor) — (AP)—Even before the attempt on Hitler's life last July there was growing concern among the Nazis over large-scale corruption within the ranks of the German Army which it was believed might undermine civilian morale and have "decisive consequences for the outcome of the war."

This was learned from two captured enemy documents which deflected enemy concern over dissafection within the army and alarm over the high rate of officer casualties which up to Jan. 20, 1944, totalled 113,069—including 33 generals killed, 39 wounded and 25 listed as missing.

Both documents gave a revealing picture of the difficulties which the Germans are facing in trying to find competent and trustworthy officer material. Since these documents were written the problem is even more acute because of the number of officers captured or killed by the Allies in the drive through France, Belgium and Holland.

The first document was compiled for the adjutant general and the second disclosed some of the conclusions reached.

The adjutant general concluded "particular concern is at present felt over cases of corruption on the largest scale extending into the highest ranks. Such cases are apt to influence the attitude and morale of the people and have decisive consequences for the outcome of the war.

"All cases of corruption will be brought before a central court in Berlin even for members of forces in the field."

McMillan Couple Honored By Club

The only visible trace of the rockets are their paths of vapor arching into the sky.

Mission Band Given Party

HAVELOCK, Dec. 22—(ENS)—At the Christmas meeting of the Mission Band of the United Church members of the Evening Auxiliary of the W.M.S. were present and entertained the children at lunch and games.

Betty Post, president of the Mission Band, presided for the worship service and program. The Christmas story was read for the scripture lesson and a carol was sung. The program consisted of a vocal solo by Helen Anderson, a piano solo by Joan Page, readings by Betty Post, Marie Rowat and Lillian Hayes. Mrs. M. Kinnaird, assistant leader of the band, closed the meeting with prayer. Mrs. A. C. Reid and Miss Joyce Fielding conducted the games.

Those serving lunch were: Mrs. W. M. Patterson, Miss Laurabelle Wing and Mrs. G. Hubble.

A vote of thanks was tendered to the evening auxiliary of the W.M.S. by Jackie Southward and Kenneth Nobes on behalf of the Mission Band. There was an attendance of thirty-four.

GERMANS PUSH 29 MILES FROM SEDAN

Star of Bethlehem Proclaims a New Light in the Midst of War and Strife

CHRISTMAS, 1944, BRINGS INTO EVERY HOME THE HOPE AND ASSURANCE THAT SOON THERE SHALL REIGN THE SPIRIT OF "PEACE ON EARTH" WHEN HOMES AND FAMILIES WILL AGAIN BE UNITED.

As once again we unite in observing Christmas and in recalling the story of Bethlehem, we are ever reminded that this is the sixth Christmas when, as a nation, Canada has been at war. We recall with pride the high achievements of our gallant fighting men and the great contribution of the workers on the home front. But there are many homes, where there are vacant chairs caused by war. They gave their lives so that we might be able to observe this Christmas, according to our traditional customs. Thus as we give and receive gifts on this Christmas let us ever remember.

And as we remember, let our thoughts dwell on our duty to the future for there is a grave responsibility for us to assume in shaping this world.

We pray that this Christmas may awaken in our hearts a new faith and strength to continue the fight for those things we hold dear.

We rejoice as one by one the lights of the world come on again, shining through the darkness of the night with a warm glow of comfort and of cheer. These lights return to us as heralds of Peace . . a Peace that comes out of sacrifice and suffering and gives promise of a new and better world.

Thus in this war-torn world, as the Star of Bethlehem proclaimed a new light in the birth of Christ two thousand years ago, it gives new hope and assurance to all today. A hope that soon there shall reign the Spirit of "Peace on Earth."

Greek Armies Clash In New Fight

ELAS Strong Units Attack Rightist Guerillas

ATHENS, Dec. 23—(AP)—A strong attack by Left-Wing E.L.A.S. forces in northwest Greece against Rightist Guerillas led by Gen. Napoleon Zervas was announced today by British military headquarters.

The announcement asserted the attack was in violation of an agreement signed by the opposing Greek forces of Caserta before Allied forces landed in Greece to drive out the Germans.

The official communique said a deep penetration into the Rightist territory had been made by the E.L.A.S. It was reported unofficially that these ranged up to 20 miles. The E.L.A.S. forces are commanded by Gen. Sarafis.

British forces landed this morning on the north side of Piraeus harbor, the communique said, and have made good progress in clearing out the insurgent forces. Progress also has been made in Athens in subduing the E.L.A.S.

A 25-minute truce silenced a section of Athens last night while an E.L.A.S. messenger delivered a reply to Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander, on his cease-fire ultimatum. The contents of the note were not immediately revealed.

Firing resumed after the truce was ended and there were indications the E.L.A.S. were unwilling to agree flatly to Scobie's terms.

Small arms fire still echoed through Athens today as Scobie considered the reply to his ultimatum. The E.L.A.S. apparently were withdrawing from the southern suburbs to the north.

A British warship bombarded E.L.A.S. concentrations north of Piraeus in the clearing operations which continued throughout yesterday on the west side of the main harbor. Stiff opposition was encountered by the British north of the Kallipolis peninsula.

Fly 300 Sorties Over West Front

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — United States heavyweights and fighters swept out from England for the first time in three days today and bombed targets in Western Germany.

Taking advantage of better weather which has held Allied Air Forces fog-bound for days while the German offensive proceeded, the big bombers hit their targets before 7:30 a.m.

However, the size of the attack was not comparable to some of the heavy blows landed in past weeks. The targets were not named immediately.

British Lancasters and Halifaxes also took advantage of the first clear night to raid railroad yards at Coblenz and Bingen, on the Rhine behind German spearheads.

Six German fighters were shot down and three British planes were lost in the night operations.

FACE OF WAR—This man, Sgt. John H. Parks, of Mill Creek, Indiana, has looked on the face of war and finds it not to his liking. Grime and stubble cover the face of the football-helmeted serviceman after days of front-line combat. How much worse the rigors of war now that the German counter-offensive is under way!

Russians Claim Huns Torture Allied Prisoners

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — The Moscow radio said to-day an extraordinary Soviet Commission had established that nearly 700,000 persons, including an undetermined number of Britons and Americans from German prison camps, were tortured and slain in the Nazi extermination camp at Lwow.

The broadcast, recorded here by the Soviet Monitor, said an additional 200,000 persons were killed in another Nazi camp at Janow, and that children were slaughtered in target practice.

The broadcast did not make clear whether the Britons and Americans were prisoners of war or civilians, and did not state their number.

Relating eye-witness descriptions of the most horrible terror-tactics, the broadcast said the commission had established Heinrich Himmler's direct participation in the Lwow atrocities. It said the Gestapo chief visited Lwow, in the eastern part of what was pre-war Poland, several times. It as overrun by the Russians some time ago.

The broadcast said the commission's report as confirmed by numerous statements of Soviet citizens, as well as by French prisoners who were liberated by the advancing Red Army in Lwow.

"Children were selected and given to detachments of Hitler youth as targets for shooting practice," the commission said.

Many Frenchmen and Englishmen also were killed by slow degrees in a camp at Rava Russkaya, the report said. A Frenchman was quoted as saying that when he arrived at the camp in September, 1943, there was only one water tap for the use of 12,000 persons, and the prisoners were allowed to use it only a few hours a day.

The commission's report said a typhoid epidemic was introduced in one camp by deliberately putting typhoid sufferers among healthy prisoners. It took 5,000 lives, the commission said.

The commission said a special school had been established at Lwow to train cadres for exhuming bodies and burning them. Later the sites were camouflaged with trees and bushes.

Clean Out Rome Gangsters

Allied Forces Cooperate With Italians

ROME, Dec. 23—(AP)—Six hundred heavily-armed carabinieri supported by light tanks surrounded the Roman suburb of Tormarancio during the night, arrested some 200 Roman gangsters and seized large stores of ams, the Carabinieri command announced otday.

Official declarations also said four separate groups of civilian and soldier criminals believed to have been connected with a number of serious thefts, including murder of a farmer near Tivoli, had been rounded up.

These arrests were made by Allied military police operating in close co-operation with Italian civil authorities.

Brig.-Gen. Thoburn K. Brown, Rome are commander, said there has been a noticeable decrease in major crimes since the arrests.

The first of the group of four included a number of Allied soldiers who admitted committing robberies in Naples and Rome.

Members of the second group, consisting of 16 persons, including soldiers, deserters and civilians, were apprehended on Oct. 28 as they prepared to hold up two cafes.

Reds Destroy 101 Tanks In 24 Hours

Winter Offensive On East Front Now Well Underway

MOSCOW, Dec. 23 —(AP) — An official Soviet announcement of the destruction of 101 German tanks in a 24 hour period ending Thursday night gave support to-day to German reports that the Red Army's great winter offensive is getting under way.

The fact that the long Eastern front now lies under hard, firm snow, with deep freezes, offers the Russians just the kind of weather needed for their slasring attack. Throughout the war they have always commenced their biggest winter operations in just such weather and temperatures.

The Soviets are better equipped than the Germans and the record shows conclusively that they are consistently able to outfight them when the cold sets in.

The Russian High Command did not say where the Nazis suffered this huge loss of panzers. The Germans, however, reported that a mighty force of 270,000 winter-hardened Russian troops was on the move in snow-swept Latvia where an estimated 30 Nazi divisions are pocketed against the Baltic.

Great Panzer Battle.

Further offical reports of these huge tank losses would mean that a terrific panzer battle is going on somewhere and the sector is not likely to be Slovakia, for it is mountainous country not suited for tank operations.

There was a likelihood that large-scale fighting was taking place in the five-mile-wide strip between the Ipoly and the Gran rivers north-east of Budapest, although the High Command was saying nothing about it.

Berlin broadcasts described the Soviet surge in Latvia as "a big push of extreme operational importance."

Red Army units at the southern end of the front drove to within nine miles of the important Slovakian rail centre of Losonc (Lucenec), threatening to engulf a sizeable orce o G usnamreedshp Ussljatio force of Germans pushed from the Hungarian Matra mountains by another Russian drive up from the south.

The communique announced the capture of seven Slovak localities east of Losonc and 10 others in northern Hungary southeast of the city, including the six-way rail junction of Kistye. In this area the Russians took 1,755 prisoners on Thursday, the bulletin said.

Kill 1,800 Japs Daily On Leyte

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 23 —(AP)— American infantrymen, chasing a foe whose abandoned dead is being counted at a rate of 1,800 a day, pressed ahead on Leyte against Japanese retreating toward Palompon while artillery pumped shells into that last port of escape, headquarters reported today.

On recently-invaded Mindoro Island there still was no ground opposition but the enemy continued its air raids, losing seven planes in combat and two to anti-aircraft fire. Two American fighters were lost.

In the bloody Leyte campaign, nearing an end, the U.S. 77th Division was three miles beyond the Ormoc corridor advancing westward along the mountain road toward Palompon, on the northwest shoulder of the island.

Palompon is a secondary port at best, poorer by far than captured Ormoc to the south. It was doubtful that the Japanese could make good any mass escape through a rain of artillery shells and sea and air attack such as the Americans could mount from nearby bases.

JUST A BABY'S PRAYER — The song made famous during World War 1, by Henry Burr, "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight For His Daddy Over There," makes an apt title to this picture, as 6-year-old Arthur Clarke, and three-year-old Maxine Clarke kneel at their mother's knee saying a prayer for their Daddy, Captain Max E. Clarke, serving in Belgium with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders. In hundreds of homes in Peterborough and across Canada, this little scene is duplicated as those at home yearn for fathers, husbands, brothers and sisters far away on the war fronts. At Christmas time this yearning is intensified and the sense of loneliness more acute, but the Christmas lights on trees flicker gaily despite the absence of soldiers, and once more the hope is voiced—May this be Canada's last wartime Christmas."

Situation In Europe Grave

By ELTON C. FAY—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP).—Germany is withholding her ultimate total strength from the break-through battle of the Western front until the Nazi high command can determine the prospects for a major victory, military men here said today. They suggested the probable German idea of such a victory would be the trapping and destruction of two or three Allied armies cut off from the rest of the forces in France. The Nazi offensive, despite its initial swift progress, has not reached the point where the high command can make the determination.

One military expert, implying that the Germans were falling behind on their time-table, said that in view of the early success of the break-through the enemy should have progressed farther than the 30-odd miles he is known to have advanced since last Saturday.

There is, however, no inclination to turn away from the fact that the situation in Europe continues grave. Dispatches from the front indicate that the Germans probing north and northwestward with part of their armored columns, found stiffening opposition there and now are pushing armored feelers to the south.

The enemy, by no means, has committed his utmost strength to the break-through venture, military students here say. Sources of reinforcement, both men and armor, exist. These source include more or less dormant sections of less active areas, including the central Russian front.

Shelter Administrators Are Proposed For Municipalities

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(CP).—The Federal Government now is awaiting the response of municipal authorities to its proposal that emergency shelter administrators be appointed in certain areas, to be specified shortly, where serious congestion exists so that the best use may be made of available housing accommodation in such localities.

The Government yesterday announced a six-point program designed to assist in overcoming the housing shortage and providing for the appointment of administrators of shelter so that hardships may be prevented and alleviated.

Must Oppose Appointments.

Finance Minister Ilsley, whose department includes the Prices Board, under which rental regulations are placed, has written provincial governments advising them that the board will be prepared to appoint shelter administrators and that the appointments will be made unless the municipalities concerned oppose them.

Nazi Patrols Probe British Positions

By DOON CAMPBELL
Reuter War Correspondent

AT 21ST ARMY GROUP HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 23 (CP-Reuters) —German patrols 30 to 40 strong swarmed across the Maas at more than half a dozen points in daylight yesterday and during the night.

The crossings were made in assault boats along the northern stretch of the Maas and at Venlo. All were "baiting parties" sent to learn Field Marshal Montgomery's positions and strength.

All the patrols suffered casualties and were thrust back across the river.

Canadians Score New Honors Near Bagnacavallo

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

ROME, Dec. 23.—(AP).—(AP). — Canadian troops of the British 8th Army have established a six mile front along the Senio river northeast of Faenza, in the face of stout German resistance, it was announced to-day.

Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' 1st Canadian Corps was taking rapid advantage of its break-through at the Naviglio bridgehead north-west of newly-won Baganacavallo, strategic highway hub nine miles west of Ravenna.

Backed up by armor which pushed across the Fosso Munio under cover of a heavy smoke screen, the Canadians spread out along the east bank of the Senio for six miles. This advance placed them in the area of Alfonsine, 7½ miles north-northeast of Bagnacavallo.

Nearer Faenza north of Highway 9 other 8th Army troops hacked at an enemy salient left between the two forces.

Mezzano, three miles northeast of Faenza, was captured while a push to the north was clearing German rear-guards from east of Naviglio and south of Bagnacavallo.

Exploiting the toehold won across the Naviglio Canal north of Bagnacavallo December 12, the Canadians pressed ahead to the Senio River and the Germans pulled back to the west bank of this stream—the next obstacle in the grim battle along the Adriatic coastal plains towards the Po Valley.

New Brunswick formations had brought pressure against Bagnacavallo from the east while companies from an Alberta regiment in a wide flanking movement swept behind the town from the north.

First troops to enter the town were New Brunswick soldiers under Maj. Roland Horsey of Vancouver, and they were followed by others under Maj. Lloyd Watling of Chatham, N.B., and Capts. Chad Haining of Saint John, N.B., and Don Smith of St. Johns, Que.

An Alberta regiment had a hard battle Wednesday for control of a group of houses at a cross roads which both they and the Germans wanted. When the enemy counter-attacked with overwhelming strength, Lieut. E. L. M. McGregor, of Calgary, fought a rear-guard action and consolidated at new positions a few hundred yards back. Then McGregor shot his way back to the crossroads, chasing out enemy self-propelled guns and taking 25 prisoners.

Other Alberta companies lashed out in a big left hook which took them to a point about 1,000 yards short of the Senio river north of Bagnacavallo.

Supporting them in this manoeuvre was a western battalion on their left, which advanced toward Bagnacavallo on a line parallel to the Senio and the Naviglio.

Holland Christmas Muddy

Canadians Occupy Bleak Meuse Sector

By CHARLES LYNCH
Reuters War Correspondent

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN HOLLAND, Dec. 23 (CP-Reuters).—It will be a brown Christmas in Holland. That is the color of the mud in which the Canadian and British soldiers are living and that mud is No. 1 item in their lives on Christmas Day or any other of these bleak winter days along the Meuse River.

With a few variations Monday will be just another day in the lives of these men who keep watch on the Maas. For most of them food will be a little better, memories of home a little brighter and faces a little sadder.

There will be extra whisky to warm the stomach for those who are off duty. There will be no question of a Christmas truce.

Wherever possible army tradition will be observed. NCOS will take tea to other ranks in the morning, and other ranks will drink it before they get up. At noon officers will serve NCOS and other ranks at lunch.

Behind the lines many Netherlands families will share their meagre Christmas dinners with the Canucks and Tommies. On Christmas Eve the sentries by the river-bank or the men huddled around the little stove at platoon headquarters will be thinking of home. That will be Christmas at the front in 1944.

Nazi Armor Slashing Great Gains

Dangerous Breach Now Blasted In American Lines

By JAMES M. LONG
Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 23 (AP)—A powerful German armored smash hammering more than 40 miles across Luxembourg and into Belgium had reached within 29 miles of historic Sedan by Thursday noon, and Germans have entered the by-passed Belgian road key of Bastogne, it was disclosed today.

Allied Supreme Headquarters said the strong central wedge of the German counter-offensive had careened 18 miles beyond Bastogne to St. Hubert, 29 miles northeast of Sedan, scene of the 1940 break-through, two days ago.

A field dispatch said the Germans had entered the surrounded city of Bastogne, four miles inside Belgium, and had won control of Wiltz, 10 miles farther east inside Luxembourg. These actions also occurred Thursday.

Events of the past 48 hours were cloaked in the security news ban.

Deep Penetration

The plunge to St. Hubert marked the deepest penetration by the Germans, sweeping clear across Luxembourg and 20 miles on into Belgium. It has sprung from Vianden near the Reich frontier.

The Germans northern wedge also was reported about 40 miles into Belgium in the area west of Habiemont and Malmedy.

Headquarters said that up to noon Thursday the garrison in Bastogne still were holding out, and reported Wiltz overrun, with no word of the fate of the garrison there.

But information given correspondents in the field said Bastogne had been entered, and the Germans had taken control of Wiltz.

Bastogne is on a main highway running south from Liege. Farther south a third enemy wedge was reported threatening Arlon on the same highway.

Defence Stiffens

The Allied command gave no word of any further progress by a German column which veered 13 miles northwest of Bastogne and reached as far as Laroche and crossed the Ourthe River, nor by a second for-

Burma Division Takes Tigyaing

KANDY, Ceylon, Dec. 23 (AP)—British troops driving down the Irrawaddy River in northern Burma have captured Tigyaing, 42 river miles south of Katha, and approximately 125 miles from Mandalay, the southeast Asia command announced today.

This new gain by the 36th Division yesterday came as field dispatches gave mounting evidence that the Japanese are withdrawing from northwestern Burma into a defence arc around Mandalay. They are leaving only rearguard pockets for delaying actions, dispatches said.

On the east flank of the British drive along the Irrawaddy, Chinese troops have cut the Ghamo-Namkam road at the 52nd mile-stone, headquarters said. This would be very close to Namkam, and the Burma road.

Home Owners Entitled To Tax Reduction

LINDSAY, Dec. 23—It is the duty of the municipalities to pass on to the owners of real estate the great reduction in levies which will result from the Government assuming 50 per cent. of the overall cost of education, Provincial Treasurer Leslie Frost said here tonight at a meeting of ratepayers.

"It is not the desire of the Government to increase the total of taxation," said Mr. Frost. "One of the purposes of this great move is to relieve taxation from an asset which is unreasonably overburdened. In 1942 the total municipal tax levies in Ontario were about 110 millions. This amount should now be reduced by the amount by which our school levies are reduced.

Pass on to People

"At this time I frankly say that it is the duty of the municipalities to pass the reduction in levies asked for by our school boards on to the people," continued Mr. Frost. "In doing this our municipalities will not only be helping themselves and the ratepayers, but will be helping their Government to bring about an even broader tax adjustment, which will provide the stimulation necessary to enable business, industry and agriculture to provide for the full employment of our people."

Mr. Frost pointed out that the requisitions for funds to be made by school boards would be much smaller than in the past, and this would mean the amount which the municipalities would be required to levy would be less.

"This will make possible a reduction in real estate taxation," the Treasurer declared. "For years the municipalities have complained of excessive taxation which was injuring real estate. Over the years our municipal taxation, which includes school taxation, has principally been levied upon real estate. During that same time the relative value of real estate has lessened, and with it the weight of taxation has increased. We have unscientifically added to the tax structure which was devised for conditions of 100 years ago Now we are about to undertake a change and in making this change we frankly ask for the assistance of the municipalities."

Mr. Frost named a number of reasons why municipalities should pass on the saving to the people They were:

To ensure home building after the war; to attract business and industry by reducing tax levies; to ensure activity for the building trades; to encourage people to own their own homes.

Expect Election To Be Held In Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 23—(ENS)—Possibility of an election looms for the village with two nominated for reeve, eight for council and four for school board, at the nominations meeting, Friday night. Up to midnight, five had qualified for council which would indicate a vote must be held.

For Reeve G. S. Scriver qualified and Charles Tanner indicated his decision would be made later. Those qualifying for council are: W. C. Grant, George Graham, Reg Doubt and George Charlton, all of this year's council, and Fred Wickett, John Murphy and Roy Bullock were also nominated, but have not yet qualified.

Two of the three nominees have qualified for the school board. They are E. H. Northey and Mel Kingdon but Roy Bullock has till 9 tonight to qualify.

Nominations were as follows:

For Reeve:

Gordon Scriver—Nominated by W. C. Grant and Fred Wickett.

Charles Tanner—By F. S. Coyle and Robert Charlton.

Councillors:

George Baker—by Beecher Blake and Fred Wickett.

W. C. Grant—By Beecher Blake and Fred Wickett.

G. Graham—By W. W. Yale and George Charlton.

George Charlton—By W. W. Yale and G. S. Scriver.

Reg. Doubt—By W. C. Grant and George Graham.

Fred Wicket—By Grant and Graham.

Roy Bullock—By F. Coyle and Tanner.

Frank Erskine—By Coyle and Tanner.

John Murphy—By C. S. Tanner and F. Coyle.

Hydro Commissioner:

N. A. Moore—By George Charlton and W. W. Yale.

School Trustees:

Roy Brown—By Reg. Doubt and G. S. Scriver.

Roy Bullock—By Scriver and Doubt.

Northey—By Doubt and Roy Brown.

M. O. Kingdon—By George Charlton and W. W. Yale.

Gordon S. Scriver called as first nominee announced his intention to stand for reeve in 1945. He pointed out the fact that the village had a nice balance on hand due to the fact that it was impossible to get men to do work that should be done. The outstanding business accomplished by the council during the year was the revaluation of the property. Mr. Scriver said he would like another turn as reeve to finish up what they had started.

Charles Tanner said he was taken back by the large crowd present. In view of the fact that many persons had approached him to run as reeve he said he would make his decision later in time to qualify.

George Baker declined to speak.

W. C. Grant stated that the turnout did not show good interest of citizens in municipal affairs. Judging from the gossip which he had picked up from time to time Mr. Grant said he had expected that the citizens were interested in what the council was doing and would be at the meeting.

Unfair Criticism

He felt it was unfair of the citizens to criticize the council when they themselves weren't sufficiently interested to attend the nomination meeting. As to what the property committee had accomplished during the year, he stated he could think of more things they haven't done. The furnaces are in a state of disrepair, the roof has been patched and although there was a lack of policy as regards the village park last year they did tolerably well in collecting revenue from the park. The citizens should discuss what should be done about the park.

Although it is not within the power of the council to say whether or not there will be a system of waterworks, he said should the occasion arise when it should become an issue he would do all he could to have the installation of waterworks approved by the citizens. If elected for another term he said he would try to promote progressive and legislative activity in the village.

To Run For Office

George Graham as chairman of the finance committee of the old council said he would stand for another year.

George Charlton as chairman of the streets committee felt the work had been well done even with the shortage of labor, Stanley Richardson had helped out a great deal during the year. He intends to be a candidate for the 1945 council.

Reg Doubt stated that he had heard many comments on how the village was run during the past year but the people were not present at the meeting where it should be discussed. The revaluation had caused the most comment in the village but it was the right thing to do and although some people were opposed to it they eventually said it was the right thing to do.

At the Assessor's convention in Belleville it was disclosed that there will eventually be revaluation throughout the greater part of the province and the same card system as is used in the village will be used. He said there should be a Parks' commission appointed for five years to work in cooperation with the council to develop the park. The swamp should be cleaned up, but no action should be taken until the village could obtain a proper contract with the C.N.R.

The garbage collection system has been very unsatisfactory with the garbage man spending more time collecting fees than he does collecting garbage. Mr. Doubt said he felt the better system would be to pay a man on a yearly contract and put it on the tax bills. He announced his intention to stand for another year.

Fred Wickett said he was surprised to be nominated and intended to accept the nomination, even in view of the successful year the 1944 council had.

Frank Erskine said he had been on the school board for 15 years and felt he had done his share of municipal work. He was amazed at the lack of interest and had come down with the hopes that the hall would be filled as he had heard so much about the reassessment. His own assessment was raised considerably and if his taxes are raised next year he will appeal it. He said the town hall was a disgrace and the past councils were to blame and it was time the council woke up and got it in shape. Coming into the town hall on a rainy day, Mr. Erskine said he was met by a stream of water flowing down the front stairs, the lighting in the school is terrible—50 per cent. deficient. He said it was false economy for the council not to spend a few dollars. He said he would like to stand for election by due to his work he might not be able to give as much time as was required.

Repair Trouble

R. Charlick, manager of the Nepheline Products, as a newcomer to the village was called on by the clerk to express his opinion of the village. Mr. Charlick said he had not been in the village long enough to make many friends or to have any enemies. He said he wondered if the previous speaker realized how difficult it is to get things repaired during this period. Personally he said he would say, if the 1944 council did nothing else than do revaluation, they should all be sent back. By bringing in an outsider to do the revaluating it should be absolutely unbiased. The fundamental basis used in Lakefield revaluation is being used throughout Ontario. In closing Mr. Charlick said if at any time his services could be of any use to the village he would be glad to do what he could.

Roy Brown, nominated as trustee said he was not settled here permanently and felt he should not assume responsibilities.

Mel Kingdon intends to stand for another term if it did not cause an election.

Rev. S. A. R. Wood as retiring trustee said how much he had enjoyed the year's work on the school board. He said he had children soon to start school and he had learned a great deal. He said if the parents spent a term teaching they would know what the teachers have a right to expect from the children and parents. He had enjoyed working with the men and could never be associated with a nicer group of men.

William Grant expressed appreciation to Clerk Northey on behalf of the council for his splendid cooperation during the year. E. H. Northey in replying said he had derived a wonderful education in municipal affairs. He had done and is still doing his best and appreciated Mr. Charlick's remarks. He said the council had a surplus this year and had done a splendid job.

Obituary

MRS. MARIA DECARLO

A well known resident of Peterborough for 38 years, Mrs. Maria DeCarlo, formerly Maria Aimola, 543 Parnell street, passed away Friday at her residence, after an extended illness. She was 58 years of age.

Mrs. DeCarlo was born in Rocco. St. Giovanni, Italy, the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Antonio Aimola. She came to Peterborough from Italy as a young woman. As long as health permitted, she was active in church work, and was a devout member of Sacred Heart church. Among the organizations in which Mrs. DeCarlo played an active part were the Catholic Women's League, the League of the Sacred Heart, and the Altar Society. A kindly woman, she was always ready to lend a helping hand to others in less fortunate circumstances.

She leaves to mourn her loss five daughters, Mrs. S. Longo, (Rosie), of Peterborough, Mrs. Aimola, (Isobel, of Montreal, Mrs. Bruce McNaughton, (Mulvina) of Peterborough, Viola and Antoinette, both of Peterborough; also surviving are four sons, Rocco, of Kingston, Fred, of Peterborough, Carman, of Peterborough, and Guido DeCarlo, also of Peterborough. Her husband, the late Florento DeCarlo, predeceased her about six years ago.

The funeral will be Tuesday morning at 8.40 o'clock, from the residence, 543 Parnell street, to the Church of the Sacred Heart for Requiem Mass at nine o'clock. Interment will be in St. Peter's cemetery.

GUY BARNAH PEEL

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 23—(ENS)—There passed away today in Toronto Guy Barnah Peel, a resident of this village for the past three years after an illnessof about five weeks.

Born in Nova Scotia 48 years ago Mr. Peel before coming to Lakefield resided in Ottawa. In 1925 he married Laureta Cusack of Boston, Mass. While in Lakefield he was engaged in the insurance business and also manufactured toys. There survives his wife and four children Helen, 18; Evelyn, 17; Stuart, 15 and John, 12.

The remains are being brought to Lakefield for the funeral.

Alex Archibald To Oppose Mel H. Johnston

All signs pointed to an election featuring a liberal amount of citizen interest, at a meeting of the electors of North Monaghan township Friday evening in Mays School, when two men were nominated for reeve, nine for councillors, and five for school trustees.

At any rate, North Monaghan electors were virtually promised a two-man race for the post of reeve, after qualifications had been received from both the present reeve, Melville H. Johnston, and the 1944 deputy reeve, A. W. Archibald.

Out of nine men nominated for council members, three had qualified up to shortly after 11 o'clock Friday evening. All nominees have until 9 o'clock Saturday evening to register their qualifications.

The three who qualified were Frank Millard, W. G. Waterman, and James S. Roberts. Others nominated, but who have not yet qualified are Bert Arnott, Eric McKinstry, Henry Batten, H. F. Doig, Archie Patterson, and G. N. Moncrief. Four councillors will be elected.

The five men nominated for school trustees were George M. Sage, Cyril Barnes, Frank Dawson, Walter Wood and Ernest Horton. Of these, all but Mr. Wood, who was not present at the time, qualified. Four school trustees will be elected. Fred Stinson will serve on the 1945 Board, as he was elected for a two-year term last year.

There will be no office of deputy reeve in 1945, because of the changes made when the other portion of North Monaghan was annexed by the City of Peterborough.

Two Are Outside

Only one of this year's council members was eligible for nomination for the coming year and that was Mr Roberts. William J. Grady and Harold Cassan live in the annexed portion of the township, and are therefore not eligible for reelection or nomination.

Reeve Johnston was nominated by Henry Batten and Bert Arnott, and Deputy Reeve Archibald was nominated by G. N. Sage and Walter Wood.

An outline of some of the activities of the township council during the past year was given by Reeve Johnston. Difficulties in some tasks were reported, while satisfactory progress and results were also related.

Among the interesting details released by Reeve Johnston was that in 1944, taxes came in better than ever before. Winter roadway troubles starring a snow plow were also discussed, and he told the electors of the problems faced by the council in that connection, and what has been done to give residents better service.

A post-war project in North Monaghan may be the opening up of a couple of new roads, he said. A great many other details of council business during 1944 was given by Reeve Johnstn in his review.

"We have had arguments," he said, "but there has been no bad feelings, and we always remained friends. Our arguments occurred when we sat around a table, but outside the council room, we have still be on the best of terms".

Deputy Reeve Archibald also reviewed some of the work done and the problems faced during 1944 by the township council. "The annexation affair was a headache from start to finish," he admitted, echoing the apparent sentiments of more than one man at the meeting.

Seeing his name listed as being nominated for reeve, he laughed. "Well, I see my hat's in the ring. All right, let it stay there!"

H. B. Rye, former warden of Peterborough county, who has taken a keen interest in the affairs of North Monaghan township for 30 years, admitted to the audience that "I am hostile" about the annexation, and the way it was carried out.

Mr. Rye emphasized the fact that in expressing his views on the annexation problem, he was merely exercising his privilege of freedom of speech, as recorded in the Atlantic Charter.

One of the questions raised by Mr. Rye was, why did the city take in such a large area?

Get No Benefit

"The people living in outlying areas are not going to get much benefit from the city for many years, but they will go on paying taxes just the same. He also touched on several other points in connection with the annexation of the portion of the township by the city.

Each of the men nominated for councillors spoke briefly.

Mr. Grady, 1944 councillor, and a well-known citizen of North Monaghan where he served in council affairs for six years, told the audience that it is with a certain amount of regret that he leaves behind his citizenship of North Monaghan. He now lives in the city, because of the annexation and was not eligible for re-election in the township.

"I sincerely hope the remaining part of this township will grow and prosper," Mr. Grady said. "I hope the change will prove to be a big step forward."

Another "Hello and Goodbye" member of the 1944 council, was Harold Cassan, who now lives in the city also, and so is unable to accept nomination. He said that although the work in the council took up not a little time, he does not regret it, and that he looks back on those days with enjoyment.

Mr. Roberts, in answer to a question, reviewed briefly the problems and possible financial circumstances which will be connected with the erection of a new school or schools in the remaining portion of the township. Casting his eyes on the blackboard and seeing the list of nominations, he remarked, "I am sure we will get a good body of men in 1945's council."

Words of Tribute

Walter Bannon, chairman of the school board during 1944, and now a member of the Peterborough Board of Education, offered the school trustees who are elected, any help which he could give. During the evening, several speakers paid tribute to Mr. Bannon's excellent work as chairman of the North Monaghan Board, a position which he has capably filled for several years.

Jack Sinclair, a member of the school board in North Monaghan for the past two years, but who now lives in the annexed portion of the township, also offered any assistance which he could give, and advised the school trustees who are elected to begin work immediately on the school problem, with the ultimate objective being a completed school in North Monaghan when the summer holidays end in 1945.

Fred Stinson, who is beginning his second year on the school board, thanked Mr. Bannon and Mr. Sinclair, adding that the assistance they could give would be extremely valuable and invited them to "sit in" on the first several meetings of the new board.

Earlier in the evening, R. F. Downey, Inspector of Public Schools, explained some of the new education grant highlights, as given in an announcement from the Drew government received December 15. Mr. Downey offered his assistance to any problems the new school board in North Monaghan might come up against.

He said, "I hope you can obtain a very aggressive school board, because there will be plenty of hard work for them to do. From former members of the board, who are now living in the city, you can count on good fellowship and valuable advice."

Bruce Johnston, North Monaghan township clerk, who conducted the entire nomination meeting and was chairman, lauded Mr. Downey for his willingness to help others in their problems, and to come to meetings, where his advice and judgment are both needed and appreciated.

4 Men Named For Emily Reeve

Four men were nominated for the position of reeve of Emily township at the nominations meeting Friday and the nominees have till 9 o'clock tonight to qualify.

In addition to the present reeve Paul McGuire, Arthur McQuade, Wesley Wilson and Harry Endicott were also named for the position. Five men were nominated as councillors to fill four seats. They are: Alvin Franks, Milton Thurston, George Magee, Thomas Morrissey and Vincent Fee.

M. H. Winte of Lindsay, agricultural representative of Victoria County and Charles Shier of Cambray, spoke on the organizing of farmers to join the Federation of Agriculture. They pointed out its benefits and discussed programs in use, and at the close of the meeting several farmers signed up.

Omemee Nominations

John Bent, reeve of Omemee, has been returned to office by acclamation at the nominations Friday night, and it is not expected there will be an election for councillors, although five have been nominated. They are: Floyd Parsons, Norman Ruttle, Harry Burgess, Harry Deyell, all of the present council, and Wally Downing.

There are four school board nominees to fill three seats and those nominated are Charles Mills, Howard Bent, Arthur Stephenson and Clem Parks.

New Beginning Was Made In Birth of Jesus Christ

By REV. E. R. JAMES

Mary said: Behold the hand maid of the Lord: Be it unto me according to thy Word.—St. Luke 1:38.

Christians should hold fast to this important and fundamental truth that Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin Mary. It is the corner stone of the mystery of the birth of the Second Adam, the Head of the New Race.

In delicate language St. Luke, a medical man, gives us the story of the re-entrance of God into this world through the agency of a Hebrew Maiden. A Jewish village maiden becomes conscious of the present of a spiritual visitor. He opens with words of uplifting courtesy: "Hail, thou that art highly favoured, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women." Then come the important message: "The Holy Ghost shall come upon thee, and the power of the Highest shall overshadow thee; therefore also that Holy Thing shall be born of thee shall be called the Son of God."

The Holy Ghost, "the Giver of Life", will do in her His marvellous work and in due time the Son of God will be born. But the primary question is: "Will she consent?" God will not force Himself upon her. Angel hosts are waiting for her answer. In a supreme act of self denial she gives herself to the carrying out of the Divine purpose. "Behold the hand maid of the Lord; be it unto me according to Thy Word." She knew that the sword would pierce her own soul.

In due time the Lord Jesus was born in Bethlehem, "the house of bread." It symbolizes that He would indeed be the Bread of God, which came down from heaven.

Some of you will hear in your Christmas Communion these carefully prepared words: "Who, by the operation of the Holy Ghost, was made very man of the substance of the Virgin Mary His Mother; and that without spot of sin, to make us clean from all sin."

What is the practical value of this doctrine of the Virgin Birth of Our Lord? It means that Jesus is God. Christianity stakes all on the Divine Nature of the Lord Jesus. Many accept this in simple childlike faith. Yet it is necessary to emphasize this truth. Some claim that He is a great Teacher, which is true, and that He went about doing good. Follow His example. This teaching means that Jesus is not God; that we have no Redeemer and no High Priest to make intercession for us.

God is willing to work the same miracle in you if you will consent. His Holy Spirit will enter into your very soul and you will become partaker of the Divine Nature. Silently, slowly you will become impregnated with the Christ. Quietly He will be developing something of His purity, patience, gentleness, and other virtues in you. As a great scholar of the faith tell us, you will become a little Christ. You will become more and more attractive to your relations and friends. The Grace of Christ will be taking hold of.

Through your own personal experience you will discover the truth of the Incarnation, that God was made Man that you might become like God.

THAT CHRIST MAY BE FORMED IN YOU.

Unto Us A Child Is Born

Unto us a Child is born, unto us a Son is given; and the government shall be upon His shoulder; and His name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The Mighty God, The Everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.—Isa. 9:6.

For hearts, if true and lowly,
The manger-cradles are,
Where comes the Christ—sweet holy,
With love, the guiding Star.
—Anon.

Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men.—Luke 2:14.

◇ ◇ ◇

I heard the bells on Christmas Day
Their old, familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat
Of peace on earth, good will to men.
—Longfellow.

It isn't far to Bethlehem town!
It's anywhere that Christ comes down
And finds in people's friendly face
A welcome and abiding place;
The road to Bethlehem runs right through
The homes of folks like me and you.
—Madeleine S. Miller.

Concert Held

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23 (ENS) — St. Thomas' Anglican parish hall was the scene of a pleasant gathering Thursday evening, when the teachers and officers of the Sunday School played host to the scholars and parents in the annual Christmas tea, followed by the program and distribution of gifts from the gaily-decorated tree.

The guests sat down at 6 p.m. to the hot supper, the tables having seasonable decorations, and the menu beginning with creamed chicken, and concluding with ice-cream and cake. The superintendent, E. H. Barnes, took charge of the program, which consisted of carols sung by the primary children, and by members of various other classes, recitations by Joan Sanders, Dorothy Hutchinson, Lena Marie Lowery, and Marylyn Sanders, and a reading by a senior pupil, Jean Smith. The play, "Christmas Errands," was well presented by the girls of Bea Fallis' class, those taking part being: Francis Hutchinson, Jane Stinson, Marguerite and Robena Hancock, and Irene Trick.

Accompanists of the evening were Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cooke, Miss M. L. Collins and Miss Isabelle McCorry, and Sergeant Henry Gray, at present home on furlough, took the part of Santa Claus. Every pupil, teacher, and officer of the school had a parcel from Santa, with candy as well, and a particularly happy feature of the evening was the fact that the rector, Rev. A. E. Chevis, who has been in ill health for some months, was able to be among the guests for the party, together with Mrs. Chevis and baby Robert. The chairman announced the Sunday Christmas services as early communion at 9 a.m., and a carol service at 7.30 p.m., with the Sunday School session dispensed with for the day.

The Christmas Story

And it came to pass in those days, that there went out a decree from Caesar Augustus, that all the world should be taxed. And all went to be taxed, every one into his own city.

And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of the city of Nazareth, into Judaea, unto the city of David which is called Bethlehem (because he was of the house and lineage of David) to be taxed with Mary his espoused wife, being great with child. And so it was that, while they were there, the days were accomplished that she should be delivered. And she brought forth her firstborn son; and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger; because there was no room for them in the inn.

And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flock by night. And, lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them: and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not; for behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people. For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. And this shall be a sign unto you; ye shall find the babe wrapped in swaddling clothes, lying in a manger.

And suddenly there was with the angel a multitude of the heavenly host praising God, and saying, Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, goodwill toward men.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary, and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger. And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

St. Luke.

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the King, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. . . .

Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, inquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child, and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. When they saw the star, they rejoiced with exceeding great joy. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. And being warned of God in a dream that they should not return to Herod, they departed into their own country another way.

St. Matthew.

* * *

For unto us a child is born, unto us a son is given, and the government shall be upon his shoulders; and his name shall be called Wonderful, Counsellor, The mighty God, The everlasting Father, The Prince of Peace.

Isaiah.

The Quebec Chronicle calls Mitch Hepburn "a self-confessed mountebank and political weathervane". Though we do not wish to push the comparison too far, we might point out that twenty years ago that was what the newspapers were calling Winston Churchill.

Christmas In Canada

So often, when we think of Christmas, do our thoughts turn to England, or Scotland, or whatever part of the British Isles our forbears came from, that we overlook the fact that Canada herself has a history of Christmas celebration which is of deep interest. We have, for instance, several Christmas carols from French Canada which are of the greatest beauty and charm, and we have at least one which is native to our soil and to nowhere else. It is the carol which the Jesuit missionary, Jean de Brebeuf, wrote for the Huron Indians in their own tongue; when, we do not precisely know, but it must have been before 1649. Here is the first verse, as Lalemant wrote it:

Estennialon de tson8e Ies8s ahatonnia!
Onna8ate8a d'oki n'on8andask8aentak
Ennochien sk8atrihotat n'on8andilonrachatha
Ies8s ahatonnia!

This, in English, is translated thus:

O mortal men take courage! Jesus is born.
Now the reign of the Enemy is destroyed:
Hear ye no more what he whispers to your souls.
Jesus is born!

The Hurons had no M sound in their language, and for that reason the missionaries used the figure 8 to represent the 'ou' sound which was as near as they could get to it. Thus the word '8arie' signifies 'Ouarie' which was the Huron pronunciation of the name 'Marie'. This carol has been beautifully arranged for choral singing by Dr. Healey Willan, the best known of modern Canadian composers.

* * *

Mention of Brebeuf calls to mind his fellow-martyr, Jerome Lalemant, in whose 'Journal' we find an interesting account of the manner in which Christmas Day was celebrated in old Quebec in 1645. On Christmas Eve carols were sung to an orchestra made up of a bass viol, a violin and a German flute, which Lalemant notes 'could not be played in tune'. But the carols were sung, in any case, and at midnight a cannon was fired and Midnight Mass was begun.

* * *

Of a later period is the passage in Sketches of Upper Canada written by John Howison, in 1821. He recounts how, on Christmas Eve, he walked out at midnight, to stroll in the woods, and there encountered an Indian who said to him "Me watch to see the deer kneel; this Christmas night, and all the deer fall on their knees to the Great Spirit, and look up". Of this, Howison says: "The solemnity of the scene, and the grandeur of the idea, alike contributed to fill me with awe". This legend of the kneeling animals is common in the folklore of many European countries, and it would be interesting to know where the Indian got hold of it. . . There is no more room here for the discussion of Christmas in Canada, but it would be a fruitful subject for research, if any Canadian historian cared to approach it.

A Visit From St. Nicholas

Is there anyone who has not, at some time, heard the poem which begins—

'Twas the night before Christmas, when all through the house
Not a creature was stirring, not even a mouse; . . ?

It seems unlikely, for it has been a favourite for years; but precisely how many years, not many people seem to know. It first appeared anonymously in the Sentinel of Troy, N.Y., on December 23, 1823—a matter of 121 years ago. It was the work of a professor of Biblical learning, who was at that time 44 years of age; his name was Clement Clarke Moore. He wrote a good deal of verse, and published a collection of it in 1844, but this poem, A Visit From St. Nicholas, is all that has survived.

Moore lived to enjoy a modest fame as the author of these lines, for he was 84 when he died. It is amusing to compare his notion of the Christmas visitor with the modern one. To Moore he was 'St. Nicholas', in the old fashion; the modern child who speaks of Santa Claus rarely knows that it is the Sant Nicolaas of the Dutch settlers of New Amsterdam that he refers to. The modern Santa does not wear a fur gown, and he does not smoke a pipe, although advertisements sometimes show him refreshing himself with the more popular soft drinks. Nor do we thing of Santa Claus as a little man; he is generally represented as rather tall and not especially fat—certainly not as the jelly-bellied elf of Moore's verses. The style in Santa has changed.

But the love for him has not, and it is that love which keeps Moore's poem alive today. It is one of the few really successful treatments of the St. Nicholas theme in our literature.

Diary For Christmas Eve

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: A beautiful winter's day, so I went for a walk in the woods, and found the snow much deeper than I had reckoned on; but the play of light through the trees, turning the snow to fiery pink with blue shadow, was as fine as I have ever seen it, and I thought, 'This is Canada at her handsomest and best.' Returned home thoroughly tired, and fell asleep in a chair.

◇ ◇ ◇

MONDAY: I see by the papers that Laird Cregar is dead, which is a pity, for he was a fine actor, and one of the few on the screen who could play the part of a gentleman without making an ass of himself. . . . This evening to see "Double Indemnity" which was the best film I have seen in some months, and restored my faith in the cinema as a relaxation and entertainment. I was amused by the somewhat cynical attitude which it showed toward insurance companies, and wondered that there had been no complaint about it. Edward G. Robinson, who is one of my favourite screen stars, had a good part, and so I was happy for a couple of hours, and forget my regret that I shall see the excellent Cregar no more. . . . Had a row with a young bandit who demanded a large sum for shovelling my snow, and then did a poor job. Some of these boys like to ask a big price because the job is hard, and then get away with poor work because they are mere children, and therefore cannot be expected to do anything properly. This is bad training for the future; a boy who has come to value his services at $2 an hour will be amazed when he finds how little he is worth in a regular job. He departed, throwing snow back on my walk and using bad language; I hope Santa Claus leaves him nothing but a big cake of carbolic soap.

◇ ◇ ◇

TUESDAY: Very heavy snow today, and the schools were closed in consequence. This caused me to consult the Diary of my grandfather, the Rt. Rev. Trueman Marchbanks, who was a schoolboy of 12 in Upper Canada in 1844. This was his entry on December 18 of that year: 'Deep snowfall in the night, and went to school on my snowshoes, walking easily over fences and scrub trees. The schoolhouse was completely under snow, except for its chimney, and we all climbed down the chimney, melting the snow from our jackets as we did so. The master (Abel Trouncer, M.A., who later became first Clerk of the House of Commons) beat six boys furiously who were five minutes late; they had come fifteen miles through the storm, and said that they had paused to thaw out a frozen cow; Mr. Trouncer sneered at this thin excuse and bade them bend over. We read eight pages of Greek, twenty of Latin and five of Hebrew, mastered the Fifth book of Euclid and translated a hundred lines of Paradise Lost into French—an easy day as Mr. Trouncer was disposed to be in a good humour. Up the chimney and home through the snow at six o'clock, and shot a fine bison for tea.". . . . They were giants in those days. Is there a boy today who could duplicate that achievement? I think not. The Rev. Truman died a Bishop, and always declared that his schooldays were the happiest he had ever known.

◇ ◇ ◇

WEDNESDAY: A man who picked me up on the way into town this morning stuck in a drift, and after some exertion I pushed him out of it; coming home another man offered me a ride, and after I accepted I found that he was up to the hubs in soft snow, so I shovelled him out; in the afternoon I got another lift, after I had dug away a large drift which the snowscraper had deposited behind my lifter's car; last thing at night I was offered another lift, but I was too weak and tired to accept it. Motoring in winter can be a dreadful strain on the passenger. . . . The city of Toronto has had a heavier snowfall than usual, and has been reduced to a state of spectacular helplessness. Torontonians are being warned by the Coroner not to shovel snow, or they may faint; the Mayor urges everybody to stay home from work and worry about the snow; the newspapers suspend publication and gleefully save their paper ration; the whole city seems to be dissolved in tears of self-pity. One would naturally have expected Toronto to conscript all manpower immediately, and dig itself out, but its behaviour was most disappointing.

◇ ◇ ◇

THURSDAY: Having already referred to the Diary of my grandfather, the Rt. Rev. Trueman Marchbanks, who was Bishop of Baffinland before his untimely death at the age of 97, I make no apology for quoting it again, for the date December 21, 1844: "Rose at 4 a.m., and at my devotions until 7; breakfast on oatmeal, salt pork and prune pie; a holiday from school, so assisted in felling several trees and cutting evergreen for Christmas decoration. Dinner of salt pork, oatmeal dumplings and prune pie, washed down with hard cider and cornjuice cordial. Visitors this afternoon, the Beestlys from down the York Road; they brought with them a young Scotch girl, a Miss Dumphy, who is well connected, being a niece of the Crumb of MacCrumb; she is pretty, though a little inclined toward embonpoint, which the disorder of her fichu failed to conceal; diverted her with exegitical conversation. After supper (which was oatmeal cakes, salt pork and a delicious prune pastry) surprised her under the mistletoe, and yielded to a gross impulse, but she did not seem to mind, and pressed my foot rather firmly with her own when the time for parting came. What can this portend, Trueman? Is Dan Cupid abroad in our forests of Upper Canada?". . . . What a delightful picture of a Yuletide revel in the young days of our Dominion! Miss Dumphy, I am sorry to say, died of a surfeit of prunes several months later, and thus was robbed of the bliss of calling me grandson.

◇ ◇ ◇

FRIDAY: Have been troubled by mice for a little more than a week; they have been at my apples, my potatoes and now, by the Beard of the Prophet, they have been digging into my Christmas cakes, which are maturing in a dark cupboard. Therefore I have set out traps for them, baited with strong old cheese, and every evening I put on my moccasins, my fur cap with the fox-tail, and shoulder my old muzzle-loader, and go round my traps. . . . At first my luck was poor. I was using a wartime trap which could not have been sprung by anything lighter than a grizzly bear; the mice treated my cheese as an appetizer before stuffing on potatoes and apples, with Christmas cake to top off. Then I borrowed an old trap which is so ticklish that it snaps on my finger two or three times before I can set it; it has brought me in a very pretty yield of mice, and I hope to get enough pelts to make a hearth-rug. I disposed of one mouse in my furnace, but I shall not so again; the aroma of roast mouse which floated all through my dwelling was reminiscent of martyrs at the stake, or the burning of a witch by Puritans. Visitors commented on the poor quality of wartime cigars, but it wasn't a cigar; it was a mouse.

◇ ◇ ◇

SATURDAY: Overcome with anxiety lest I should have forgotten somebody who must have a Christmas gift. Rummaged in drawers and cupboards, collecting all that I have bought, and trying to remember who it was I had in mind when I bought some of the articles which have turned up. The air is electric with expectation and the whole household is snarling over refractory tissue paper and string. I try to concentrate on my work, but I cannot think of anything but Christmas. . . . Tried to explain the origin of Christmas to a small child this afternoon, and met a snag when we came to the Wise Men: "You know what a Wise Man is, don't you?" said I; "Oh yes," said she; "Well, what is it?" I asked, suspiciously; "You tell me," she countered; "Well, a Wise Man is—well, a Wise Man is a man like me," I said, suddenly inspired; "Oh!" she said, with obvious disappointment. Apparently I am not especially impressive to four-year-old eyes. . . . And now the time has come to wish all my readers—except those captious and undeserving people who have written me nasty letters—a Very Merry Christmas.

NOT A RUG YET —By Goldberg

Britain At War

(By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES)

I WAS pleasantly surprised by my first glimpse of London. I expected to see it damaged much more severely than it appeared to be to me. Make no mistake, London has been terribly damaged, whole blocks have disappeared. Nevertheless there is so much that is really London left that I could not help but feel relieved. I expected to see much more damage to the West End for instance than I did see. I find, however, that other people hold different views. I met a distinguished Englishman at lunch at The Times, one day, who has been nine years in Australia, and has just returned. He found the damage greater than he anticipated. So there you are. I will try to tell something about it.

◇ ◇ ◇

NATURALLY, it has not been possible for me to cover the whole of London. I had much business to attend to, and my time was limited. Nevertheless I did see a lot of the damage. The most spectacular damage done in the vicinity of Fleet Street is, of course, that around St. Paul's Cathedral, the masterpiece of Sir Christopher Wren, and the first great Protestant church built in England. The foundation stone of this magnificent cathedral was laid on June 21st, 1675, but it was not completed until 1710, although a service was held in part of it as early as 1697. Frightful damage has been done all along the south side, and also on the east. Blocks and blocks of buildings have been laid low by bombs, and have now been cleared away. The whole area has been tidied up and is surrounded by a brick wall about four feet high. What will be done with the land in the future, is a matter of conjecture. There are those who feel that it has prepared the way for a beautiful park to the east and possibly to the south of St. Paul's. On the other hand this is very valuable land, and the owners may not feel like giving it up, even at a good price. Here and there all along the Strand and Fleet Street, damage has been done, but there are some peculiar anomalies. For instance The Daily Express office, the front of which is of black glass, escaped all through the blitz, while a building right across the street was badly damaged. The Daily Telegraph also escaped. One of the saddest sights in this area, is St. Clement Danes. This church is of ancient foundation and the suffix is said to have been acquired through a Danish settlement having grown up around the church in Anglo-Saxon times. Once a year, before the war, the Danish colony in London was in the habit of attending a special service there in memory of past associations. The body of the church, of which only the walls are standing today, was built by Wren about 1680. The tower is a relic of a former church, and is still there, although somewhat damaged. All the beautiful windows, including the memorial window to Dr. Johnson, are gone. Whether any were rescued and stored away, I do not know. Dr. Johnson used to attend this church and in happier times tourists were shown the pew in which he used to sit; also the pulpit, which was a fine example of the work of Grinling Gibbons. Suspended by the organ were two small anchors, symbols of St. Clement (the successor of St. Peter as Pope) who was martyred by being tied to an anchor and cast into the sea. The ruined walls, roofless, are a sad sight. No longer do the bells ring out the old nursery rhyme, as they used to do, "Oranges and Lemons says the Bells of St. Clement's". The bombing of this fine old church was too much for the rector, and he died of grief. His wife followed him shortly after, but not before she had changed her will and left enough money to restore the church. Whether those who want a "brave new world" with wide thoroughfares for unrestricted motor traffic will permit the restoration, remains to be seen. If the walls are torn down, London will lose one of its ancient landmarks. The Temple Church was also badly damaged, but St. Mary-le-Strand, and St. Dustan's in the East, suffered far less. St. Dustan's was being repaired the day I visited it. It will soon be alright again.

◇ ◇ ◇

I SAID at the beginning of this article that London did not appear to be to be very much changed. There are so many old landmarks still standing bravely after all the bombing. Nelson's monument still dominates Trafalgar Square, and the lions look as savage as ever; The Duke of York's monument (built by the men of the British Army contributing each a day's pay—not willingly some say) just south of the Athenaeum Club on Waterloo Place, is still there to remind us that "the noble Duke" marched his men up the hill and marched them down again. And strange as it may seem, despite the terrible damage done to the church of St. Clement Danes, the monument to William Ewart Gladstone, right in front of it is apparently undamaged. Carlton House Terrace, that row of beautiful Georgian mansions has suffered considerably.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOME of the oldest clubs of London such as Brook's, Boodle's and White's escaped the blitz, but the Carlton Club on Pall Mall was badly damaged, and at the moment nothing but the walls seem to be standing. There were 170 people in the club when the bombs struck it. Not one of those in the club was even hurt, although the damage to the building was severe. A member who was just entering was blown up and was never found. The Royal Automobile Club had one bomb through it, which has damaged the ceiling in the main lounge, but that is all. The Junior Carlton across the way was badly damaged, and further along Pall Mall, Hardy's (the famous fishing tackle people) shop was finished. But London is still London. Fortnum and Mason's windows are still full of choice pears, rich hothouse grapes at £1 and 30s the lb. and other delicacies. Hatcherd's Bookshop further along Piccadilly towards the Circus, is still doing business as usual and was displaying a lot of beautiful bindings in one of its windows; while Swaine & Adeney are still offering walking sticks at 78s 6d, and spurs, riding whips and other accessaries of the hunt at quite reasonable prices—considering.

◇ ◇ ◇

PEOPLE still flock down into the tube stations and other shelters to spend the night. It is a strange sight to see men and women carrying their bedding down into the underground stations. All the platforms are lined with double decker single beds, and apparently men, women and children have got quite used to sleeping there despite the noise of the trains thundering by. There are large shelters built down the centre of Lower Regent street, the Haymarket and other streets nearby. They go down deep into the ground, and there is a solid brick superstructure about eight or ten feet above ground. The shop fronts are often protected with bags of sand, and many buildings have been bricked up about six feet high right across the windows. The front doors of some hotels, too, are now behind high brick walls. Speaking of hotels, the large ones in the West End seem to have escaped fairly well. I saw no damage at the Dorchester, the Grosvenor House, the Park Lane or the Ritz. The Piccadilly had been scarred a bit, and the building next to it is no more. One or two of the big six shops have suffered, but outwardly, at any rate Swan & Edgar's, Selfridges, and other large shops on Oxford and Regent street seem to be alright. I took a walk down Bond street, before the war the Rue de la Paix of London. It has suffered a lot of damage, but some of the landmarks such as Chappell's, Savory & Moore's, and Smythson's appear to have escaped damage. Finnegan's famous store is still doing business as usual, but one half of it has been blitzed and is not now in use. Berkeley Square has suffered a lot of damage, too, and St. James' Palace was also hit on, more than one occasion. There is a group of workmen busy repairing this historic old building originally built by Henry VIII, and which was the London residence of the King of England from 1698 till the time of George IV. It was in this Palace that Charles I slept the night before his execution (if men do sleep on such grim nights) walking across the Park in the morning to Whitehall. It was here, too, by the way that Charles II, and James II were born as well as several other future kings and queens of England. I was glad the Germans did not harm it much. Some day I hope I shall see the guard changed there again

Hard To Believe How Time Flies

DECEMBER 23

1914 George Wilkins has received word that his brother Arthur A. Wilkins was drowned in the sinking of the British cruiser Monmouth.

Fire in the basement of the Princess Theatre causes considerable excitement but little damage is done.

Nick Douros of the Boston Cafe has presented 150 Christmas meal tickets to the city for relief purposes.

J. J. Turner Sr. is re-elected master workman of Peterborough Lodge, Ancient Order of United Workmen.

Council decides to spend $100 to establish a free rink at George and Sherbrooke streets.

1924 Mayor J. J. Turner is re-elected for another term by acclamation at the municipal nominations.

W. H. Bradburn and Malcolm McIntyre are named for the vacant seat on the Utilities Commission.

Fourteen candidates are nominated for the council and eight for the Board of Education.

In North Monaghan Reeve Harold B. Rye and his council are returned without a contest.

Turkeys were selling at 38 cents a pound on the local market today.

Peterborough seniors defeat Aura Lee 2 to 1 on goals by Ranger and Collins in an exhibition game.

1934 Col. T. W. H. Young is contesting the mayoralty election with Mayor Rollie Denne.

Ten candidates have been placed in the field for five places on the council and six nominated for the Board of Education.

Toys repaired by firemen are distributed to 800 children representing 194 local families.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur reports the heaviest Christmas mail in five years with 500,000 letters and 75,000 parcels.

It was eight below zero early this morning, the coldest drop of the winter.

Unconsidered Trifles

For his gallantry a Scottish soldier was given a decoration. A week or so later a friend asked him:

"And what does the wife think of your medal, Sandy?"

"She doesna' ken yet", was the reply. "It's no my turn to write".

◇ ◇ ◇

"Peterborough" in The Daily Telegraph tells this story:

A Berlin worker asked a bank clerk how to invest his life-savings of one thousand marks. "Buy State bonds", he was advised. "But", he replied, "supposing the State goes broke?"

"You forget the Nazi party will see that it doesn't".

"But", persisted the man, "supposing the Nazi party collapses?"

"Well", was the answer, "isn't that worth one thousand marks?"

◇ ◇ ◇

A countryman heard that the job of watchman at a single-line railway crossing was vacant.

"You'll have to undergo a strict examination", the man in charge said when he applied for the job.

"Ask me anything!" said the applicant.

"All right. Supposing you are at the crossing and two trains are coming along from opposite directions, what would you do?"

"I'd blow my whistle".

"Supposing your whistle was out of order?"

"I'd always wear a red shirt, and I'd take it off and flag the trains".

"Let's say this happened at night".

"Then I'd swing my lantern".

"But suppose you had no oil in your lantern".

"In that case I'd call my wife".

"Your wife? What for?"

"I'd just say to her: 'Come on down, missus, and see the mightiest wreck you ever saw in all your life'!"

HOME GUARD

Britain, home of the Mother of Parliaments, the little island fortress of freedom, was herself threatened with invasion. Against it stood the spirit of Britain, embodied in the Prime Minister and the Home Guard. They were ready to fight on the beaches and the hills, and in the villages and towns, street by street.—Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

AN EDITOR GETS THE BLUES

Urbanitis is a dimly recognized disease, which appears to be throttling the world little by little by the metamorphosis of natural human values into mechanical and artificial ones. Thus, jazz becomes music, blurbs become art, bosh becomes poetry, and walking two blocks is called exercise. In some lands the disease has spread far. Night has become day, noise has replaced silence and billboards export humanity to do everything under the sun, except think.—Victoria Colonist.

GATHERING HOLLY — An attractive Victoria College girl gathering holly for the great Christmas market in eastern Canada. The bulk of Ontario's holly comes from British Columbia. Pioneers brought the holly as seeds or small trees to British Columbia 75 years ago when to reach Canada's western coast ships had to go around Cape Horn.

Merry Berries For Christmas Always In Big Demand

By ARCHIE H. HILLS

Don't send me a present; send me a box of holly."

That is a common request many residents of Victoria, B. C., receive from their friends and relatives in Eastern Canada when thoughts of Christmas are uppermost in our minds.

Holly grows profusely in Victoria because of the soft, mild climate, but even there Christmas is not complete without sprigs of the shiny green, prickly leaves and the red berries peeking out from vases on the piano, from the mantel, or the pictures on the wall. And it most surely will stand in all its glory atop the Christmas pudding when it is paraded to the dining room table.

Huge holly trees are found in some of the lovely old gardens of Victoria. They were brought as seeds or small trees from England 60 and 75 years ago by the pioneers who came around Cape Horn in sailing ships. From the old gardens the holly tree has developed into the decorative scheme of Victoria and expanded into a lucrative commercial business.

Most of Victoria's streets are boulevarded and certain sections have special types of trees. In the James Bay district, one of the first to be settled, several streets have holly trees. These are nearly 30 feet high and their narrowly pyramidal tops give the streets an attractiveness to be found nowhere else. In winter, when they are alive with red berries, they are truly Christmas trees.

Luxury Item In The Eeast

On the Prairies and in Eastern Canada, however, holly is a luxury. It costs but 35 cents a pound in Victoria, but sometimes brings as much as $4 on the Toronto or Montreal retail market. No wonder a woman is the envy of her friends when she sports a gay sprig of holly on her fur coat, or can hang a wreath in her front room window.

Holly is grown commercially in orchards, on farms, or on plantations. You will find most of the orchards in the vicinity of Victoria, Duncan, Mill Bay or Nanaimo, if you seek them on Vancouver Island. On the British Columbia mainland they are to be found not more than 40 miles inland from salt water; beyond that the trees cannot survive the colder weather. Holly is a major crop at the Montfort farm near Victoria, the Haddon farm at Cobble Hill, the Eby plantation at Nanaimo, and a number of other farms, but many persons who have only a few trees in their gardens put an annual harvest.

Takes Time to Grow Holly

Let's visit a typical Victoria Holly farm, the two and one-half acre plantation of Barrett Montfort, which boasts some 500 trees of varying size and age. The trees are set out about ten feet apart, allowing room for cultivation and cutting. Holly trees grow slowly and cannot be cut commercially until they are 12 to 15 years old. Some trees that are 60 years old grow to a height of 40 feet and will produce 200 pounds of cutable holly annually. Holly lives to a great age in favorable climates and some trees in England are 200 to 300 years old. In Europe the wood, which is white and hard, is valued for many purposes, such as cabinet work, inlaying, turning, and the making of mathematical instruments.

Holly may be propulgated by seed, cuttings, layering, budding and grafting. Seeds do not germinate until the second year. The trees take a tremendous amount of nourishment from the soil, and in order to feed them properly, and to ensure the heaviest possible growth, most commercial growers apply commer[illegible]al fertilizers in the spring at the [illegible]e of one to 12 pounds per tree, depending upon the size and needs of the tree. A recommended fertilizer is C-I-L 8-10-5. Chemistry also comes to the rescue of the holly grower when his trees are threatened by the deadly Holly Leaf Miner, which lays its eggs in the mid-rib of the leaf and the resulting maggot tunnels within the leaf and causes unsightly blemishes. C-I-L Nicotine Sulphate spray has proved effective not only against the leaf miner, but against a second insect, the Holly Bud Moth.

The Holly Female in all Her Glory

All the berry holly comes from the female trees. The male tree, of which there are only very few in an orchard, look rather out of place, much like the human male at an afternoon tea party. They stand in the orchard for the sole purpose of fertilizing the female trees.

The holly berry then turns from green to a lovely red in late October and November, and commercial cutting usually begins about a month before Christmas. In the ordinary garden, the owner of one or two trees does his own cutting, endeavouring to snip off the sprigs with the best berries and yet maintain the generally rounded lines of the tree. In the commercial orchard cutting is done scientifically. Six cutters are employed on the Montfort farm, assisted on the ground by a number of girls who gather the sprigs and pack them.

The cutters work from high ladders and wear rubber gloves, not only to protect their hands from the sharp points of the leaves, but to avoid bruising the leaves. The cutter pries in between the heavy foliage and takes care to remove only last year's growth, leaving this year's shoots for cutting in 1945. The tree is not stripped, as might be supposed. About half of the berried wood is left.

Too Big For Santa Claus. Pleasant Feeling In Politics

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

Not only at this Christmas season but all through the year every political party in America carries a Christmas tree, and every politician is equipped with false whiskers to make him look like Santa Claus. This renders politics mighty pleasant, with the continual expectations and excitements of Christmas Eve, and the voter is like a child waiting to open the laden stocking on the mantel shelf.

It is always bad manners to question the validity and the boundless capacity of Santa Claus, but there comes a time in your life when you have to do it. That time is when you start to pay the Christmas bills. Knowing how unpopular the idea will be, I venture to suggest that the time has arrived.

Mr. Roosevelt promises 60,000,000 jobs for Americans— without any clear idea of how he is going to provide them. Mr. Churchill has his White Paper, which is supposed to be a fee simple covering a more abundant life for all. Mr. King promises full employment. Mr. Bracken, after some hesitation, has come out boldly and declared he is against depressions. Mr. Coldwell and his friends, having never run anything, propose to run everything with such efficiency that we shall all be rich. And dozens of the lesser prophets each have a secret invention to assure prosperity.

This is all fine. It must be a stupid man who cannot see that, in a world of untouched resources and the machines to tap them, we can all have a reasonable standard of living—if we have the sense to create it. But it must be a very stupid man indeed who cannot see the litter that we must clear away before we can go to work at all. The politicians ignore this litter or dismiss it with catchword and this, I humbly suggest, is highly dangerous.

It is dangerous because it is going to cause bitter disillusionment in the next few years, and disillusionment can lead to fatal mistakes. It would be better, surely, if we sat down quietly and observed the rank underbrush, the big stumps and the crumbling walls that cover the site of our new house, before we start to build it. For all this litter must be cleared away before we can even begin construction. The site of our house is the world, all of it, from which we cannot insulate ourselves. The world, yes, and look at it. It is living to-day on war. Its people are working for destruction, as they have to. Its trade is dislocated. Its best men are soldiers. A great part of its machinery, homes and transportation has been destroyed. Somehow this vast machine of war must be converted to peace.

It can be done, and doubtless will be done. But it is plain madness for anyone—capitalist, socialist, social creditor, technocrat, or whatnot—to say that it can be done painlessly. Whatever happens, however well we manage, and whatever form of government we employ, there is going to be a difficult time of readjustment, some kind of slump and a period of unemployment. Nothing under heaven can prevent it.

At the moment it is not only bad politics and bad taste to say such a thing; it is to mark oneself as an incorrigible reactionary. In the current process of reasoning a man who warns you against stepping off a cliff is accused of misleading you for his own purposes, and probably also of creating the cliff in the first place.

So deeply grounded is the theory of Christmas-tree economics that a large part of our population seems to have swallowed it without serious question. There are thousands of shipyard workers a mile or two from where this is written and they are being paid high wages, more than they were paid before, more than they are likely to be paid again. You would think these men and women would be saving their money because shipbuilding obviously is going to decline after the war. In fact, most of them are saving little or nothing. They are spending all they can get, just as millions of Americans, bloated by an unprecedented boom (which is technically known as the hardships of war) are cramming the stores by day and making the night of American cities hideous with their celebrations.

And why not? They are told by all the responsible statesmen that the Christmas party goes on forever, that Santa Claus' bag is inexhaustible, that we have found a new and automatic secret of prosperity. Hoover had found it, of course, and Coolidge, and they produced the crash of 1929; but this time, we are told, it is different. This is the real thing, a brand new and revolutionary discovery, underwritten by the state, with an ironclad guarantee, goods returnable if not satisfactory.

A thousand economic fallacies could be identified in this confusion of forces, but let them go and consider one simple fact: We can have no prosperity at all unless we can have peace. We cannot begin to build a new world until we have built a peace that will endure. And surely what is happening in Europe to-day — liberated Europe, not to speak of Germany—must persuade any reasonable man that it will require all our wisdom to make such a peace—and very great sacrifices as well.

A Christmas Of Great Hope

By W. H. HOLTON.

"Is it going to be a real Christmas this year?"

Tens of thousands of little boys and girls in Britain are now anxiously asking that question on the eve of the sixth Christmas of the war. They are far too young to know the great festival as their parents or brothers and sisters knew it in days of peace. The delights a "real" Christmas have been held out to them as a joy yet to come.

And, sad to say, it looks as if their hopes are to be disappointed again. War efforts, war restrictions and war shortages have decided that. It is especially sad because Christmas is the children's festival.

Still, we can say that if it is not going to be a real Christmas of the old fashion kind, it is going to be one for Hope. It should be the last of the war Christmases so far as Europe is concerned, and the youth of Britain is going to make the best of it.

There will not be much rich feasting. The food is not available, although there will be some extra rations of dried fruit and sugar. The paper shortage means no paper for chains or decorations, while holly and mistletoe is still very short and Christmas trees will be fewer than ever.

Brighter Streets, But Less to Buy.

The streets, however, are looking gayer than they have done for years; better lightning has been allowed and the shop windows are quite bright. But there is very little in those brighter windows for children, no great shows of toys making the stores look like one of Santa Claus' store-rooms.

No smiling dolls that shut their eyes, no brightly coloured forts with soldiers, no toy ships with spotless sails. Few boxes of bricks or roller skates or tricycles and certainly no dressing-up-clothes or redskin outfits.

All the materials required for such toys are being used for war purposes— and the workers who used to make them are busy building ships or planes or making munitions.

What toys are on sale are of poor quality and cannot last long. The wood used is "waste" of rough timber left over from the makers of war supplies and there is very little of that; toys being mainly made of paper or cardboard.

Prices of toys in Britain are higher than ever for not only are the materials which go into their making scarce, but the toys themselves are taxed in order to help pay for the war.

Some of the bigger boys and girls have set themselves the task of making better toys for the toddlers. They have set to work with wool taken from old jerseys and jackets and bits of wood from the ruins of bombed buildings.

Out of packing cases and old tea chests, empty cotton reels and butter barrels, they have built dolls-houses, tanks, warships and trucks, wheelbarrows and push carts, engines and scooters. When they had made enough for their own needs they sell the other for Britain's Red Cross Funds and already they have collected enough money for hundreds of parcels for prisoners of war.

In Famous London Crypt.

Charles Dickens, the famous novelist, was a lover of old London, but there is a crypt to one famous church that he loved which he would never have recognized in its transformation last Christmas Day. Four years ago it was turned into an air raid shelter. There was the First Aid Post, rows of canvas sleeping cots, lines of wardens' steel helmets, stretchers and spades and picks for the grim business, if necessary, of digging out survivors. But the spirit of Christmas had swept them all aside: it was all coloured streamers and gay flags. A laden Christmas-tree hid the ambulance cupboard, tea-urns were bubbling away in the doctors room and they cut up cake in the sterilising chamber. The stretchers made fine seats for the hundreds of London's youngsters to enjoy the clowns and conjuring by some of the wardens or sing carols to the music of their own band.

The chief warden was Father Christmas and every one of those 500 children had an orange and a little present.

An that was only one of such parties.

"And this year it will be better than ever because it will be the last in the war against Germany" many are saying.

There are some toddlers, however, who are in hospital recovering from injuries received in the flying bomb raids, and these will not be able to keep their Christmas assignments. But there will be special presents for them—London's youngest heroes.

Great Black-Backed Gulls Are Kings Of Gull Family

Great black-backed gulls are northern birds which nest up to the southern Arctic. Their summer range extends farther south as we go east, so that we see them at the Gulf of St. Lawrence and still farther eastward, on the Maine coast to about half-way down that state. In the interior they are winter residents, arriving in late October and remaining until April (and occasionally considerably later).

Black-Backed Gull

The common gulls, the herring gulls, are two feet long, and about four and a half feet across the wings. Seeing them as we usually do, at a considerable distance, it is hard to realize that they are really quite so large. Yet black-backs stand out amongst them for size alone, as well as for their jet black backs, for they are about four inches longer and are powerful birds, with beaks decidedly heavier in proportion than the herring gulls.

They are pugnacious, too, and whenever one lands amidst a group of the smaller species, the nearest of htese back off in a hurry. If they do not, the bigger bird will take a few steps in their direction, and if they still stay, take a plunge at them with that great bill. In this case, the smaller birds usually take to flight.

It is amusing to see the way black-backs sit up after such an incident as if to say, "I'm the king of the castle." Quiet frequently, one demonstration is not enough to satisfy their ego, so after a few moments' pause they again walk sedately toward the herring gulls, which again hurriedly move off. This may be repeated a number of times, until the bully is sure that others properly respect his authority, when he will settle down to preen himself, or indulge in 40 winks.

Old-Squaw ducks are birds which we associate with black-backed and Glaucous gulls, for they too are Arctic nesters, coming south for the winter. They are ducks of striking plumage, although their colors are not bright, being dark browns, pearl grays and white. In winter, they are ever more attractive than in summer for their summer dress is largely dark brown, while in winter it is much more broken up.

The names old-squaw and old wife were doubtless suggested by the constant gabble which these birds keep up. Indeed, some of their notes are truly beautiful in musical quality, which is surprising, in a duck, and there is nothing more charming than to hear them on a sunny day in late February or early March, when the hint of spring is in the air, as one drake after another throws back its head and says ow owdle ow.

The drakes have long central tail feathers (another common name is long-tailed duck), which curve gracefully in the slightest breeze. The ducks are without this ornament, and in general are duller colored, not nearly so showy.

These are with us until April when their numbers thin appreciably, but a few stay over until late May before leaving for the season.

Cigars Have Disappeared As 1944 Christmas Gifts

By DON McGIBBON

The man behind the counter supressed a laugh. "There just ain't any cigars, so there!"

And that, dear child, is why grampa, daddy and all other gaspie-puffers in this city are looking so mournful these days.

With Christmas just around the corner, Peterborough's cigar situation is desperate, according to a survey made to see what the wholesalers, retailers and consumers have to say about it. The majority of comments, to put it mildly, were curt.

Both wholesalers and retailers in Peterborough place the reason for the present acute cigar shortage as scarcity of labor, skilled or otherwise.

Consumers, it might be added, are so busy scurrying about trying to scare up at least one cigar to puff Christmas Day that they don't know who or what to blame.

To go into a store and ask for a cigar today is to ask to see the salesclerk laugh . . . . and laugh hard.

Said a girl in a cigar and cigarette shop, "A cigar? Brother, are you kidding?"

Retorted another, "You may as well ask for the moon."

F. J. Kelcey took a few minutes to smile, and then announced that he could sell a carload, if he had 'em.

That seems to be the story. To salesclerks, who haven't seen a cigar stay on the shelf more than five or ten minutes before being sold, the favorite comeback when someone asks for a box of cigars is something like this, "Don't make me laugh!" or "Now, really, pal!"

But while the consumers fail to see any humor in the situation, they are also going about all kinds of ways to set their hands on some before Christmas.

During the past few days, as many as 50 people a day have drifted into the J. W. Steinkrauss Company, casually asking after retail stores in this district which are currently offering cigars.

"They seem to think they can get the lowdown here," one of the members of that company laughed.

He went on to say that the retail tobacco stores are receiving the most cigars, because in many cases entire businesses are wrapped up in tobacco sales.

Although the Steinkrauss Company has had orders in for some time, many have failed to materialize. Some are expected before Christmas. However, there is no absolute guarantee that they will arrive on time.

Shipments of cigars to the armed forces are heavier this year, it was

School Text Books Scarce Teachers Ask For Used Ones

By DON McGIBBON.

Shortages in certain high school text books has posed a problem to both students and teachers at Peterborough Collegiate, although the chief causes, scarcities of labor and paper, are not likely to be believed to a great extent until after the war.

Book stores handling school texts acknowledge a heavy demand, but they can only place their orders early, and wait until the publishing companies are able to make shipments. There are instances of orders placed months ago, that have not been received yet.

When shortage of a text book becomes acute, and when sources of used books are exhausted, students must "double up," studying from the same book. One result of this is more blackboard work for the teacher, and a certain amount of confusion in the room.

There have been times when the book shortage was so great that a student has actually travelled out of town in an attempt to find texts, and advertised in newspapers for them.

Reginald Hale, head of the English department at the Collegiate, said that the English text in composition, "Learning To Write," is still on the acute shortage list. It is used by grades 11 and 12.

"A few copies came through lately, but not enough for all who need them," Mr. Hale said. "There are still pupils without copies of it, and so the only way we can get along is to have them share books to a certain extent."

Mr. Hale voiced an appeal on behalf of some of the students, to anyone who might be in possession of "Learning To Write."

There are some grade nine students who need copies of "The Peddler's Pack" an English literature, text, he said. Although upper school classes completed "Under The Greenwood Tree" before the Christmas holidays, there was a shortage of it when it was being studied. "Prose of Our Day," used by grade 12, is another text which is difficult to obtain.

For more than a month after school began this year, "Latin For Secondary Schools," was not available for many grade ten students, according to Miss Helen McGregor, head of the Classics and Ancient History department. This text is used by grades 10, 11 and 12, and the two latter grades kept their books, of course, from grade ten. Some students found used books, although many went without. A Latin Prose Composition text was on the shortage list for upper school students....until Thursday, when an allotment arrived in Peterborough, Miss McGregor said.

Arthur S. Zavitz, head of the mathematics department of the Collegiate, said the geometry and trigonometery texts are still on the shortage list and that some pupils are still without them as a result.

For a time, the two mathematics text books used in grades nine and ten respectively, were difficult to botain, but some copies of each have been received by the bookstores recently.

There are no serious shortages in the case of some high school texts, and according to Alex Shearer, the majority of commercial department students have been able to get them. Mr. Shearer who is the head of the commercial department, pointed out that the books change less of ten than most, and consequently can be passed along to other pupils.

Miss M. White, in charge of the French and German department, said those texts all seem to be available to students. Supplementary texts are difficutl to find Miss White said.

"General Science" Book 1 was unavailable until last week, according to V. R. Henry, at the head of the science department. Another one on the shortage list was the physics text for middle school pupils.

Atlases and readers are the books hard to get in the geographical department, according to L. M. Richardson.

These among others, are books that Peterborough high school students in certain classes need, in in order to do their school work most efficiently. Personal opinion in two cases outlined that it is a pity so much superfluous literature is received through the mails from the government bureaux, and other sources, while there does not seem to be enough available for necessary school books that there should be a priority for school texts was suggested.

A question was raised, that if the powers that be expect and hope the coming generation will be an educated one, why can't something be done to alleviate the delay and uncertainty which are now almost synonymous with orders placed for some high school text books?

C. S. Browne, principal of Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School complimented the bookstores in Peterborough for their "splendid cooperation."

Some teachers voiced appeals to anyone who might own such books as are needed. It was felt that many

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There is probably no better way to start this column today than with the old and hackneyed but sincere wish for a Merry Christmas for sportsmen and women everywhere. In this last issue before the Yuletide our thoughts go out especially to the gallant band of Peterborough athletes, to the hockey and football and basketball and softball and soccer players and all the other boys whose names used to be familiar ones in this column who are fighting for the cause of freedom in the uniform of their country in the Canadian Navy, the Army and the Royal Canadian Air Force. In the piping days of peace their exploits used to thrill us as they battled for the honor of their home town in the games they loved so well; today we watch with pride their gallantry and devotion to duty as they face a determined foe and fight gallantly to preserve the institutions in which they believe and the Canadian way of living. May 1945 bring a victorious peace and bring those brave sportsmen back to us again is the Christmas prayer of this column.

While this week's bowling in the Men's City Five Pin League did not produce the fireworks that distinguished last week's play it did at least come up with some very respectable trundling and the first tie game that has marked the loop for a long time. Chris Graham's Empress team and Jack Wade's Outlaws were the teams that managed to finish a game on even terms and as a result they split the two points. The hotel outfit won the other two games but had to be satisfied with a total of five points instead of a possible six. There were four bowlers over the 800 mark and Vince Anthony solved the problem of finding the piece de resistance for his Christmas dinner by leading the pack with a total of 831 and copped a turkey. Bud Goodson, Jack Playford and Frank Maloney were all over the 800 mark with 810, 807 and 803. Playford had high single with 362 and that was good enough to earn him a Christmas fowl. Team score honors went to Chris Graham's high-hitting crew who had a team cross of 3648, which is fair country rolling, neighbors. The Ramblers who went mad a week ago with the season's highest team score could only salvage two points out of six as they clashed with Ken Graham's Empress five.

Records Smashed

National League records, released by instalments continue to supply the Hot Stove League with plenty of material for off-season discussion. In the latest release there are some interesting figures. For instance we read that Stan Musial, Card outfield star, hit for a total of 312 bases and had the highest slugging average in the loop with a percentage of .549. It was the second consecutive year for Musial to carry off that particular honor. Close behind him with a percentage of .545 was that stellar Chicago Cub hitter, Bill Nicholson, who never seems to get the publicity that his record merits. Nicholson for the second time in succession won the runs-batted-in championship by supplying transportation for 122 Cub counters during the campaign. Another repeater was Augie Galan of the Brooklyn Dodgers who drew 101 bases on balls and thus took the championship of that division as he had done the year before. The doubtful honor of being the best target went to Danny Litwhiler of the Cards who was hit ten times by pitchers during the season and the still more dubious distinction of hitting into the most double-plays went to Ernie Lombardi the Giants' catcher who came up 22 times with first base occupied and grounded into a twin killing. Mel Ott, Giants' manager, walked five times in one game for the fourth time in his big league reer.

* * * * * *

There were a number of new records during the season. The Cards, as this column has already mentioned, had the highest club fielding average and the fewest errors, for two new major league marks. The champs also set a new record for both leagues by winning the most double-headers, sweeping both ends, of 17 twin bills. New York Giants were responsible for one new mark by batting in 26 runs in one game, the highest figure in that department in either loop. Incidentally the Cards by winning 100 or more games for the third time in a row equalled the major league record and set a new one so far as the National League was concerned. Among the individuals Bill Nicholson of the Cubs established a new National League mark by leading both in home runs and in runs-batted-in for the second year in a row. As for Mel Ott the New York pilot set a whole flock of new National League records, most home runs, most runs, most bases on balls, and most runs batted in during his lifetime association with the big show.

* * * * * *

Long one of the best-informed men in baseball, a New York writer who pens his observations under the name of "The Old Scout" does an interesting yarn on the chances of the Detroit Tigers being in the thick of the battle for American League championship honors next year, Doug Vaughan of the Windsor Star points out. "Unless," says the New York veteran, "Manager Steve O'Neill engineers a deal on his return from overseas, the Detroit Tigers will have to make their 1945 pennant bid with only three high-class pitchers and minus their slugging outfielder, Dick Wakefield, who has gone to work again, after a brief interlude, for Uncle Sam. Outside of Hal Newhouser, Diz Trout and Stubby Overmire, the Bengals haven't any outstanding mound strength. It isn't too promising an outlook for Detroit. Neither is it in the books that Newhouser and Trout will both have two triumphant seasons in a row. Pitchers don't just go on winning at such a wholesale clip as a steady diet. The Tiger players, however, don't blame their loss of the flag in that driving finish with the Browns and the Yankees on the September collapse of Trout. Overmire's lame arm was what licked them. Pinky Higgins, the club's veteran third baseman, declared as much during the world series when the disappointment was still fresh in his mind."

* * * * * *

"Boston hockey scribes are boosting Kenny Smith, left-winger on Art Ross' youthful "typhoon line," as the next Calder trophy winner, and the records would hardly discourage such a stand," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "The young rail man who was with Oshawa Generals last year, has taken to big-time in hot fashion and is receiving favorable notices across the loop. Recently, Johnny Crawford, veteran defence man of Bruins, told a Hub sportcaster that Smith was a good throw-back to Bobby Bauer and "Porky" Dumart, when these famed kraut members came into Bruin livery. In view of the fact that both these Kitchener products were sensations from their first season in major circles, the Crawford boost places Smith mighty high. Kenny has a couple of fine running mates in Mario and Cupolo, and there are other dandy rookies in rival league centres. Jack Adams thinks Detroit has the best recruit in Ken Lindsay, Leafian bosses like McCool, their smart netminder and Frank Eddolls is getting real boosts from Montrealers, so if Smitty is to live up to the predictions of culture town writers, he must outdo a fine field of contestants."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Detroit Red Wings play in Toronto today and the Leafs spend Christmas night in Detroit where they are not likely to find much Santa Claus spirit about their reception at the hands of the Wings... Other week-end fixtures call for the Black Hawks to meet the Canadiens in Montreal tonight and the Rangers in New York tomorrow night which isn't the easiest way in the world to get ready for the Christmas celebration. There are no rookies among the N.H.L. scoring leaders.... Richard and Lach of the Canadiens are the only players in the first seven scorers who are not veterans. ...Sugar Ray Robinson won a technical knockout over Georgie Martin at Boston last night. ...And at New York Rock Graziano lost a decision to Harold Green. ...Port Arthur Fliers are picked as the junior team to watch in the west this winter.... The East has already nominated its selection. It looks like St. Mike's by a mile.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

MARCH

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The total available manpower for the major baseball leagues in 1945 is 572 players, exceeding by 69 the 1944 list, of whom 293 are with National circuit clubs and 279 with the American loop, according to a survey of The Associated Press. Young recruits and discharged veterans more than offset the loss of many ball artists to the armed forces although some of the newcomers in the big time are still in the 17- and 18-year-old class.

A matched race, unique in turf circles, is being staged today at Gulfstream Park, Miami, in a quarter-mile dash in which the starters are "Joe Palooak," a range horse used for cattle roundups, and Tiger Call, a thoroughbred ridden by Ted Atkinson of Toronto, 1944 jockey champion.

Fair Grounds track at New Orleans opens its 75-day meeting today with the running of the $2,500 Pontchartrain Handicap. More than 1,000 horses are stakled at the park, it was announced last night.

A member of Ottawa Commandos in the Quebec Senior Hockey league for two seasons, Hank Blake, 26, has been signed by the Chicago Black Hawks of the N.H.L., it was announced last night by President Bill Tobin. Blake has had no pro hockey experience.

Braves, Cookies In 4-all Tie

CORNWALL, Ont., Dec. 23 (CP)—Valleyfield Braves and Cornwall Cookies battled to a 4-4 deadlock in an overtime Interprovincial Hockey League game here last night, the teams continuing in a tie for first place in the league standing. The Braves came from behind on a goal by Anderson to force a draw.

Derocher's goal early in the first period sent Cornwall ahead, but Freddy Gibbons matched this with a counter less than a minute later. Bobby Burr renewed the Cornwall lead but goals by Connolly and Brennan lifted Valleyfield to the fore before the period ended.

Hebert and Gravel set the Cookies' ahead a third time during the second period but Anderson's goal ended the scoring after 16 minutes of the middle stanza. The third and overtime periods were scoreless.

REGAIN FAMILY SEAT.

ABOYNE, Scotland —(CP) — The Marquess and Marchoness of Huntly have bought back the traditional family seat, Aboyne Castle, sold 22 years ago by the Marquess' great uncle. Aboyne is the scene of the famous Highland Games.

THE TROPHY, BUD—For the first time in three years, this beautiful trophy (okay, buddy, look at the trophy) was at stake for the winner of the Hollywood Park Gold Cup race, a $75,000 event. The beauty posing with the trophy is Doris Peterson, the "Goose Girl" of the track. Happy Issue was the nag who copped the cup.

Rocket Richard Guns For Hockey Record

By BOB NIELSEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Maurice (Rocket) Richard, blazing along at a terrific goal-a-game pace, leads a small but formidable group of record-breaking aspirants as the National Hockey League season moves into 1945.

Montreal Canadiens' spectacular wingman needs only maintain his rate to eclipse the modern goal-scoring mark of 43 in 44 games established by Cooney Weiland of Boston in 1929-30.

This year's N.H.L. race isn't likely to witness anything like the unprecedented record-breaking orgy of last season, when 15 team and individual marks were shattered, but several besides the Habitant luminary have good chances to set new highs.

Boston's venerable Bill Cowley probably the greatest playmaking centre of his era, is out to recapture the assists record he lost last year to Clint Smith of Chicago. He has 22 and needs 28 in 30 games left to topple the Hawk centre's mark of 49.

Both Cowley and Toe Blake of Montreal, each with 33 points, figured to exceed the total-point high of 82 set last year by Bruins' Herbie Cain.

Meanwhile, Coach Hap Day of Toronto Maple Leafs announced yesterday that Wally Stanowski, former star defenceman who recently appeared in two games, would be in the Toronto lineup tonight. Stanowski looked in poor physical condition in his first showings since his discharge from the R.C.A.F.

Cub Swatter Gets 33 Homers

NEW YORK, Dec. 23—(AP)—Bill Nicholson of the Chicago Cubs was just about the most feared man at the plate in the National League last summer and official figures released today tell the reason why.

Although Stan Musial of the Cardinals won his second straight "slugging" title, figured on the ration of total bases to times at bat, Nicholson was only four points behind at .545. The Cub swatter gained the added distinction of becoming the first senior circuit player to double as R.B.I. and home run leader for two years in succession.

Nicholson, a 30-year-old clouter from Chestertown, Md., drove home 122 runs and hits 33 homers. Although Augie Galan of the Dodgers drew the most bases on balls, 101, Big Nick was up there close with 93. He bounced into only three double plays, a department led by Ernie Lombardi of the Giants with 23.

Manager Mel Ott of the Giants equalled his own modern league record by drawing five walks in one game, lifting his lifetime total to 1,629 bases on balls and 1,777 runs batted in.

REVIEW OF YEAR IN SPORTS

APRIL

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 23 — (CP). — Just proving what everyone has always known — that nationality doesn't make a particle of difference in the sport world, President Gerry Martineau of Quebec Aces at a recent banquet in Montreal emphasized the friendly feeling existing between English-speaking and French-speaking players in Quebec .....As reported by Al (Montreal Herald) Parsley, the Quebec sportsman said it didn't matter how bitter the game might be, "after it was all over there was none of that sectional feeling which is so evident throughout Canada in the political circles and in bitter arguments over national issues."

Biting the hand?

Frank Selke of Toronto Maple Leafs has the feeling that Dick Irvin, former Leaf coach and Toronto favorite, is behind the current Leaf-Canadiens name calling affair and he is quite upset over it. After all. Irvin was the pride and joy of the Toronto hockey establishment at one time, and if this is true he will be sorely berated by the good citizens of that city. However, Dick being the mild-mannered chap he is, it seems more likely that he is merely letting Tommy Gorman carry the ball— probably covering his ears meanwhile.

Labor note:

The night editor of the Regina Leader-Post, imbued with the spirit of Christmas, contributed a guest sport column for Dave Dryburgh the other day, and proposed an interesting training scheme for athletes. Knowing their liking for the proximity of steaks and such. he suggested facetiously they might help the restaurant labor shortage by doing their training behind a counter or waiting on busy tables. But what torture that would be for men accustomed to doing much more to a sirloin than looking at it.

Incidentally:

Jack McGill, who showed rare class as a rookie with Boston Bruins before he enlisted in the R.C.A.F., is back in Edmonton now awaiting his discharge. He just graduated as a sergeant-bombardier from the Portage, Man., Air Training Station....If the Big Four and Intercollegiate football loops revive next fall there will be considerable overcrowding in pigskin circles, suggests J. P. Fitzgerald of the Toronto Telegram. You can safely take a guess though that ranks of good players won't be a bit overcrowded unless the war is over and a number of servicemen are back.

Township Councils Are Returned By Acclamation In Many Cases

Most of the 1944 members of the township councils in the County of Peterborough were returned by acclamation at the nominations conducted Friday throughout the county. In only a few instances was there any evidence that much of an election battle will be waged on New Year's day.

Reports indicated that interest in the nominations did not show any increase and in several cases there was a decided reduction in attendance. Officials said that they believed this was not due to lack of interest, but because of the increased duties which the war has imposed on the people, who feel they can't afford the time off.

Otonabee Township

Peter J. Mather will begin his fifth year as Reeve of Otonabee township and once more will resume his place in the county council where his steady and impartial advice strike a balance which has been most helpful in the past.

It is expected that the remainder of the council will also be returned by acclamation. Harry Reid was returned as deputy reeve, and the three old councillors, W. W. Dawson, Harry McIntyre and Roy Spears were nominated. A fourth man, Archie Clysdale, was also nominated for the office of councillor and if he qualifies before 9 o'clock Saturday night, it will force an election. Otherwise, the 1944 council will continue to guide the destiny of Otonabee for another year.

Two new members have been nominated for the School Board, and providing they qualify, there will be no contest for their positions. They are Fred Hall and Fred Taylor.

Township officials said that there was a small turnout at the nominations, but that it about equalled the number who attended a year ago.

Dummer Township

As a result of the nomination meeting Friday afternoon, quite a battle is expected both for the the positions of reeve and for those of councillors, of whom there are four.

Four men received nominations for reeve, and during the afternoon two of them withdrew. The race for reeve lies between two new men, William Darling and Stewart Clysdale. The former reeve, Robert Martin, who has served several years withdrew his name as did George Parsons.

Eight men were nominated to fill four places on the council. Two of those were Parsons and Clysdale, who withdrew their names immediately. Others nominated and who have until Saturday night to qualify are: Percy Bell and George Hamblin, both on last year's council; Marmion Clements, Allen Oliver, Wesley Chamberlain and Walter Sloane.

Ennismore Township

Nominations lasted only an hour in Ennismore and the 1944 council was returned to office. James Gifford is beginning his 12th year as Reeve of the township, which he has faithfully represented on the county council during his tenure of office. Mr. Gifford, who first became reeve at the age of 29, is one of the youngest reeves in the county, and he is popular among his colleagues.

The councillors who were returned by acclamation are: Morris O'Connor, Thomas Harrington, John Harrington and Hubert Flood.

Harvey Township

Although there was less than half the average attendance at the nominations in Harvey, the 1944 council were returned to office. Charles Flynn, who is a familiar figure at the flat-topped desks in the county council chambers, will be back again for the January sessions for the fifth year, as Reeve of Harvey. The councillors are: Ernest Irwin, Dale Elliott, Hartman Brock and Arthur Haines.

Burleigh-Anstruther

Although not all the councillors have qualified following the nominations for Burleigh and Anstruther townships, it is believed that the council will go in by acclamation, without the necessity of an election. However, candidates have till 9 o'clock Saturday night in which to qualify.

The Reeve of last year's council, Norman H. Wilson, was returned by acclamation and five councillors were nominated, three of whom have qualified. William Staples, Malcolm Tucker and Archie Wilson have qualified, and it rests with two other nominees, John Northey and William Church, who have yet to qualify, if there will be an election. If one drops out, there will be no election on New Year's day.

South Monaghan Township

The attendance in South Monaghan was reported to be very light at the nominations meeting, with only about 25 in attendance. There will be no election as the reeve and councillors went in by acclamation.

Fred Barnard, the present reeve, has retired, and he has been succeeded by J. W. Whittington. The council is made up of Harry Campbell, Fred Perrin, Roy Whittington, all old members, and John Breckenridge.

For the first time, South Monaghan will be included in a school area in the beginning of 1945, and so five School Trustees had to be chosen. Those named were: Charles Barnard, Aylmer Dawson, Hubert Dawson, Willis Hall and James Wood.

Asphodel Township

The 1944 council for Asphodel township was returned to office by acclamation Friday, with James Humphries serving again as reeve. The councillors will be Gideon Brown, Hillard Neilson, Thomas Stevenson and James Healey.

Douro Township

Jeremiah Mahoney, reeve of Douro for several years, was returned to office by acclamation at the nominations meeting Friday afternoon, as were the councillors. Five men were nominated, four of them on the present council, and late Friday, Roland Tedford, who had served this year, retired and was succeeded by Loyola Mahoney. The other councillors are: Howard Bullock, Michael Whibbs and Ambrose Coughlin.

Havelock Council.

Approval Voted Work Of Smith Council

In an atmosphere of approval at their nominations meeting in the county council chamber Thursday afternoon, Smith ratepayers broadly intimated to prospective candidates that they would be satisfied with the return of the present council for 1945 without opposition.

The following nominations were submitted to A. I. Edmison, clerk and treasurer.

For Reeve.

Gilbert McIlmoyl, by Milton A. Clark and Herb Darling.

Erie Pearson by Rolland Armstrong and Harold Junkin.

For Deputy Reeve.

Erie Pearson by Herb Sage and John Harrison.

Ernest Scott by Fred Rosborough and Bruce Heard.

Ross Harrison by George E. Mullen and Allan B. Mann.

For Council.

Ross Harrison by W. A. Rosborough and W. C. Mann.

Cephas Bullock by W. J. Telford and W. J. Bullock.

Robert J. Tully by Bruce Heard and Lorne A. Reynolds.

Lorne Reynolds, by Roy Mullen and Gordon Hancock.

Ernest Scott, by Reg Bell and Ed Preston.

The members of the present council are: Reeve McIlmoyl, Deputy-Reeve Pearson; Councillors Tully, Harrison and Bullock. Time for qualification of candidates expires at 9 p.m. Saturday.

Declines Nomination.

Lorne Reynolds definitely declined to accept his nomination for council, saying that he did not have time to devote to the work of the municipality. Ernest Scott said he would not cause an election, and several of the ratepayers in their comments on the council's record this year suggested that there did not appear to be any demand for a change.

Several mild and minor criticisms were expressed in the speeches during the public meeting following the close of nominations and addresses by the nominees. On the other hand Wilbert Rosborough found the meeting entirely in accord with his resolution, seconded by Melville Crapp, tendering a vote of thanks to the council in the first rate job done this year in the gravelling of roads. "We never had gravel put on the roads so well as this year," Mr. Rosborough said.

Checking of underbrush and weeds on the roadside apparently made some gains on the municipal authorities during the year, and T. H. Graham mentioned a quarter-line to some thirty cottages which gone over by the power grader in the spring and then left until late

GIVEN FIFTH TERM—Peter Mather who became Reeve of Otonabee again by acclamation, at the nominations meeting Friday afternoon, is beginning his fifth year in that office. He served as warden of the county council in 1943.

Two Nominated For 1945 Reeve

ROSENEATH, Dec. 23.—(ENS).—Nominations for municipal offices in Alnwick township were held on Friday afternoon in the town hall.

For Reeve — Harold Davidson, Harvey Eddy, J. W. Pacey.

Mr. Davidson, who has served as reeve for the past two years, withdrew his name, but there will be a race between Eddy and Pacey. Eddy has been a member of the council for the past five years. Pacey has had municipal experience, having held the offices of councillor and reeve in previous years.

Nominated fir councillors were: Fred Murphy, H. J. McCracken, Lewis Lockhart, Clark Sandercock, Arthur Braithwaite, Percy Williamson, O. J. Robins and William Robins. The three names heading the list were members of the 1944 council. Williamson withdrew his name. Nominees have until Saturday night to qualify.

Arnold Elder, retiring member of the township school board, was re-elected by acclamation.

Incidentally the first meeting of Alnwick township council was held on January 6, 1845.

books are right now lying useless in attics, or stored away in drawers or bookshelves. The instances of students trying hard to get books only proves that they are definitely on the "articles wanted" list.

Harold Bigelow Returned By Acclamation

MILLBROOK, Dec. 23—(ENS).—Reeve Harold Bigelow was returned by acclamation for a second term at the nomination meeting held for the Village of Millbrook in the Town Hall on Friday evening. Six were nominated for Council, but prospects are that there will not be an election with the four retiring members being returned by acclamation. Nominated as councillors were George F Harrington, Melville W. Ball, J. J. Powell, and Stanley Olan, the retiring members, and also Douglas Sheppard and Melburn McDowell.

The three retiring members of the School Board were also given an acclamation. They are Percy Stinson, L. H. Winslow, and Dr. M. E. Hobbs, and the three members who have yet a year to serve are J. T. McPherson, Fred Lowery and John E. Allen.

W. A. Reid was returned by acclamation to the Hydro Commission and the other members are C. B. Sutton, Reeve Bigelow, and G. F. Harrington the secretary.

In Cavan, results of the nomination did not reveal whether there would be an election or not. John Smith, retiring Reeve, was again nominated and also Garnet Shields, a former Reeve of the township. For Deputy there were named Harold Cathcart, the present Deputy, Robert Armstrong and Joe Thorne. Mr. Cathcart, who has been in poor health, was not present, and Robert Armstrong, at present a councillor, announced that he possibly would seek promotion. Joe Thorne, also a member of the old Council, said he would be a candidate again for the Council.

Nominated for Council were Joe Thorne, Richard Earle and Robert Armstrong, the retiring members, and Delbert Olan, Norman Earle, Leonard Hibbard, and S. C. Boyle. Mr. Boyle announced that he would not be a candidate, but it is expected the others will stand.

believed. Then, more people are making better money now than ever before, and some men who used to be satisfied with cigarettes are now puffing cigars.

Recently, a sweet young thing planned to purchase a box of cigars as a Christmas gift for her father. She went to a retail store, and blithely demanded the requested amount. The clerk gave her an icy stare.

"Tell me," he began gingerly, "havent you heard that cigars in Peterborough are scarcer than butter coupons?" And with that, the veteran tobacco vendor was reduced to uncontrollable laughter.

This reporter, determined to uncover at least one specimen in the city, visited a small confectionery, huddled between two big houses. Perhaps a smaller store will have lots of cigars, was the thought.

"Pardon me, sir, do you have any . . .?"

"No cigars, haven't had any for weeks, and don't expect any. Shortage, y'know. Cigarette brands cut down, too, no cigarette papers for a while, and besides, don't you know there's a war on?"

in the fall in a condition objectionable to the people going to their cottages. Otherwise, the ratepayers recognized the council continued to be hampered this year by shortage of labor and materials for road work, and were plainly ready to make reasonable allowance for these difficulties which most of the farmers of Smith have been experiencing in their own affairs.

County Road Work.

Reeve McIlmoyl anticipated discussion of county road work in Smith by explaining that work had been planned during the last two years for municipalities nearest the gravel pits in which the crusher was working, that it was an economy instead of involving the additional expense of shifting about from one job to another, and that Smith's turn was coming in 1945.

"We are expecting the work to be carried on next year in Smith and Ennismore," Mr. McIlmoyl said. "We have had only maintenance work done in our municipality in those two years, but we are certainly hoping to get something done next year."

Mr. McIlmoyl explained the county's road stabilization policy including the use of binding material to consolidate the surface and prevent it being blown away under traffic wear. "We have been trying to make a hard surface on the Buckhorn road and when that is done we hope to get some more paving. As things are we will likely have to wait until the war is over for that."

The county's grant of $150,000 to the Peterborough Civic Hospital was also reviewed by Reeve McIlmoyl, and he also referred to the Ontario Government's recent assumption of 50 per cent of school costs, saying that he hoped it would be reflected locally "in taking more of the cost of education off land values." My feeling is that we are moving fast toward school areas and consoliated schools, and now that the Government is undertaking to pay a larger part of school costs we may hear more about the school area system."

Reeve McIlmoyl did not wait for criticism of roadside brushing and weed control, frankly admitted the problem, and said that this work needed the help of men who were usually employed in farm work. and they were already too few. "It may be some time before we get the help we need for that kind of work."

Truck and Plow.

Mr. McIlmoyl and Deputy-Reeve Pearson, also several of the other speakers, spoke of the council's action in ordering a new truck and snow plow for use on township roads, and the only comment on that investment was a doubt that the one machine would be sufficient. Mr. Pearson also reported that he had visited the county forest during the year, and had formed the opinion that the block of 4,000 acres in East Peterborough was a sound asset for the county and would eventually realize the hopes in which it was acquired.

The Deputy-Reeve congratulated the teachers of Smith schools on the leadership they had given the children in the purchase of War Saving Stamps this year. "The teachers are encouraging our young folks in co-operation and making sacrifices, something which I think will be very valuable to them in after years.",

Smith let a contract to the Blythe Construction Company for the township road gravelling job. It was not quite completed, adverse weather finally intervening three or four days before the end was in sight. Mr. Pearson said he considered the contract turned out quite satisfactorily. "We used the pit on the seventh line. We did not figure it was too good a pit but with the crusher they used we got nearly a perfect mix."

Robert Tully said the council did not know when the snow plow and truck would be delivered. Laughingly he remarked that if he had had his way he would have bought a rotary plow that would blow the snow over the fences, and I'd see that the farmers lanes were plowed as well as the roads." That proposal was greeted with laughter and applause, apparently being just about an unanimous desire. Mr. Tully said he would probably stand again, but he wouldn't worry "which way it goes," although he would always try to look after the township's affairs. "I hope that when we meet here again the war will be over and that peace and quiet will return to this earth."

Ross Harrison thanked the members of the council for the co-operation he had received in the last two years." Sometimes we did not see eye to eye, but every member helped me some time or other." I have learned a few things. But I have a lot to learn yet. I found this council job is like most others. Some things you like doing, and others are a headache. These are not easy years to be in the council. Shortages of labour and materials make it hard to do some of the things we all like to do so."

Mr. Bullock said he thought the council did the best they could with the money we had to spend."

Other speakers were Ernest Scott, Mr. Reynolds, J. A. Middleton, road collector, Gordon Fitzgerald, road superintendent, Mr. Edmison, George Mullen, Gordon Hancock, Milton Clark, W. A. Rosborough, T. H. Graham, and W. E. Patterson, tax collector for Otonabee who was bookkeeper for the Blythe Construction Company.

RETURNED TO OFFICE—The people of Belmont-Methuen returned their Reeve, Isaac Anderson, and the 1944 Councillors to office by acclamation at their nominations Friday night. Reeve Anderson is the present warden of the County Council.

Egg Receipts Meeting Demand

TORONTO, Dec. 23.—Throughout the week Toronto egg markets leaned toward a quiet and steady trend, with receipts ample for requirements. Weather conditions did not affect the volume of arrivals to the extent anticipated. The demand locally has been good, and a slightly better inquiry was noticeable about midweek. Quotations were unchanged on all grades yesterday. Butter markets were very quiet yesterday, with practically no offerings. Western butter remained at 35 cents.

Township Councils

re-elected by acclamation at the nominations held on Friday night. Reeve E. W. Seeney will carry on, assisted by Councillors J. W. Ketchen, E. J. Leeson, R. Sanderson, and W. Martin.

Mr. Seeney has had 16 years of continuous municipal service. He was elected a councillor in 1929, and has served as Reeve continuously since 1936.

Another acclamation was accorded B. A. Curtis for the position of Hydro commissioner, and there were five nominations for three seats for the Board of Education. They are Bernard Smith, Donald Mathison, Thomas Sarginson, Bert Naryett, and Walter Nobes. The first three are the retiring members and they have till 9 o'clock to-night to qualify.

This is the first year the village has not had to borrow money from the Bank of Toronto, and there is quite a surplus on hand, it was reported. The debenture debt is down to one debenture, a little over $1,600 and that expires in 1947. It is also the best year for the collecting of tax arrears, a little over $2,000 outstanding.

Belmont-Methuen.

Both the Reeve and Council for Belmont-Methuen Townships were returned to office by acclamation at the nominations on Friday. Isaac Anderson, the present Warden of the County Council, is the Reeve; and councillors are Floyd Steenburg, J. McNeely, George Newton, and Carl Purdy.

Norwood Conucil.

A spirited election for Reeve is expected to take place in Norwood this year unless the nominees fail to qualify before Saturday night. Three men were named for Reeve at the nominations meeting on Friday night, Rork Ferguson (present Reeve), B. Lochead, and William Kavanagh, and Mr. Kavanagh withdrew his name later.

Five men were nominated for the Council: W. Bitten, E. Munro, B. Lochead, W. Kavanagh (the present Council), and John Nixon.

The three men on the Board of Education went in by acclamation, Earl Hamblin, Basil Tucker, and G. Wright, as did R. K. Tedford for the Hydro commissioner.

The Stars Say

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, December 26

THE festive holiday spirit holds over at high tempo, especially by the younger celebrants, who may be disposed to be lavish and extravagant with their energies and financial or physical assets. This may involve some losses or regrets incident to their excess generosity or warm feelings. For others, there is prospect of definite gain, advancement, increased credit of funds. With good judgment tact, and well laid plans, there may be rich fruition of the ambitions and sound objectives. But placate superiors and sidestep intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a successful, prosperous and happy year, in which all meritorious objectives, high ambitions and cherished hopes and wishes are likely to reach a new high in the way of fulfillment. Promotions, favors, and preferments from those in advanced positions are seen, although superiors may have to be approached with finesse. It would be well to sidestep all curious entanglements or intrigues. Much social and affectional pleasure is presaged, although excess and extravagance may exact penalties.

A child born on this day will be capable, ambitious, generous and warm-hearted, sympathetic and also indulgent and extravagant, thus subject to imposition or strange entanglements.

KITTEN CAUSES DEATH.

DRIFFIELD, England — (CP) — Eileen Horsey, 23, was unconscious 40 days before she died in this Yorkshire town from injuries suffered when she fell from her bicycle after trying to avoid striking a kitten.

ON CHRISTMAS LEAVE—Warrant Officer Russel D. Davidson, who was missing overseas for 19 months, is spending Christmas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Davidson, Keene. His father has been a regular donor at the Blood Donors Clinic in Peterborough for several months.

Vernor Named Vice-President

J. H. Vernor, executive vice-president and general manager of Western Clock Company, Limited, Peterborough, will become a vice-president of General Time Instruments Corporation of New York on January first, 1945, it was announced today. He will continued to reside in Peterborough and head the company here.

Westclox is a subsidiary of General Time. Other subsidiaries are: Westclox Division, LaSalle, Illinois; Seth Thomas Division, Thomaston, Conn.; Stromberg Time Corporation, New York and Stromberg Time Recorder Company of Canada Limited, Peterborough. Mr. Vernor is also vice president of the last named.

No Yuletide Delivery For Rural Routes

There will be one complete delivery by letter carrier on Christmas Day, but no delivery will be made by rural route couriers. The public lobby of the post office will be open from 6.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. General delivery, registration, postage stamp and money order and savings bank wickets will be open from 8 a.m. to 10 a.m. for the transaction of all business. The special delivery service will be as usual and all mails will be dispatched as usual from the Post Office.

Norwegian Fund Send Thanks

Archie Hood and the girls and employees of the Aircraft Instrument Department of the C.G.E., have received special recognition in a grateful letter of thanks from H. Petterson, secretary of the Norwegian War Aid Fund Society of Peterborough.

In his letter, on behalf of the society, Mr. Pettersen expressed their sincere thanks to the people in the C.G.E. and the others who had contributed wholeheartedly to the selling of tickets for the British, Chinese and Norwegian War Relief. He said that the Norwegians received $101.50, which was turned over to the Norwegian Relief Fund of Canada by C. S. Cummer, the treasurer. In conclusion, the letter said that this was a wonderful Christmas gift for the people of Norway, and on their behalf he wished to thank those who helped, and wish them all a 'Merry Christmas."

Treatment For Cold

London, Dec. 23 (CP)

A NEW treatment for the common cold, based on penicillin, has been developed but supplies of the drug will not be available until after the war for widespread use.

"The common cold is caused in the first place by a virus, which unfortunately the drug does not affect," said a London doctor. "But the virus lowers resistance and causes a concentration of bacteria in the nasal passages.

"Penicillin destroys these bacteria so if penicillin can be introduced into the nasal passages it will shorten the duration of the cold by days."

Velez Funeral Has Large Crowd

BEVERLEY HILLS, Calif., Dec. 23—(AP) — Final rites for the tempestous Mexican actress, Lupe Velez, were held in a mortuary chapel here yesterday shortly after Harald Ramond, named by Lupe as father of her unborn child, had paid a brief visit to view the body.

Ramond, Austrian-born actor, spent a minute before the casket, made the sign of the cross and walked rapidly away.

Several hundred persons, mostly of Mexican descent, attended the brief services. Lupe's mother, Josefina Velez Y. Villalobos of Mexico City collapsed as she was leaving the mortuary and had to be carried to an automobile.

Rev. Patrick Concannon led the recitation of five Our Fathers and Hail Marys. In latin, he blessed the body of the actress and then in English he read from the Roman Catholic burial service.

The body of Lupe was attired in a long white gown.

Gary Cooper, who had been announced as a pall bearer, was not seen.

Johnny Weismuller, who once was married to Lupe, came with his wife. Johnny and Gilbert Roland and Lupe's two business managers were the pall bearers.

The body of the actress, who took her life last week with an overdose of sleeping tablets, was sent to Mexico City last night for burial.

Main Street Topics

NO ROTARY MEETINGS

There will be no more luncheons of the Rotary Club until January 8. The next Mondays fall on the Christmas and New Year holidays and therefore the service club will not meet on those dates.

CLUB VISITOR

The Coffee Club welcomed this morning a transitory visitor, Carl Salmonsen of Lynn, Mass., former works manager of the Canadian General Electric Company in Peterborough.

RINKS TO OPEN

Parks Foreman A. Butcher had good news for young Peterborough today. It was that there would be skating at four city rinks on Monday, Christmas Day. The four rinks ready to be opened on the holiday are at the East City Bowl, Aylmer and Wolsley streets, Dufferin street and Inverlea Park.

ALL LOOKED AFTER

Every soldier at the Military Training Centre who wants to have Christmas dinner at the home of some Peterborough family will be looked after Monday. As a matter of fact the camp authorities report that there were more offers of accommodation than there were soldiers and many of the invitations had to be refused on that account. Many of the boys in the camp are on Christmas furlough.

SMITH ACCLAMATION

No election in Smith township was the announcement this morning from A. I. Edmison, clerk. The men who were proposed at the nominations meeting Friday afternoon decided there was no particular demand or cause for an election, and agreed among themselves after the meeting to let the present council carry on through 1945. Its members are: Reeve Gilbert McIlmoyl, Deputy Reeve Erie Pearson, Councillors Cephas Bullock, Ross Harrison and Robert Tully.

FOR THE SICK AND AGED

For the past 15 years, the Boy Choristers under the direction of Fred G. Mann, choirmaster of St. John's Church have given a program of Christmas Carols at Nicholls Hospital and Anson House. On account of this falling on Sunday this year, this program will be given on their behalf over Radio Station CHEX from 8 to 8.30 this evening.

BUYS MANSE

R. B. Lobb of Westwood has bought the Fraserville manse and also J. O. Pue's store and house. It is understood that Mr. Lobb intends to carry on a general store, and that Mr. Pue has bought T. J. Lang's residence at Fraserville. These transactions were handled by A. J. (Bert) Arnott.

TRAFFIC TANGLE

Standing in line for two hours before the gates opened to the Peterborough-Toronto train last night, a visitor from Ottawa said he had to stand the entire six hours to Peterborough. His standing time was 8 p.m. until 11 when the train departed and then until 6 when it arrived late here this morning. Several hundred people who were left behind Friday morning swelled the night westbound crowd, including service men. Traffic seemed to be hopelessly bottle-necked.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT.

One Examiner carrier boy has been made happy through the thoughtfulness of Mrs. N. Feeley, 7 Brioux Avenue While delivering his papers on Friday night he lost part of the money he had collected. Early in the evening Mrs. Feeley called the office explaining that she had found his money on the verandah and was anxious to notify the lad, so his Christmas holidays would not be spoiled. The Examiner located the boy, Ronald Wallace, 241 Princess Street, and within a few minutes he was down to collect his money.

THREE VEHICLES INVOLVED

A car belonging to Ronald MacPherson, 502 Bonaccord street was damaged to the extent of $100 in a traffic accident on Charlotte street Friday. The owner had parked his automobile near the News Lunch. A little later a car driven by Verne Hughey, 593 George street, collided with the MacPherson car and drove it up against the rear of a truck owned by Edward Dainnard, R.R. 5, Peterborough, also parked on Charlotte street, Hughes said he had been forced over by another car travelling east.

Heavy Offering Of Fowl On Farm Market

Turkeys at this morning's Farmers' Market seemed to be reasonably plentiful, although what were offered on the stalls sold like wildfire. Prices generally were 47 cents a pound, although there were instances of turkeys being offered at 46 cents a pound.

Absence of geese on the market was a noticeable point, although there were signs some of the fowl had been offered earlier. Two were seen after 11 o'clock, and both had been sold previously. The ceiling price is 34 cents.

Snows and McIntosh Reds were the predominating apples, and these sold generally at 55 cents a peck.

Eggs ranged from 40 to 50 cents a dozen, and chickens were offered at 35 to 38 cents a pound

But the turkey stalls attracted most customers, and although no stalls offered more than three or four turkeys, comment heard indicated they had been selling all through the morning. Most turkey vendors had only a few of the fowl to offer.

Falling snow failed to stop a surprisingly large number of people from opening the outdoor stalls and the Market Hall was jammed with buyers.

After Long Illness War Veteran Dies

A veteran of the First Great War, when he served overseas with the 48th Highlanders regiment, James Walker, 716 Elcome Crescent, died Friday at his residence, after an illness of two years' length. He was 56 years of age.

Mr. Walker was born in Denny, Scotland, the son of the late Archibald Walker and Margaret Drummond. Coming to Canada in 1913, he resided in Toronto and Bobcaygeon before coming to Peterborough. He has lived here four years, and was employed as a moulder at the Canadian General Electric Company. While in Peterborough, Mr. Walker attended St. Paul's Presbyterian church, and he was an active member of the Canadian Legion, Branch 52.

Mr. Walker leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, formerly Jenny Maxwell Fulton, one daughter, Jenny Walker, at home, a son Gnr. Archibald Walker, overseas, a brother, Colin Walker in Toronto, and three brothers and two sisters in Bonny Bridge, Scotland.

The funeral will be Sunday afternoon at two o'clock from the Nisbett Funeral Home, 347 Charlotte street, and burial will take place in Verulam cemetery in Bobcaygeon. Rev. J. L. Hodgson will conduct the service.

De Laval Employee Dies At 66 Years

An employee of the De Laval Company in Peterborough and Montreal for more than 40 years, John Ludvig Johnson passed away Friday evening, at his residence, 631 Lock street. He had been ailing for about 10 months, and was 66 years of age.

Mr. Johnson was born in Sweden, the son of Swen Johnson and the late Enguid Ostrom, and came to Canada in 1901, 43 years ago. Prior to moving to Peterborough more than 30 years ago, he lived in Montreal. While in this city, he was a member of St. George's Anglican Church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his sorrowing wife, formerly Sally Vittlind his father in Stockholm, two daughters, Mrs. C. Wilson and Mrs. M. Starr, both of Peterborough, two sons, Walter, of Peterborough, and Staff Sgt. Frank, who has been serving in the armed forces overseas for the past four years, and who is now in Italy; also surviving are four sisters and three brothers residing in Stockholm, and a fifth sister, Mrs. S. Norberg, of Molden, Mass., U.S.A.

The funeral will be Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, from the residence, 631 Lock street. Rev. E. C. Moore, of St. George's Anglican Church will conduct the service.

CIVILIAN PRODUCTION

J. H. Vernor, general manager of the Western Clock Company, announced to the employees this morning that beginning in January 1945, the plant will be manufacturing again between 75 and 80 per cent. of their pre-war supply of clocks.

Former Y.M.C.A. Director Supper Club Guest

C. A. Salmonsen, former Peterborough works manager of the C. G.E. was a visitor in Peterborough Friday, and in the evening, was a special guest at the annual Friday Night Supper Club Christmas dinner. Now the manager of a war industry in the Boston area in the United States, Mr. Salmonsen was a former director of the Y.M.C.A. here, and always took a keen interest in the Friday Night Supper Club.

A large attendance marked the Christmas meeting of the Club, and Rev. G. Kelly, of Lakefield, addressed the Club on "Dickens' Christmas Story." After a short account of the story, Mr. Kelly acted each part, in play form. His presentation of the Dickens story was enjoyed by the audience, and the acting portions were superbly carried out.

Cyril Monkman thanked the speaker on behalf of the club, and his warm vote of thanks was passed on by Jack Sackville, president. George Roper introduced the speaker.

Among those present were Ian F. McRae and Ross Dobbin, representatives of the directors of the Y.M. C.A. Mr. McRae drew the name of the winner of the weekly draw, and the name chosen was Bruce Upper.

A hearty sing-song was led by Don Forde, while music was supplied by Jim Shields at the piano and other guests at the meeting included F. Sly, B. Messervey, G. Tanner, F. Patterson, and H. Curry.

Christmas Fund Fully Raised Is Largest Ever Sent To London

The Christmas Cheer Fund is fully raised and cabled to the Lord Mayor of London. The response by the residents of this city and district has been magnificent. When one considers this has continued on a rising scale for the past five successive seasons, it fully amplifies the use of such an adjective.

This is best told by a little recapitulation which shows the following gifts cabled for the past five successive Yuletude celebrations as £500 in 1940, £1.100 in 1941, £1,500 in 1942, £1,600 in 1943, and finally the gift of £2,000 just completed and cabled to London, so this would seem a most opportune moment for the secretary of the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund to express his heartfelt thanks for the manner in which all have supported the special appeal sent out during the past few weeks.

Aircraft Play Big Part.

Of great assistance in achieving this splendid result was a gift of $203 from the Aircraft Dept. at the Canadian General Electric where this group of employees with Archie Hood as foreman, held a draw on four dolls, dressed and supplied with a wardrobe deluxe all made by the girls of the department headed by Iris Whalon, which would be the envy of any young lady.

The draw was made on Thursday by J. E. Girven, assistant works manger, and resulted in the prizes being won by E. Poast, O. Deyell, Albert Arnott (an employee of the dept.) and J. Davidson of Lang in the order named. This is the 4th annual event of a similar nature for the same purpose held by this group, and each year has superceded the previous one by quite a substantial amount, calling for a well earned note of congratulation as extended by Mr. Girven.

The total sum raised amounted to $406 of which this fund received half, the balance being divided equally between the Norwegian and Chinese Relief Funds.

Adding still further to the splendid support that has come from the employees at the C. G. E., comes another gift in to-day's list the Test Dept. per P. B. Munro amounting to $12.25 which now gives a total credit to them all amounting to $946.59 in this special donation for Christmas.

Ctiy Hall Draw Nets $121.

Also playing a big part in this final push comes the returns from a draw sponsored by the City Hall Staff with Miss Florence Johnson in charge, assisted by members of the Police Dept. The turkeys for this effort were donated by His Worship Mayor Hamilton, Brown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K. C., City Solicitor W. Huycke, K. C., and Gordon S. Matthews, which were won by Harry Theobald, Mrs. A. M. Morrow, Hurrel Dodds and Dr. C. B. Waite.

This netted the fine sum of $121 which was a credit to all who assisted, and particularly Miss Johnson who has always made a notable job of handling all details in regard to its management.

Another turkey draw worthy of special mention also gave the fund quite a boost, when P. E. Moore handed close to $50 over as proceeds of a similar effort sponsored by the staff and employees of Loblaws Groceteria. The draw for this was made by the secretary of the fund, and resulted in the turkey going to Mrs. Hopgood of 207 Simcoe street, and the second prize to Mrs. Archibald of 123 Crescent street.

Another business firm represented today is A. Comstock and Sons, who made a straight gift of $25, and coming from such an old established firm as this in the city, emphasises their interest in good works promoted in the name of the citizens as a whole.

Schools Total $103.62

The splendid work done by school children for the Christmas Cheer Fund also has played a splendid part in making its success possible. The lead in this respect today is taken by Queen Mary School with O. M. Steer as principal, who get credit for slightly more than half of the total acknowledged today, their gift standing at the fine sum of $53.

Others include Grade I taught by Miss V. A. Staples and the Kindergarten taught by Miss Isabel Connelly at Queen Alexandra School, Two classes at King George school, F. E. Kerr, principal, S.S. No. 14, Douro, Miss Maryalice Renwick, teacher, Lang School, Miss Lillian Bowie, teacher, S. S. No. 3, Smith, Miss Marion Devinney, teacher, and Grade 6 at Central School, Miss Doughty, teacher, and the Kindergarten at Prince of Wales School.

There are 13 personal gifts included in this list, prominent among which is Mrs. Rufus Payne, who already had a nice amount in this special gift for Christmas, and enlarged on it by $13.30 made from selling Christmas cards and knitted goods of her own making, while a donation of $6.16 is credited to the Gair Co. Canada, Ltd., Campbellford Div. through H. A. Sanders.

The town of Havelock is represented by three more gifts brought in by Miss M. Williams, fund representative in that place, these coming from the Home and School Association, the Prosperity Chapter, O.E.S. and A. Nurse, while Roseneath United Church W.A. and the Cavan Women's Institute both have a share in this local and district effort.

Gordon Hancock Sells Farm And Equipment

Fourteen grade Holsteins averaged $142.50 at the sale of Gordon Hancock's farm stock and implements Thursday afternoon. The top cow brough $205 and its calf $19. A registered year-old bull sold for $117.50 and the best bid for horses was $90.

William J. Hancock was auctioneer for his nephew and showed his old time lively form in handling this big sale, assisted by Golden Andrews of Norwood. The attendance from all over the district was estimated at around 1,000. A buyer from Woodville took three of the Hancock cows.

A new tractor was sold for $843, and its plow for $152.50. A seeder brought $100. Mow hay accounted for $335 of the total receipts, reported to be between $6,000 and $7,000. Barred Rock pullets were disposed of at $1.25; registered seed Ajax oats $1.80 a bushel.

Gordon Hancock recently sold his farm of 115 acres with large dwelling, on the second line of Smith to Graham Eastwood, who takes possession March 1. It is understood that Mr. Hancock intends to give all his time to the business of selling, especially by auction, which he has been developing in addition to the work of farming. He has specialized in grain growing and has been president of the Ontario Crop Improvement Association, and prominent for years with the Quinte District Seed Fair.

Some of the experiments of the Peterborough Crop Improvement Association took place on Mr. Hancock's farm. In this work and in agriculture generally he has been regarded as one of the most enterprising young farmers in this district. At the Smith township nominations Friday he said he would always retain a deep interest in the affairs of the municipality. Although Mr. Hancock may not yet have decided on his next move, some of his friends are expecting that he may become a resident of the city.

Uniting Europe In One Great State Under Common Rule Proposed

By JOHN DAUPHENEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — A "United States of Europe" under a common government elected directly by the peoples of the various countries, as a first step toward a greater federation of all nations in the world, is the peace-guarantee plan proposed by a non-partisan British organization called "Federal Union."

The idea of its backers is that each country should give up part of its sovereignty to an over-riding international government comprising representatives chosen by the peoples—instead of by governments as was the case with the League of Nations.

And at a public meeting held in Central Hall at Westminster, Miss Frances L. Josephy, president of the National League of Young Liberals and executive chairman of Federal Union, said it is up to Britain to take the lead.

"Union with France was offered in 1940 as the Republic fell," she said. "That offer should be re-opened, and it ought to be extended to Belgium, Holland, Norway, and the other European states as they are liberated and become democracies again."

The Earl of Huntingdon, who sits on the Labor benches in the House of Lords, is a leading member of Federal Union. He called for an immediate preliminary conference of representatives from as many European countries as possible, even before the war ends, "to inaugurate a plan of campaign."

"If we wait till the peace conference is sitting, some futile compromise scheme will be foisted on the nations, a scheme relying on all the useless expedients—balance of power, power politics, secret diplomacy and alliances—which would ensure a Third World War in the shortest possible time," he said.

Cmdr. Stephen King-Hall, Independent National member of Parliament for Ormskirk, and T. L. Horabin, Liberal M.P. for North Cornwall, while not members of the Union expressed agreement that "the choice before European man to-day is this: Unite or perish."

The aim of Federal Union, founded in 1938, is to do away with "unrestricted national sovereignty."

Its suggested Federal Union Government would have power to make decisions binding on all its member states in regard to foreign policy, trade relations or use of armed strength No member state would have a Navy, Army or Air Force of its own. Trade between member states would be free. But each country would retain authority over matters affecting only its on nationals.

Thus, in effect, Europe at first and later the world would become a single unit like Canada or the United States as far as external affairs or any kind are concerned, but would remain like individual "provinces or states" in regard to domestic affairs.

The British "Federal Union" organization is independent of all similar bodies. There are three similar groups in Australia, however, two in the United States, and one each in South Africa, New Zealand, Switzerland, France and Sweden.

Camera Club Holds First Annual Party

The Peterborough Camera Club held their first annual Christmas party on Tuesday at the home of George Hutchinson. Some 25 members with their wives and girl friends enjoyed the gala event.

During the evening various games were played, with prizes given to all the members. Barney Scarlett and Bob Halliday were the club photographers for the night. At close of the evening Fred Jennings, president of the club, acted as Santa Claus and handed out presents to the different members.

The program committee who sponsored the party were George Hutchinson, Bill Riddle and Walter White.

The next regular meeting of the club will be on January 9 at 8 o'clock at the Y.M.C.A.

Season's Greetings

To the Citizens of Peterborough City and County

In bringing Christmas greetings and best wishes to the people of Peterborough City and County on the sixth war-time Christmas, may I express the hope that 1945 will mean for all of us a shaking off of the shadows of war that have darkened the world since 1939 and the bringing about of an era of justice and charity, freedom and peace. Around us are visible signs that the dawning of that happy day is much nearer than it was 12 months ago. This Christmas finds colored lights glowing on our street corners. The shop windows are bright again and flashing illuminated signs make the downtown area of Peterborough a colorful spectacle that suggests the piping days of peace. By next Christmas may the lights go on again all over the world. May the cause of right and justice triumph and may our sons and daughters, now so gallantly risking their lives on the sea, on the land and in the air, be safely returned to the family circle. That it seems to me is the best Christmas wish that I or any one else could offer at this time. It is natural that on an anniversary that has always been associated with family re-unions, the gathering of the clan under the family roof for this most joyous festival, that our thoughts should go out to the loved ones in the services who can not be with us now. May they feel that although thousands of miles from home our love and best wishes are with them at this Christmas season. And for those of us who remain at home may this be a happy Yuletide and may 1945 bring what we all so fervently desire—the establishment of peace throughout the world.

A PRAYER

AT CHRISTMAS TIDE

Bring to us this Christmas a nation fighting not blindly, but bravely and strongly, firm in its knowledge of what it is fighting FOR—democracy and the hope that all nations, races and creeds may one day live and work together in such harmony that wars will be known only as black spots on the pages of history books. Give us the hardships of war that we may learn to cherish the simple joys of "peace on earth". Bring us an eternal Christmas spirit with which to build toward a future of world cooperation and peace. Bring Victory and a Merry Christmas to United Nations everywhere!

DUNN'S TAILORS

392 GEORGE ST.

CHRISTMAS SPIRIT is still a permanent affair

In spite of world conditions, absent loved ones and rationing problems, Christmas has remained the world's favorite holiday. And no wonder, for that season above all others, brings a feeling of peace and love that the world of today is so lacking in. We hope that the coming year will see the return of our boys and a world at peace.

IN MEMORIAM.

DOWNER — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Wayne Downer who passed away December 23rd, 1943.

We watched you suffer day by day,
And could not help in any way.
But just stood by and saw you pass
Into the Saviour's arms at last.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Father and Brothers.

CYRIL—In loving memory of a dear Father.

Peaceful be thy rest dear father.
It is sweet to breathe thy name.
In life we loved you dearly
In death we do the same.
—Ever remembered by Cyril Withers and family.

KING— In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Llyod Elton King, who passed away one year ago, December 25th, 1943.

Remembranec is a golden chain,
Death tries to break but all in vain,
To have, to love, and then to part
Is the greatest sorrow of one's heart
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never.
The memory of those happy days
When we were all together.
To a beautiful life, came a sudden end.
He died, as he lived, everyones friend.
—Sadly missed and lovingly remembered by Mother, Lois, Ila and Ray.

MUMFORD —In loving memory of our dear mother who passed away, December 25th, 1943.

In our hearts your memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond, and true;
There is not a day, Dear Mother,
That we do not think of you.
—Lovingly remembered by Ronald and Iris.

Births, Deaths, Etc.

IN MEMORIAM.

KING—In fond and loving memory of Lloyd Elton King, who passed away December 25th, 1943.

Sleep on dear Lloyd it has been one long year,
Since you left my heart filled with sadness and tears,
Yours was a heart that was blithe —some and gay,
Scattering sunshine all the way.
You know how I would loved you and yes love you yet,
Though God took you away I cannot forget.
—Ever remembered by Hildred (Kibb) Akins.

HENRY—In loving memory of Mrs. George Henry who passed away, December 24th, 1926.

And while she lies in peaceful sleep,
Her memory we will always keep.
—Lovingly remembered by George and girls.

CARD OF THANKS.

I take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude for all kindnesses as well as patronage accorded me during the past year by customers and others while wishing one and all the Happiest Christmas Season Ever. K. E. Twomey, Avon Rrepresentative.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

UST TWO OF A KIND

Husbands, Wives Should Realize They Belong to Same Species

The greatest mistake that husbands and wives make in dealing with each other is to assume that each belongs to a different species of humanity which the other cannot possibly understand and whose reaction to any situation he or she can never foretell. No phrase is oftener on the lips of men than "with women you can never guess which way the cat is going to jump," unless it is the wail of women, "Don't men do the dumbest things?"

Most of the quarrels that make marriage a perpetual fight with so many couples stem back to this artless belief that husbands and wives do not speak the same language, have the same point of view or the same longings and desires. Hence they offend when they should appease and trample over each other's sensibilities because they mistakenly think that their mates don't want to be treated the same way they want to be treated.

Not A Different Pattern

One of the main reasons that husbands and wives get on each other's nerves is because they believe that they are of a different weave and a different pattern, instead of realizing that they are cut off the same bolt of cloth. This theory holds good in even the matter of personal appearance. Every man, for instance, admires cleanliness and daintiness in a woman. He wouldn't be seen in public with a dirty, frowzy girl. And slouchiness has sent more wives to the divorce courts than any one thing.

Yet there are multitude of men who expect their wives to stay in love with them when they look like something that has just been fished out of the garbage can. They can't understand why a woman turns the back of her head to a kiss that reeks of garlic, tobacco and stale beer, instead of good shaving cream.

Then there is the money question that makes many and many a wife wonder why she was fool enough to give up a good job to slave in a kitchen for her board and clothes. Half the time the husband isn't a tightwad when he refuses to give his wife an allowance. He knows he would rather die than go like a beggar to even a kind father for carfare, but he thinks that there is something peculiar about women that makes them like to rattle a tin cup and ask for alms.

The thing that turns marriage into cinders, ashes and dust for so many women is that their husbands never pay them a compliment, show them any affection or ever say "thank you" for all the hard work they do in making them comfortable homes. The husband isn't intentionally unkind. He just thinks that being married to him is all the picnic that any woman could want and that she never could get discouraged and down-hearted as long as she has her wedding ring.

But he knows how a word of praise from his boss peps him up and that it turns his labor into play to know that he is appreciated. And it actually never occurs to him that maybe his wife might like the glad hand from him occasionally. He thinks women are different. Nothing is more pitiful than the thought of how much unhappiness results from the belief in this old superstition that men and women are different in their mental and emotional natures, when it reality, both sexes are much of a muchness.

New War Contract

OTTAWA, Dec. 23 — (CP) — The Defence Industrials Limited plant at Montreal, war operating subsidiary of Canadian Industries, Limited, is expected to be given a contract for 250,000,000 rounds of .30-calibre ammunition which is being let by the United States, it was learned here last night. It was understood that the entire contract would be given to DIL.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, December 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope is a most propitious one, in which the holiday spirit is dominant, expanding, warming and prospering all the aims, desires ambitions, hopes, and wishes, with lavish and extravagant fulfillments. All the forces and faculties, material as well as spiritual, are benignly stimulated, but a reasonable degree of caution with the health and physical safety is enjoined.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a particularly lively productive and progressive year, with promotion, preferment and the fulfilment of cherished hopes and wishes in private as well as business life. All energies, talents and ambitions are under splendid stimuli, but refrain from overtaxing the nervous system, and shun all sorts of subtle lures and intrigues.

A child born on this day will have splendid creative abilities, with lofty ambitions, and aspirations which will attain high goals of achievement, with honors and many tokens of appreciations and affection.

For Monday, December 25

Monday's astrological forecast points to assurance of a happy, prosperous and joyous holiday, with all affairs moving ahead along conventional holiday routines, with particular emphasis on all sound, serious, stable or fundamental conditions, making for substantial and enduring security. Elders are at this time secure in the prosperous picture. Be careful in public.

Birthday Prediction

Those whose birthday it is may look for a prosperous, progressive and lively year, with all matters moving ahead with decisive, and in some instances, unexpected attainment. This expansive and gratifying condition prevails in all business and professional contacts, although there is need for tact, prudence and care in public or group contacts, with particular amiability in the domestic, affectional and social affiliations.

A child born on this day will have stability, character and capability to forge ahead in a safe and sound groove to fair and enduring good fortune. It may have some friction with group or public contacts.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THE HOLD-UP REVERSED

YOU SELDOM see the play used by players in the average social rubber bridge game, but it occurs with fair frequency among advanced cardsmen—the simple little play called the "duck." It is just the reverse of the hold-up in principle, which is to keep your opponents from running the establishable cards of a suit. The idea of the "duck" is to enable you to run the establishable cards of your own suit.

| West | North / South | East |
|---|---|---|
| | ♠ 8 7 4♥ 6 2♦ 8 6 2♣ A K Q 7 5 | |
| ♠ Q 9♥ 7 5 4 2♦ J 10 9 4 3♣ 3 2 | NW ES | ♠ K J 5 3♥ Q J 10 9♦ Q♣ J 10 9 6 |
| | ♠ A 10 6 2♥ A K 8♦ A K 7 5♣ 8 4 | |

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1♠ | Pass | 2♣ | Pass |
| 2♦ | Pass | 3♣ | Pass |
| 3 NT | | | |

Undoubtedly a better bid by North on his second turn would have been a preference showing 2-Spades as sounding not quite so weak and hopeless as 3-Clubs, but South then should have got to the same place, probably by bidding 2-No Trumps, followed by North's 3-No Trumps.

West led the diamond J and South quickly counted up enough tricks for his game, plus an extra, with one in spades, two in hearts, two in diamonds and, as he thought, five in clubs. So he took the first trick with the diamond A, led to the club A, scored the K, and then was brought up with a shock when West discarded a heart on the club Q. He fooled around with diamonds and spades trying to build a ninth trick with a thirteener or something, but failed, so was down one.

What a cinch if South had used the "duck" on his clubs. All he had to do was let the defenders have the first club trick, to protect himself against the probable division of four clubs in one hand and two in the other. He then would have made his game, at the mere cost of giving up his extra trick chances as an insurance premium.

* * *

Your Week-End Question

When you know your side has at least eight cards of some particular suit, and also has every other suit safely stopped, what is the main factor to determine which declaration should be preferred—the suit or No Trumps—as a game try?

Canadian Women Aid War Effort In Many Fields

By HELEN BANNERMAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 23—(CP)— The year 1944 has seen thousands more Canadian women put their shoulder to the victory wheel—mainly by joining the women's branches of the three services.

More than 41,000—one woman in every 66 between the ages of 18 and 45—have enlisted. Almost a quarter of the women with civilian jobs are working in war industry; thousands are on farms, in wartime governmental staffs and in many volunteer war services.

A year ago there were 37,000 in service uniform and one out of every four employees of Canadian munitions plants was a woman.

As the Canadian Army broadened its work the Canadian Women's Army Corps pushed a recruiting campaign to provide many more girls to fill non-combatant jobs and release men for active duty. As the British Commonwealth Air Training Plan closed down the Women's Division of the R. C. A. F. stopped recruiting and finally started demobilization by releasing its married members.

The Women's Royal Naval Service planned a stronger force on theh one hand and helpful rehabilitation plans on the other, as many new bases were opened to the Wrens.

Early In The Field

First women's service to be organized and first to start demobilization, the R.C.A.F. (W.D.) had 16,300 members at the start of the year and will have an estimated 16,800—minus discharges for which no figures are available—at December 31.

One of the first discharges under the plan to release married WDs was Wing Officer Willa Walker of Montreal, senior staff officer of the force in Canada. She was succeeded by Wing Officer Winnifred Taylor of Toronto.

Drafts of airwomen and officers continued to be sent overseas where they have proven themselves in "ops" positions with the Canadian Bomber Group and at desk jobs at R. C. A. F. overseas headquarters.

More and more attention has been paid to the rehabilitation of the members of this service and to encourage airwomen to plan for their future several women officers have been trained as personnel counsellors.

Youngest and smallest of the three women's services, the W.R.C.N.S. resumed recruiting last spring after a period of inactivity. Total enlistment will reach an estimated 6,000 by the end of the year.

However, Naval Service Headquarters has announced that recruiting probably will stop by February, 1945. In the meantime the service is still enlisting stewards and wardroom attendants.

Wrens At 50 Bases

Wrens now are serving at 50 different bases in Canada, the United States, Newfoundland and Great Britain, Cmdr. Adelaide Sinclair, director of the W.R.C.N.S., has warned the girls that this is probably as far afield as they will go, even when the war shifts to the Pacific.

Looking to the future, the Wrens have been given a picture of demobilization plans for them by Lieut. Jessie Torrance of Toronto, who since her appointment to the staff of the directorate of demobilization, has visited all Wren establishments in Canada and Newfoundland.

The Canadian Women's Army Corps, which estimates it has replaced a full division for active duty, stepped up its recruiting drive in order to replace still more as overseas reinforcements became a crucial issue.

Largest of the women's services, the C.W.A.C. now has 19,000 members, of which more than 13,000 are serving overseas — approximately 1,200 in the United Kingdom and small contingents in the France-Belgium-Netherlands area and the Italian theatre. A year ago the C.W.A.C. had enlisted 15,300.

The khaki C.W.A.C. uniform was honoured during the year as being the smartest and best looking uniform among those of the women's services of Canada, Britain and the United States.

The C.W.A.C. also chalked up another first—Madeline Hawkins of Clinton, Ont., and Wilma Thomas of Victoria, became the first women to be appointed to the Protestant church chaplaincy service.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Rightly or wrongly we contend that Christmas just isn't Christmas without a child around. If you haven't got one of your own, I suggest you beg, borrow or steal a nephew, a niece, a grandchild, or the neighbor's youngster, even if only for an hour or so. Christmas is definitely the festival of childhood, the very word spells magic to the young. Now, I am going to give you a few recipes that the children will love and you will be well repaid for the time it takes to make them.

Christmas Star Cookies

½ cup of butter or shortening, grated rind and juice of half a lemon, 1 cup sugar, yolks of 2 eggs (beaten), white of 1 egg, flour. Cream butter, adding sugar gradually. Add lemon rind and juice, the beaten egg yolks and the stiffly-beaten egg white. Add enough flour to make a stiff dough. Roll out thinly and cut in star shapes or if you prefer, cut in rings with a doughnut cutter. Arrange on cookie sheets. Beat the white of the second egg slightly and use to brush over the cookies. Sprinkle with very finely-chopped red and green cherries or chopped gum drops. Bake in a very moderate oven 300 degrees till delicately browned.

Popcorn Snowman

½ cup sugar, ½ cup molasses, ¼ cup water, ½ teaspoon vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter, 4 cups popcorn. Combine sugar, molasses, water and vinegar and place over low heat. Stir continuously till the syrup will form a hard ball, when a little is dropped into cold water. Remove from the heat and add butter. Reserve a little of the syrup for sticking the snowman together and keep it warm. Pour remaining syrup over popcorn mixing thoroughly. Shape immediately five pieces as follows: Two cylinders for arms, one small ball for top of body, one larger ball for base of body, one very small ball for head. Press these parts together firmly (making depressions for arms) by dipping them into the reserved syrup. Decorate with raisins or candied cherries.

WHICH IS PREFERABLE?

THERE ARE deals which seem adapted to play for game at either a suit or No Trump, which offer a well-fitting trump suit of eight or more cards in your hand and partner's, and which also find you with apparently at least two stoppers in every other suit as well as the evenly balanced distribution considered best for No Trumps. The question to decide then is whether to prefer the suit game contract or the No Trump one. In most cases, the deciding factor should be whether the suit is a major or a minor.

North: ♠ K 10 8 7 5 2; ♥ 8; ♦ Q 10 3 2; ♣ 9 6
West: ♠ 9 6; ♥ K J 10 6 3; ♦ 9 5 4; ♣ K Q 5
East: ♠ A Q; ♥ 9 7 5 2; ♦ 8 6; ♣ 10 7 4 3 2
South: ♠ J 4 3; ♥ A Q 4; ♦ A K J 7; ♣ A J 8

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

| East | South | West | North |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 ♦ | 1 ♥ | 1 ♠ |
| 2 ♥ | 2 NT | 3 ♥ | 3 ♠ |
| Pass | 3 NT | | |

This presents a case in which South took the unsound choice between a trump and No Trump. With three cards of North's rebid spades, he knew the pair had at least eight cards of the suit, and should have preferred it to No Trumps for the reason that it was a major, requiring only 10 tricks for game. If it had been a minor, requiring 11, his best preference would have been No Trumps.

West led the heart J, which South took with the Q, and he properly went after spades, as without one or more tricks in that suit he could not get nine. He put the J through to the Q, and East returned the heart 2, West winning the 4 with the 6 and leading the 3 to knock out the A. South had to hope against hope now that East did not have another heart. He led the spade 4 to the 10. The A won, and East sent back the heart 9 for West to score the 10 and K, setting the contract.

If South had bid 4-Spades instead of 3-No Trumps, North could have lost only two tricks in trumps and one in clubs. North could not have been blamed if he had taken the side from 3-No Trumps into 4-Spades, as South's No Trump bids indicated he had probably two cards of the suit, in which North had six, enough to give the pair eight, but he laid off the No Trump game because he thought South knew what he was doing.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 8 7 5 3; ♥ 8 4 3; ♦ A 9 6; ♣ 10 4 2
West: ♠ A 9 4; ♥ 6 2; ♦ 10 7 5; ♣ A K 9 7 5
East: ♠ Q 6 2; ♥ 9 5; ♦ 8 4 3 2; ♣ Q J 6 3
South: ♠ K J 10; ♥ A K Q J 10 7; ♦ K Q J; ♣ 8

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

If West leads the club K and A, what detail must South watch to get the best result playing this deal at 4-Spades?

Rescue 7 Men In English Channel During Gale

LONDON, Dec. 23—(CP)—Building two floating harbors and transporting them to Normandy cost many lives—among them men of the Canadian corvettes Regina and Alberni, sunk while convoying the ports—but this is the story of seven lives saved.

A 60-mile gale, a fast-driving British Wren in a purloined staff car and the nine-man crew of a small lifeboat combined to make one of the classic sea-rescue stories of the war.

Seven men were working on a concrete caisson for one of the "Mulberry" artificial ports when the gale began. Because the work was vital to the invasion, they stayed on the job. The caisson snapped its moorings and was blown up the English Channel, pounded by 40-foot waves.

A Wren on duty nearby saw what happened but all telephone lines were down. She jumped into the nearest staff car and raced to the home of Skiney Cann, 44-year-old fisherman and coxswain of the lifeboat Violet Armstrong, 21 tons.

With eight volunteers he put to sea in the worst storm to hit that area in almost 50 years. Eight hours later, just at nightfall, the Caisson was sighted, rapidly crumbling under the pounding of the gale.

HOW D'ARTOIS PARACHUTED INTO FRANCE—Here is how Capt. Guy D'Artois of Montreal, and the woman who was to become his wife in a few days, parachuted into France to work with the underground, for months prior to the invasion. Mrs. D'Artois, a British secret agent, is an English woman.

Stay On Job Roosevelt Plea

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today the best way fighting men could be assisted on the home front is by people sticking to jobs which maintain the steady output of needed supplies.

Mr. Roosevelt began a news conference by declaring that several persons had asked him to say how Americans at home in this Christmas season can most help the fighting forces.

All should resolve, he said, to stick on the job.

The President also asserted that his financial budget for the 1946 fiscal year was nearing completion, but he said the new German offensive in Belgium had not caused changes in it.

The budget, Mr. Roosevelt said, has to be based on assumption that the war will last a certain time and that is being worked out now. He added parenthetically that he was one of the few persons that had not made a prediction as to when the war would end.

Mr. Roosevelt had nothing to add on plans for another Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting. He said Tuesday that time of a get-together was highly speculative.

Two Policemen Get Jail Terms

QUEBEC, Dec. 23 — (CP) — Judge Domeo Langlais to-day sentenced to jail terms Constables Fernand Savard and Roger Lizotte of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police convicted November 9 on charges of manslaughter arising out of the fatal shooting of Georges Guenette, 24, of nearby St. Lamert De Levis on May 7.

Savard was sentenced to 12 months in jail, while Lizotte was sentenced to nine months.

Both men remain out on a total $8,000 bail. Defence counsel filed an appeal soon after their conviction and it is expected to be heard in February.

Judge Langlais, before sentencing the two R. C. M. P. constables, said he was taking into consideration the jury recommendation for "the greatest clemency of the court." In the case of Lizotte, Judge Langlais said that evidence had shown he could only be held as an "accomplice" in the fatal shooting.

Guenette was sought on a 15-month-old charge of participating in an attack on R. C. M. P. Constable G. P. Coutu when he was shot last May on his father's farm. The shooting took place when Guenette was trying to escape from Savard and Lizotte and other police constables.

4 King's Horses Return To London

LONDON, Dec. 23 — (CP). — The King's horses returned to old London Town and the good citizens saw it as a victory omen that the King's Men wouldn't be far behind.

The team of four stately bays, carrying cockaded postillions and a coachman and drawing a brake, stopped people short when they first pranced from Buckingham Palace Mews after a five-year absence on the Royal farm at Windsor. But it became an almost daily occurrence as the horses stepped through their paces preparatory to the day when the King once more will drive through the streets in state.

Merry Christmas

In the chances and changes of this time, the same old wish endures. In happier days we might have made much of the occasion, but to-day our "Merry Christmas" is restrained, not in its warmth nor its sincerity, but in understanding of the hearts that are grieved and the homes where there is a vacant chair at the festive board. May they be comforted.

To our customers, our thanks at this time, for their patronage and helpful co-operation.

To our employees, deep appreciation of their loyal support.

GERMANS GAIN DESPITE AIR ASSAULT

JOYOUS SHOUTS OF FORGOTTEN WOMEN OF FRANCE—When the American Seventh Army took the town of Haguenau, last important Alsatian town before the German border, they found 300 French women in the town jail. They had been imprisoned by the Germans for political offences. Some had been in durance for two years. On liberation by the Americans, the women became almost hysterical with joy. The above photo was made as they rushed through the jail gate. When leaving the town in a hurry before the advancing Americans, the Germans apparently forgot all about the women.

Canadians Fly 300 Sorties

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP Cable).—A break in the weather unleased Canadian fighter and bomber squadrons based in Holland and Belgium yesterday for a dawn-to-dusk offensive of more than 300 sorties which brought a bag of 16 enemy trucks destroyed, 40 more damaged, one tank destroyed and another damaged, despite small movement of German transport. The battle area south of Aachen was the scene of most of these forays. Canadian Typhoon and Spitfire pilots reported that the enemy is using anti-aircraft batteries all around the roads he is using and each attack brought fire.

Canadian air activity brought up a number of German fighters during the day and five were destroyed by RCAF Spitfires. Sqdn. Ldr. J. E. (Jim) Collier of Portage La Prairie, Man., shot down an ME-262 jet-propelled fighter as a Christmas present for his Canadian Spitfire wing.

Bags 2 More.

Flt.-Lt. Donald Sherk of Stevensville, Ont., downed a Focke Wulf 190. It was the 100th aircraft credited to the RAF wing in Belgium with which his RCAF squadron flies. Another enemy victim, a Junkers 88, was down at night by FO. R. L. Snowden of Ottawa, a Mosquito pilot.

British-based R.C.A.F. heavy bombers participated in Sunday's bomber command smash at Dusseldorf airdrome while Canadian Spitfires and Typhoons based in Europe with the 2nd Tactical Air Force

Benes Would Avert Strife When Czechoslovakia Freed

By LOUIS P. LOCHNER—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 26—(AP).—Whenever the hour of liberation strikes for the Czechoslovak republic, President Edouard Benes and his cabinet are ready to set in motion a machine which they hope will avoid the dualisms and conflicts besetting some other newly-liberated peoples. They feel resistance movements at home should have the principal say. The Czechoslovak cabinet in London, therefore, will resign as a body the moment an independent Czechoslovak state can resume functioning.

Only Mr. Benes himself temporarily will retain his powers, functions and authority, but only for constitutional reasons. He will act as the legal link between the Czechoslovakia of the pre-Hitler protectorate days and the future. As such, he will appoint a new cabinet composed almost exclusively of resistance movement representatives.

If he reappoints any present members, it will be only after making sure that the resistance movement at home approves. In any event their number would be small.

Quit In 6 Months.

Mr. Benes has made it clear that he, too, will resign six months after the appointment of a new government. That new government also will be only provisional, remaining in power until national elections have been held and a parliamentary government again functions.

As envisaged by Mr. Benes and his colleagues, the reinstitution of parliamentary life will come from the bottom.

BENES WOULD

Toronto Units Mop Up Nazis

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Dec. 26—(CP Cable). — Advancing behind sheets of flame, troops of a Toronto armored reconnaissance regiment and a Toronto infantry battalion co-operated during the week-end in a mop-up of enemy positions on the east bank of the Senio River south-west of the Ravenna Ferrara Highway.

The Canadians cleared two miles of the river bank to give them a frontage of approximately 13½ miles extending along the east bank of the Senio from a point near Alfonsine, on the highway, to a point near Cotignola, west bank town 2½ miles south-west of Bagnacavallo and 7½ miles north-east of Faenza.

The clean-up operations carried the Canadians to within 1½ miles of Alfonsine, 10 miles north-west of Ravenna.

(A Rome dispatch said the Canadians captured Rossetta, 5¼ miles north-north-east of Bagnacavallo, and due south of Alfonsine.)

Near Cotignila, other Ontario units mopped up isolated pockets east of the Senio and pushed forward towards the river.

Apart from these operations, there were only sporadic shellings, patrols and occasional autbursts of small arms fire along the front on Christmas Day.

Subway Strike Lasted One Day

LONDON, Dec. 26 — (CP-Reuters).— After the one-day Christmas strike on London's underground lines, trains were again running normally to-day.

Early this morning services were still somewhat irregular since it took some time to get the bank holiday schedule working after the stoppage, but as more train crews and platform staffs reported services returned to normal on all lines.

The subway station at Paddington, a main railway line terminus, was out of action after a fire on Sunday which damaged the escalators. The one-day strike, which lacked union sanction, was called in a dispute over arrangements for days off during the holiday season.

Holiday Deaths Total 23
Ontario Heads List With 13 Killed

By The Canadian Press

The Dominion counted 23 deaths as the toll of the Christmas week-end, 13 in Ontario, four each in British Columbia and Quebec and one each in Manitoba and Nova Scotia. Eleven of the deaths resulted from traffic accidents; airplane accidents, fires and trains each cost three lives; two died from monoxide poisoning and one from exposure.

Four of the Ontario deaths were in Toronto. George Morrison, Nathan Fruitman and Harry Winton died as the result of traffic accidents and Alfred Stevens died in his car of monoxide poisoning. Two children—David Harrison, 4, and Madeline Harrison, 2,—died in a fire at Hamilton. William Baslaugh died at Simcoe after his truck was struck by a train. At Englehart Mrs. Ellen Hastings died in hospital after suffering badly burned hands and frost-bitten feet. James McAuley died at Cobalt of monoxide poisoning. An airman was killed in a crash near Kincardine. Isadore Courtemanche was killed at Foleyet near Sudbury when struck by a Canadian National Railways passenger train and A. A. Waaltorton of Vars, near Ottawa, was fatally injured when struck by a C.N.R. snowplow.

The other Ontario death was that of Mrs. Simpson Scott of Ajax, near Oshawa, who was killed when a Gray Coach Line bus collided with a parked truck. Eight other passengers on the bus were injured.

10 Divisions Of Germans Held In Trap
Russians Make 15-Mile Gain; Panic Hits Budapest

MOSCOW, Dec. 26 (AP)—Eight to 10 divisions of Germans and Hungarians were reported virtually trapped in Budapest today—cut off from escape except by air or possibly one road useable only by night—as the Red Army drove to the western city limits in a 15-mile advance.

The encirclement of the Hungarian capital was almost complete and front dispatches said Soviet guns had begun a systematic shelling of two airports still held by the enemy, while Red heavy and medium bombers flew incessant sorties over the strife-torn capital.

The greatest panic was reported from inside the city in full view of Russian units that yesterday drove to the lofty hills of Budakesz, adjoining the city limits of Buda, western half of the Danube-straddling capital.

Commandeer Cars

The Germans were reported to have grabbed all available automobiles and buses and put them under military command, ordering the Hungarian drivers to stand by with blankets and all the warm clothing possible. This led to the speculation that large enemy units might try to make a break for it.

The last narrow escape corridor that appeared still open to them on the basis of frontline dispatches extended 19 miles northwest from the capital to Esztergom, on the southern bank of the big Danube bend.

The ring around the capital was completed in all other directions—at distances ranging from less than two miles on the west to about nine miles on the east.

To-day's communique also disclosed a continuing Red army surge westward in southern Czechoslovakia along the Hron (Gamar) river in the vicinity of Leva (Levice) in a drive along the routes to Vienna and Bratislava, now less than 98 miles and 65 miles distant, respectively.

14,000 Killed.

But the war bulletin emphasized the squeeze on Budapest, declaring that in the last five days of fighting west and southwest of the capital the Russians had slain 14,000 German and Hungarian soldiers, captured 5,468 and destroyed or seized vast quantities of war material, including 101 self-propelled

Name Is Murphy

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Dec. 26 — (AP). — Benny Goldstein, 32-year-old photographer's mate, says if the Japanese ever capture him he's going to tell them his name is Murphy. Benny, a member of the crew of the navy's first plane to bomb Japan proper, said he got excited and tossed out some of his personal effects, and later remembered several of the articles he tossed overboard had his name and serial number on them.

Bond Default Threatened In Saskatchewan

REGINA, Dec. 26 — (CP). — Acting Premier C. M. Fines of the Saskatchewan C.C.F. government said today he was advised Federal Finance Minister J. L. Ilsley that Saskatchewan finds it "impossible" to agree to the Federal proposals for settling the 1938 seed grain advances totalling $17,700,000. Mr. Fines suggested he confer with Mr. Ilsley on details of settlement "in a spirit of tolerance and free from personalities and political consideration."

Mr. Fines, Saskatchewan treasurer, said he had written Mr. Ilsley Dec. 20 asking the Dominion government "to recognize your responsibility," and asserted the seed grain advances must be considered a national emergency. He denied the Saskatchewan government "has flouted the solemn agreement between the Dominion and Saskatchewan," and charged the Federal government with a "dilatory policy" in handling seed grain in the spring of 1938.

Latest Move

The letter was the latest move in the seed grain negotiations of the last five months following the C.C.F. government's decision to settle with farmers for 50 per cent of the principal and seek an adjustment on the debt with the Federal government. When the debt came due Oct. 31 the Provincial government could not meet payments to the banks, which also were guaranteed by the Dominion. The provincial government offered treasury bills for any amount the Federal government paid and to make payments when the outstanding debt was collected from the farmers.

"We feel confident that now we can work out the details in a mutually satisfactory manner," Mr. Fines said, warning that if Saskatchewan was forced to settle the seed

Expect Armistice With Hungary

MOSCOW, Dec. 26 (AP)—Political observers in Moscow believe an armistice will be effected soon between the Soviet Union and the new provisional government of Hungary formed at Debrecen.

All negotiations between this new government and the Soviet Union are being reported fully to British and United States representatives in Moscow. Representing co-belligerents against Hungary, U.S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman and British Minister John Balfour certainly will sit in on the coming armistice conference.

Two strong military men—Col.-Gen. Bela Miklos as Prime Minister and Col.-Gen. Jarosc Verbesc as Foreign Minister—head the new provisional government.

Its attitude should give the Soviet Union another friendly neighbor in the Balkans.

The Russians have said they wanted a strong Hungary, just as they wanted a strong Romania, Bulgaria, Yugoslavia, and Czecho-Slovakia—strong enough to put down Fascism wherever it should rise again.

Now 50 Miles Inside Belgium American Salient Wiped Out
Great Hun Bulge 35 Miles Wide 3 Armies Operating

PARIS, Dec. 26—(AP). — Two German armored columns by Sunday night had plunged 50 miles into Belgium, reaching within four miles of the Meuse River. The enemy wiped out the American St. Vith salient and formed a solid front 35 miles wide.

Supreme Headquarters disclosed this information today.

Two and possibly three German armies have been flung into the battering counter-offensive, believed at Supreme Headquarters to have been planned by Hitler himself in an effort to shatter Allied forces in the West.

Backed up by infantry, the twin German tank pushes had careened 11 more miles into Belgium since the last previous headquarters report.

They had pinched out the American stand west of St. Vith—a jutting salient that had split the German offensive prongs—and formed a single bulge 35 miles wide and now 50 miles or more deep.

Punching due west one enemy tank column neared Celles, only four miles from the Meuse at Dinant, and just eight miles northeast of the French border.

Another column hit west and north, reaching Ciney in a 10-mile gain. Ciney lies nine miles from the Meuse and 14 from the jutting northeast corner or France. Ciney and Celles are six miles apart.

The security news cloak covered any further progress these thrusts may have made since Sunday night. At latest reports a battle was raging in this general area, with the Germans building up forces west of Rochefort and south of Marche. The deep Sunday gains came after the invaders had been held almost to a standstill for 48 hours.

In the heart of this bulge a surrounded American forces several thousand strong fought doggedly to hold the important Belgian road hub of Bastogne after rejecting a surrender ultimatum. It is under incessant Nazi armor and infantry attacks.

The hope of this isolated force focussed to the south where Gen. Eisenhower's counter-assault had beaten back up the Arlon road within five miles of Bastogne—and still was gaining ground.

The American wedge west of St. Vith had kept Field-Marshal Karl Von Rundstedt's drives split.

A field dispatch declared Von Rundstedt apparently now was seeking a break-through toward Namur rather than Liege 34 miles north-east of Namur. The Germans were more than 30 miles from Namur by Sunday.

Besides pounding into Rochefort 15 miles from the Meuse, German armor and infantry farther south-east also had taken Libramont, only 23 miles from Sedan, and 16 from the French border.

Paris by January 17.

Americans released by their comrades after being held prisoner said their captor officers told them the offensive's schedule called for arrival in Paris January 17, after which, the Germans said, perhaps "Roosevelt will talk peace terms."

Even as the German offensive bit deeper into Belgium, Americans to the north-east at Duren, 20 miles from Cologne, had entered Windem four miles below Duren on Sunday.

Churchill Goes To Athens For Conference

By STEPHEN BARBER
Associated Press Staff Writer

ATHENS, Dec. 26 —(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill sought to end the bloody Greek civil war today as a British patrol reported discovering nearly a ton of dynamite under street car lines opposite the main doors of the Hotel Grand Breagne.

Officials of the Greek Government and Lt.-Gen. Ronald Scobie, commander of British forces in Greece, live at the hotel.

(The dispatch from Athens did not say whether Mr. Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, who accompanied him to Greece, were staying at the hotel.)

German Labels

The patrol said the dynamite was in boxes bearing German markings. The patrol, inspecting sewers as part of the daily routine, found the dynamite packed and fused in the main sewer under University street, six yards from the facade of the hotel.

It is thought that the explosive—which army engineers were removing by truck—may have been placed in position by way of a manhole in territory held by the E.L.A.S., militia of the left wing E.A.M. group. From there it must have been carried a mile or more underground after the night inspection by a British patrol.

The charge was powerful enough to have damaged the hotel severely, as well as the police headquarters opposite and possibly other neighboring buildings.

Mr. Churchill arrived here yesterday accompanied by Foreign Secretary Eden as the ancient capital echoed to the sound of street-fighting between Left-Wing ELAS Partisans and Greek Government forces supported by British troops.

The Prime Minister went into action immediately, communicating with Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied Mediterranean

Jap Subs Operating Along Pacific Coast

LONDON, Dec. 26 (CP)—Japanese submarines "are again operating along the United States Pacific coast," a Japanese broadcast heard by the BBC, said Monday. The Domei broadcast said submarines "striking in force" after a two-year period of "behind-the-scenes" supply operations.

The enemy report said four submarines alone, since the return to the offensive, had sunk four aircraft carriers, two destroyers and four transports.

There was no Allied confirmation.

Allied Air Forces Continue Terrific Bombing

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP).—In strong support of American troops battling the German offensive, United States bombers and fighters for the fourth day today attacked enemy communications and supply lines.

Headquarters of the United States strategic air force announced that the targets included two railroad yards in the Coblenz area and bridges and rail lines between Coblenz and Bonn.

The communique said 150 heavy bombers accompanied by more than 300 fighters participated in the rail attacks. The targets, through which most of the traffic for the German western forces flow, were bombed visually.

The powerful four-day Allied aerial assault was designed not only to help the hard-pressed American forces but to knock the Luftwaffe out of the skies. Supreme Headquarters said 78 enemy planes were destroyed yesterday. United States losses were 13 heavy bombers, seven medium bombers and 43 fighters.

Up to 500 Italian-based Allied heavies made a heavy attack yesterday on a synthetic oil refinery at Brux, 50 miles north of Prague, while rocket-firing fighter-bombers blasted rail lines, fuel dumps and trains on the Brenner Pass route. Twelve bombers were lost in the Brux raid.

Fighters also attacked the Milan-Bresso airdrome and railyards in Austria.

A dispatch from Switzerland said an Allied air attack yesterday afternoon was believed to have demolished the largest powder factory in Northern Italy. Heavy blasts in the Milan area shook houses on the Swiss Italian border, the report said.

RAF heavy bombers Sunday night attacked a marshalling yard in Cologne and an airfield at Bonn. Sunday's gigantic air assault saw 7,000 Allied planes in operation mostly over the Western front and behind the German lines.

Norway Wants Invasion Now

LONDON, Dec. 26 — (CP). — (Advance). — Johan Nygaardsvold, Prime Minister of Norway, disclosed tonight that his government had urged the Allies to launch an immediate invasion of Norway from the west.

In a broadcast to his homeland Nygaardsvold called upon every Norwegian to hamper the Germans in any way possible, by sinking enemy transports or sabotaging communications. He warned that every German soldier who escapes to the south will help lengthen the war.

"In time to come when the fighting will become still more intense, and may affect the whole of our people more directly, we must be prepared to accept all sacrifices which the situation will demand," he said.

EXTRA!

ROME—The big German synthetic oil refineries at Oswiecim, Poland and Blechhamer and Ordertal in German Silesia were pounded today by fighter-escorted heavy bombers of the United States 15th Air Force.

ATHENS — Prime Minister Churchill and Archbishop Damaskinos, whose name has been mentioned as a possible regent of Greece, had a three-hour talk last night and are reported to have "got on famously."

Western Front Picture Still Not Clear
News Filtering Through Censorship Reveals Allies Blunting Rundstedt Push

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Asociated Press War Analyst.

The Germans have got their second wind and again are on the drive, but such news as has filtered through the censorship dim-out up to this writing indicates that the American forces have been holding the enemy to small gains in most sectors or stopping them altogether.

Gen. Eisenhower seems to have the situation well in hand, and we can have confidence in the outcome. It should be marked that despite the great weight of the German counter-thrust, the Americans have suffered no debacle. On the contrary they have steadily increased their grip.

The fighting is fierce, and we must be prepared for heavy casualties. We shall break the back of this German offensive in due course. But the cost in lives is going to be hard to take.

The Germans are suffering just as heavily. It's a bloody business they have started in their desperate, last-ditch effort to stampede the Allies into making a compromise peace.

The broad picture of the German assault remains the same. They are straining to extend the two great salients which they have driven into the American front in Belgium towards the Meuse River. One of these long arms is stretching out towards the fortified communications centre of Liege. The other on the south is reaching for Namur, and sub-divides into a drive for Sedan—a historic invasion route to Paris.

Situation Dangerous.

One of the menaces of the offensive lies in the fact that these two powerful tentacles form a huge sack within which are many American troops and supply stations. If the Germans could close the mouth of that sack it would create a nasty situation, and they are doing their utmost to achieve this. There are several similar, though less dangerous, sacks at various other points.

The threats are far from one-sided, however. Gen. Eisenhower is flinging counter-attacks at the flanks of these German salients. The immediate purpose of this pressure is to prevent the expansion of the arms. However, German Field-Marshal Von Rundstedt is making a big gamble in thrusting these salients out into Allied territory, for he lays himself open to a counter move which might cut off and annihilate great numbers of his troops.

That naturally is what Gen. Eisenhower is hoping to achieve. We haven't yet reached the crucial moment of his all-out counter to Von Rundstedt. That Allies assault undoubtedly is in course of preparation, and when it comes Von Rundstedt may find himself involved in his last great fight.

Canada Studies Racing Ban
Sweeping Order Effective January 3

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 — (CP). — Canada will study the United States order directing race tracks to close down by Jan. 3 but provincial authorities and racing associations would be involved in any similar decision in the Dominion, Federal officials said today.

The United States order was passed to "prevent the use of critical materials, services and transportation . . . until war conditions permit."

Supervision of betting in Canada is vested in the minister of agriculture and the Dominion has the power to halt betting operations at any track. Both Dominion and provincial authorities are interested in taxation revenue from the tracks.

The actual racing is governed by racing associations in the provinces.

Canadian racehorses carried $37,068,199 in wagers during the 1944 racing season, an increase of $3,923,186 compared with 1943. The 1944 total of wagers was the largest since 1930, when the figure was $38,007,146.

This year the agriculture department supervised pari-mutuel betting at the tracks of 25 racing associations, with racing being held on 298 days. In 1943, 22 associations held races on 283 days.

112,728 Japs Wiped Out Across Leyte

67-Day Campaign Cleans Up 2 Philippine Isles

SOUTH PACIFIC ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 26—(AP)—A Christmas morning surprise for Japan in the form of an amphibious invasion of Palompon harbor brought the bloody, 67-day Leyte-Samar campaign to an end except for mopping-up operations, and Gen. MacArthur today hailed "perhaps the greatest defeat in the military annals of the Japanese army."

The U.S. 77th division, moving from Ormoc into Palompon,, the enemy's last remaining port on Leyte, stormed ashore under covering fire from patrol-torpedo boats and artillery. The Japanese were caught between these troops and others moving overland, and could offer only token resistance.

Magnitude of this first phase of the Philippines liberation was reflected in MacArthur's announcement that 112,728 Japanese had been killed and 493 captured on Leyte and nearby Samar Island, on which there was considerably less opposition.

The Americans lost 2,623 killed, 8,422 wounded and 172 missing—a total of 11,217.

"The enemy's ground forces participating in the campaign have been practically annihilated," MacArthur declared.

Further, the triumphant communique said, 2,748 enemy planes were destroyed in the Philippines since the Leyte invasion Oct. 20, and a total of 27 warships and 41 transports sunk as 10 convoys seeking to reinforce the besieged Leyte garrison were smashed. The totals did not include enemy losses in the naval battles of Leyte Gulf Oct. 25.

2,000 A Day

In the past week or so Japanese dead have been discovered at a rate of 1,500 to 2,000 a day.

MacArthur's announcement of 112,728 Japanese killed on the two islands was broken down into 54,338 abandoned dead, 18,500 estimated dead not yet collected, about 30,000 troops drowned in the destruction of reinforcement convoys and 9,890 crew members aboard these ships.

On Mindoro Island to the northwest, invaded Dec. 15, the Japanese furnished little opposition either on the ground or in the air, but American bombers and fighters were active.

Liberators dumped 40 tons of bombs on Clark Field, near Manila, 150 miles north of the newly-completed Mindoro airstrips. More than 50 interceptors rose but 18 were shot down and two more were listed as probables. One bomber was lost.

At Pearl Harbor, it was reported that from the air and sea American bombs and shells crashed Sunday (Japanese time) into Iwo Jima as Superfortresses, Liberators and warships combined in an assault on the enemy island base 750 miles south of Tokyo. There was no indication of the size of the task force.

Shortly thereafter British headquarters announced plans to convene at 4 p.m. (10 a.m. EDT) today a conference "representative so far as possible of Greek political opinion" with the object of "ending fratricidal strike and enabling Greece to resume her place among the United Nations."

Archbishop Damaskinos of Athens was named to preside over the conference and ELAS representatives were guaranteed safe conduct.

Mr. Churchill's unexpected arrival here was a masterpiece of timing that startled the war-scarred city in the midst of gloom-tingled Christmas festivities.

The chain of letter exchanges between Lt.-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, and ELAS leaders had worn itself out. Most people here pessimistically believed the only solution would be a knock-down, drag-out fight.

Since the civil war began three weeks ago, numerous official and unofficial attempts have been made to bring about a truce.

grain debt on the basis of Mr. Ilsley's proposal the provincial government would be forced into a position where it would have "no alternative" but to default on its bonded indebtedness.

Mr. Ilsley's five-point proposal stipulated that Saskatchewan treasury bills would be accepted by the Dominion Government provided they carried interest at 3 per cent and fell due serially in equal instalments at the end of the next five years.

Md. Ilsley's five-point proposal "Your proposals with regard to re-payment of the treasury bills are entirely impossible because of our financial position," said the acting premier. "I am sure that you would not want to force us into a position of defaulting on our debt but the carrying out of your policy would leave us no alternative."

The other points of Mr. Ilsley's proposal were:

1. The Dominion to implement its guarantee to the banks. (The federal finance department announced in mid-December it had paid 1938 seed grain notes totalling more than $16,000,000 to the banks.)

2. Saskatchewan to make a payment in cash to the Dominion of an amount "considered reasonable and fair under all the circumstances."

3. Saskatchewan to deliver treasury bills to the Dominion to the amount paid by the Federal Government to the banks implementing its guarantee, less the amount of cash payment to be made by the province.

4. The notes of the municipalities to become the property of the Dominion.

Federal Responsibility

In his reply Mr. Fines said:

"Once again, before it is too late, I would appeal to you to recognize your responsibility in this matter and reconsider your decision not to share the costs with us. If, however, you fail to do so, then, we repeat the alternative offer we previously made. We are prepared to give you the usual treasury bills contemplated by the agreement for the amount you have paid the banks in honoring your guarantee."

Mr. Fines said Saskatchewan people "are united" in the belief the 1938 seed grain advance was a national problem and even the former Liberal provincial government was of the opinion the Dominion should pay a portion of the debt.

"You are surely not serious in your threat to collect from the Saskatchewan Government even to the point of offsetting amounts due from the Dominion to the province? asked Mr. Fines. "Such drastic action would not now, or in the future, tend toward national unity."

The plan is this: Already local resistance committees are functioning under cover in virtually every Czechoslovak village, town and city. At the moment of liberation, these local committees will meet to select delegates for the next largest government unit, corresponding to Canadian county. These "county" delegates are to select provincial delegates who in turn will meet to name delegates to National Assembly.

The principal function of the National Assembly will be to arrange for democratic elections, both local and national, throughout the liberated state. Then local resistance committees automatically will cease to function, and local, regional, provincial and national governments resulting from this elective process will take over.

Despite the possibility of an attempted break out from Budapest, the impression in Moscow was that the Germans intend to make a stand and turn the city into a battlefield.

There were no indications that the Russians had yet commenced to shell anything but the airports and suburban escape routes to the northeast, but big Soviet guns were in position to open up devastating fire on the defenders inside the city if resistance keeps up much longer.

In the drive west of the Danube the Russians, with the capture of many, got within 11 miles of Feiso Galla, a principal railway and highway junction on the path to the Austrian frontier. Forty communities were overrun.

The German High Command appeared to be attempting to set up a defence line based on the Bakany Forest, which runs from the northeast to the southwest, parallel with the Austrian frontier. Here the Nazis were piling up reserves for a defence of Austria, rather than an attempted drive to relieve the beleaguered garrison at Budapest.

Premier Given $50,000 Gift

TORONTO, Dec 26—Probate of the will of Sir Willam Mulock, who left an estate of over $2,500,000, has been applied for by Hon. W. P. Mulock. The will provides for the setting up of trust funds in the amount of $200,000 each in favor of Sir William's daughters, Mrs. Edith M. O'Flynn and Mrs. Ethel Kirkpatrick, with provision made for their children after their decease, and also provides for a legacy of $50,000 to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, his friend of many years' standing.

The will also provides for the payment of legacies to Sir William's grandson, Hon. W. P. Mulock, of $200,000; to his son-in-law, Col. A. E. Kirkpatrick, of $30,000; to his granddaughter, Mrs. Marjorie Higdett of London, Eng., of $25,000, and to his nephew, Homan Lount, of $25,000. An annuity to his housekeeper, Miss Rosamond Pratt of $1,200, and legacies to other members of his household staff, are other provisions of the will. After providing for the trusts and legaces, the residue of the estate is left to Hon. W. P. Mulock.

No provision is made for charities because of the substantial bequests which Sir William had made during his lifetime and because of the succession duties payable by the estate.

The estate includes real estate, $441,422; mortgages, $25,816; stocks, $530,604; bonds, $1,372,073; cash, $85,689; book debts, $44,327; miscellaneous property including household goods and effects, $12,456.

British To Serve Under Nimitz

BRISBANE, Australia, Dec. 26—(CP)—Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser, commander of the British Eastern Fleet, upon his return from a conference with United States Fleet Admiral Nimitz, said there will be no difficulty about ammunition and supplies in co-ordinating the British Pacific Fleet with the American Navy in the Pacific.

He said adequate docking facilities will be provided where necessary.

"The British Fleet will serve under Nimitz and its activities will be recorded in his communiques," he added.

President Roosevelt Makes Drastic Manpower Move

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26 — (AP). — In its most drastic manpower moves of the war, the United States Government on Saturday banned horse and dog racing and served notice that materials, fuel and transportation will be denied businesses which defy manpower regulations.

Selective Service also was directed to review the qualifications for military service of professional athletes.

The actions capped a week of intensified endeavor to speed up the whole American war effort to the greater pace which the German counter-offensive has shown will be necessary for victory.

Meanwhile, it was learned that virtually all ration-free meats and canned vegetables would be back on the ration list by the start of the new year.

List Other Moves

In earlier manpower moves, the Government had:

1. Increased the draft rate for January and February from 60,000 to 80,000.

2. Raised its sights on war production to plan on the basis that heavy fighting may continue in Europe for a year or more.

3. Frozen production of civilian goods at current levels indefinitely.

4. Sharply cut the allotment of automobile tires for civilian use.

Saturday's actions were ordered directly by James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization and Reconversion. It was announced, however, that his request that all racing tracks close by Jan. 3 was issued with President Roosevelt's approval.

Puzzling For Public.

Mr. Byrnes asked Selective Service Director Lewis B. Hershey to review the professional athletes' qualifications for military service, explaining that it was difficult for both him and the public to see how an individual could be unfit for military service yet capable of engaging in games "demanding physical fitness.

Serious consideration, Mr. Byrnes added, should be given to recalling those men to the armed forces or giving them another physical examination if they have not previously been inducted.

The "crack down" on businesses which disregard manpower regulations was taken in two steps.

First, Mr. Byrnes asked the War Manpower Commission to intensify its drive to establish employment ceilings in areas of labor shortages. Under such ceilings, the W.M.C. tells a business — manufacturing plant, laundry or tavern, for instance—the total number of workers it may employ.

Teeth for Regulations.

Then, Mr. Byrnes asked the War Production Board to put "teeth" into the manpower regulations since the Manpower Commission has no authority itself to enforce its ceilings. The W.P.B. did this by invoking for the first time in the war its broad priority powers. These permit it to withhold from a business materials, transportation and any other product subject to priority control.

Before action against an employer, the Manpower Commission must certify that he has refused to comply with a ceiling or hiring regulation "within reasonable time after he has been notified of his failure to do so."

and cleared Obernaubach a mile farther down.

While the huge ground battle in Belgium costly to both sides raged on, the 8th Air Force got in its fourth straight day of attacks. Thousands of German vehicles and 500 enemy planes have been knocked out by Allied fliers since the start of the counter-offensive.

Allied planes struck yesterday in almost as great force as Sunday's 7,000-plane blow, wrecking at least 56 tanks and destroying or damaging 791 other armored vehicles and transports.

German airmen fought back in considerable numbers. Reports last night listed close to 400 enemy playes destroyed in three days. The same period of operations cost the Allied Air Forces 198 planes — 55 heavy bombers, 39 mediums or light and 104 fighters. Yesterday's losses were 13 bombers and 19 fighters.

Today's communique reported enemy patrol activity along the Meuse River north of Timburg and in the Venlo sector, but these thrusts were repulsed by the 21st Army group of tre 1st Canadian and British 2nd Armies.

Tide Turning

For the first time, the main German pressure in Belgium appeared to be turning from the west, where there still were slight gains, to the northwest or north.

A field dispatch dated Monday, however, said the tide seemed to be turning against the Germans in the Stavelot sector, along the northern rim of the German break-through.

Americans counted 600 German dead and 34 tanks knocked out on the armor-churned snowfield near Staumond, five miles west of Stavelot, where the Germans had been held to a standstill. U.S. forces pinched the Nazis out of La Gleize, three miles west of Stavelot, taking 200 prisoners and wrecking or seizing 15 tanks.

Farther east the Germans lost bloodily in a vicious Christmas Eve assault on the U.S. line near Bullingent, but failed to gain.

The American losses were running high, but so were the Germans'. One field dispatch said a full German tank division had been wiped out in the Stavelot area. Maj. O. S. Sonesifer of Harrisburg, Pa., declared: "We have given the German panzers their worst beating since the Argentan Gap debacle" in Normandy, when the 1st Canadian Army sprang a trap on the enemy with a drive from Caen to Falaise.

The Germans dropped parachutists near Stavelot and Beauraing intent on disrupting Allied communications, but all were wiped out.

The counter-assault along the 25-mile southern flank was striking heavily toward Bastogne, and against the Echternach shoulder of the Nazi bulge. Gains of one to three miles were reported in 24 hours up to Christmas morning.

Fierce Fighting

There was fierce fighting around American-captured Chaumont just west of the Arlon-Bastogne Road, and infantry were gouging out gains east of the road. They pressed north of Bigonville, cleared Arsdorf, and pushed close to Neuenhausen two miles farther Northeast.

A few miles farther east there were Allied gains near recaptured Heiderscheid, eight miles west of Diekirch. German attacks were repulsed at Heiderscheid and at Kehmen three miles northeast.

In other advances south and east of Diekirch, American troops took Mostroff, four miles south of Vianden where the enemy originally broke across the Luxembourg border in the Bastogne drive. Mostroff is nine miles northwest of Echternach.

Elsewhere on the Western Front, German patrols were active along the Meuse River in Holland. Patrols were active on the United States 7th Army front near Wissembourg and along the Rhine.

(Berlin reported Schiesseck Fort of the Maginot Line north of Bitche in the 7th Army front had been recaptured by the Germans, with Bundenthal seven miles northwest of Wissembourg also retaken.)

The Allies yesterday sent out more than 4,000 planes, some 600 of which directed their blows at sealing off the battle bulge in the rear line rather than in frontline attack.

For this reason, officers at headquarters said, the full effect of air blows may not begin to be felt heavily on the actual frontline for 48 hours or more.

Plane Is Delayed To Let Smith Shave

REGINA, Dec. 26 (CP)—Trans-Canada Air Lines last night delayed a transcontinental plane en route to Vancouver for 10 minutes to enable Canada's newest Victoria Cross winner Pte. Ernest Alvia (Smokey) Smith—time to shave off a couple of day's growth of beard.

And while he shaved, Pte. Smith reminisced with a former overseas buddy in the Seaforth Highlanders, Gordon Cameron, now a Regina newspaper reporter. Cameron was honorably discharged recently after four years overseas service.

Asked how it felt to hold up a horde of Germans and their armor almost single handed, Smith said "I thought my number was up, but there's no use in going alone. You might as well take a few along with you."

Other than that, he declined to comment on the action at the Savio bridgehead in Italy for which he was awarded the V.C.

Canadian Units Take Rossetta

ROME, Dec. 26 — (AP). — Canadian units of the British 8th Army, thrusting out from their firmly-held Naviglio Canal bridgehead, have captured Rossetta, 5¼ miles north-northeast of fallen Bagnacavallo, and pushed past it to within two miles of Alfonsine, next important road junction in the path of their advance along the Adriatic.

Today's Allied communique also reported all "German resistance east of the canal now was "virtually at an end."

The Canadian advance came over ground that had been blanketed by a heavy Christmas snowfall which reduced action reported on the 8th Army front yesterday to probing enemy positions.

In their advance on Rossetta the men of Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' 1st Canadian Corps encountered thick German mortar and machine-gun fire. Rossetta lies 10 miles northwest of Ravenna which fell to the Canadians Dec. 4. A little more than two miles beyond it lies Alfonsine on the Ravenna-Ferrara highway.

There was no report today of actions by British and Polish units of the 8th Army, which yesterday were reported capturing Pievo Di Cesato, five miles northeast of Faenza, and patrolling across the Senio River, respectively.

Only patrol activity was reported today from the Allied 5th Army front in central Italy.

Canadians Greet Hun Request With Barrage

By DOUGLAS AMARON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY IN HOLLAND, Dec. 26 (CP) —Withering mortar fire was the reply French-speaking troops of Gen. Crerar's army gave a German request for a Christmas truce as the Canadians spent their first Christmas of this war in action in Western Europe.

The enemy broadcast his request over a public address system along a sector of the front near the Netherlands-German sector Christmas Eve and followed it with a recording of "Silent Night."

"The boys waited until the music ended and then replied with mortars," Sgt. Ned Ozimblowsky of Montreal said.

At another sector of the front manned by troops of a Highland battalion from Eastern Canada the enemy played carols, and a Western Highland unit were serenaded with a guttural version of "O Canada." There was no music in the Canadian response.

For Canadians standing guard across the flooded rivers of southern Holland and in the forests of the German frontier region, it was a Christmas of contrasts.

There were festivities almost similar to those enjoyed earlier in the war when the men still were in training in Britain, and there were cold vigils in no man's land where the night was neither silent nor holy.

Christmas morning was clear and crisp, but without snow.

Strict curfew regulations had been relaxed Christmas Eve to allow the men to attend midnight masses and carol services.

The men in the lines had to eat field rations but in rear areas a sample menu included tomato soup, meat pie, turkey, mashed potatoes, peas, fruit salad, plum pudding, frosted cake and coffee.

Padres spent the hours of darkness early Christmas Day visiting Canadians holding isolated outposts which cannot be approached in daylight.

The signals office in the basement of a Netherlands house was seasonably decorated with streamers twigs from fir trees and colored ornaments bought here or received from home. There was a Christmas tree in the corner of the room and a spotlight played on a Christmas wreath on the wall. Artificial flowers bloomed in pots made from bully beef tins.

Some of the signals staff who celebrated Christmas at a party there were: Sgt. Ozimblowsky, Cpls. Bill Lamb, Brantford, Ont., Joe Kereluk, Niagara Falls, Ont., L. Cpl. Bill Trudel of Detroit and Windsor Ont., and Pte. Bill White, Kendal, Ont. The battalion commander was the guest of honor at the party.

Soldiers behind the lines really began their Christmas celebrations last week with regimental dances, parties and shows. Messes were decorated and Christmas trees trimmed, the trees being lighted in some cases with real tree lights.

King Broadcasts Cheerful Yule Message

LONDON, Dec. 26 —(CP)—In a Christmas message broadcast to the world, King George declared yesterday that "the lamps which the Germans put out all over Europe, first in 1914 and then in 1939, are being slowly rekindled."

"Already we can see some of them beginning to shine through the fog of war that still shrouds so many lands," His Majesty said.

King George broadcast from a Christmas fireside, where he said "The Queen and I and our daughters, are fortunate enough to be spending a Christmas at home."

In a message of hope and good cheer, he said:

"Anxiety is giving way to confidence, and let us hope that before next Christmas day, God willing, the story of liberation and triumph will be complete."

Looking ahead to post-war problems, he said that "labor and devotion, patience and tolerance, will still be needed for the experiment of living as nations in harmony."

"The defeat of Germany and Japan is only the first half of our task. The second is to create a world of free men, 'untouched by tyranny.'"

"We have great allies in this arduous enterprise of human spirit—man's 'unconquerable mind and freedom's holy flame.' I believe most surely that we shall reach that goal."

In one passage of his eight-minute speech from the royal fire-side, the King said: "We long for a new birth of freedom and order among all nations so that happiness and concord may prevail and the scourge of war may be banished from our midst."

This was the first time the King had broadcast his Christmas message in the presence of the Queen and Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret Rose. They sat around the microphone, making it a cosy family occasion in the country.

The King, with his family had returned from church services, went on the air following the BBC Christmas program without previous announcement.

The King's speech was preceded by a recorded broadcast from a front-line British Tommy in Germany, Cpl. Robert Bruce Pass, a former window cleaner, who was given the place of honor on the program. Cpl. Pass told his home folk over the radio "We are fighting the weather as well as Hitler. We are in Germany our face toward Berlin. Good luck, London, good luck Britain."

In a reference to the empire, he said "Throughout the empire, men and women, boys and girls through hard work and much self sacrifice have all helped to bring victory nearer. We have shared many dangers and the common effort has bound us together."

Cavan Township Votes January 1

MILLBROOK, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—Although the Reeve and Deputy-Reeve of Cavan township have been returned to office by acclamation, there will be an election for councillors on New Year's Day, as a result of the week-end nominations.

John Smith was returned as reeve and Harold Cathcart is continuing to serve as deputy-reeve, since Robert Armstrong and Joe Thorne failed to qualify. Six men, three of the present council, and three new ones will seek election. They are: Joe Thorne, Richard Earle and Robert Armstrong, who have handled township affairs for 1944, and Delbert Olan, Norman Earle and S. C. Boyle.

Children Of 14 Years Working In Factories

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26 —(ENS)— Mrs. Jessie M. Runions, who with her two children, Brian and Peter, arrived recently from England to stay in Canada, reports an uneventful crossing.

In her home town of Brockham, Surrey, the people are now seasoned to the robot bombing, and continue their ordinary vacations regardless of the terrible damage caused by the explosions, she declared. Children of 14 years of age go right to work in the factories as only very few men are left. They having enlisted all the boys of 18 are in the army, and nobody has any doubt of the outcome of the present war.

Mrs. Runions, whose husband Pte. Bill Runions was killed in Italy, October 27, 1943, with her two boys intends to stay in Canada. Her parents and brothers and sisters are also planning to come over after the war.

Rork Ferguson Reeve Of Norwood For 1945

NORWOOD, Dec. 26—(ENS)—Although there was a stormy nominations meeting Friday at Norwood, some of the nominees failed to qualify by Saturday night and the old council was returned by acclamation. The 1945 council is: Reeve, Rork Ferguson; councillors, W. Bitten, E. Munro, B. Lochead and W. Kavanagh. John Nixon, who was nominated refused to stand.

RETIRES—Reeve Lewis Kelly of Hastings, who has retired after 15 years on the village council which culminated in his election to the wardenship of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

Super Molteds

DENVER, Dec. 26 — (CP). — A drugstore customer sipped his malted milk speculatively. Then he gulped, raised his eyebrows and asked hopefully for "another one, just like the first." Presently he left the store, returned with a friend. Trade ballooned. Too late the sad proprietor found that his dairyman had left a Christmas jug of eggnogs — generously laced with rum—and that a clerk had poured it in the milk dispenser.

Burleigh Scholars Present Concert

MOUNT JULIAN, Dec. 26 (ENS)—In spite of the zero weather conditions and deep snow the concert put on by the pupils of S.S. No. 1A Burleigh, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs William Church, was well attended on Thursday evening.

Ottis Northey was chairman for the evening. A song of welcome by Grades III and IV was followed by an address of welcome by Ethel Northey. Two choruses "Noel," and "The Lord of Love Is Born," were rendered by the school girls.

Recitations were given by Russel Booth, Mary Ellen Fowler, and Clarence Lindsay. Dialogues were: "Uncle Hiram's Cold," "Abe Lincoln's Kindness," "The Lonely Man," and "Jenny Waits Up." A comedy dance, the Highland Fling, and a tap dance were three dance numbers by June, Daphne, Dorothy and Ethel Northey, and Marie and Joan Wilson. Other items were trio with guitar accompaniment, June, Daphne and Dorothy Northey. Duets by Marvel and Joan Wilson, Ethel Northey and Marie Wilson, both with guitar accompaniment by Marie Wilson, followed later by a solo from Marie Wilson.

The year's financial report of the Junior Red Cross was read by their secretary, donations made to the local branch of the Red Cross, and the British War Victims' Fund, with a good balance on hand. This and the proceeds of the concert will provide hot lunches for the school children during the winter.

Tickets were drawn on a Christmas cake, which went to Jack Young of Young's Point, and box of candy, which went to William T. Northey.

A well laden Christmas tree provided gifts for all the children, and topped off a very enjoyable evening.

Bensfort Scholars Present Concert

BENSFORT, Dec. 26 — (ENS). — The Bensfort annual S.S. Concert was held in the church basement on Wednesday night, with the superintendent George Beebe as chairman. Programs were given by pupils of Bensfort S.S. No. 4, Brick S.S. No. 3 and Lakeview S.S. No. 2, under the direction of the teachers, Miss Edith Cook, Mrs. Lawrence and Miss Katharine Morton. The dialogues, drills, recitations, choruses, solos, etc., were splendidly given by the children and enjoyed by all present.

At the close of the program Santa Claus arrived and distributed the many gifts from the Christmas tree. Proceeds amounted to $11.40.

School Concert.

On Thursday evening, Miss K. Morton and her six pupils of Lakeview school presented their program in the school. Mr. Charles Barnard, trustee, acted as chairman. Recitations were given by Ethel Perrin, Marilyn Barnard, Shirley Beebe and Donald Fisher. A duet "Away in a Manager" was sung by Shirley Beebe and Ethel Perrin. Four juniors gave a folk dance. Songs and carols by the six pupils completed the program. This was followed by twelve games of bingo for which prizes were given. The lucky door prize went to Mrs. Alan Dawson. Santa arrived at the close much to the delight of the children.

Personals.

Council Given Acclamation

PORT HOPE, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—The mayor and council of 1944 were given a complimentary pass to 1945 municipal government when all were returned by acclamation. Seven were nominated for council on Friday night but by the time the period for qualification was up on Saturday night, only six had qualified and these were all members of the 1944 council. The additional nominee for council was W. Moore. The personnel for next year are as follows:

Mayor — Charles Stephenson; reeve, Len Moncrief; deputy-reeve, Gene Sanders; council, William Austin, W. C. McElroy, William Thompson, W. R. Jex, D. McGillis and H. Mitchell; school trustees, Reid Budge, Ward 1; John Tweed, Ward 2 and J. Laurie, Ward 3; water commissioner, William Bissett; Hydro commissioner Harry Rosevear, all acclamations.

Omemee Reeve Back In Office

OMEMEE, Dec. 26—(ENS)—There will be no elections in Omemee or the township of Emily this year as the old councils were returned by acclamation, when nominees failed to qualify by 9 o'clock Saturday night.

Continuing as Omemee Reeve for 1945 is John Bent and councillors are Harry Deyell, Norman Ruttle, W. Downing, Floyd Parsons. The school board is made up of Howard Bent, Charles Mills and Clem Parks and on the Hydro Commission are William Douglas and Cecil Jones.

The Township of Emily has returned Paul McGuire as reeve and councillors are Vincent Fee, Thomas Morrissey, Milton J. Thurston and George Magee.

Flier Killed

KINCARDINE, Ont., Dec. 26 —(CP)—The body of an R.C.A.F. pilot whose plane crashed early on Saturday, was recovered in a small creek in Huron township later in the day, police here said yesterday. Search for the flyer started at dawn Saturday after his plane crashed and exploded on the property of Alfred Pollock. Next-of-kin have been notified and the pilot's name will be released shortly.

Mayor F. F. Long Returned By Acclamation

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 26 (ENS)—There will be no election in the town of Campbellford on New Year's day for Mayor F. F. Long was returned by acclamation for his 11th year of service and the remainder of the council was also acclaimed Mayor Long has the most lengthy term of service of any Campbellford mayor.

The 1944 deputy reeve, H. M. Fowlds has been named as reeve, H. Donald, deputy reeve and the new councillors are W. J. Callaghan, F. W. Burgess and Oscar Mason. These three men replaced Bert Taylor, W. Brady and F. A. Macoun, who are retiring.

At the meeting of the electors held in the Masonic Temple to nominate candidates the following nominations wre filed:

For Mayor—F. F. Long. Reeve—P. McMillan, H. M. Fowlds. Deputy-reeve—H. McDonald, H. M. Fowlds. Councillors—P. McMillan, K. Bound, H. Burgess, H. J. Taylor, William Brady, Grant Anderson, H. McDonald, F. G. Macoun, Roy Bell, Oscar Mason, W. J. Callaghan. Water and E. L. Commission—James Benor. Public School Trustees—Dr. H. O. Richardson, H. McArthur, J. A. Irvin.

The clerk of the town, Mr. J. F. McGregor, acted as chairman and called the nominees to the platform. Mayor Long stated that this would be his 11th term as mayor. He thanked the electors for this acclamation. Through these years the progress of the town has been steady and though there have been additional expenses this year the town came through with a balanced budget. Ten years ago the financial condition was low. Now the people can take advantage of these years of saving. Deputy-reeve Fowlds reviewed the financial undertakings of the town.

MAYOR F. F. LONG

Councillor Donald, chairman of the road and bridge committee gave a review of his department, the sewers laid, the snow ploughs purchased, the hospital question, with funds on hand of $650.

Mr. J. O. Benor, chairman of the water and light commission reported a splendid surplus in the public utilities.

Mr. A. J. Armour, the chairman of the Board of Education, gave a statement of his department particularly in regard to the new legislation.

Councillors Roy Bell, E. Anderson and other members of the council gave detailed statements of their several departments.

Motor Car Parts Restriction Lifted

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 — (CP). — The Munitions Department announced on Saturday a new motor vehicle order which permits the manufacture of a wider range of motor car replacement parts, although producers still must give preference to war orders.

The new order retains inventory restrictions and priority arrangements whereby distributors may obtain parts for emergency repairs of essential vehicles.

2 Children Die Of Food Poisoning

VICTORIA Dec. 26 — (CP). — British Columbia Provincial Police said here investigation had indicated that Harold Hewitt, 5, and Martin Hewitt, 3, of Soatum, B.C., 350 miles east of here had died last week from an acute case of colitis. A post-mortem revealed they had died from inflammation of the bowels and police believed food poisoning had been the cause.

Two other members of the Hewitt family are ill, but physicians said they were recovering.

Christmas Concert

BETHANY, Dec. 26.—(ENS). — The teachers of the Bethany school joined forces and put on a Christmas concert, which was concluded with gifts from a decorated tree. Allan Beer took the part of Santa Claus. The program opened with a recitation of welcome by Bobbie Ryley. There were choruses and folk dances by senior girls and juniors.

Kiwanis Club Gives Candy To Children

COBOURG, Dec. 26.—(ENS). — Through the kindness of Cobourg Kiwanis Club, local children were given candy at the Christmas tree in front of the town hall on Saturday with Rex Fleming officiating for Santa Claus. About 900 bags of candy were handed out to the children by Santa, who was perched up on the fire truck. In addition the Kiwanis Club took candy to St. Joseph's Orphanage, the Counties Home and the Girls' Training School in Cobourg and also sent up a supply to the Children's Shelter in Port Hope.

The origin of the candy is a bit involved. Last spring the Agriculture committee of Cobourg Kiwanis, of which Stan Fisher is chairman and the other members are Jerry Eagleson of Cobourg and Charlie McGuire of Colborne, gave out baby chicks of pure bred stock to district farmers in return for which the Kiwanis club received a number of roosters. These roosters were disposed of at bingo gatherings and money thus raised was used to buy the candy which was given out here on Saturday.

No More Naming

PARIS, Dec. 26—(AP).—Gen. De Gaulle has called a halt to the practice of naming streets and squares for him. The Municipal Gazette carried a letter last week-end addressed to suburban mayor saying the compliment was appreciated but the general was opposed.

REEVE OF NORWOOD — Rork Ferguson and the 1944 Council of Norwood were returned by acclamation, following the nominations held Friday night. Mr. Ferguson has been serving in this capacity for several years.

Seymour Township Holds Nominations

CAMPBELLFORD, Dec. 27. —(ENS).— Three of the four men nominated for reeve in Seymour township have withdrawn leaving Frank Lee as reeve for 1945, replacing William Rowe, and the remainder of the council has been returned by acclamation.

The new deputy-reeve, M. Wight replaces William Duncan and two of the old councillors and one new man will be administering the municipal affairs of the township for the coming year. They are William Duncan and W. A. Rowe (1944 council) and Alfred Bennett.

At the nomination meeting, Wm. Rowe, W. J. Duncan, Frank Lee, M. Wight were nominated for Reeve. Wm. Duncan, Frank Lee, Alfred Bennett, M. Wight for Deputy-Reeve and W. Duncan, M. Wight, Alf Bennett, Wm. Rowe and Albert Stephens for Councillors. Reeve Rowe, after reviewing the work done by the council for the year, expressed the wish for an acclamation to the incoming council. The Deputy-Reeve and Councillors gave statements of the several departments. Wesley Stephens, the township clerk, was chairman.

Hirohito Says War Critical For Japanese

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 26 (AP)—Emperor Hirohito's rescript read today at the formal opening of the 86th regular session of the Japanese Diet, warned "the war situation is becoming more critical."

The broadcast of his message, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, urged that his subjects "truly devote their total effort to repel the enemy."

The Emperor praised the Japanese Army and Navy for "destroying the powerful enemy," and was quoted:

"While the war situation in greater East Asia progresses daily, the alliances with our friendly nations are also being further solidified.

"We expect to see an early accomplishment of the objective of this sacred war."

The Emperor called upon his ministers to "submit the budget draft plans for the fiscal year 1945 and for extraordinary military expenditures."

Tomorrow the Diet will hear reports from Army and Navy Ministers and then recess until after Jan. 1, earlier broadcasts said.

TUESDAY, DECEMBER 26, 1944

Boxing Day

It has long been the custom in Great Britain and in Canada also to observe the day after Christmas as a holiday. There is an obvious advantage in this; the excitement and the unwonted feasting on Christmas Day unfit many people — either emotionally or physically — for effective work on the day after, and of course there are those who have worked so hard in the fortnight before Christmas that they really need an extra holiday in which to recover themselves. But why is the day called Boxing Day?

So far as we have been able to discover, it is because it used to be the custom to give a present to all servants and dependents on this day, and it was contained in a parcel or box. We continue the custom in the presents we make to the postmen, and the carrier-boys, and others who have attended to our needs throughout the year; the present in these days is usually of money, but the old name of 'Christmas-box' persists.

Boxing Day is also the Feast of St. Stephen, in the Christian calendar, and everybody who has ever sung a Christmas carol knows that it was upon this day that good King Wenceslas looked out, saw the poor man, called his page and walked through the storm to carry food and wine to him. Wenceslas was a real king of Bohemia, who died in 1419, and although there seems to be no historical ground for the act of kindness ascribed to him in the carol, it agrees perfectly with his character, which was charitable and noble. There used to be a statute of Wenceslas in Prague, but we do not know if it still stands. Perhaps the Nazis have torn it down; Wenceslas was not one of their kind.

Waste Paper And Shortages

At present we suffer from a shortage of books for High School students, because there is no paper upon which to print them: we also suffer from a surfeit of governmental and political publications. Would it not be intelligent to cut down on the hand-outs and the propaganda, and divert paper to the publishers of school-books? Undoubtedly it would.

But we learn that the governmental and political publications are entitled to a considerable ration of paper because they are "educational". This description may be justified in some degree, but we do not think that they are so directly educational that they rank above necessary school text-books. Both the major political parties publish papers, or sheets, which are simply party propaganda, and they range in size from a single page to sixteen pages; these publications are put out both by the Dominion and provincial organizations of the Liberal and Conservative parties, and they must use a considerable bulk of paper in the course of a year. Most of the government bureaux send out great quantities of printed and mimeographed material, and the Wartime Information Board publishes extensively; vast quantities of this governmental printing goes into wastepaper baskets unread, because it is unreadable, or because it tells the public something which it has already learned from the press, or because the recipients simply have no time to read it. It ought to be possible to make a considerable saving of paper on publications of this political and propagandist type.

A shortage of text-books which makes it necessary for two pupils to work from a single book is a great nuisance and a decided handicap to education. The needs of educational publishers should certainly rank higher than the needs of party propagandists and departmental publicity agents. We might mention also that it has become the custom for executives of large business houses who are going to give an address to a service club or some similar organization to send copies of what they intend to say to all the principal newspapers; sometimes they send not only a full text, but an abridged text as well. It is not often that these speeches are important enough to justify so much advance trumpeting, and they use up a lot of paper which could be better employed.

In fact, there seems to be no serious shortage of paper, but there is a serious misuse of what is available.

New President Of Bank Of Commerce

The Canadian Bank of Commerce has made changes in its leadership recently which are of general interest: Sir Thomas White has retired as chairman of the board of directors, and has been suceeded by Mr. S. H. Logan, formerly president of the Bank; Mr. Logan, in turn, is succeeded by Mr. Allan E. Arscott, C.B.E., as administrative head of the institution.

This will be a matter for satisfaction, but hardly for surprise, among Mr. Arscott's large circle of friends. He began as a junior clerk with the Bank of Commerce some forty years ago, and since then his promotions have been as regular as clockwork; he has gone from the bottom to the top, and as he began with no advantage save his native ability, and as this ability has been put at the service of this Dominion many times, we assert that it was ability, and nothing else, which was responsible for his honourable career. It is sometimes said, nowadays, that Canada has ceased to be a land of opportunity; we have never noticed that opportunity neglects men of unusual capacity in the financial world.

The world of finance has always been closely associated with the world of government, and this will always be so, for governments cannot operate without money and without financial advice. Even if the banks of the future should be 'socialized' there will still be a need for bankers, and for men who know what money can do and how it may be obtained. Bankers today have an important place in the working of the state, although they are not servants of the state.

No banker today can work contrary to the interests of the state without endangering his own bank; a banker is a financial statesman. Of course, there are stupid bankers just as there are stupid statesmen, and both are calamities from which every country must pray to be spared. But the nationalization of the banks would not limit the number of stupid bankers; indeed, it might have a contrary effect, for a head of a private bank must deliver the goods or be ruined, whereas the state official is better able to cover his tracks. Mr. Arscott offers us an excellent example of a wise banker who has served both his bank, and the state, well.

We hope that Mr. Arscott will remain in his new position for many years, and that it will bring him much pleasure, as well as the inescapable hard work and responsibility.

Farming News and Views

By HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE southern part of Ontario got a good fall of snow. Above Orillia there was very little and this was also true of the north half of Bruce and Grey while at Halifax, Nova Scotia, there was none. The Maritimes usually get a good supply. How Toronto shrieked about the storm, for which they had no preparations. Getting ready for emergencies doesn't seem to be a habit with a good many humans. Farmers were as well prepared as anyone, their greatest difficulty being in getting milk to market, but in the main th cities had a good supply. To have things snug about farm buildings and plenty of feed at hand for the beasts is a comfort on a farm and few people prepare more carefully for winter. The fall wheat and clover fields are under a fine blanket at present, practically no frost in the ground, and when the snow melts it will remain in the land which is dry enough to absorb it.

I HAD a call the other day from Robert Carlyle who, with his brother William, farms near Blackfalds in Alberta. Both these young men are graduates in Agriculture of the University of Alberta, and are applying to the land the knowledge they gained there. They farm in the Blindman River Valley and have good black land, running to black sand, which, of course, is sand containing humus enough to colour it.

These young men have kept away from wheat and are making beef and bacon hogs their chief marketable products. They keep twenty-five breeding sows, all purebred Yorkshires and cross them with Tamworth boars. Alberta is the province of sunshine and is hard on white pigs. It is possible for Yorkshires to get covered with scabs from sunburn, but these boys give shade to their breeding sows, and they find that the pigs bred from this cross have tougher skins, though all white, and suffer much less from the sun. They are very enthusiastic about this cross. I asked Bob what about people breeding from these cross-breds? His reply was that to use a Tam boar on these cross-bred sows would get spotted pigs, and as there is an objection to seedy bacon from black or red pigs a discount on such coloured bacon hogs would stop the continued cross-breeding.

This young farmer says that sun scalding becomes worse when you have a lot of growing pigs running together, and this first cross of Tam on York eliminates it to a large extent.

These boys are running a bunch of Angus cows and crossing them with a white Shorthorn bull. The idea is to make baby beef of the heifer calves and run the steers over to sell as two-year-olds. They have 800 acres of land with some additional rented for pasture. Bob Carlyle made this trip East to visit some boyhood friends in Dundas County, but also to learn something of farming and livestock breeding. He visited the Ottawa Experimental Farm, but the snowstorm prevented him going to the O.A.C. at Guelph. These young men are sons of S. G. Carlyle, formerly Livestock Commissioner in Alberta, now a farmer outside of Edmonton and Secretary of the Alberta Holstein Breeders Association.

THE English "Farmer and Stockbreeder" says that the only livestock which, unaided by subsidy or ministerial pleading, prodding or propaganda, has shown an increase during the war years is the goose. The numbers of geese in 1939 were 715,000 and they have now risen to 905,000. This large increase in numbers is said to be due to the fact that the goose has been rediscovered, as a bird that can turn grass into meat at less expense than any other grazer. It only requires hand feeding for a short period after being hatched, and again near killing time. It will make its growth entirely on grass and small potatoes, cooked, are found excellent for the greater part of the fattening food. Geese have been raised in large numbers on the continent and "geese herders" are frequently seen in charge of flocks.

There have generally been quite a large acreage of unenclosed land about an English town, usually held by some speculator until it is wanted for industrial purposes. A common such as this furnished a good pasture for a flock of geese and as they had "free run" the cost of growing the geese was not very great. When such a common was taken up by a building boom, a local rhymster was constrained to say:

"Tis bad enough in man or woman
To steal a goose from off a common;
But surely he's without excuse
Who steals a common from the goose."

THE goose was one of our first Christmas dinners before turkeys were raised in Ontario, and "roast goose" makes a very fine feast. There was only one objection I ever heard, that it was too greasy, and of course goose grease often made a poultice to cure croup, and it also did a swell job in greasing top boots. A pair of calf-skin boots could be made soft as a glove and water-proof with frequent applications of goose grease.

On our farm in Alberta we learned from a Chinese cook how to serve roast goose without any grease to trouble you. A Chinaman always prefers a goose to a turkey, and his taste is good at that. A turkey may easily be too dry and a goose is far ahead of it for flavour. The Chinese method of cooking is to put the goose in a quite hot oven to roast for a half an hour. Have a kettleful of boiling water, and it must be boiling, and taking our your roasting pan, pour the boiling water over the bird treating it thoroughly with the steaming water. Then pour out of the roasting pan all the hot water and grease into a basin. Replace the roasting pan in the oven and cook for another half hour and repeat the performance. After this continue the roasting until the bird is cooked. You will find the excessive greasiness has disappeared with no loss of flavour, and you will have "roast goose" par excellence which is not to be despised. The goose grease can be rescued from each lot of boiling water by methods well known to all who perform the many arts and mysteries of the kitchen.

HALF-AND-HALF

One of the newspaper classics concerns the small-town paper that was conducting a vigorous campaign against the town council. One of their stories carried this headline: "Half The Town Council Are Crooks." Immediately an avalanche of criticism descended on the newspaper so the editor promised that he would run an apology. The next day the daily carried this headline: "Half The Town Council Are Not Crooks."

NO BACK SLIDING THIS TIME!

Britain At War

(By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES)

THERE are two or three problems in Britain at the present time, which are, perhaps, felt The first is food, the second is transportation, more acutely in London than anywhere else. and the third is heat. Luckily it was mild in London while I was there. In fact it was very mild for late November and early December. I was glad I had brought a light fall overcoat with me. For that reason it was quite comfortable in hotels and clubs. Had it been cold, however, it would have been different, for the radiators are kept barely warm in the hotels, and the same applies to clubs. Fuel is strictly rationed, and so is food. In a first-class hotel one is offered a menu (in French of course) on which are many things. But the customer is allowed only three things: Hors d'oeuvres, or soup, meat or fish, and a sweet or a savoury. The controlled price for this is 5s. But of course one does not get it for 5s. I discovered that in the hotels a "house charge" of as high as 6s per person is allowed; in clubs for guests it is 2s 6d. Add small coffees at 2s per person, and 42s for a bottle of Sauterne, and the bill mounts up fast. However, it was good French pre-war Sauterne and it was worth it. The food in the London hotels, clubs and restaurants is surprisingly good. The restaurants serve a very nice and fairly substantial after-theatre dinner for about 8s 6d, i.e., if you can discover a restaurant open.

◇ ◇ ◇

TRANSPORTATION is a real problem. Taxis are few and far between, and at the rush hours it is quite impossible to get one. Still if one stands on the curb and yells "Taxi" loud enough and long enough a taxi usually comes along from somewhere. That, of course, is in the day time in the busier parts of the west end. After dark it is a hopeless business and most people either walk or go by the underground. The underground is fast and very cheap, and after one gets acquainted with its ramifications it is very simple. But one must be agile. That is a prime requisite. Also a good heart is needed. For all the stations are not equipped with escalators, and speaking from experience I can say that in some the stairs are steep and long. Train travel is difficult but not unpleasantly so. Trains are running pretty well on time, and while it is necessary sometimes to stand in the corridor from one large station to another, after awhile, as on the Canadian main lines, people find a seat somewhere. One of the great problems of London is night transportation. Arriving at a London station after dark with a couple of bags presents a real difficulty. There are often no taxis, and the only thing to do is to lug the bags down to the underground and make kept in mind, and that is that what is but a the best of things. One thing must always be temporary discomfort to a Canadian over here on a brief visit, the British people have been accommodating themselves to without a murmur for more than five years. Rail transportation is easing off, however. I had a chat with an inspector on Paddington station on what seemed to be a very busy Saturday morning. He asured me it was an easy morning, but he was dreading the Christmas holidays. "We have terrible crowds at holiday time," he said, "but they are all good natured and put up with what we can give them." I asked him about the big posters "Is your journey really necessary?" He laughed heartily. "Too many people write 'Yes' on them, in big letters," he said, as if it was quite a joke.

THE theatres go in at 6.30 and come out shortly after nine. As there is still a very decided "black-out" in London, it is well to know where one is going ahead of time, and just how to get there. A flashlight is still a very necessary article in London. I went to the badly-scarred Palace Theatre in Shaftesbury Avenue, with three other Canadians to see Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge in "Something in the Air." I had a vague idea where it was, when I booked, but on my way to Foyle's Bookshop in Charing Cross Road in the afternoon, I spotted it, so had no difficult in finding it later in the day, even though it was quite dark. There is some lighting in London now—a small light high up, shaded from the top about every three blocks. These lights are not really of much use, but they are better than nothing at all. All hotel entrances and rooms are still blacked out every night, which makes London a pretty dismal place as compared to the piping days of peace.

THE Jack Hulbert show was excellent entertainment, sparkling from start to finish with one of the best choruses I have either seen or heard in a long time. Jack Hulbert and Cicely Courtneidge are a remarkable couple. They seem to have the spirit of eternal youth. I hope the story told to me between the acts by a Londoner, that this is their last show together is not true. London will hardly be London without them. A good story is going the rounds about Jack Hulbert. He is apparently a sergeant or something in the Home Guard and was on duty at an exhibition not long ago, to which a very distinguished lady accompanied her very distinguished husband. As they were going along, so the story goes, the very distinguished lady turned to her very distinguished husband and said "My how much that man on duty there reminds me of Jack Hulbert." "I am not surprised," said her V.D.H., "for it is Jack."

◇ ◇ ◇

THEATRELAND seems to be doing well. As I went along Shaftesbury Avenue, I noticed the usual queues, waiting for the doors to the galleries to open. The longest queue I saw however, during my stay in London, was a block long and three deep. It was outside Yardley's in Bond Street. Whether it was lipstick or rouge, or some special kind of face cream that was on sale I do not know, but the fair sex were lined up, patiently waiting. I joined a queue in a high-class stationery store on Bond St., just out of curiosity. It was inside the store, and reached from the door to the counter at the far end. Nothing happened for about five minutes, and then a man appeared to wait on the lady at the head of the line. As he did so, he announced "If any of your want diaries there are not any left, and we shall not have any more." Three-quarters of the queue faded away quickly.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE Conscription issue in Canada created great interest over here. All the papers have covered it more or less fully, and "News Review" the "Time," of Britain had an excellent review of the situation. Some newspapers had editorial comment, but most of them refrained from expressing an opinion. Those which I saw expressed the hope that whatever the result it would not impair Canadian unity. What Canada has done, is highly appreciated over here, and the British people are loud in their praises of the navy, the army and the air force. One hears much praise, too, with regard to our production, and the foodstuffs we have sent over. The ration here is very limited, but one hears no grumbling. All are looking forward to the lifting of the restrictions, which they hope will come shortly after the war ends. As to that date few will make any predictions.

What Produces Men Like Mr. Churchill

When Winston Churchill stood before the British Parliament to challenge his countrymen to accept his policy or dismiss him, he represented not only a political party, but a system of education based upon the humanities. He stated his principles, including a magnificent definition of democracy which shames the current adolescent palaver concerning the common man, and having set the guide-stones of the course, he gave his countrymen the choice of going on without him. He did not threaten. He did not purge. He did not smear. He did not assassinate character. He called in neither the police nor the soldiers. He spoke only of ideas, of procedures, of the evidence. He might have been lecturing a class on the battles of the Guelphs—it was as objective and impersonal as that.

It is the British system of education, based upon the humanities, which produces men like Churchill. The Germans deserted the humanities and developed into the most punctilious experts in the most minute fields and twice in a quarter of a century they have failed for all their skill and knowledge. The British for centuries have used broad-gauged philosophic types of men for leadership, men possessing, as a rule, no technical skills in any particular field and somehow they have managed to dominate the thinking and processes of the world.—(George E. Sokolsky, in the New York Sun).

A Bible Message

I saw in the night visions, and, behold, one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven and came to the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him. And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is an everlasting dominion which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed. (Dan. 7: 13, 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Grace and peace be multiplied unto you through the knowledge of God, and of Jesus our Lord, according as his divine power hath given unto us all things that pertain unto life and godliness through the knowledge of him that hath called us to glory and virtue: whereby are given unto us exceeding great and precious promises....

For we have not followed cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the power and coming of our Lord Jesus Christ, but were eyewitnesses of his majesty. For he received from God the Father honour and glory, when there came such a voice to him from the excellent glory. This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased.

And this voice which came from heaven we heard, when we were with him in the holy mount. We have also a more sure word of prophecy; whereunto ye do well that ye take heed, as unto a light that shineth in a dark place, until the day dawn, and the day star arise in your hearts. (II Pet., 1: 2-4, 16-19.)

Unconsidered Trifles

"I cannot understand", said the young man, "why you permit your daughter to sue me for breach of promise. You remember that you were bitterly opposed to our engagement, because you said I wasn't good enough for her and would disgrace your family".

"That, young man", said the girl's father, "was sentiment. This is business".

A certain man neglected his account with his laundress for months. Finally he found this note among his clean clothes:

"Dear Sir: You have owed me six dollars for four months. If you do not pay the whole by next week, I will put too much starch in your collars.

"Cordially, Mrs. Smith."

Off To Dingley Dell

As any well-read reader will readily recall, Mr. Pickwick and his friends, having waited atop the Muggleton coach while Mr. Weller and the guard refreshed themselves with a stirrup cup, finally pulled their coats round their legs and their shawls over their noses as the coach rumbled off through the streets, and jolted over the stones and at length reached the wide and open country, en route to Dingley Dell and the Christmas party.

That is a long sentence. But so is the life of Charles Dickens' "The Posthumous Papers of the Pickwick Club," which first began to appear in 1836. And "life" is the right word, because, as The Manchester Guardian sagely remarked a few weeks ago, "to the English reader, the immortal Pickwick is not a fiction out of a book; he is one of a number of famous English characters whose adventures and eccentricities are part of our own history." The observation, moreover, should not and can not be confined to the English.

The occasion of The Guardian's literary comment was the re-presentation of Messrs. Pickwick, Snodgrass, Winkle, Tupman, et al through a series of broadcasts by the British Broadcasting Corporation. "One's first thought on hearing of the broadcast," said The Guardian, "was that Pickwick had now got himself mixed up in an adventure in Broadcasting House.... He will be listening to the broadcast with profound interest, his friends around him, his notebook ready, and beside him, surely, a bowl of punch."

One evening recently, Mr. Pickwick got himself mixed up in still another radio adventure, one originating on this side of the Atlantic, to the great delight of all Dickensians. It was a seasonable occurrence, for, somehow, Pickwick and the bluff and hearty honesty, the hospitality, merriment and open-heartedness of Christmas go together, whether the time be gay and merry, or as at present.

Interest in the doings of Pickwick and his pals remains ever green, or as The Manchester Guardian also noted, "the man will not go inside the covers of the book; quixotic, ridiculous, benevolent, with his black gaiters, 'gigantic brain,' and beaming eye, he insists upon being alive." And that is a thoroughly good thing for just about everybody.—Brantford Expositor.

GOLDEN WEDDING—Mr. and Mrs. H. White, 594 Park street south, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on Christmas Day, and are holding their reception today, from two to four o'clock this afternoon, and eight to 10 o'clock this evening. Married in St. Mary's' Church, Kilburn, England, they have been in Peterborough for the past 32 years.

Observe Golden Wedding

Christmas has a doubly happy significance for Mr. and Mrs. H. White, 594 Park street south, who celebrate their wedding anniversary on that day, and who this year marked the fiftieth year of their marriage.

Residents of Peterborough for the past 32 years, they were married in St. Mary's Church, Kilburn, England. Mr. White, a former employee of the Quaker Oats Company, is now retired, and takes great pride in his hobby, gardening. Mrs. White, who was Henrietta Astor before her marriage, crochets for her pastime.

They have four children: Harry, who lives in Ottawa; Mrs. A. Clarke (Selina), whose home is in Brockville; Fred, who lives in Peterborough on McGill street; and Rose living at home. They are entertaining at a reception to-day for friends and relatives, at their home, from two to four o'clock this afternoon, and eigth to ten o'clock this evening.

Novel Decorations Feature I.O.D.E. Christmas Dance

Unusual and colorful decorations featured the annual Christmas dance of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., Monday evening in the Y.M.C.A. On either side of the platform, a beautiful snow scene was etched on a light blue background, flanking three wine-colored curtains. The balcony and walls were hung with fresh and spicy evergreens.

The most novel arrangement of the decorating committee, were the huge square pieces of cardboard, hung with evergreens, which were placed around the wall, each giving the complete guest list from every dance since 1939. Topping this display was a square marked "1944", which each guest was asked to autograph.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. A. S. MacRae and Miss Orma Lacheur, regent and first vice-regent of the Chapter, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and Mrs. Fraser, and Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Osborn. Music was provided by the Knights of Swing, and spot dance winners were Mr. and Mrs. W. Roberts and Miss Isobel Shearer and Ivan Pearson.

Miss Ruth Kingan headed the dance committee, assisted by Misses Orma Lacheur, Margaret Louden, Phyllis Coleman, Betty McDonald, Mrs. L. Craig and Mrs. J. King. Proceeds from this dance will be used for the war work of the Chapter.

Among those present were: Misses Mary Hickey, Alice Leether, Olive Murray, Jean Casey, Alma Hill, F. Wand, Eleanor Wilson, Jean Allison, Lenore Skitch, Dorothy Franks, Marian Brennan, Ruth Murray, Hilda Casey, Ruth Kingan, Barbara Hickey, Jean McCulloch, Noreen Fraser, Eleanore Chapman, Edythe Sanders, Helen Mathias, Dorothy Lipsett, Isobel Milliken, Margaret Louden, Phyllis Upper, Betty Estlick, Betty Middleton, Isabel Shearer, Linda Reed, Bertha Nichols, Ethel Smith, Betty McDonald, Kay Tully, Jeanne Tully, C. EVENING SHADOWS LENGTHEN—The dinner dress, long of skirt and short of sleeve, has received general acceptance and is the choice of many women who are of the opinion that things are not yet right for the gala evening dress. Many of the smartest models still adhere to side drapery, as is the case with this New York design. It is fashioned of gold crepe, with side drapery in gold and plum striped taffeta set ingenuously into the skirt. The surplice bodice slants to the waist and extends to a belt tied in back. A flange marks the shoulders of the graceful sleeve.

Brown—Stephenson

BETHANY, Dec. 26— (ENS). — A quiet wedding was solemnized at Columbus parsonage when Evelyn Pauline Stephenson, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stephenson of Bethany, was united in marriage to Clifford James Brown, only son of Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Brown of North Oshawa. Rev. Mr. Anderson officiated.

The bride was gowned in a street length powder blue crepe dress, with matching accessories, and she wore a corsage of pink and white carnations and fern.

The bridesmaid was Miss Winnie Matthews, who wore a dusty rose gown with matching accessories and a corsage of pink and white carnations.

The groom was attended by his cousin, Mr. Norman Woodward.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents, North Oshawa for 165 guests. The bride's mother, who was attired in a navy blue crepe two-piece suit with a corsage of sweet peas, received with the groom's mither, who wore a powder blue sheer dress and a corsage of sweet peas.

The young couple will make their home in North Oshawa.

Mr. Maguire is a brother of Larry L. Maguire, Charlotte street, and Mrs. S. J. Fanning, Burnham street, but has not lived in Peterborough for several years. His bride, the former Kathleen Kincaid, also formerly lived in Peterborough, and trained at Nicholls Hospital.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

Potatoes have become something more than just a vegetable, that must be served with meat, and other kinds of vegetables. Potatoes can be prepared today in so many different ways, and with so many other things, that you can serve them for the first course of any meal, and do not need to serve meat at all. Try the following recipes, and it will prove to you that what I have just said is correct.

Orange Candied Sweet Potatoes

1 cup orange juice, ½ teaspoon grated orange rind, 1 cup water, ½ cup sugar, 3 tablespoons light corn syrup, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ cup butter melted, 6 sweet potatoes. Wash, pare, and slice raw potatoes. Arrange in buttered baking dish. Combine other ingredients in order given, and pour over potatoes. Cover, bake in a moderate oven until tender, basting occasionally. Remove cover, and continue baking until potatoes are brown.

Orange Yams

4 yams, 1 cup orange juice, 1 teaspoon orange rind, ½ cup white sugar, ½ cup brown sugar, 1 tablespoon cornstarch, 2 tablespoons butter, salt, and pepper. Parboil yams in their jackets until almost done. (This can be done the day before.) Peel and cut in half, place in buttered baking dish. Combine sugars and cornstarch until completely blended, add orange juice, rind, butter, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil stirring constantly. Pour hot syrup over the yams, and bake for one hour at 350 degrees. Baste frequently.

Toasted Carrots

Roll whole cooked carrots in melted shortening, then in finely crushed cornflakes, seasoned with salt and pepper. Place under broiler at moderate heat turning frequently to brown even. These are nice served with either of the two recipes given for sweet potatoes.

DOROTHY DIX . . . . .

WOMEN GO COURTING NOW

Privilege of Popping the Question Becoming a Feminine Monopoly.

ONE of the curious by-products of the war is that it has given women the liberty to do the courting and pop the question. This is a result little foreseen by our soldiers and sailors when they started out to fight for global freedom, or else, perhaps, G. I. Joe would have been less enthusiastic about answering his country's call.

For one of the privileges of which the masculine sex always has felt that it had a monopoly was the right to take the initiative in love-making and to be the picker in marriage. And conversely it is the one advantage that men have over women that women have envied them most.

Just why this unequal state of affairs always has existed, nobody knows. For considering that the love motive is far more important in a woman's life than it is in a man's and that every wife is ten times as much married to her husband as he is to her, it is obviously only fair play for the woman to have priority in the selection of a mate.

Men Had the Choice

Such, however, has not been the case. It was the man who looked 'em over and took his choice, and all that the poor girl could do was to sit on the Anxious Seat and look willing. She had to do her wooing under cover in a devious and roundabout way, and only too often before she got her prospect interested in her sales talk, some girl, who was a faster worker, had gotten him.

But the war has changed all of that. It has blasted down the wall that shut women out of the matrimonial running and that forced them to take the kind of husbands they could get instead of the ones they wanted. Now no longer do girls cherish a secret passion. They institute a whirlwind courtship that sweeps their victims to the altar before they know what is happening to them, or to weep upon the breasts of the men they want until they melt down their resistance and get the wedding rings they are crying for.

That girls are doing the proposing now explains the vast number of furlough weddings that have swept the country like an epidemic. For it takes more sophistication and backbone that the average boy possesses to resist the cutie who is hellbent on marrying him, because all the other girls are getting married.

I get hundreds of letters from bewildered and tormented lads asking how they can make Sally or Mamie see that it is just plain common sense to wait until after the war and they see how they feel about each other then, before they get married, or why they can't make Arabella realize that they can't marry until they have some way of supporting a wife. The poor boys don't even have the technique of sidetracking the girls by telling them that they will be brothers to them, and they never seem to realize that they can say "no" and stick to it, when girls ask their hand in marriage.

All of which seems to indicate that when circumstances gave women the right to pop the question, it added one more danger to the dangers of war.

George Street Holds Carol Service

George Street United Church was illumined with the soft glow of candles on Christmas eve, for the annual candle-light Christmas carol service. The church was filled to capacity for this beautiful service.

Mrs. Noreen Lindsay, A.T.C.M., of Toronto, was a guest soloist, singing "O Holy Night" and other selections. Miss Margaret Semple, another guest, sang "Christmas Cradle Hymn." George Gatfield, violinist, played two solos, "Ave Maria" by Gounod, and "Meditation from Thais" by Massenet. Selections by the choir included "I Sing of a Maiden," "Myn Lyking," and "Ding Dong, Merrily on High." The processional hymn was "The First Noel," and the recessional was "Joy to the World," while the congregation joined in the singing of "Silent Night."

Rev. Dr. James Semple conducted the service, with Elizabeth Gallimore, A.T.C.M., as organist and musical director.

QUIZ FOR THE LAUNDRESS—Easy to say that this or that fabric washes well . . . but does it? Much depends, of course, on the laundress. Again, if a piece of goods doesn't fall completely apart in the suds, it is called a successful dunking. The lustrous rayon fabric used for these two frocks really washes well . . . even in the photograph you can see that they look identical . . . and the one to the left has been soap-washed and ironed. No drag, no dimming of lustre or color, no shrinking.—By Prunella Wood.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, December 27

ACCORDING to the dominant lunar transits this day may be memorable for the sudden development of strange situations, with unique possibilities for attaining some original, experimental or curious objectives or aspirations. It may involve surprising changes, public contacts, and enlarged scope for productive and progressive attainments, but these demand sober thought, shrewd study of ways and means for putting over ambitious propositions, and not flashes of ingenuity, intuition or any form of snap judgment. Slow but sure wins out.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are encouraged to give serious consideration and hard work to some cherished unusual, unique or curious ambition or desire in which much seems at stake. Sudden changes of environs, plans, etc., may develop surprising angles, in which those in power and authority may be concerned. A deep-seated urge to heed peculiar urges, intuitions, or other strange leads or impulses should be regulated by sound reasoning and well-thought-out plans, with organized processes and obligations, for most progressive and productive performance and gratifying results. Emotions call for regulation.

A child born on this day may possess unusual or unique talents and skills possibly of an artistic, poetic or scientific nature to which it may bring industry and sound judgment as well as intuitive or emotional impulses.

Providence Reds Win Two Games Over Holiday

(By The Canadian Press)

Providence Reds came out best after Christmas week-end games in the American Hockey League, defeating Cleveland Barons 3-1 Saturday and Hershey Bears 8-3 Sunday night. The St. Louis Flyers suffered most, bowing 8-1 to Pittsburgh Hornets Saturday and 5-0 to Buffalo Bisons, Sunday.

Hershey downed Buffalo 2-1 Saturday, and in other A.H.L. games, Cleveland tied Indianapolis Capitals 3-3 Sunday while Pittsburgh and Cleveland battled to a 5-5 draw last night. The net result left the standings unchanged except that Cleveland and Pittsburgh ended in a draw for second place in the western division with 29 points.

Bob Walton starred for the Hornets last night, scoring twice in the final period to force the deadlock. Walton had scored a goal in the first period along with Jimmy Jamieson. Max Kaminsky counted the other Pittsburgh goal in the middle stanza.

Two goals by Tommy Burlington and one by Ed Prokop sent the Barons into a first period lead and in the second, George Agar and Lou Trudel added to the score, making it 5-3 at the start of the third. Walton's two goals evened the count.

Sunday night Buffalo Bisons blanked St. Louis Flyers for the third time with five players sharing in the scoring honors. Gordie Davidson netted the only counter in the first period, with Paul Mundrick, Don Webster and George Boothaman adding second period goals. George Pargeter finished the scoring in the last frame.

More than 4,000 Providence fans were on hand Christmas eve to see the Reds trounce the Hershey Bears. The Bears had taken a 2-1 lead in the opening stanza on goals by George Patterson and Hank Hilliard against Roger Gagne's sole tally and in the second period had increased the margin on Hec Pozzo's goal. Jacques Lavoie got one of these back in the second and in the third the Reds came through with a five-goal splurge. Rollie Forget netted two of these, Gagne scored another and Larry Bedard, Georges Meelemarre and Germain Bergeron added the others.

Johnny Sorrell got two goals Sunday afternoon when Indianapolis Capitals and Cleveland Barons were deadlocked.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Toe Blake added one assist on Saturday night when Montreal Canadiens defeated Chicago Black Hawks 2-1 and recovered his lead at the top of the National Hockey League individual scoring race. Bill Cowley of Bruins, who had been deadlocked with Blake for the lead, was scoreless with Boston idle during the week-end. Syd Howe made the greatest advance, coming from fifth to third place when he netted four points in two week-end games. Clint Smith of Chicago, Mud Bruneteau of Detroit, and Gus Bodnar of Toronto are tied in sixth place with 24 points. The leaders:

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

Signing of Hank Blade of Ottawa by the Chicago Black Hawks means that another Peterborough-born player has crashed his way into the big show. The tall defence player who starred with the champion Commandos two seasons ago is a son of Arthur Blade of Ottawa, former member of the Peterborough police department. The new Black Hawk was born here and began his hockey career in the public school league in this city. Before he was old enough to have a chance to break into O.H.A. company the family had moved to Ottawa and there the big youngster has made a name for himself as a hard-hitting defence man who not only blocks well but is dangerous when he moves up on the attack. He is big, fast and courageous and Ottawa fans predict that he will make good in the N.H.L. He will have the best wishes of Peterborough followers of the game in his career in the cash and carry circuit. Not many players who were born here have made the grade into the top flight of professional hockey. Fred Whitcroft, Walter Miller and Frank Heffernan did it in the early days but only Bill Calladine and now Hank Blade have succeeded in modern times.

* * * * * *

If you count in players who played with Peterborough teams but were no native sons the list would be larger for you would have to include Ace Bailey who made the jump from the Peterborough seniors to the N.H.L. and Jack Adams, perennial manager of the Detroit Red Wings, who did the same thing after playing with the local 247th Battalion team. Biffer Ranger, who was born and learned the game in this city did not make the N.H.L. but he played many seasons in the American League as did Bert McLeod. Joe Dwyer, Petes' goalie, also had a shot at professional hockey in the same loop but did not stay long in the the circuit. Incidentally Bill Tobin who is now president of the Chicago Black Hawks, Duke Keats, one of the most colorful stick-handlers ever to show his wares under the big top and Red Briden also a star in the N.H.L. with Boston and other clubs were all members of a Peterborough hockey team for a short time. Unfortunately the O.H.A. executive decided that they did not belong here and that was that. Only one player, so far as we can remember, ever made the jump from the pro ranks back to the amateur in the old days and he was Joe Tetrault who wandered in here from the Canadiens and played half a season with the Peterborough intermediates under the name of Moines when the governing body caught up with him—and with the Petes.

Sport Is Hit Hard

The American Government brought up a right swing from the floor and laid it on the jaw of United States professional sport as an unusual Christmas gift. Horse racing is apparently out for the duration with the tracks ordered to cease operation on January 3rd. And the status of all performers in professional sport is to be reviewed. That will mean, of course, that some performers who have so far been exempt from military service will find themselves wearing the uniform of Uncle Sam. Just how it will effect baseball, for example, remains to be seen. At present there are 236 players in the two major leagues, and the number includes some of the brightest stars in the big show, who are now rated as Four F. They will have to be re-examined and their draft boards will be asked to reconsider their cases. Some of them, at least, will probably be ruled eligible for military service. The departure of any more stars would appreciably lower the quality of major league ball but there is no doubt the two big loops will carry on in spite of the loss of much-needed material. The gaps will be filled and the clubs will continue to operate. Professional hockey has been successful in drawing record patronage at major league prices for minor league hockey and there seems little doubt that baseball will be able to get along about as well.

Ken Colling thus discusses the Junior B group in his district: "On Wednesday convener S. R. Burrows released the O.H.A. schedule for group No. 2 in the Junior 'B' series of the O.H.A. announcing a 30-game tie-up for the six teams affiliated in the loop. This simply means each team will have five home and an equal number of road games during the regular schedule, to be followed by the post-schedule playoff. As for Belleville the locals pry off the lid versus Jerry Quinn's Tweed kids in Sam Curry's igloo on the evening of Jan. 3rd and return home for their inaugural at the Hume Arena on Friday, Jan. 5th. In all the local juniors have two Thursday night fixtures and three Friday night home stands. Hastings is slated to open the season here on Jan. 5th, Trenton will be here Jan. 11th, the Stirling "Combines" invade the Market Street arena on Jan. 19th, Tweed is here on Jan. 26th and Campbellford on Jan. 30th, so all-in-all it looks like a big season of junior hockey for the district."

Generals Take Holiday

"Unless the O.H.A. inserts a game, in view of the necessary schedule revision, that game here last night was the last of the year 1944 for the Oshawa Generals, and they came through in nice style to hang a 7-2 reverse on Toronto Marlboros," says George Campbell in the Oshawa Times-Gazette. "Nicely wrapped up in an improved display of hockey, the two points for last night's victory should make a suitable Christmas present for Coach Chuck Conacher and the other club officials, for the win put the Generals back tied with Galt Red Wings in the hectic race for third place. Incidentally, the smallest crowd of the season and for that matter one of the smallest crowds to attend a game here in several years, was on hand last night. Perhaps the hockey fans didn't expect to see too much with Marlies on hand or perhaps they were catching up on their Christmas shopping. They didn't miss too much in the way of a hockey game, for it was quite tame and even listless in spots with poor passing marring the performance. However, the Generals showed definite improvement and they were all trying hard. They were to have played Young Rangers in Toronto next Tuesday night but that was cancelled due to it being Box Day holiday. On Sat. Dec. 29, Port Colborne was to have played in Oshawa. With this one also "washed out," as it stands now, the Generals are going to enjoy a 'Christmas holiday' since they will be idle until slated to meet Marlboros at Maple Leaf Gardens on Tuesday, Jan. 2 and then entertain them back here in Oshawa on Saturday night of the same week."

* * * * * *

"It will be no surprise to the majority of the better informed hockey people to hear several of the experts calling the big Canadien scoring line of Lach, Blake and Richard, comparable to the best front division threesomes of pre-war days," says Bill Gaynon in the Niagara Falls Review. "Each is a star at his position and when rating the all-timers, it would be a mistake to overlook the veteran Toe and his two youthful running mates. Blake was good enough to lead the N.H.L. scorers and win the Hart trophy when the group was loaded with topnotchers, and when Elmer Lach came into the circuit, it still contained many dandies. Richard arrived in more lean days, but he has shown enough during his three seasons to convince every hockey enthusiast that he compares with the good ones that preceded him. This line is clicking, both collectively and individually, and those who would belittle it as a combination, are not holding to facts. Hockey has seen some exceptional front divisions, which contained such individual stars as Howie Morenz, Milt Schmidt, Bill Cook, Chuck Conacher and Herbie Lewis, and placing the present Habitant trio in line with the preceding smooth combinations, speaks highly for the calibre of the headliners of today."

Detroit Pair Racked Up 56 Victories

By JERRY LISKA
Associated Press Sport Writer

CHICAGO, Dec. 26.—(AP).—Official American League pitching statistics to-day showed Paul (Dizzy) Trout and Harold Newhouser, Detroit's brilliant mound team, front and centre on baseball's stage for a rousing curtain call.

Not in 40 years has the junior circuit produced such a prolific pair of tossers on the same team. In nearly hurling the Tigers to the pennant, Trout and Newhouser racked up 56 victories, the most by a brace of team-mates since 1904 when John D. Chesbro (41) and John Powell (23) of New York collaborated for 64.

The terrific Tiger twins—Lefty Newhouser with 29-9 and Right-handed Trout with 27-14—were the American League's only 20-game winners this year and they permitted only one slab crown to escape them. Boston's Tex Hughson turned in a brilliant 18-5 record for a top won-loss percentage of .783 before he entered the armed forces in August.

Earned Run Title.

The much-coveted earned run rating title went to Trout with 2.12, an amazing performance considering that the rugged right-hander toiled 352 innings, tops for the season. He also led in shut-outs with seven, worked the most complete games, 33, and faced the most batters, 1,323.

Southpaw Newhouser was runner-up to Trout in earned run average with 2.22 and in complete games with 25, but he led in strike-outs with 187, compared with Trout's runner-up total of 144.

Actually, Joe Heving (8-3) and Jonas Beery of Philadelphia (10-8) had the best earned run average at 1.95, but neither pitched enough innings to rate title consideration. Hening worked 120 frames and Beery 111. Third in this department with 2.26 was Hughson.

Newhouser placed second in the win-loss column with a percentage of .763.

Three other hurlers won more than 15 games—Hank Borrowy of the Yankees (17-12); Jack Kramer of the Browns (17-13); and Bill Dietrich of Chicago (16-17).

The junior loop went without a no-hit game for the fourth straight season and the 22nd time in league history, although Kramer turned in a one-hitter and there were 12 two-hit stunts.

Racing Order Hits Operators

TORONTO, Dec. 26—(CP)—Winter handbook activities in the Dominion are expected to come to a complete standstill when the United States Government ban on horse and dog racing as a wartime measure become effective next Jan. 3.

Hundreds of handbooks are operated in Toronto and during the winter the betting is chiefly on horse racing at southern tracks. However the amount usually falls off at this time of year and remains at a lower than usual level until the approach of spring when a number of important handicaps and stakes are run, one racing authority said.

Handbook operators here and elsewhere in Canada now are expected to mark time in the hope the U.S. ban may be lifted and in anticipation of the spring opening of Canadian tracks.

Peterborough curlers will commence their 1944-45 schedule this evening with all games starting at 7.47 sharp. This year the club has been divided into three groups of 15 rinks each and schedule will be a very full one until completed on Feb. 13.

Group "A" plays this evening and all skips are urged to have their rinks out and be on time. The draw is:

L. Ackford vs. C. Blewett.
B. Chesler vs. P. DeWolfe.
A. Gibbs vs. I. Hamley.
E. Hand vs. F. Jobbitt.
D. Maciver vs. Dr. C. McKee.
C. Ryan vs. E. R. Shirley.
G Sorensen vs E. McWilliams.

TORONTO, Dec. 26 — (CP). — Santa Claus may have come down the chimney for most of the kiddies, but we will wager that good old Saint Nick didn't make things any happier for the lowly teams in the National Hockey League. At least, we have never heard of an entire hockey team turning up in the old stock of a Christmas morning.

That is just about what the New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks would need to make this Yuletide a merry one — although probably Frankie Boucher and Paul Thompson would have settled for two completed forward lines, two defencemen and a goalie apiece.

Christmas in the hockey world is much like July 4 in baseball—it's the time when the prognosticators take stock to see just how their predictions have held up as far as guessing just how the league race is going to pan out. And looking at it from that angle, the Montreal Canadiens have a head start, in fact they are ahead by practically a forequarter in the race for the N.H.L. bunting and the gravy spots in the play-offs.

The boys who picked the Canucks to repeat are feeling quite satisfied now because the Montrealers are well ahead in the race and don't need to worry about the attentions of Santa Claus or the lack thereof.

There was a time last fall when observers thought Canadiens would need more than a Santa Claus filled with Christmas cheer to get them anywhere in the league—but that was before the Gorman boys outsmarted the entire loop by refusing to be intimidated or even wrecked by the rule barring any players who were on military deferment except for physical reasons.

The way the Stanley Cup champions came from under that body blow still has the other teams sputtering, but the fact remains they did, making them ineligible for any seasonable gift-receiving.

It will take some weeks yet to assess the results of the holiday season, but from this distance it looks as though Santa Claus has brought the Habitants a nicely-wrapped first place present — although the play-offs may tell a different story. Canadiens led the league and won the cup last year, but for quite a few years it was the universal custom for a low-placed team to displace the champions in the Stanley Cup finals.

Charlie Chaplin Case Nears End

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 26—(AP)—The case of 14-month-old Carol Ann Berry, technically the plaintiff in the Charles Chaplain paternity case, will be rested after her mother, Joan Berry, answers a few more questions from the witness stand today, counsel for the child announced.

The 55-year-old comedian then will open his defence against the assertion of Miss Berry, his former drama student, that he is Carol Ann's father.

Joseph Scott, representing Carol Ann and her guardian for the purpose of the suit, A. H. Risse, has said he may seat the child alongside Chaplin so jurors may compare facial characteristics.

Chaplin already has testified, but as an adverse witness. In civil actions, California law permits interrogation of the defendant in an effort to cause him to testify against himself.

Charles E. Millikan, Chaplin's attorney, sought in cross-examining Miss Berry to elicit testimony connecting her with other men, but the 24-year-old red-haired mother denied that she spent a day and a night in a Tulsa, Okla., hotel with J. Paul Getty, identified in newspaper records as a millionaire oil man, or that she slept "many times" in the Beverly Hills apartment of Hans Ruesch, a writer.

Miss Berry has admitted that Getty once arranged payment of bills totalling $800, and that she once spent the night at Ruesch's apartment, wearing Ruesch's Pajamas.

United States Sport Thrown Into Jeopardy

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—(AP)—The status of wartime professional sports in the United States was thrown into jeopardy Saturday by a Government order directing race tracks to shut down by Jan. 3 and calling upon draft boards to review immediately the classification of men engaged in professional athletics.

The double directive that caused consternation in the sports world was issued by James F. Byrnes, War Mobilization Director. He asked racing, a $1,000,000,000 industry in 1944, including flat, harness and dog racing, that contributed more than $56,000,000 in State taxes, to close up to "prevent the use of critical materials, services and transportation . . . until war conditions permit."

Difficult to Understand

Declaring that he had the approval of President Roosevelt, Mr. Byrnes said that, in view of the "existing war situation," it was difficult for him and for the public to understand how men can be physically unfit for military service and "yet be able to compete with the greatest athletes of the nation in games demanding physical fitness."

In a letter to Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service Director, Mr. Byrnes said that, because of the manpower shortage, serious consideration should be given to "recalling these men into the armed services or where they have not been heretofore been inducted, calling them for another physical examination." Mr. Hershey replied he had directed local draft boards to review the status of all pro athletes.

(Neither Mr. Byrnes nor Mr. Hershey mentioned college sports, and it was uncertain how their future would be affected.)

The racing world responded promptly that it would co-operate to the utmost. The Los Angeles Turf Club, which had expected to reopen Santa Anita Park Dec. 30, abandoned plans for any racing whatever. Tropical Park, in Florida, scheduled to open Monday, said it would operate through Jan. 3, then shut down. The Fair Grounds at New Orleans, which opened a winter meeting Saturday, said it also would operate only through Jan. 3.

Matt's Comment Typical

Typical of the reaction in racing circles was the comment of Col. Matt Winn, head of Churchill Downs at Louisville, scene of the Kentucky Derby.

"There is only one things to do," he said, "and that's to obey the boss. Things must be pretty serious for the Government to take such action, and we should follow every instruction. As for the Derby, we have several months to make a decision, and things might clear up somewhat before then."

Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of the New York State Racing Commission, and heads of such major tracks as Hialeah, Garden State, Pimlico, Delaware, Suffolk Downs, Rockingham, Arlington, Washington Park and Bay Meadows all pledged 100 per cent co-operation.

Meantime authorities announced racing would continue at the Hipodoromo de las Americas in Mexico City and at Oriental Park in Havana, Cuba. In London, where horse and dog tracks have operated throughout the war, Britons expressed surprise at the crackdown on American tracks.

May Curtail Baseball

Dwindling personnel that probably will result by a re-check of 4-F's and discharged soldiers might curtail major league baseball, professional football and boxing in 1945, but for the most part the top figures in these sports were noncommittal.

President Ford Frick of the National Baseball League said 128 athletes in the 4-F group were playing in his league, including George (Whitey) Kurowski, third baseman of the world champion St. Louis Cardinals. The American loop averages about 14 4-F's per team.

In the 4-F's with Kurokski are Mort Cooper, Johnny Hopp, Harry Brecheen and Ted Wilks. Other outstanding National Leaguers in that class are Phil Weintraub and Bill Voiselle, of New York; Bob Elliott of Pittsburg and Tommy Holmes of Boston, and Augie Galan of Brooklyn.

Vernon Stephens and George McQuinn of St. Louis Browns, American League flag winners, also are 4-F. Other American Leaguers in 4-F include Dizzy Trout, Hal Newhouser, Rudy York, Bob Swift and Paul Richards of Detroit; George Stirnweiss, Ernie Bonham and Atley Donald of New York; Dick Siebert and Frank Hayes of Philadelphia; Orval Grove of Chicago, and Jim Bagby and Al Smith of Cleveland.

N.H.L. Will Lose Little

Boxers discharged from the services, who may be called for a re-check, include Willie Pep, featherweight champion; Sugar Ray Robinson, Bobby Ruffin; Jimmy Bevins, No. 1 among the duration heavyweights.

The National Hockey League probably will lose little, since most of its players are Canadians under strict supervision of the Dominion Government. The only Canadians eligible for play are those discharged or rejected from military service, or those in the overage group.

Christmas day soccer in Great Britain saw the opening of first-round play in League North, the postponement of 11 games because of weather and the 4-2 defeat of Queen's Park in League South by Tottenham to give the latter a three-point lead over Chelsea. The Chelsea-West Ham fixture was called off after the teams had struggled for 20 minutes.

In the northern competition, the leading Huddersfield team played a scoreless draw with Halifax Town while Derby played a 2-2 tie with Chesterfield. There were no Scottish League contests.

Tropical Park's opening card on the holiday drew 14,171 fans who wagered a record 716,716 which compared with the previous high of $629,036 on the track's closing day April 8. Long shots ruled the day, only two choices coming through to win in a nine-event program.

The scoring leadership of the American Hockey League, held by Paul Courteau of Providence at 39 points, was closely followed by Pete Leswick of Indianapolis, 36 points, in the official statistics issued at New Haven, Conn., last night. Tom Burlington of Cleveland and Bob Gracie of Pittsburgh were tied for third place with 34 points.

To Be Remembered

In the aftermath of the directive from James F. Byrnes, Director of War Mobilization, Washington, it was intimated in the U.S. capital last night that military physical standards had not been lowered but pro athletes in 4-F category might not be rejected again after re-call for examination. Byrnes Saturday ordered professionals to be re-checked in addition to issuing a cease-order to race tracks effective Jan. 3.

Calling the present turf situation an "emergency", President A. J. Cleary of Tropical Park track yesterday called for the organization of a national fund under the title of racing relief, inc., to help horsemen in need to feed thoroughbreds. This followed instructions from Washington to call off racing atter Jan. 3.

The one O.H.A. Junior "A" fixture over the week-end was the all-Toronto affair at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday afterhoon when Young Rangers edged Marlboros 5-4 to go into a fourth-place tie with Oshawa, Memorial Cup defenders. Clare Payne of Rangers scored three goals including the pay-off marker while Jack McNabney accounted for three of the losers' counters.

NEW YORK, Dec. 26—(AP). — Chick Meehan, who put New York University on the college football map—and took it off again when he left there— is heading toward Denver and Los Angeles this week to line up the western half of his trans-America pro football league.. ..If this tour is successful, the National League is sure to have at least one serious rival in seasons to come....Chick, in a rather obvious slap at the organizers of the all-American conference, argues that his loop will become the American League of football (possibly even taking the name since the West Coast American League is relinquishing it) because he is proceeding on a businesslike basis instead of talking about $15,000 players and $25,000 coaches and becuse his clubs will have the field to play on.... But posibly the tip-off on all these projected pro leagues is that the National, which finds an 11-team set-up unsatisfactory, turned back all franchise applications last spring and hasn't found anyone since then who would put in a $25,000 cheque to bid for a place in the circuit.

Spots before your eyes:
Howard Caskey, 225-pound Penn State freshman tackle, has reported to his Draft Board three times, and has been rejected three times for physical defects. And each time it was a different defect.

Detroit Team Takes Two Close Decisions

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Detroit Red Kings got the biggest point-apple in their stocking this Christmas while Hap Day's Toronto Leafs dropped a pair of close decisions to fall deeper into their third slot spot.

It was a merry Christmas for Jack Adams' hard-hitting squad, for they pulled wtihin one point of the Flying Frenchmen.

Wings came back quickly after a bad start Saturday in Toronto and edged out Leafs 5-4, sparked by a pair of veterans — Modere (Mud) Bruneteau and Harold Jackson. After a day's rest, the teams met in the Motor City last night and the Adamsmen hung their fourth defeat of the season at Hap Day's door, 6-4.

Canadiens kept atop the standing when they edged out the cellar-dwelling Chicago Black Hawks, 2-1 on Saturday, and the Hawks also lost on Sunday, playing to a 3-3 tie with New York Raners.

Big Butch Bouchard and Fernand Gauthier flipped the rubber into Mike Karakas' nets for Canadiens while Mush Marsh countered with Hawks' only tally. The loss was No. 12 for the Windy City sextet, against three wins and three tied games, including the Sunday contest.

Veteran Toe Blake added one point to his individual scoring record when he picked up an assist Saturday and took over the scoring leadership from Boston's Bill Cowley.

Detroit became the first team of the current season to hit the 100-goal mark last night, with Rookie Steve Wochy's second-period tally. A goal by Don Grosso and Wochy's second of the game brought their goals—for total to 102.

Get 2 in Third.

Leafs woke up after two sluggish periods and scored a brace of tallies early in the third period last night. But they failed to keep up the rush, and Detroit added their sixth goal as insurance late in the frame.

Nick Metz paced Toronto's attack with two markers while Art Jackson and Lorne Carr got the others. Joe Carveth, Carl Liscombe and Eddie Bruneteau chalked up the first three Wing goals.

In New York, Chicago Hawks had to pull from behind in the third period Sunday to tie the count after they held a two-period lead. Bill Mosienko's goal was the final marker, half way through the last frame.

Clint Smith and Lude Check gave the Chicago team a 2-0 lead until the middle of the second period. Then Fritz Hunt scored on a neat passing play to break the ice for Rangers. In the third stanza Hank Goldup and Ab Demarco bounced a couple of pucks into Karakas' net and Rangers held on until Mosienko's tie-maker.

Ranger Phil Watson suffered a broken bone in his right hand and Frank Boucher was skeptical if Watson would be able to play Wednesday against Toronto. However, the New York campaigner said he'd be on hand.

STOWAWAYS FINED

GLASGOW — (CP). — Five natives of West Africa who stowed away on a ship so that they could come to Britain to help the war effort were fined the equivalent of $25 each or 14 days imprisonment when they appeared in court here.

Royals Setting Torrid Pace In Senior Loop

MONTREAL, Dec. 26 — (CP) — Montreal Royals are setting a torrid pace in the Quebec Senior Hockey League these days, but supporters of the Allan Cup Quebec Aces are quick to remind their rivals that it's playoff showing that pays off in the Q.S.H.L.

The Royals are four full games ahead of Aces in the standings of the moment, but their margin isn't really quite that great because Aces have played two less games. Royals made hay during the week-end, falling on the tail-end Hull Volants for a couple of victories while Aces were idle.

All four- teams—Royals, Aces, Volants and Ottawa Commandos — will be in the play-offs but there seems little doubt on present showing that it will boil down to an Aces-Royals set-to for the league title eventually.

Meanwhile, the inter-provincial league is presenting four well-matched teams in its senior "B" rating, and is aiming to produce a claimant for the provincial senior crown long held by the Q.S.H.L.

Valleyfield Braves are leading the new circuit at present, two games up on Cornwall Flyers. Flyers in turn are two up on Shawinigan Falls Cataracts, who are leading the tail-end Lachine Rapids by a game.

Inter-provincial enthusiasts are confident either Valleyfield or Cornwall could give the Q.S.H.L. champs a battle in provincial play-offs, although only the most buoyant have any great hopes that the Inter-prov players could upset the Q.S.H.L. and go further along the Allan Cup trail.

Royals and Canadiens are waging a nip-and-tuck battle for first place in the Montreal Junior Amateur Hockey Association, the league which will produce the province's challenger for Memorial Cup honors. Each team has won three and lost one so far, for a one-game margin on Concordia and Verdun.

Air Training Plan Achieved Aim During 1944

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 (CP) — The roar of airplane motors in Canadian skies was reduced to a buzz in 1944 as the big British Commonwealth Air Training Plan that made the nation the "airdrome of democracy" was drastically curtailed and a partial R.C.A.F. demobilization plan established.

The plan will not be extended after its expiry date, March 31, 1945, when a shadow plan will be installed. Previously scores of air schools and emergency landing fields were closed, training commands were amalgamated, the air council reduced and 4,200 potential trainees were transferred to the army.

Hon. C. G. Power resigned as air minister during the hectic political crisis on reinforcements.

Busy in the battle skies throughout the world, the R.C.A.F. began last year with a new chief of air-staff—Air Marshal Robert Leckie. He got his appontment Jan. 1,i two months after taking over the responsibilities when Air Marshal L. S. Breadner went to Britain to became overseas chief.

Announcing the curtailment program in November, Maj. Power said the air plan was aimed at gaining air supremacy in all theatres of war and he added, "this purpose has been accomplished." When the plan ends March 31—a total of 224,296 trained aircrew will have graduated from Canadian flying fields.

He explained the need for curtailment was based on a huge surplus of aircrew built up by a plan that was gauged on higher casualties than were actually suffered and the unpredictable course of the war.

Role In Pacific

Meanwhile an air mission returned from a study of Pacific war theatre conditions and it is widely reported that between 15 and 20 of the force's overseas squadron's will be sent against Japan on a re-voluntary basis when the war in Europe is over. Other squadrons—possibly made up of R.C.A.F. men in the R.A.F.—may stay in Europe to co-operate with occupational forces.

One feature of the home organization was the establishment of a Northwest Air Command to take over the staging route over the north-west corner of the Dominion and which, in the words of Maj. Power, is likely to have increasing importance as Pacific commitments are assumed.

Men now being demobilized—roughly on a first-in-first-out basis—are not barred from application for entry into the post-war R.C.A.F. the composition of which will not be decided for at least a year.

The year-end found hundreds of men being demobilized, many of them returning from overseas operational tours. Many of the returning flying personnel are taking over administration jobs from non-flying men released from the service, as fewer and fewer training craft take the air.

With about 10,000 aircrew in the training stream before Nov. 7 headed for a civilian reserve when they graduate, and recent graduates being demobilized, it has been said officially that only a smattering of aircrew in operational training units and debarkaton depots will go overseas in future.

The amalgamations saw No. 2 training command at Winnipeg and No. 4 at Calgary unite on a greatly reduced scale as No. 2 Air Command with headquarters at Moose Jaw, Sask. No. 1 at Toronto and No. 3 at Montreal, greatly curtailed, will join early this year as No. 1 Air Command with headquarters at Trenton, Ont.

Those lighting candles were Donna Payne, Marie Drain, Phyllis Sheppard, Barbara and Bernice Cuffe. A choir from all churches sang a beautiful old carol and Rev. A. Campbell of Keene gave an inspiring message to all on "This Wartime Christmas".

Engineer Dies

MONTREAL, Dec. 26—(CP)—Osburn N. Brown, professor in the mining engineering department at McGill University, died at his home here yesterday.

WHERE DECISIVE BATTLE RAGES—Here is an area in which the terrific German counter offensive has precipitated a battle which may be one of the most decisive of the war. German Gen. von Rundstedt's assault pushed through American lines at several points, but particularly heavy blows were struck at Honsfeld in Belgium and at the Luxembourg towns of Vianden and Echternech. It is in this region, as indicated by heavy arrows on the map, that Gen. Courtney Hodges' First Army forces are now reported striking back.

Canadian Navy To Learn Pacific Tricks

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Dec. 26—(CP)—In a year marked by expansion and a shift of commanders, the Canadian Navy added a cutting edge to a blade that had previously hewn defensively.

But the doughty escort fleet that assured delivery of the goods to Britain as invasion men and supplies were built up developed its own striking force and contributed 100 ships and 10,000 men to the vital battle that began D-Day—June 6, And all the while it kept a sharp eye cocked on the Atlantic trade lanes.

Meanwhile the navy also developed seacrews for two Royal Navy aircraft carriers, aircrews for contemplated Canadian flat-tops and commissioned the 8,000-ton cruiser, Uganda with a sistership to follow, two special type landing ships — Prince Henry and Prince David—and an anti-aircraft cruiser—Prince Robert.

Last summer the navy assumed 100 per cent of all close escort of North Atlantic trade convoys and took a 30 per cent share of responsibility in general Atlantic patrols. U-boats are reported in decreasing numbers and during the year the navy announced eight kills.

Athabaskan Lost

But the year was also marked with losses. Brazen pre-invasion sweeps in the English Channel resulted in damage to the enemy's destroyer strength, but the R.C.N. lost one of its sleek, hard-hitting tribals—Athabaskan. The corvettes Regina and Alberni were lost in invasion water after D-Day.

Other losses announced during the year included the frigate Valleyfield, the minesweeper Chedabucto and the corvette Shawinigan.

Early in the year Vice-Admiral Percy W. Nelles, naval chief of staff at headquarters here, went to London to head the Canadian naval mission and superintend invasion operations. He was succeeded by Vice-Admiral George Jones.

This pair at year end conferences are understood to have worked out with Navy Minister Macdonald a plan which will send a third of the navy to the Pacific theatre after the war in Europe has reached a decisive stage.

Volunteer for Pacific

The Canadians will probably work in close collaboration, with Admiral Sir Bruce Fraser's British Pacific fleet which will have primary bases in Australia and possible advance bases in the Philippines. The men—with the exception of key personnel—will go to the Pacific on a re-voluntary basis after leave in Canada and the surplus will be demobilized on the first-in-first-out general principle.

The acquisition of big fighting ships like cruisers during the year will be followed soon by all-Canadian manned carriers and an air station at Collins Bay, Ont., has already turned out its first Canadian navy aircrew destined for Canadian ships. When this development is complete the seacrews and Canadian aircrewmen serving with the Royal Navy will transfer from flat-tops to Canadian carriers.

The navy stopped recruiting in October but will continue at a reduced scale of 300 a months at the first of this year. This rate will be maintained until the maximum complement is reached.

With a tremendous expansion at sea and ample facilities on shore, the navy is looking to the post-war with an eye for a larger permanent force than has hitherto been the case. Mr. Macdonald has said that a navy of 9,000 has already been approved and he hopes for a peacetime strength of 15,000. This would compare with a pre-war strength of only 1,700.

Conscription Vital Says Brig. Mess

MONTREAL, Dec. 26 — (CP) — The Montreal Gazette in a dispatch yesterday from Ottawa quoted Brig. James Mess, who resigned November 27 as Deputy Adjutant-General of the Canadian Army and director of recruiting as saying in an interview that his position had been inter "entirely untenable" by the Government's policy of limited overseas conscription.

Such a policy, designed to meet only immediate, pressing needs for infantry reinforcements, failed to assure a sustained, adequate flow of trained soldiers to the battle fronts as long as they may be required, and left an open question as to whether future shortages would be promptly met, Brig. Mess said.

The only effective way in which the continuing needs overseas could be fully met was immediate and unlimited conscription with complete equality of service. Holding such views, he felt he could not honorably continue to serve as recruiting director in implied support of a partial conscription policy which he did not endorse.

Like many another good sandwich, it owes its sparkling zest to Libby's Prepared Mustard. When sandwich-making is a daily task, it pays to keep a jar of this piquant mustard on hand. You'll find it makes a mouth-watering difference.

Try this Unusual Giblet and Egg Sandwich

Giblets from 1 chicken
1 hard boiled egg
1 tablespoon Libby's Prepared Mustard
1 teaspoon cream or evaporated milk
1 teaspoon minced onion
½ teaspoon salt

Clean and cook the giblets in boiling water until tender. Drain and put through food chopper with the hard boiled egg. Then add the remaining ingredients and spread on buttered bread. This recipe makes enough to fill 6 full size sandwiches.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Fire department responded Sunday at 2.08 a.m. to a blazing chimney at 146 Simcoe street, where there are three apartments. No damage was reported.

MAIL RUSH OVER.

Postmaster Charles Lacheur said to-day that all Christmas mail which was properly addressed had been cleaned out of the Post Office and delivered on Christmas Day.

POLICE DO WELL

Members of the Peterborough Police Department fared well in the matter of cigarettes, cigars, candy and other Christmas gifts and wish to express their thanks to the firms and individuals who so thoughtfully remembered them at the Yuletide season.

FRACTURES HIS LEG

Joseph Shaughnessy, Parnell street, home from school for Christmas holidays, fell and broke his leg while skiing near the Warsaw Road on Sunday afternoon. He was carried by companions to the road and removed in an automobile to St. Joseph's Hospital where the fracture was reduced.

DINED AT EMPRESS.

Many Peterborough families held Christmas dinner re-unions at the Empress Sunday. The number of guests during the day was 227.

CRIBBAGE CLUB.

The Peterborough Cribbage and Bridge Club will begin a series of doubles January 2 and new members will be welcomed. Millbrook Cribbage Club will be guests January 4 and Harold Bigelow of the Millbrook Club will "lead the attack." President Bob Everett extends season's greetings to all friends.

CHRISTMAS SERVICES.

Some thousands of the citizens of Peterborough greeted Christmas Day with prayer and worship. Communion services attracted large congregations to the three Anglican churches, St. John's, St. Luke's and St. George's, and in the Roman Catholic churches the midnight Mass of Christmas Eve was celebrated in the joyful spirit of the feast of the Nativity of the Redeemer. At Mark Street United church, an hour's service of prayer from 11 to 12 p.m. featured the message of Christmas.

Family Tries To Rescue Tree, Presents From Burning Home Day Before Christmas

Their Christmas tree and some of the gifts for the children were carried from the flaming house at 2 Gladstone avenue, occupied by W. J. S. Teneycke in a fire about 10.30 o'clock Sunday morning causing damage to the building and contents estimated by Chief Gimblett at approximately $2,000. The owner is William J. Martin.

It was reported that a boarder kindled a fire in the kitchen stove some time after nine o'clock, and when Mrs. Teneycke later opened the door to that part of the house the whole room seemed to be ablaze.

The official report from the Fire Department recorded the call at 10.29. Chief Gimblett said to-day the first stream of water was turned on at 10.35 and a second line of hose was brought into use three minutes later.

"The whole rear part of the house was in flames when we got there," Chief Gimblett said. "We managed to hold the fire to the lower rooms but there was considerable damage from hot smoke in the upper story. A rough estimate of the damage to the contents was around $1,200 to $1,500 and to the contents $500 or $600. There were ten occupants of the house."

Apparently the first thought of the family was to try to save the Christmas tree and presents. The tree was dragged outside and some of the presents, but contents generally were extensively damaged.

Obituaries

MRS. MARGARET BOWLES

Member of a pioneer family, Mrs. Margaret Bowles, Highway 7A, Cavan, who has been sick for the past two months, died Christmas day at her home, in her 81st year.

Daughter of John Madill and Eliza Tate she was born on the family homestead where she spent her entire life. She was the last surviving member of a family of five daughters and one son and for many years was an active member of the Springville Church. Of late years she had been a member of the Centreville Presbyterian Church.

Surviving are one daughter, Miss Amy Elizabeth Bowles of Peterborough and one son, Norman Bowles, at home.

The funeral will be held Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence and Rev. W. Patterson will officiate. Interment will be in Centreville Presbyterian Cemetery.

WILLIAM HENRY DUNFORD.

WARSAW, Dec. 26 — (ENS). — Another of Warsaw's oldest and most respected residents passed away suddenly when William Henry Dunford died in his sleep.

Although in his 85th year, he was in his usual good health and had been engaged in cutting his supply of wood.

A native of Dummer, he spent his entire life here, except for a short period in Lakefield, where he learned to be a cabinetmaker, a profession he followed until the time of his death.

He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green Dunford, and was a member of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church and the Loyal Orange Lodge, Warsaw.

He leaves to mourn his passing his wife, who was Charlotte Ann Batten, a daughter Helen Duckworth, Niagara Falls, one brother Allen Dunford, and one sister Miss Gertrude Dunford, both of Toronto.

The funeral, held on Friday afternoon from his late residence, was largely attended, and with the many beautiful floral gifts, showed the esteem in which he was held.

Rev. Mr. Campbell, of Keene, conducted the services at the house and at the graveside in St. Mark's Cemetery.

Friends from a distance attending the funeral included Mrs. Staughton, Miss Gertrude Dunford, Miss Kathleen Dunford, Allen Dunford, Toronto, Mrs. Quinlin, Detroit, Mrs. Helen Duckorth, Niagara Falls, Mrs. Cottrell and Mrs. Jones from Peterborough, and many from Lakefield and Norwood.

Pall-bearers were Harold Clifford, Cecil Freeburn, Everett Moore, Reg Bolton, Hilliard Darling, Hilliard Clements.

Flower-bearers were Haroutun Sarafian, Kenneth Freeburn, Raymond Clements, Thomas Gray, Cecil Bolton, Hartley Moore.

Injured Flier Home For Yuletide Holiday

A patient in an R.C.A.F. hospital for six months, LAC. Arthur G. Fraser, arrived home at the weekend to spend Christmas and a month's sick leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allison Fraser, 324 Charlotte street.

Although he had to come on crutches, the young airman who received injuries to his knee while in training, was given permission to travel. He formerly lived in New Brunswick, but his parents have moved to Peterborough. One brother, Laurie, works at the C.G.E., and another, Herbert, is attending Queen Mary School. Mr. Fraser is an engineer with the A. Wander Ltd.

Strange Order

KITCHENER, Dec. 26 — (CP). —One of the strangest orders ever given at an Army camp resulted in their being enough girls to dance with the boys. The scene was the C.W.A.C. Training Camp here. Soldiers from the Army Camp at Brantford were sent up for a dance at the C.W.A.C. Centre, but there weren't enough girls. So sleepy C.W.A.C.'s were awakened and ordered over to the dance.

PO. HENRY L. SHEPHERD

PO. H. Shepherd Listed Missing

A former teacher on the Central School staff, Pilot Officer Henry L. Shepherd, nephew of Mrs. Ada Craig, Rogers street, has been reported missing following air operations overseas.

The 31-year-old flier had only six more raids to make before he could have completed his tour of operations and Mrs. Craig had a letter from him Christmas morning telling her that he would be thinking about her on that day. PO. Shepherd was in the bomber command.

Prior to coming to Peterborough where he served for a short time on the city staff, PO. Shepherd was well known in the Otonabee district. He taught for five years at Mather's Corners and four years at Hiawatha. During the summer months, he taught hobby craft at the Kawartha Boys' Camp for a number of years.

PO. Shepherd is the son of Louis Shepherd of Eastview, who is a decorator at the Chateau Laurier, and his wife, formerly Eleanor Brown, and baby live in Keene. Two of his brothers are also in the forces, Spr. Albert Shepherd of Ottawa and Sgt. Olive Shepherd, a ground instructor at Trenton.

2 Peterboro Soldiers Home For Christmas

Two Peterborough men, Lieut. W. O. Thirnbeck and Pte. B. G. H. Woodcock, who arrived back in Canada last week aboard a hospital ship, arrived home Saturday night in time to spend Christmas with their families.

Lieut. Thirnbeck was wounded while fighting with the British Second Army in Belgium and the Netherlands. Before proceeding to his home, 418 Water street, he was sent to Ottawa for treatment.

Pte. Woodcock, 459 Chamberlain street, who has been overseas since May of this year fighting with the Hamilton Light Infanrty, is home for a month's furlough. He was invalided home suffering from shock. A former employee of Genelco, he enlisted early in the war and was discharged. He tried several times to re-enlist and was finally accepted about two years ago.

Two Are Contesting Dummer Reeveship

WARSAW, Dec. 26 — (ENS). — Two candidates are in the field for the reeveship of Dummer township with six contesting the four seats on the council board. Reeve Robert Martin announced his retirement at Friday afternoon's nomination meeting and seeking promotion to the reeve's chair are William Darling and Stewart Clysdale.

Candidates for councillor are Percy Bell, Gordon Hamlin, Marmion Clements, Allen Oliver, Wesley Chamberlain and Walter Sloane.

Toronto Race Officials Will Cooperate

TORONTO, Dec. 26. — (CP).—Race track officials in the Toronto area indicated to-day that they are quite ready to suspend operations next summer if the Dominion government takes action similar to that of United States authorities who have banned horse and dog racing effective Jan. 3. Meanwhile officials are awaiting developments between now and the opening of the Ontario racing season next May.

Fred Livingstone of Thorncliffe Park said: 'We've alawys co-operated with government wishes and we will again. They wanted us to move our meetings to Woodbine and we did. We'll do whatever they suggest."

We're months away from racing here and by that time it is to be hoped the emergency will be over," said Col. K. R. Marshall, president of the Ontario Jockey Club. 'Besides we haven't the transit trouble here that they have in most racing centres through the States. Here our tracks are right in the city and readily accessible by street car or by foot."

Thomas Anderson of the Metropolitan Racing Association said that by the time Canadian tracks open "whatever emergency has come up now should be eased.

"If it's transit trouble that's bothering them we don't have any."

Fishing Helps War Veterans

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP). —Fishing and hunting are precisely what the doctor ordered for the frayed nerves of returning war veterans, and a United States congressional group intends to see that they get plenty of both.

A House of Representatives committee on conservation of wild life, has just completed a two-year study and will introduce legislation next month.

"Our immediate objective will be to help ease the nerve strain of about 10,000,000 fighting men who must be rehabilitated inside as well as outside," Chairman A. Willis Robertson (Dem. Vam) declared Sunday.

After the First Great War, interest in hunting and fishing increased 30 per cent. Robertson anticipates a jump as high as 50 per cent this time.

"Our first problem is that of sufficient public hunting grounds," Robertson said. "We've got 173,000 acres of national forest land but it needs to be improved by restocking and bettering feed conditions."

2 Men Qualify For Reeve's Job

LAKEFIELD, Dec. 26—(ENS). — There will be an election held in Lakefield on New Year's Day for the offices of both Reeve and the Council as a result of the nominations held on Friday night.

Both Gordon Scriver, the present Reeve, and Charles F. Tanner, a former Reeve, have qualified and will face the electors for the position of Lakefield Reeve for 1945.

Four of the 1944 Council and one new man will run for Council. They are George Charlton, George Graham, W. C. Grant, Reg Doubt (old Council), and Fred Wickett.

The School Board was returned by acclamation.

WATSON H. PORTER

PlowmenToHear Walter H. Porter

Watson H. Porter has confirmed his acceptance by telephone of an engagement as guest speaker at the Peterborough Plowmen's Association dinner at the Kawartha Club, Wednesday night, January 17.

As editor of "Farmer's Advocate," Mr. Porter is widely known in the field of agriculture, especially in its journalist branch, and his writings and opinions are always received with respect. He has been a fairly frequent visitor to Peterborough and actually feels at home in a gathering of Peterborough farmers.

Although he has not announced his subject, it is understood that Mr. Porter is going to save something of special interest in this Peterborough speech. He cancelled a trip to Essex to be with the local Plowmen in the first dinner they have ever sponsored. The tickets for this affair are getting into the hands of the public. A few are left, but they are likely to disappear long before the date of the dinner.

Alex Huston of Otonabee is the chairman of the county Plowmen's Association this year, having recently succeeded Water Thorne.

Capt. H. Marsh Arrives Home

Limping from the effects of a wound he suffered on "D" Day, Captain Harry Marsh arrived home Saturday in time for Christmas with his mother, Mrs. Jennie Marsh, 507 Homewood avenue.

He was injured in the right leg, and although the wound has healed perfectly, it is likely that his injury in the Canadian landing on the Normandy beach will remain with him in every step. Captain Marsh is still using crutches, but is happy in the extent of his recovery. He has leave at home for thirty days from Ottawa.

Captain Marsh went ashore in France with the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa on June 6th last having arrived overseas in September 1942. The news of his arrival home was quickly circulated among friends at the week-end, and brought him a host of them to congratulate him on his service and also to wish him well in his recovery from his wound of battle.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

DEC. 26, 1940—Admiralty announced loss of destroyer Acheron. British bombers raided Bordeaux, ending unofficial Christmas truce. First group of Australian and third group of Canadian graduates of British Commonwealth Air Training plan arrived in London. Weather slowed up Albanian fighting.

Aid For Victims Now Raised Exceeds $90,000

The vast majority of people would on no account wish to part with the memory and tradition of their own younger days in their own home on Christmas Day, much of their fonder recollections, and a goodly share of the personal halo that surrounds their parents and the home, having this great day and its family life as its source.

Poor indeed are the young folk who in the future may not be able to look back in this sense in the years to come, and that perhaps may be the thought that prompted so many kind-hearted and generous people in this city and district, to support the special donation for Christmas that was raised by the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, in order that the hundreds of thousands of child evacuees in Britain might have something for that day too, since they could not spend it in their own homes.

Just how great was this urge on the part of the residents in these parts, may be seen from the fact that during the final week before Christmas, the sum of $2,204.69 was deposited in the bank to the credit of the fund, in addition to which another $159.75 is recorded today, which now makes an overall total of $90,031.05 that has been contributed since the fund first began to operate.

This has been a great work of faith, the foundation of which most assuredly was based on the fundamental truths of Christmas, and it probably might be of interest now to give a further example of how this faith in human goodness was fully justified.

When the Christmas donation of £2,000 was cabled over, it still lacked some $588 of being fully raised, but realizing that when banking hours commence in this country, they are then closing in Britain, on account of their being five hours ahead of our time, it was impossible to delay sending this later than Thursday morning, if one wished to be sure of it reaching them before Christmas.

Feeling that this would be the wish of all the contributors, the secretary of the fund despatched this gift for Christmas on Thursday, and just how well it was justified may be seen from the fact that before the close of Saturday's operations, the amount that was short was fully made up, and that did not include a lovely offer on the part of the Executive of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion to give further assistance if needed to put the fund over the top. A very fine gesture indeed.

Raybestos Employees $65.

When the executive head of any big business takes time out from his busy life, to personally bring in a contribution from the men under his direction, it displays an interest that must be quite apparent. This happened when Robert Abbott brought in $65.25 from the employees of the Canadian Raybestos Co., Ltd., on Saturday morning, duplicating a similar achievement for the same cause at the same time last year.

The Red Cross Group at Knox United Church are among those whose gift helped to swell the amount needed, their contribution of $25 recorded today, also being a continuation of support given on previous occasions.

Then the Women of the Moose, Peterborough Chapter No. 486, are another group who have supported the fund on previous appeals at this season, their gift of $15 through Marie Baldwin and Mrs. Blodwen Jones, also being registered today.

Children Play Big Part.

As in the past, school children continue to play a wonderful part in the work the fund endeavors to carry on, another 7 different schools appearing in today's list.

The lead in this respect today is taken by S.S. No. 12, Otonabee, of which Miss M. Heffernan is the teacher, to be followed by S.S. No. 3, Douro, with Ruth Telford as teacher; Havelock Public School, R. M. Patterson, principal; S.S. No. 1, Otonabee, Miss Vera Bradshaw, teacher; S.S. No. 9, Smith, Miss Leitha Kidd, teacher, and the Junior Room at Keene, Miss Mary Miller, teacher, and S.S. No. 4, Dummer, Mrs. William Hamilton, teacher.

The Comrades' Class at Fairmount Sunday School is also represented in today's list with a nice gift of $10, and a list of personal donations are left over until the next report to follow.

Peterborough Streets Like Deserted Village Holiday Spirit Immobilizes Business

Along toward 9 o'clock this morning Alparka was probably a typical crossroads of the nation, surfeited, somnolent and silent. Nothing stirred the wheels of important industry in the big shops across the way where Alparka's customers were back on the job.

The three branches of service sharing the same roof possibly were going to get back on the job, singly or collectively, later on in the day, but as the clock was moving on toward the stroke of nine their locks were still unturned, blinds undrawn, and the hush of suspended animation, a sort of business coma hung over the place. Everything in the neighborhood looked secure and unworried, and a few stray bits of tinsel, some holiday greeting cards in the window, suggested the dormant morning after Christmas.

Another crossroads of Empire, Charlotte and George streets, was almost as deserted as the turnpike road through Dingley Dell while the pickwickians were still in slumber under the gentle narcotic effect of the nation's ultimate in confections, the plum pudding. Two persons were noticed along the north side of Charlotte. The south was a blank. Looking up George street there was a comparative crowd of six or seven in about a block and a half. It was the day after Christmas and unmistakably retail business, in wartime repletion, for once didn't give a hoot or a dam about the tail end of the year. They were willing to close the books on the spot, and revel in the luxury of idling at home or wherever they had got to.

Banks at nine were as vacant as the rest of the main street buildings, and Sergeant Wigg at the police station said nothing was stirring there.

No Police Court

Cells were empty at the police station, and likewise the bench at which Magistrate Langley presides.

The week-end blotter was almost a blank. A minor traffic accident Saturday afternoon, caused by the driver of a car who was said to have imbibed too freely in some kind of wine, marred the city's holiday record. This case was set over for later in the week.

Chief John Thompson and Inspector Reid were holding the reins of authority, lightly and obviously rather happy that their place of detention was vacant. If police were officious Saturday they might have brought in the odd woozy drunk, but even those offenders of sobriety were comparatively few, and probably some of them seemed worse than was their actual condition. There are those kind of people who have no other warrant of attracting attention. A couple of drinks create an illusion of importance, and if arrested on the appearance of inebriation they'll swear to being sober and going about their business.

SHAN GIRLS WELCOME ALLIED TROOPS IN BURMA—Shan girls stop work long enough to smile happily at the coming of Allied troops at a point deep in Burma. It is in this sector that the Tenth Air Force of the eastern air command is operating.

DFC WINNER HOME—The first Douro boy to be awarded the DFC in this war has returned from overseas. He is FO Anthony Delaney, son of Mrs. Delaney and the late Daniel Delaney of Douro, and he has completed his tour of operations. He arrived home before word of his father's death reached him.

North Monaghan Has Election

Melville H. Johnston and Alex Archibald are contesting the reeveship in North Monaghan. Mr. Johnston has been Reeve of North Monaghan and Mr. Archibald the deputy reeve. Due to a large portion of the township being annexed to the city on January 1 the township loses its deputy reeve in the county council and instead of a reeve, a deputy and three councillors, the new council will be composed of a reeve and four councillors.

Eight are contesting the four seats on the Council Board and five are seeking election to the four vacant seats on the school board.

Candidates for councillor are: Frank Millard, W. G. Waterman, James S. Roberts, A. J. Arnott, Eric McKinstry, H. F. Doig, Archie Patterson and G. N. Moncrief. For school board are Walter Woods, Frank D. Dawson, Cyril E. Barnes, Ernest Horton and George M. Sage. Fred Stinson, the only surviving member of the old board has one year yet to serve.

There will be four polling places in the township with voting taking place at Harold McMahon's house; Mrs. Rose Minicola's house; Town Hall school and Braley's school.

Railways Carry Record Crowds

Railway and bus transportation in and out of Peterborough was reported today as to have been one of the heaviest Christmas season's on record. Trains although running a little late kept as well to schedule as could be expected under the very unusual conditions.

The afternoon train to Toronto via CPR both Saturday and Monday had to operate in two sections with one section coming through from Montreal and the second being made up in Havelock. Trains from Ottawa and to Ottawa were carrying capacity loads.

Conditions were the same on the Canadian National, very heavy traffic in and out of Peterborough was reported.

The two telegraph offices reported being very busy with additional messenger boys being added. The boys had a tough time getting the messages out on account of the heavy snow.

Bus companies sent every bus out of the city loaded to capacity, with several specials being put on when available.

F.O. F. Haddlesey Reported German Prisoner

NORWOOD, Dec. 26 (ENS) — Flying Officer Frank Haddlesey, D.F.C., son of Mr. and Mrs. T. Haddlesey, Norwood, who was reported missing following air operations in July, is now a prisoner of war in Germany, according to a letter reaching his parents from a member of his crew.

The letter, written by F.O. Mark W. Edgerley of London, England, the navigator of the plane on which Haddersley was serving when he was shot down, reported that word had been received from the Group Captain of the station that F.O. Haddlesey was a prisoner of war. He was serving in an Australian squadron.

He wrote F.O. Haddlesey was injured when he jumped from the aircraft and was immediately handed over to the German people for proper treatment after he was given first aid by a French doctor.

"We heard within the week that he had been treated successfully by the Germans and was recovering quite well. The pilot who shot down their aircraft visited him daily, taking fruit and chocolate in the first fortnight, but was himself shot down by an Allied aircraft.

"In the confusion of the American advance through the area where we were shot down we hoped that F.O. Haddlesey had been recaptured, but the official notification means that he was evacuated to Germany. In view of this and the satisfactory reports we have had from the French people, I can say with confidence that by now he will have recovered.

"Your son was lucky in that he was the only member of the cred to fall in sight of the local people and a civilian doctor was the first of those to reach him in a matter of seconds, so that he suffered little pain despite his injury. He was in our crew for only 10 trips but we all came to admire and love him, a man who could go through what he experienced in his first effort and then comes back for more, has more courage than most, and F.O. Haddlesey deserved all the respect and admiration afforded him. Among a crowd of carefree easygoing Aussies he stood out as a keen man who did not let his application to his job sour him.

F.O. FRANK HADDLESEY

LOANS FOR MEN AND WOMEN WHO WORK

Here's a quick, private way to borrow up to $500— No endorsers required—Repay in monthly instalments that fit your own budget

Apologizes For Hitler

NEW YORK, Dec. 26 —(CP)— Propaganda Minister Goebbels apologized profusely to the German people Sunday night for the failure of Adolf Hitler to address them directly on Christmas Eve and said that Hitler had planned and directed the current German offensive.

Goebbels was quoted as saying in a Berlin broadcast monitored by NBC and CBS monitors that "the Fuehrer made me his spokesman to greet the ninety million Germans at home who stand behind him like a wall."

Goebbels declared Hitler's mind "is clear and vigorous, contrary to the lies put out by propaganda of the Allies."

Daring Exploit

WITH AMERICAN FORCES IN BELGIUM, Dec. 23 —(Delayed)— (AP)—Because of a daring exploit by Maj. John C. H. Lee, Jr., a convoy of 30 German tanks and a battalion of infantry are being whittled down in a trap. Maj. Lee worked his way with six men through the enemy lines and blew up a bridge over a small stream. The enemy armor had crossed this bridge in an effort to strike north.

London Children Make Merry Under Ground

By FRANK LOWE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP Cable)— London's merriest Christmas parties were held in holes in the ground.

In deep subway stations throughout the capital, children and parents welcomed Christmas eve with makeshift decorations and genuine gaiety which turned the draughty, dirty platforms where they sleep every night into colorful, music-filled stretches as they shouted carols above the roar of the trains.

Several of the larger stations held organized parties. In those places, where hundreds of persons seek shelter nighty from V-bombs or behomes, the borough councils and charitable organizations did their best to help things along.

In Holborn station a tree swayed in the rush of air from passing trains and piled around the foot were heaps of presents. The tags read "Pour mes petits amis Anglais." The presents were from the children in a voice which indicated that ren of liberated Belgium "for my little English friends."

There was a Santa Claus, too, calling out presents for children in a voice which indicated that in his spare time he was a station guard.

That didn't make any difference to kids like Anne, Mary, Jimmies and the little fellow who corrected St. Nick by saying "My name's Butch, see?" They just grabbed dolls, carts and games which most of them had never seen before in their war-filled lives and shrieked at the top of their voices.

There was concerts as well. For weeks the grown-ups had practised and gave the show after the presents had been presented.

Communist Unit Shows Growth Across China

By JAMES D. WHITE
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26.—(AP).— Here's what one of China's smallest newest backwoods communist regimes says it did in the first 10 months of 1944:

1. Expanded its territory at Japanese expense by half.
2. Freed 1,405 villages and 259,632 people.
3. Captured 1,442 Japanese and Chinese puppet soldiers; killed or wounded 3,813 more in 1,305 engagements.

These are just the headlines of a report made by Wu Hsin-Yu, deputy chairman of the northwest Shansi border government. This tiny, isolated regime is tucked away in the bare, jagged mountains of Shansi province in North China.

Wu's government rules possibly 5,000,000 Chinese peasants who have Japanese military occupation. The Japanese took this country from managed to survive several years of Chiang Kai-Shek's Chinese Central government troops.

Wu made the report to the main Chinese Communist government at Yennan, across the Yellow river to the west. This main Red base now has a radio transmitter and is beginning to tell the world its side of the quarrel between the Communists and Chiang's government at Chungking. Its broadcast of Wu's report was heard here by the Federal Communications Commission. Formally such reports don't get past Chungking censorship.

This little communist district is just one of the new Red regimes which are cropping up throughout the Japanese "occupied" part of China.

Conboy Opposed For Mayoralty

(By The Canadian Press)

Mayoralty elections will be held in only two Ontario cities—Toronto and Sault Ste. Marie—next Monday, Jan. 1. In two others, St. Catharines and Owen Sound, mayors were elected by acclamation when they were the only candidate to qualify before the Saturday night deadline for entering the election.

In Sault Ste. Marie, Mayor W. J. McMeeken is opposed by Alderman Fred A. Irwin, brother of a former mayor. In Toronto, where qualifications closed Friday night, Mayor Conboy is opposed by Controller R. H. Saunders.

In Owen Sound Mayor Garfield Case, Progressive Conservative candidate in the federal riding of Grey North where a by-election will be held Feb. 5, was not nominated and J. E. Knox was elected by acclamation. Defence Minister McNaughton will be the Liberal candidate in the Grey north by-election.

At St. Catharines, Mayor W. J. MacDonald was re-elected by acclamation.

Other Ontario cities held their elections a month ago.

Jealous Woman Slays Her Husband

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 26 — (AP).— Mrs. Nina Housden, 33, who detectives said, confessed killing her husband, Charles 36 "because I caught him with another woman," was found semi-conscious in City Jail early on Sunday with tissue paper stuffed in her mouth and nostrils, and a strip of wool bound around her neck, Police Matron Gaye Clark reported.

Mrs. Housden was revived.

Detectives from Highland Park, Mich., Detroit suburb, took Mrs. Housden into custody to return her to the scene where, they said, she confessed strangling her bus driver husband after getting him intoxicated, then dismembering his body.

Robot Bombing Future Menace

CHICAGO, Dec. 26—(AP)—Within 10 or 20 years, robot bombing is "almost certain" to befall the United States and all other countries unless and efficient peace organization is established, State Secretary Stettinius said today.

Writing in the Kiwanis magazine, Mr. Stettinius said the Dumbarton Oaks proposals are important because they point the alternative "to unspeakable disaster."

"Let no one forget that the robot bomb and the rocket are still in their infancy . . . these deadly missiles can be perfected to the point where they can travel thousands of miles at incredible speed.

"In that event our oceans, our industrial strength and our manpower would not be able to prevent surprise attack and vast damage by accurately aimed weapons travelling faster than sound."

Two Hunt Meetings Are Called Off

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP-Reuters) —Race fans hoping to see the First National Hunt season for nearly three years open today were disappointed.

It was announced here that the two meetings at Windsor and Wetherby, scheduled for this afternoon, were cancelled. The next meetings are planned for Jan. 6.

Wheat Acreage Shows Increase

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—(AP)— Indication production of winter wheat for harvest in 1945 in the United States is 761,591,000 bushels, based on crop conditions prevailing December 1.

The Agriculture Department, making this estimate, said it was determined by factors which are now measurable and can be related to yields in previous years, such as the reported condition of the crop, rainfall and temperatures to date.

Winter wheat production this year totalled 754,073,000 bushels, while production of both winter and spring wheat combined reached the record level of 1,078,647,000 bushels.

The Department estimated the area seeded to winter wheat at 49,589,000 acres, compared with 47,127,0000 a year ago and 48,015,000 acres for the ten-year (1932-41) average.

Married 71 Years

CHICAGO, Dec. 26—(AP). —Mr. and Mrs. Harlan W. Sanford had a special reason to celebrate Christmas yesterday—it was their 71st wedding anniversary. Sanford is 97, and his wife, whom he married on Christmas Day, 1873, in Elkhart, Ill., is 91. Among messages of congratulations received by the couple was one from Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Barse of Minneapolis, their friends who were married on the same day—71 years ago.

Three Apsley Boys Are Home From Overseas

APSLEY, Dec. 26. — (ENS).— Three native sons have arrived home from fighting in the King's forces overseas. Pte. T. A. Barton, who is with his wife and daughters in Lakefield; Pte. Rex Spence, who spent Christmas with his father and mother, Rev. C. A. G. Spence and Mrs. Spence; Pte. Denton Parks, who has been in Christie St. Hospital for some time. He was wounded in one knee, but hopes in time to be able to have full use of it. He also had one hand shot off above the wrist.

Christmas Treat.

Trinity United church Sunday school treat and Christmas tree was held in the Public Library. Games were played and a sing-song of Christmas carols was enjoyed. Following this Santa Claus arrived and distributed presents. Mrs. Stewart Brown gave a very appropriate talk on Christmas and its meaning. Then came the important part of the evening's events, the lunch served by the Sunday school staff.

Personals

Mrs. Kiff, teacher at Tucker's school, Mr. G. Northey at North school, and Miss Milburn of East Road school, are spending their holidays at their respective homes.

Mrs. N. H. Wilson is in Owen Sound, having been called there owing to the death of her aunt, Miss Kate Bell.

Mr. Thos. Wilson of London, is visiting relatives here.

Mrs. Harry Tanner had the misfortune to fall downstairs, injuring herself quite badly.

CAVE-CURED CHEESE

ENTRIES FOR TWO LEADS

IF YOU are the declarer and the strength of your side is bunched mainly in one of your two holdings—your own or the dummy—it will pay you to make an examination at the very beginning to determine how many entries you can profitably use in the weaker hand. You may not intend to try to establish a long suit in it, but merely to get over there for a couple of leads to finessing combinations in the stronger hand. Such an inspection may show you the desirability of using an unnecessarily high card from the stronger hand on some early trick.

North: ♠ 8 7 5 3 ♥ 8 4 3 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ 10 4 2

West: ♠ A 9 4 ♥ 6 2 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ A K 9 7 5

East: ♠ Q 6 2 ♥ 9 5 ♦ 8 4 3 2 ♣ Q J 6 3

South: ♠ K J 10 ♥ A K Q J 10 7 ♦ K Q J ♣ 8

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

| North | East | South | West |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | Pass | 2 ♥ | Pass |
| 2 NT | Pass | 3 ♥ | Pass |
| 4 ♥ | | | |

South was pretty lucky that North didn't get him into 5-Hearts with that ace, and that he was no higher than North would have put him without it. A slip made by South would have beaten a 5-Heart contract.

West opened the club K and followed with the A, which South ruffed with the heart 7. Wishing to finesse his spades, he took two top trumps and went to dummy with the diamond J to the A. He led the spade 8 and put in the J, which West got with the A. Another club was returned and ruffed, whereupon South had to lead entirely from his own hand. Consequently he had to lose a trick to the spade Q, and made his 4-Hearts right on the head.

Had he done the least bit more thinking before ruffing the second trick, South would have seen the desirability of ruffing with an honor instead of the 7. Keeping the 7 would have enabled him to possess two entries to the dummy if the trumps could be cleared in two rounds. Hence he could have taken two leads toward his spade holding, and so would have lost only one trick in the suit, thus making an extra trick.

He is the type of rubber bridge player who asked afterward: "What's the difference? I made my contract." But the little difference of an extra trick once in a while can mean the difference between being a winner in the long run or a loser.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 4 ♥ 10 6 4 3 2 ♦ J 8 7 5 ♣ 8 4

West: ♠ K 10 8 3 ♥ J 9 ♦ Q 4 ♣ A J 10 7 2

East: ♠ J 9 6 5 2 ♥ K Q 7 ♦ K 10 3 2 ♣ 5

South: ♠ A 7 ♥ A 8 5 ♦ A 9 6 ♣ K Q 9 6 3

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

After South opens this deal with 1-Club, what is the course of the soundest bidding?

Eskimos Are Weakened By Epidemic

ROSENEATH, Dec. 26—(ENS)—An interesting feature of St. James' Anglican church W.A. meeting was the reading of a letter from Mrs. A. C. Herbert, Anglican Mission, Eskimo Point, N.W.T. Mrs. Herbert is the wife of a former rector of St. James church, and was writing to thank the W.A. for a bale of clothing and quilts. Portions of the letter said. It is very quiet here now as the Eskimos have left for their winter hunting grounds. They have been around the settlement for about three months. We were unable to give them the usual teaching that they get when they are here because of the influenza epidemic that raged here for nearly three months. All services and meetings were cancelled. It has left many of the natives in such poor health that we are afraid many more will die this winter. They are a very poor bunch of Eskimos, the worts we have ever seen, they are so indifferent and seem to have no desire for the Gospel message. Having so much sickness has caused many to cling; to their pagan superstitions. We have our faithful few but that is not enough.

Mr. Herbert is away on a boat trip at present, visiting the natives about one hundred miles north of here. During the winter he hopes to visit all the Eskimos in this area.

"The American army boys are still here but they are hoping to go out this fall. This will be our last mail out for the summer. Our next mail will be in February."

Mrs. Herbert's letter but recently arrived, was written on September 17. She said they were hoping to see all their friends in Roseneath next summer on their way out to England. The meeting was held in the home of the president, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite.

Election of Officears.

The annual election of officers was conducted by Mrs. Earl Braithwaite, The president retired and Mrs. T. S. Coyle was elected to this office Other officers were: Vice-president, Mrs. James L. Timlin; secretary, Mrs. Ross McCracken; treasurer, Mrs. James S. Brown; Little Helpers secretary, Mrs. E. Timlin; E.C. A.D. treasurer, Mrs. W. Houghtailing; leaflet secretary, Mrs. James Webb; sunshine committee, Mrs. Edgar Braithwaite and Mrs. H. J. McCracken.

During a business session it was decided to remember the older members of the church with Christmas gifts.

The value of a bale shipped recently to the W. A. House in Toronto was announced as $15. The annual reports will be presented at the January meeting to be held in Mrs. James S. Brown's home.

'BLACKOUT FLYING SUIT' INVENTED IN CANADA — The "non-blackout" flying suit invented by a Canadian, Wing Cmdr. W. R. Franks of Toronto, is shown here in its testing laboratory at No. 1 Clinical Investigation Unit, Toronto, where the University of Toronto and Banting Institute assisted in the research. The operator sits in the chair at the left while a subject is tested in the gondola simulating the cockpit of a fighter plane. Dr. Franks was associate professor of medical research at the university. It was at the instigation of the late Dr. Frederick Banting that he began the research on the blackout suit.

Fly 116 Round Trips Over Atlantic Ocean

LONDON, Dec. 26—(CP Cable)—Trans-Canada Air Lines during 1944 has flown 116 round trips across the North Atlantic and now is operating three round trips weekly, says the current issue of the authoritative magazine, Aeroplane.

The magazine listed the following statistics for the Montreal-Prestwick Service on which converted Lancaster bombers are used: miles flown 805,484; mail carried, 1,029,153 pounds; freight, 176,560 pounds; passengers, 761.

Conversion of the Lancasters was a Canadian experiment, the Aeroplane said, adding it was so successful that a considerable number of these "Lancastrians" now are, being prepared for British Overseas Airways Corporation.

North School Pupils Hold Annual Concert

ROSENEATH, Dec. 26—(ENS)—The North School Christmas concert was held on Friday afternoon in the school. Trustee Earl Braithwaite was chairman. Miss Margaret Atkinson, music teacher of the school, was pianist and led in the singing of carols, and Rev. R. C. White told of Christmas in Bermuda.

Other numbers on the program included choruses by the school, recitations by Terry Hogg and Theodore McCracken; a sketch, "Let's be modern on the Farm" by the senior pupils; a musical play, "Mr. Moon and Merry Christmas"; a Christmas scene with The Ruggles, by junior pupils.

The teacher, Mrs. M. E. Malcolm, treated the children to candy.

Gore's Landing School Holds Annual Concert

GORE'S LANDING, Dec. 26 — (ENS)—The Christmas concert of S.S. No. 16 (Gore's Landing-Plainville) school children was held on Thursday afternoon at 2.30. Originally scheduled for Thursday, the concert was moved forward to the afternoon because of snow-blocked roads in this vicinity. No sideroads in Hamilton township are open for cars and the county road to Cobourg was opened again on Thursday by the snowplow.

Rev. M. C. Fisher was chairman for the concert and Mrs. R. J. Meggs was accompanist. The opening chorus of "Oh Canada" was followed by a welcome recitation by Lola Thackeray. The senior pupils sang several selections including a carol, "Roll Along Wavy Navy," "Jesu Bambino," and "My Dreamboat Passes By." A scene from the Nativity with Joan Harris as the Virgin Mary singing a solo; three boys sang "Noel" and choruses of carols, and the Junior choir sang three selections. A play "Telling the Truth" and another one act play "Reading the Sentinal Star" completed a full program. Santa Claus arrived and gifts were distributed to the many children and adults present.

Church Unveils New Honor Roll

At Wesley United Church, North Smith, a beautifully framed honor roll, the gift of the Women's Association, was unveiled bearing the names of the men from the congregation who are serving in the armed forces.

Rev. Robert Kitchen, pastor of the church, was in charge of the service. Miss Mary Nicholls presided at the organ, and the choir sang "God of the Nations" and Kipling's Recessional.

Kenneth Stewart of West Huntingdon, a former pastor of the Wesley circuit, unveiled the honor roll, and after reading the names offered the dedicatory prayer. In his address Mr. Stewart gave many examples from the Scriptures showing how God had saved and delivered His people when their cause seemed lost. Comparing these events with the progress of the war, the speaker claimed that God had repeatedly vindicated Himself.

Despite the inclement weather there was a large congregation, with Curve Lake and Lakehurst Churches represented as well as several from Peterborough. A beautiful flag, contributed also by the W.A., hung in the church.

The names appearing on the honor roll are: CSM Hayward, Horace J.; Pte. Sage, W. Keith; Sgt.-Major Armstrong, Wm. E.; Pte. Armstrong, Roger E.; Gnr. Harris, Vincent L.; Gnr. Harris, Percy W.; LAC. Northey, J. David; Gnr. Graham, A. Orton; Gnr. Pearson, Sherman R.; Pte. Sage, George F.

Judge Was Angry

MANCHESTER, Eng., Dec. 26 — (CP). — A girl was awarded $4,500 damages in Mr. Justice Stable's court for an injury to her hand in a laundry machine. Said the judge: "If her hand is injured as badly as my shirts when they come back from the laundry it must be severely damaged. I'm wearing a collar that is nearly cutting my head off."

REPORT U.S. PATROLS IN DUREN—Patrols of the U.S. First Army are reported to have crossed the Roer River and entered Duren (1), stronghold city on the Cologne Road, while the mounting intensity of the Nazi counter-offensive was said to have been checked—at least in part—south of Monschau (2). The course of the German attack, indicated by large arrow, appeared to be aimed from Stavelot toward Liege and Malmody with the purpose of hitting the First Army's northern flank. Several enemy attacks on Luxembourg (3) are reported continuing, while Allied bombers blasted Trier, a key German supply centre for the offensive.

Cabinet Crisis Marked Political Year

By FRANK FLAHERTY
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Dec. 26 — (CP) — Three major events dominated Canadian politics during 1944.

These events were: A Cabinet crisis of the first rank at Ottawa, the formation of the first Co-operative Commonwealth Federation Government in Saskatchewan, and the return of Maurice Duplessis and his Union Nationale Party to power in Quebec.

There were four provincial general elections, but no actual tests of public opinion on Federal issues at the polls in by-elections

In Alberta the Social Credit Government was returned an easy winner over its main opposition. the C.C.F., August 8, and in New Brunswick the Liberal administration came back from the polls on August 28 with a larger following than before with its principal opposition being the Progressive Conservative Party.

The C.C.F. won its first general election victory by a resounding margin in Saskatchewan June 15 when it ousted the former Liberal administration from office. Premier T. C. Douglas then formed the first C.C.F. administration and at a special autumn session of the Legislation enacted a number of measures in accordance with C.C. F. policies.

The Quebec Election.

In the Quebec provincial election August 8, Union Nationale regained power by a narrow margin from the Liberal Party headed by ex-Premier Adelard Godbout. The significant thing about the voting, apart from the change in government, was the failure of Quebec's newest party, Bloc Populaire, to elect any substantial number of members.

The Federal Cabinet crisis in November brought the resignations of two ministers, first Hon. J. L. Ralston from the Defence Department because the Government declined to act on his recommendation that troops be sent overseas by compulsion, and secondly Hon. C. G. Power from the Air Department, because the Government a few weeks later took that course of action.

In between the two resignations there were threats that as many as five other ministers might resign if overseas conscription were not resorted to in order to fill up depleted infantry reinforcement pools overseas.

The announcement that overseas conscription would be used came just after Parliament was called for a special meeting to discuss the reinforcement problem in view of widespread demands from newspapers and organizations throughout the country.

Parliamentary Crisis.

The Cabinet crisis changed into a parliamentary crisis as the solid ranks of the Liberal majority in the House of Commons appeared to be breaking. The break was in two ways. Members opposed to conscription were regardde as possible opponents of the Government they once supported and members who favored unrestricted use of conscripted soldiers in any theatre of war were not satisfied with the Order-in-Council which authorized the sending of 16,000 home defence troops.

In the end the break was almost entirely on the anti-conscriptionist side. The majority of Quebec Liberals left after three crossed the floor into Opposition voted against the Government and its policy. Only two non-Quebec Liberals registered a vote against the Government on the score of its conscription measure being inadequate.

The special meeting lasted 12 days and ended in a series of votes which gave the Government the endorsation of the House. A vote on a motion opposing overseas conscription was defeated; one on a motion calling for unrestricted conscription also was defeated, and a third on a motion that the House would aid the Government in "maintaining a vigorous war effort" was passed by 143 to 70.

Pupils, Ex-Pupils of Burn's Bridge Present Concert

BURN'S BRIDGE, Dec. 26 — (ENS). — Pupils and ex-pupils of S.S. 12, put on a concert under the direction of their teacher, Miss Regina Killen. Thomas Fitzgerald acted as chairman for the evening.

The program opened with chorus "Our Own Canadian Home" and "Good King Wenceslas," recitation of welcome by Helen Carlow, followed by a play "The Official Visit." Recitations were given by Alexander Carlow, Jr., Harold Bolton, Jr., Kathleen Carlow, Georgina Moore, and Bernadette Carlow; other plays were "Why the Bill was not Paid," "The Hired Man," "Fetching Paw Around"; songs by Verla Kidd, June Bell, and Marvin Kidd; a pantomime "Newsboy Tim" with music of "Silent Night"; drill by the girls, "Virginia Reel"; "The East-bound Train" was sung by Bernadette Carlow and Georgina Moore; a chorus by the pupils "Jolly Old St. Nicholas" and "Swing Low Sweet Chariot." The closing choruses "O Come all ye Faithful" and "Silent Night" was followed by Santa Claus distributing gifts off a well-laden tree. Each child in the audience received an orange and candy.

Personals.

Tpr. Lenoel Prouty, Camp Borden and Mrs. Prouty, (Gloria Kidd) of Allandale are spending the week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kidd.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred English of Norwood spent a few days with George, Alexander and Rae Carlow, brothers of Mrs. English.

Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Kidd spent a few weeks at Merritton with Mr. and Mrs. Burleigh. Leslie Kidd spent the past two weeks at Merritton and St Catharines.

Mrs. William Thompson was called to Norwood owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. McConnell, who is improving.

Arnold Thompson and Henry Earle have returned from Fort William.

Mrs. Max Clements spent a few days in Peterborough with her son Basil.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rae, Bernard and Joyce, 2nd Line, were recent guests at the Kidd home.

E.L.A.S. Terms Unacceptable Political Talks Continuing

ATHENS, Dec. 27—(AP).—Greek Populist party members declared today that peace proposals by representatives of the Left-Wing ELAS were unacceptable and the conference called by Prime Minister Churchill ended its second meeting without an agreement. The ELAS offered terms which former Premier Stylianos Gonatas said "are inadmissible." He declared that "if acceptable, they would mean complete dissolution of the state." Other members of the conference said they would consider the terms and reply later.

Even while the conferees met in the Grand Bretagne Hotel the British accused ELAS artillerymen of breaking a conference truce late yesterday and the fresh fighting flared in the district behind British headquarters. Parachute troops forged ahead with tanks and armored cars in a drive to clear the southern triangle leading into Omonia Square.

Break Truce.

British spokesmen announced earlier that ELAS artillery had broken a conference truce by firing upon a British warship and the Anglo-Greek naval headquarters late yesterday and that, as a result, offensive air action would begin again.

British authorities informed the E.L.A.S. that the truce was regarded as null and void.

It had been agreed that no artillery action would be taken on one side or air action on the other for three-quarters of an hour from 3 p.m., while E.L.A.S. delegates were being brought to last night's conference at which Prime Minister Churchill appealed for the warring factions to end their strife.

The conference was so tense that all military delegates surrendered their side arms at the door.

"Whether Greece is a monarchy or a republic is a matter for the Greeks and the Greeks alone to decide," the Prime Minister told the assemblage before he and other British representatives retired and left the Greeks to continue the conference alone. "All we wish you is good, and good for all," Mr. Churchill added.

Britain's only interest in using her troops in the current civil war, Mr. Churchill asserted, is to bring an end to disorder and make possible an election by secret ballot.

In Secret Spot

The session, convened at a secret site while continuing gunfire sounded in the distance, broke up after 4½ hours with word it would be resumed later, possibly today, when additional delegates may be present.

An hour before the meeting ended Themistokles Sophoulis, Liberal party leader, left the conference room. There was no explanation. Neither was there any announcement of what occurred after the Allied representatives left.

Comparative Quiet Hangs Over West Front Huns Continue To Probe Allied Defences

By KENNETH L. DIXON
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH ALLIED ARMIES ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 27—(AP)—An atmosphere of comparative quiet, uneasy and almost ominous, overhung the Western Front today. Each side probed tentatively and ineffectually at the other's defences.

Discounting the possibility of a calm before the storm as the import of this freakish period, the Allied position seems to be the most cheerful since Field Marshal Von Rundstedt uncorked his counter-stab 10 days ago.

Both sides of the German penetration corridor have been generally solidified by the Allies. And at the westernmost point, the enemy armored thrust had been battered heavily several times.

A staff officer said all enemy progress northward from the deepest point had been "greatly slowed if not fully stopped," despite repeated German power thrusts toward vital Allied supply lines and dumps.

Despite the 48-hour time lag in official news, it was apparent yesterday to this reporter circling the rim of the enemy's Belgium penetration that both American and German armored thrusts in recent days have been comparatively costly and unsuccessful.

War May Last Until Fall Unless Eisenhower Scores

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER—Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP).—Military strategists now are tentatively adding three to six months to their estimate of a date for victory in Europe. There is still hope in high places that the Allied armies will be able to turn the United States reverse on the Western front into an early and decisive victory. But at the moment it is a gray and waning hope, although the battle is still fluid.

Along with this sober estimate of the fighting has come a conviction that at least part of the German success was due to over-optimism throughout the Allied high command.

First Allied generals thought the European war would be won last fall; later they set the date at the year's end, then moved it forward to spring. Now they talk of next fall or winter.

If it actually takes until late next year to beat the Germans, the date for victory over Japan will have to be moved forward also. But in Asia and the Pacific, as well as in Europe, much of what will happen depends on Russian plans, as yet unrevealed.

Successful Russian assault and break-through to Berlin might shorten the war somewhat, but there now is no reason to believe that those results would be either certainly or quickly achieved. Military men say the Germans may be expected to resist and strike back in the East with the same ferocity they have shown against the Western Allies.

Fooled Allies.

The success of the present German drive is being attributed by some authorities here partly to a failure of Allied intelligence and planning. Extremely young, extremely old and second-rate troops found in many westwall fortifications were considered typical of all German forces.

As a matter of fact the German force, reported to number about 20 divisions, represented a reorganization of the defeated remnants of the armies beaten in France; the use of second-rate troops in the westwall completely camouflaged

Canadian Wing Blasts Germans

WITH THE R. C. A. F. IN HOLLAND, Dec. 27—(CP Cable)—The Canadian Typhoon fighter-bomber wing rushing every available pilot and aircraft into the skies, yesterday smashed German transport in the Ardennes salient of Belgium, scene of bitter Christmas ground fighting.

First reports showed the wing destroyed 26 and damaged 110 motor vehicles scattered in the snow-covered fields during the day.

The City of Ottawa squadron was the highest scoring Canadian unit, destroying or damaging 31 vehicles in the last two days. Planes from the squadron also attacked three field guns.

One City of Ottawa flight was led by Flt. Lt. Donald Jemfey of Ingersoll, Ont., who has developed a new technique to aid convoy attacks. He leads his section until the first target is observed and, while the remainder of the planes attack, he strafes roads in the area and by radio keeps the flight informed of developments.

French Gestapo Members Die

LONDON, Dec. 27 (CP-Reuters)—Eight members of the French Gestapo, sentenced to death by a Paris court recently, were executed at 10.15 a.m. at Fort Montrouge, Paris radio said today.

Best known of the eight were Pierre Bony, former police inspector of the Surette General, the French Scotland Yard, who played an outstanding part in the Stavisky scandals inquiry.

He admitted at his trial that he was involved in the arrest of Mlle. Genevieve De Gaulle, niece of Gen. De Gaulle, who was a member of a resistance group.

The other seven were: Henri Lafont, the leader of the gang, Paul Clavie, nephew of Lafont, Alexandre Villaplana, a former French International footballer, Charles Delval, formerly of the resistance movement found guilty of having betrayed his comrades to the Gestapo, Lois Hare, said to have been responsible for the surveillance of a British woman agent, and Eagel Pagnon.

A ninth man sentenced to death was reprieved.

Germans Are Trying To Frighten Belgians

LONDON, Dec. 27—(CP).—A German radio station which has been trying to panic the Belgians ever since opening of the present offensive said today Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's forces were using an atomic bomb in the new attack.

"This is the type of bomb on which the Allies have claimed to have a monopoly," the announcer said. The "Germans used it at St. Vith. Wherever such a missile is dropped all animals and plants cease to exist. Huge areas of land are scorched, woods are consumed, and any human being caught in the hurricane is shattered to smithereens."

Japs Strengthen Defences

Plan Overland Route From Korea To Malaya

CHUNGKING, Dec. 27.—(AP).—Information Minister Wang Shih-Chieh said to-day the Chinese High Command believed the Japanese intended to consolidate a route from Korea to Malaya not as an avenue of retreat but "to put up very stubborn fighting in the China, French Indo-China and Malaya."

Wang told correspondents the Japanese spent more than eight months in offensive operations to open the route, and that the objective had been largely achieved. He said the Chinese considered it a duty to furnish "by far the largest land forces" for the forthcoming struggle, and added that Chinese authorities were taking steps to obtain better equipment for its army.

P. H. Chang, Chinese cabinet spokesman, said to-day the Japanese apparently were preparing for a drive to close the gap in the Canton-Hankow railway, a sector which remains in Chinese hands south of Hengyang.

He also declared he had received information that the Japanese were strengthening their defences on the China coast north and south of Shanghai against a feared Allied attack.

Russian Army Closing In On Budapest

German Garrison Burning Stores Dynamiting Buildings

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Dec. 27.—(AP).—Red army shock troops charged upon flame-seared Budapest from snowy hills above the Danube river today. The German garrison burned military stores, dynamited public utilities and fought back grimly with field artillery scattered throughout the Hungarian capital.

Half a dozen Soviet spearheads were reported closing in on the western half of the encircled city and all German roads of escape were cut off. Just how many troops comprise the defending garrison is not known here, but the Russian Command said their numbers were large.

Enter Buda District.

Soviet assault units of tanks, plus tommy-gunners, were believed to have slashed some distance into the Buda district on the west bank of the Danube.

A delayed dispatch from Szekesfehervar, about 32 miles southwest of Budapest, disclosed that the Germans had fought for that city street by street. A pillbox was manned outside St. Stephen's cathedral until it was silenced by a direct hit.

Thousands of German dead were reported to have lined the roads on the battlefields between Szekesfehervar and Budapest following the Russian advance. Burned out armored vehicles, many of them the latest King Tiger and Panther tanks, dotted the fields and endless columns of prisoners marched miserably to the cages, the dispatch said.

From the hilltops of the Buda district on the west bank of the Danube Marshal Feodor I. Tolbukhin's heavy artillery dominated the entire city — including Pest's massive business and factory buildings on the plain east of the river.

Armored columns, already deep inside the city's western outskirts, were blasting their way house by

B29 Superforts Batter Tokyo

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27.—(AP).—Tokyo industrial areas were slugged to-day for the fifth day by Saipan-based Superfortresses.

The daylight blow was the first on the sprawling Japanese capital since Dec. 3. A War Department communique did not report further details.

Tokyo radio said the giant planes "dropped explosives and incendiaries at random, causing insignificant damage." The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, was unreadable in places but apparently the enemy claimed that some interceptors "chalked up" victories against the Superfortresses.

In previous raids on Tokyo the flying battleships have concentrat-

Germans Claim Bag Of 70 Tanks

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP-Reuters)—The battle in southeastern Belgium and central Luxembourg is increasing in violence, today's German communique reported.

"In the area north of Laroche a large-scale armored battle developed yesterday," it added.

Seventy tanks of the United States 3rd and 7th Armored Divisions were destroyed or captured, it claimed.

American forces attacking from the southwest and the south attempted in vain to relieve closely compressed formations around Bastogne, according to the communique.

A German military spokesman said the battle near Laroche was developing "favorably," in the opinion of German military quarters.

In central Luxembourg, the communique reported, new Allied attacks also failed, and only in the area west of Echternach were the Allies able to make local gains.

A total of 158 Allied tanks were shot up or captured yesterday in the west, the communique said.

Along the northern frontier of Alsace-Lorraine German troops again pressed back the Allies in several sectors, Berlin said. Northeast of Wissembourg the outposts of the Siegfried line were cleared and a number of localities freed, it claimed, adding that in heavy air combats lasting all day German fighters shot down 35 Allied planes over the western battle area.

"The fire of our long-range weapons against Liege, Antwerp and London was continued," the communique said.

The German Transocean Agency reported Allied re-grouping movements on the western front with the Americans in the Aachen area being replaced by British formations.

"In the course of the regrouping going on behind the Allied lines the released Americans may soon reappear on the winter battlefield," it said.

Bombers Hit Reich From 2 Sides To Reduce Supplies

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP).—RAF, Canadian and Allied heavy bombers flew from British bases to pound again today at German positions in the sector of the enemy offensive into Belgium. Allied planes based in Belgium, Holland and France joined the attacks, aided by favorable weather.

RCAF bomber group Halifaxes gave close support to Allied troops now facing the German thrust towards the Meuse River. The targets were many concentrations in St. Vith near the Belgian-German border and several Canadian crews claimed the target, which comprised most of the village, was wiped out.

Weather was clear over the target and no enemy fighters were encountered.

The German radio reported formations of heavy bombers heading north from Austria, indicating that the Allies were striking from Italy at enemy war industries far behind the battle lines.

The U. S. 8th Air Force attacked rail yards at Coblenz and rail bridges north of the city yesterday.

R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. heavy bombers bombed German troops and tank concentrations north of St. Vith.

It was the fifth straight day the Allied aerial whiplash had fallen across the German offensive path. Heavy bombers from Britain and the armor-busting tactical air forces, British and American, based on the continent, participated.

In three days the two tactical forces reported they destroyed 2,228 enemy transport vehicles and damaged 1,054, destroyed 439 Nazi planes, probably bagged 55 more, and damaged 121. All this was exclusive of the toll taken by heavy bombers.

R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. heavy bombers battered St. Vith yesterday left the town "burning from end to end with the streets just great sheets of flames," one pilot said. British heavies hammered German concentrations near St. Vith again to-day.

Yesterday American fighters and bombers flew 1,400 sorties and the R. A. F. and R. C. A. F. 700. They destroyed more than 1,000 German motor vehicles, including 146 armored cars and tanks, and 71 Nazi planes. Allied losses were set at 30 fighters and one bomber.

Approximately 500 heavy bombers of the 15th Air Force attacked three German synthetic oil refineries yesterday.

Since Saturday, when clearing weather permitted Allied fighters and bombers to lend their powerful aid to ground troops, 475 German planes have been destroyed.

Disastrous Fire

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 27—(AP).—A four-alarm fire early today destroyed 3,200,000 pounds of wool and the Kensington plant of Hyman Brodsky and Son Co., almost trapping seven employees and threatening for a time an adjoining oil plant containing 186,000 gallons of oil.

Company officials said reprocessed wool was valued at $1 a pound and that their night foreman, Charles Seiler, estimated 3,200,000 pounds had been destroyed. He declined to estimate the total damage.

Canadian Units Drive Steadily North In Italy

ROME, Dec. 27—(CP)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army today were reported fanning out northeast of newly-won Rossetta in the direction of Alfonsine, 7½ miles north-northeast of captured Bagnacavallo, clearing out fortified buildings.

Other 8th Army troops were advancing in the same manner in the areas about Bagnacavallo and Faenza, but the Adriatic front wos reported generally quiet. Today's official communique mentioned only patrol activity.

To the west, near Italy's Tyrrhenian coast, a strong German counter-attack forced Allied 5th Army forces to withdraw from advanced outposts in the Serchio River Valley.

(By latest reports Brazilian troops were in operation on that sector of the 5th Army front.)

It was announced here that the withdrawals were made only after bitter fighting, but no details were immediately available.

The German air force struck again yesterday when anti-personnel bombs were dropped north of San Benedetto, immediately south of Bologna, and around Grizzana, to the southwest.

Allied fighters, fighter-bombers and light bombers flew 1,000 missions against the German ground forces in Italy.

Canadian, British and New Zealand troops of the 8th Army were reported last night advancing toward the Senio River line after the Canadians seized hotly-contested Rossetta, 10 miles northwest of Ravenna.

Enemy rearguards in the salient northeast of Faenza had been mopped up and the Germans driven from all positions east of the Naviglio canal.

After they took Rossetta the Canadians had pressed on to within two miles of Alfonsine on the Ravenna-Ferrera highway, yesterday's communique reported; a front dispatch from Canadian Press War Correspondent William Boss placed the distance at 1½ miles.

Supplies Are Dropped To Trapped Force

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP).—Hundreds of tons of supplies—mainly ammunition—were parachuted today to United States troops cut off by the German drive in the Bastogne area.

Twin-engined sky trains flew from Britain and France with cargoes for the infantry who have withstood repeated tank attacks while waiting for relief columns last reported 4½ miles away.

Meanwhile a BBC broadcast from London heard in New York today said American columns are now only 1¼ miles from Bastogne, where the beleaguered garrison is holding out against heavy enemy pressure.

Quarter Million Nazi Troops Thrown Into Battle

By JAMES M. LONG
Associtaed Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 27.—(AP).—United States troops have thrown back German armored columns that thrust within four miles of the Meuse river and a front dispatch to-day declared Allied forces were slowly regaining the initiative on flanks of the German drive into Belgium.

The German offensive—believed to be powered with some 250,000 troops—had sent light armored combat teams to Celles and Ciney in a bid to reach the Meuse. But infantry in a Christmas Day battle rolled them back one to two miles, Allied Headquarters disclosed.

A dispatch from the field to-day declared United States armor and infantry, "slowly regaining the initiative, have locked in a series of sharp battles with probing Germans on both flanks of the 20-mile gap between the Hotton and Bastogne areas."

Fighting still is extremely fluid in this sector, it added.

Attack Celles.

Allied Headquarters said Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's units had been held virtually without gains during the 24 hours up to Tuesday morning.

But the German southern flank at the same time stiffened against the American push to relief the encircled garrison at Bastogne. The relief force at last official reports still was 4½ miles south of the city.

Von Rundstedt's advance tank units had speared into Celles, only four miles from the Meuse and eight miles from the French frontier, and into Ciney farther northeast, 14 miles south of Namur. At Celles, his men were only 50 miles from Brussels, and had penetrated 57 miles from the take-off positions.

By Tuesday morning, both Celles and Ciney were back in American hands.

Later developments after this check two days ago to the enemy thrust 50 miles into Belgium were not disclosed.

The Supreme Headquarters communique said simply that "a few enemy tanks and troop-carriers pushed forward in the direction of

27 Jap Ships Sunk By Subs

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27—(AP)—Destruction of a large Japanese aircraft carrier, six additional enemy warships and 20 other Japanese vessels by American submarines was reported by the navy department today.

Few details were given on the sinkings in Far Eastern waters, announced by Navy Secretary James Forestal at a news conference.

The aircraft carrier was not identified beyond the statement that it was "large." The other warships blasted by the underseas fleet included: one converted light cruiser, a destroyer, two escort vessels and two destroyer transports. Other ships sent to the bottom by torpedoes and depth guns were two large transports, 10 medium cargo vessels, three small cargo vessels, one small transport, two medium cargo transports, and two medium tankers.

These sinkings bring to 1,090 the number of Japanese ships sunk, probably sunk or damaged since the United States entered the war. Included are 99 warships definitely sunk, 11 probably sunk and 16 damaged.

Titanic Battle Likely Soon In Belgium

Rundstedt's Recent Gains Have Stabilized Entire German Salient

By DEWITT MACKENIE
Associated Press War Analyst

We can't know the extent of the damage which the German offensive has done the Allies until Gen. Eisenhower launched his major counter-attack and puts Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's flashing steel to the full test.

That great and perhaps decisive battle isn't likely to be long deferred, though one proceeds cautiously with estimates these days when news from the front often is delayed 48 hours by censorship. As things now look we may expect to see shortly a titanic engagement which will flame throughout much of the some 2,500 square miles which the Germans have overrun.

The prospects remain broadly what they were the day Von Rundstedt flung his attack through a pea-soup fog against the thinly-held American front along the Argonne. He in delaying final Allied victory over Germany indefinitely, or he would receive a knockout blow.

Those alternatives still are before him. There is, however, this difference: his position is much stronger today because of the damage he resources, would bring him one of two things—either he would succeed knew then that his colossal gamble, into which he was pouring all his has inflicted to the American fighting machine and because he has succeeded in uniting his two original wedges thereby giving his salient much greater stability.

Clever Leadership

Eisenhower hasn't yet lost his opportunity of administering a knockout to his opponent. Still, Von Rundstedt by clever generalship has manoeuvred himself into such a position that when he has to face the full strength of the Allied counter-blow he may be able to pull back into is old position in the Seigfried defences and thus avoid having his forces cut off and annihilated. This of course would mean he had succeeded in protracting the war so that his masters could fish for peace.

It would also mean—and we shouldn't overlook this—that the Germans had secured greater freedom of action in meeting the Russian drive in the East. We may be sure that the German high command had this aspect of the situation well in mind in launching the attack against the Western Allies. They not only are facing the menace of the huge, and successful Red offensives through Hungary towards Austria but they've been expecting the Russians to launch a fresh drive against the Vistula front toward the German frontier.

V-Bombs Hit N. England

First Air Attacks In Two Years

SOMEWHERE IN NORTHERN ENGLAND, Dec. 27—(CP Cable).—Untouched by enemy air activity for two years, some areas of northern England were attacked by V-bombs in the pre-dawn hours of Christmas.

The enemy weapons killed men, women and children and flattened homes where, when the sirens used to sound, inhabitants would shrug their shoulders and say "Just another practice warning." Some towns and villages were bombed for the first time.

Christmas trees, tinsel and decorations are visible in the debris along ruined streets and families who awaited servicemen coming home on leave spent Christmas huddled in blankets on emergency beds in the rest centres.

One father who was to have dressed as Santa Claus still is searching in the rubble of his home for his children.

Rescue workers found in the ruins of houses such articles as a tin containing turkey ready for cooking, musical scores for Christmas parties, tattered and broken Christmas presents and even mince pies and cakes.

2nd Prospector Freezes At Kirkland Lake

KIRKLAND LAKE, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Fred Hermiston, 36-year-old prospector, is the second victim of an ill-fated prospecting trip to Skead Township north of Kirkland Lake. His body was found yesterday by a search party which had found the body of his companion, 16-year-old Frank Minaker of Kirkland Lake, on Monday. Both had been frozen to death.

Hermiston and Minaker, a High School student, left here December 18 to stake gold claims. A search started when they failed to return by Christmas Eve. Minaker's body was found in a sitting position by a pine tree beside the trail to the prospecting camp. Hermiston's body was two miles away, off the trail but only 200 yards from the camp.

Searchers returning here to-day reported that Hermiston apparently had been lost as his tracks showed he had tramped many times around a great mass of rock without realizing it and without knowing how close the camp was.

Searchers theorized that the two were staking separately Wednesday—posts on the claims showed they had been staked that day—and separated to do the work, agreeing to meet at a designated point later. Both were lightly dressed, apparently because the weather was comparatively mild that day and they were working actively. However, at night the temperature fell to 23 degrees below zero. It was suggested both worked until dark and then were overcome by cold and fatigue.

Tracks showed that Hermiston had crisscrossed the claim area several times, apparently in search of the boy. He cut Minaker's trail a number of times, but didn't follow it.

His body is being brought to Kirkland Lake to-night.

house toward two big bridges that span the Danube and link the two sections of the city.

Field dispatches said other Russian successes achieved simultaneously with yesterday's full encirclement of the Hungarian capital had brought the German command in the east to a moment of supreme crisis.

Move Up Danube.

Tolbukhin's 3rd Ukraine army and Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's 2nd Ukraine army, it was pointed out, are tactically linked up northwest of Budapest for a joint drive up both sides of the Danube to Bratislava, Slovakian capital, and Vienna.

Swarming forward along the Hron (Garam), a northern tributary of the Danube, Malinovsky's troops captured at least 13 towns in southern Czechoslovakia and advanced within 63 miles of Bratislava and within 96 of Vienna.

Tolbukhin's gains west of Budapest tightened the Russian battle line in the Danubian basin into the equivalent of a single front, stretching some 250 miles from the approach to the eastern Slovakian fortress town of Kassa to the southwestern Hungarian gap south of Lake Balaton.

Both Tolbukhin and Malinovsky are reported throwing reserves into the central sector of this line, where a new break-through might be fatal to German hopes of keeping the war from the soil of Austria.

Tolbukhin's troops, in cutting off the Hungarian capital, captured Csakvar, 25 miles west of the city, and reached and seized the Danube city of Esztergom, 20 miles northwest.

BombsPockmark Manila Airfield

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 27 — (AP). — Land-based American bombers for the fourth consecutive day blasted Japan's airfields at Manila on Luzon Island, now regarded as vulnerable to reinvasion by United States forces mopping up in the central Philippines.

Clark Field was the principal target as it was in two of the previous attacks. It was plastered Monday with 88,000 pounds of explosives, Gen. MacArthur reported today.

The Japanese showed disposition to make a fight of it and sent up at least 50 interceptors, of which 39 were shot down by U.S. fighter escorts. Four more were listed as probably downed. The day's bag brought to 72 the total of Japanese planes shot down in 48 hours in the Manila raids. The Americans lost six fighters on the two days.

On conquered Leyte, American ground forces mopped up small and isolated Japanese remnants which the communique said were "capable of only minor opposition." Enemy casualties for the Leyte campaign were raised to 114,120.

Fighter cover in the Manila raid was led by Maj. Thomas McGuire, of San Antonio, Tex., who bagged three Japanese. That brought his total to 38, within shooting range of the 40 credited to Maj. Richard I. Bong of Poplar, Wis., leading American ace, and equal to the total of Wing Cmdr. J. E. (Johnny) Johnson, British-born top Allied ace in Western Europe, who leads an R.C.A.F. Europe-based Spitfire wing.

Liberators raided Mindanao airdromes and harbors, sinking two freighters, and fighter-bombers assaulted the Japanese Silay airdrome on Negros Island.

At Pearl Harbor Admiral Nimitz announced that between 16 and 25 Japanese planes attacked the airstrips on Saipan Island, in the Marianas, base for the Tokyo-raiding superfortresses. Four attacking planes were shot down.

We do not want an inch of your territory, we seek no commercial advantages, save those which are offered to Greece to all nations of the world. We have not the slightest intention of interfering with the way in which normal and tranquil Greece carries on its affairs.

"What will enable us to leave Greece? Naturally now that all these tragic things have happened, we are bound in honor to bring this matter to a good conclusion.

Must Accept Terms.

"We must, of course, ask for the acceptance and fulfilment of General Scobie's terms. We hope there may be established a broad-based Greek government representative of the Greek nation possessed of sufficient armed power in a Greek national army and with Greek police to preserve itself in Athens until a fair, free general election can be held all over the country, or at any rate over the greater part of the country.

"We hope thus the voice of the Greek people shall be fully expressed in the same way as we express our voice in England and America by the method of elections based on secret ballot so that every man, rich or poor, has an equal right to cast his vote of citizenship.

"My hope is, however, that the conference which begins here this afternoon in Athens will restore Greece once again to her fame and power among the Allied and peace-loving peoples of the world, will secure the Greek front from any danger from the north and will enable every Greek to make the best of himself and the best of his country before the eyes of the whole world. For all eyes are turned upon this table at this moment and we British trust that whatever misunderstandings there have been, we shall preserve those old friendships between Greece and Great Britain, which played so notable part in this establishment of Greek independence."

Called to order 1½ hours late, the conference began without representatives of the left-wing National Political Front party whose armed militia, the E.L.A.S., is opposing Greek Rightists and British troops.

After Mr. Churchill had been speaking for about five minutes, however, three E.A.M. delegates were ushered in. Each shook hands with all at the conference table and the Prime Minister began his speech again.

Mr. Churchill declared that British troops came to Greece "with the knowledge and approval" of President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin and in the belief that all Greeks, including the commander of the E.L.A.S. army, wanted them.

"Since we've been here," he added, "the most violent, unexpected troubles have arisen and we have become involved in them in doing what we believed was our duty. This duty we shall discharge faithfully until the end."

Fliers Decimate Luftwaffe Across Belgium

By DOON CAMPBELL

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 27 (Reuters)—News from the front where the Americans are opposing the German offensive is better and the atmosphere at headquarters is more heartening daily.

Now, as Allied air armadas roar over the German formations, the tide seems to be turning and the word "Falaise" is being mentioned by air force spokesmen.

Falaise was the Normandy 'slaughterhouse" where British and Canadian troops decimated one German army. Now Field Marshal Gerd von Rundstedt's army is being slaughtered. The Luftwaffe, after its sensational spurt in support of the opening phases of the offensive, has been badly crippled. It has lost a large proportion of its tactical strength.

The Allied air forces have hammered the Luftwaffe forward airfields into acres of craters. Bombs have been cascaded on woods and other places that might be hiding stores and supplies of ammunition and petrol.

As a result the Luftwaffe yesterday flew only 300 sorties.

Meanwhile, several features of von Rundstedt's offensive are clearer.

The main weight of his counter-offensive is being committed in the central sector.

Before it was on the northern sector and then in the southern sector.

His attempted breakthrough to Liege by the quickest and shortest route was foiled by a rapid adjustment of the Allied defenses and the immediate employment of counter-measures.

Now the thrust is aimed at the River Meuse in the Namur sector.

Getting to Liege was too costly a business.

Celles," four miles from Dinant on the Meuse, but that "these were engaged by our forces and were driven back, some tanks being knocked out."

An 11-mile Sunday plunge had carried two forward columns of the German offensive—being made by two and perhaps three armies—to Celles and to Ciney, six miles northeastward and nine from the Meuse.

Front Widened.

The surrounded Bastogne garrison of several thousand troops still held out in an epic stand. Gen. Eisenhower's relieving counter-assault from the south at last reports still was 4½ miles from the city, but the front of his attack had been widened.

The great battle raging through Belgium and Luxembourg seemed to be mounting toward a climax, with Von Rundstedt committing more men to the struggle and hammering ceaselessly at American troops along his northern flank.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt was pushing hard to the northwest—toward the Antwerp supply route—from his reinforced line along the Hotton-Marche road, but "our positions have been maintained," said the Allied communique covering actions two days old.

Not Stopped.

It still was a grinding battle of huge cost in which Von Rundstedt's next moves yet were to shape up. The defence had slowed up but not yet stopped the German armor.

Along the northern rim of their salient, Germans captured Manhay, 10 miles southwest of Stavelot.

Von Rundstedt kept bloody Bastogne near the middle of the salient under incessant day and night attack, hurling in tanks which the defenders knocked out as fast as they came up.

There was no indication how much longer the Bastogne force, originally numbering several thousand men, could hold out, but neither was there any suggestion they were anywhere near the end of their power or determination to resist.

The closest point reached by the relieving force from the south was just north of Chaumont, five miles south of Bastogne. Seven miles southwest of Bastogne, Americans pressed near Cobreville. They cleared Hollange and Timtange, six and eight miles south of Bastogne, entered Luitzhausen 10 miles to the southeast and fought German infantry and tanks in Eschdorf, 12 miles southeast of Bastogne.

This northward thrust was rolling over high hills carpeted with woods.

Farther southeast of Bastogne, Americans battled strong Nazi units in Kehmen and Ringel, five and seven miles from Diekirch. High ground was won below Diekirch, and a German attack was repulsed near Haller, midway between Diekirch and Echternach 12 miles farther southeast. Waldbillig, six miles from Echternach fell.

German patrols were active on the Holland front again yesterday, particularly on the 1st Canadian army sector north of Tilburg.

South of Duren, Americans cleared the town of Winden.

Infantrymen cleaned up an enemy pocket near La Gleize in the Stavelot area, taking 150 prisoners, and seizing 38 tanks, 70 half-track vehicles, eight armored cars and six self-propelled guns, the communique said.

On the U.S. 7th Army front, slight gains were made in forested areas west of Wissembourg, and in the high southern Vosges an enemy raid on Thann was repulsed.

Great Battle Near.

In a front dispatch last night Associated Press war correspondent Wes Gallagher said there were growing indications that the German High Command had decided to risk the heart of the German army in this western front effort. He added:

"The next few days should tell the story, with strong prospects for the greatest battle of the Second Great War in the offing."

This dispatch said that in general the northern flank is being held, forcing the German commander even farther west in his efforts to turn toward Liege and Antwerp.

Von Rundstedt still has substantial reserves, reserves that two months ago were thought impossible by most Allied military experts," Gallagher said, adding:

"If he commits them either in the break-through or in a new attempt farther north, the struggle on the western front will have a life-or-death aspect. It will strain every Allied resource.

"But if Von Rundstedt fails, the German army will be in exactly the same crippled condition it was after the abortive Paris offensive of 1918."

this organization.

With strategy and timing now conceded here to be brilliant, the Germans hit at a moment and place of weakness with complete surprise.

Compelled to fight defensively, General Eisenhower has had to withdraw and regroup his divisions for a counter-attack. If his counter-measures succeed in breaking the German drive and converting an imminent defeat into unexpected victory, the enormous cost of the whole affair may be written off as the cost of triumph.

Deloro Accepts 1944 Council

MARMORA, Dec. 27—(ENS)—At the municipal nomination meeting held in Deloro Hall in the noon hour of Christmas Day, the reeve and council of Deloro were given acclamation as well as three public school trustees elected for two years.

The newly elected men are: Reeve, C. H. Buskard; Council, H. A. McNally, A. W. Drew, W. Mumby and J. A. Paquet. The latter succeeds S. B. Wright, who was reeve for many years, due to Mr. Wright's impending departure from the district to live in British Columbia. The school trustees who were re-elected were M. J. Corrigan, H. I. Dalton and W. Brown.

Sunday School Holds Annual Yule Concert

OMEMEE, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—The annual Sunday school Christmas entertainment was held in the basement of Trinity United church and a fine program had been prepared by the teachers and was well presented by the children. William Weir, assistant superintendent, was chairman for the evening.

The program opened with a Christmas carol, 'Hark the Herald Angels Sing,' after which F. Johnson, superintendent, spoke. The following program was given: Recitations by Jean Hyland, Laverne Clifford and Marilyn Clifford; solo by Temple Morcombe, 'Santa Claus is Coming'; recitations by Lorraine Hyland, Bobby Smith and Beverley Linsdell; vocal trio by Dorothy Smith, Helen Binstead and Joan Salter; recitations by Ross Hyland and Marilyn Hart; trio by Douglas Graham; John Pogue and Elvin Connell; recitation by Shirley Clifford; solo by Dorothy Connell, 'The White Cliffs of Dover'; recitations by Phyliss Nelson and Stella Linsdell; solo by Temple Morcombe; a group of Christmas carols played by an orchestra made up of M. Williams, piano and director, Harold Brooks, clarinet, Bob Brown, saxaphone, Clifford Lance, violin, and Donald Graham, traps.

Other numbers included: Recitation by Morley Connell; song by Mrs. V. Williams' class; recitation, Yvonne Sibley; piano solo by Margaret Graham; trumpet solo by Donald Sibley; recitation by Ruth Morrison; a quartette made up of Miss Lorna Graham, Richard Vaughan and Mr. and Mrs. William Weir, who sang 'Sleep Baby Sleep,' and as a final number, a humorous one-act play, entitled 'The Rector's Wives' with the following taking part: Gwen Graham, Audrey Jones, Betty Black, Doreen Clifford and Frank McQuade.

Nine Injured

MONTREAL, Dec. 27.—(CP). — Nine persons were injured in a collision involving two street cars and a Montreal tramways sweeper yesterday. One tram crashed into the back of the sweeper and the second tram sandwiched the first car between it and the sweeper.

3 Children Perish

DETROIT, Dec. 27—(AP).—Three small children, whose parents were attending a movie, died last night from burns and suffocation in a fire that destroyed their home. Victims were Catherine Gillingham, three, and her two brothers, Jackie, seven, and Bobby, two.

Smokey Smith Enjoying Leave

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Dec. 27 — (CP). — Private Ernest Alvia (Smokey) Smith of the Seaforth Highlanders, New Westminster's second Victoria Cross winner of this war, began yesterday a 30-day leave he intends to spend "visiting friends'.

The short, stocky hero of the Savio bridgehead fighting by Canadians in Italy last October arrived at Vancouver airport late Monday after a 39-hour trip by air from Scotland, on his way home after four years overseas.

All official functions of welcome for the returned hero have been postponed until Friday to give him time to rest and visit with his family.

His mother, Mrs. J. J. Smith, was presented yesterday with a gold replica of her son's Victoria Cross by the women of the Canadian Legion Auxiliary. The Seaforth Highlanders will hold a special reception for Smokey in Vancouver.

Among those who met Smokey on his return last night was Major Jack Mahony, New Westminster's first winner of the Victoria Cross in this war, who arrived home from overseas a little more than a week ago. There was no formality in the greetings of the two heroes and neither saluted. They grasped hands as they met for the first time.

"Hearty congratulations," Maj. Mahony said.

"Thank you, sir," Smokey replied with a grin.

Stock Market Trading Heavy

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Trading was heavy on the Toronto Exchange this afternoon. Golds led the decline. Volume was small at 275,000 shares.

Frobisher sold down 45 cents to 7.40, Giant lost 20 or more, and smaller declines were netted by Beattie, Upper Canada, Wasa Lake, Queenston, MacLeod-Cockshutt and East Malartic. Central Patricia was off 13 to 1.82 and Transcontinental Resources slipped back to 1.54 and recovered to 1.62 for a net loss of 8 cents.

Nickel and Steep Rock were slightly weaker base metals and industrials showed weakness in liquor, utility and food groups.

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Cattle trade was slow with prices a shade easier up to mid-session on the livestock market here today. A few weighty steers sold at $11-$13 butcher steers and heifers $10-$11.50, butcher cows $7-$9.25, canners downward to $5.50, bulls $7-$8.50 and fed yearlings $12-$13.50.

Calves were steady at $16-$16.50 for choice vealers with common downward to $10.

Lambs were strong at $13-$13.50 for good ewes and wethers, $12-$12.50 for bucks and $7-$9 for culls.

Sheep were steady at $2-$5.

Hogs were steady at $18.35 for grade A, dressed, and $13.25 for sows dressed.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were: Cattle 700, calves 150, hogs 300, sheep and lambs 150. No cattle were unsold from yesterday.

Guns Pulverize Concealed Tanks

By EDWARD D. BALL
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH AMERICAN FORCES ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 27—(AP).—Walking Christmas trees and snowbanks that suddenly acquired locomotion provided a bizarre touch to bloody Christmas eve fighting along the Germcan bulge on the Allied front.

Both were German efforts to camouflage and both failed.

American tankmen parked at the edge of a fir forest saw part of the forest moving and opened fire. The moving trees halted and soon smoke was curling up from the carcasses of German tanks which the trees covered.

On another section of the front German crews painted their tanks white to blend in with the snow fields. They were dead pigeous when they came over the brow of a hill, silhouetting themselves against the cloudless blue sky.

Hold 17th Clinic

COBOURG, Dec. 27 (ENS)—The 17th Blood Donors Clinic was held today in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. Local doctors and nurses volunteered their services as usual. The nurses were in charge of Miss Beryl Kelly and were Mrs. A. Jaynes, Miss R. Arksey, Mrs. M. Bolster, Mrs. L. Gemmell, Miss G. Macklin, Mrs. A. Labrash, Mrs. T. Evans, Mrs. H. Staples, Mrs. J. Skitch, Mrs. D. Larkin and Miss E. Burnham.

Cobourg Soldier Italy Casualty

COBOURG, Dec. 27.—(ENS). — Official word has been received by his wife of the death in Italy of L.-Corporal Homer Schleihauf of Cobourg. No details have been received other than the fact that he was killed in action.

He is survived by his widow, who was Marion Hall before her marriage, and two children, Jack and Jill. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Schleihauf of West Lorne, also survive, along with four brothers and two sisters. Two of his brothers are on active service.

He was born in West Lorne and had been a resident of Cobourg for two years before joining the 347th at Cobourg. He went overseas in 1941, and had been in Italy for over a year.

Plan Cathedral

WINNIPEG, Dec. 27.—(CP).— A cathedral, to cost $150,000, will be built in North Winnipeg by the Ukrainian Greek Catholic church, it was announced here yesterday. It will be the first Greek Catholic cathedral in Canada.

Cattle Eases

TORONTO, Dec. 27—(CP)—F. C. Fletcher, general manager of the Toronto Union Stock Yards, said last night that the cattle glut at the yards has become a thing of the past and it is not anticipated that further embargoes will be necessary in the immediate future.

British Press Lauds Trip To Greece

LONDON, Dec. 27 (CP) — The British press today praised the journey of Prime Minister Churchill and Foreign Secretary Eden to Greece in an effort to solve the civil strife there are a genuine effort to induce Greek leaders to substitute leadership for enmity.

"Not even the most embittered of the government's critics could fail to be struck by the journey," said the Yorkshire Post.

"There is every reason that Mr. Churchill should have stayed in this country. The enormous burden of work under which he labors, the dangers of sudden changes of climate to man who a year ago suffered from pneumonia might have counselled him to wait and see.

"At whatever risk to himself, he was resolved to place his unrivalled authority and knowledge at the service of men whose sole object, we hope and believe, is to end the fratricidal strife in Greece and lay the foundations for stable government for the future."

Calling the trip an "astonishing spectacle," the Daily Mail said in an editorial:

"Mr. Churchill's action shows the extent to which he has taken the Greek trouble to heart. Some time may elapse before it is possible to report definitely whether his mission is completely successful. It will be regarded as completely successful only if they reach a settlement of character justly applicable to the conditions in other liberated countries. The omens are good."

Bylaw Ballot Recount Begins At Cobourg

COBOURG, Dec. 27 — (ENS). — The recount of the ballots in connection with the defeat of the fixed assessment by-law and also in regard to the contest between William Wenn and Jim Rollings for council, started before Judge J. C. M. German this morning. The fixed assessment by-law was for the purpose of giving the Cobourg Lumber Co. a fixed assessment of $2,000 for 20 years. This was defeated by two votes. In the election this month, James Rollings was the final man on the council to be elected, obtaining 618 votes to William Wenn's 617.

... and then came

A NEW DAY

"Just a rich man's plaything," they said, only forty years ago. But then came a new day . . . the age of Mass Production and Advertising. Together, automotive progress and the educational power of advertising have "turned our nation into a neighborhood"—and made the motor car the universal transportation of the average man.

We don't know when the new cars are coming out, but we do know this: When civilian cars and trucks again come rolling off the assembly lines, The Star Weekly will be the auto industry's leading advertising "buy."

Why? Because, since civilian production was "frozen" in 1942, The Star Weekly's circulation has grown from 585,000 to 750,000! Because The Star Weekly now covers over half of all Canada's English-speaking families in the rich urban centres. Because, with 2,600,000 regular readers, The Star Weekly has over two-and-a-half times the readership of any Canadian magazine. Whatever your business, it's just plain "good business" to concentrate on The Star Weekly market.

BAA, BAA, BLACK SHEEP—These black sheep are the mascots of a "black sheep" field artillery battery training for combat, somewhere in the Pacific. They are fed from pop bottles with nipples attached, by Marine Sergt. Frank Sailors, of Duncanville, Ala. The sergeant found the lambs when they were but a few days old. They now gambol about the camp and travel with the battery. They have been issued record books in the names of "Kopasetic," Left, and "Rheostate."

Senator Logan Dies At Age 74

OTTAWA, Dec. 27 (CP)—Senator H. J. Logan, 74, whose parliamentary career was marked by his advocacy of "Maritime Rights" and who had been Liberal member of the Senate for Nova Scotia for 15 years, died in hospital here last night.

After his graduation in Law from Dalhousie University, Halifax, Senator Logan organized an Amherst, N.S., legal firm with John S. Smileyn, K.C., with which he maintained a connection in the later years of his life, although more or less inactive when his parliamentary duties kept him in Ottawa for long periods.

Senator Logan, born near Amherst, received his early education at Truro Model School and Pictou Academy. He was admitted to the Nova Scotia Bar in 1892, when only 23 years of age. He read Law with Hon. W. T. Pipes, one time Premier of Nova Scotia, and was later associated in practice with Stuart Jenks, K.C., and Cal. J. L. Ralston, former Defence Minister.

15 Vacancies

His death brings to 15 the number of vacancies in the Senate. The standing now is Liberals 48, Progressive Conservatives 33 and vacances 15. Total 96.

Senator Logan showed an interest in politics even in his college days, and in 1896 he was elected to the House of Commons from his native county of Cumberland— the first Liberal sent to Ottawa from that riding since Confederation—and was re-elected in 1900 and 1904. He was defeated in 1908 when Cumberland returned a Conservative member, E. N. Rhodes, but was returned in 1921 with the largest majority ever given any Federal candidate in the riding.

Senator Logan presided in 1924 at a conference which resulted in a long-term trade agreement between Canada and the British West Indies. His first wife, Eleanor L. Kinder, died in 1899. In 1921 he married Anna Blanche Mackenna, who died in 1934. His only son was killed in France in the First Great War.

He was counsel for Capt. Freeman Hatfield, whose claim that his schooner, the Gypsum Queen, was torpedoed by a German submarine off the Irish coast in 1915, was settled in 1931 by an award of $71,276 to Hatfield. Later the courts held the claim was fraudulent and the exchequer court ordered Hatfield and Logan to return the award money.

Subsequent Hatfield was tried for fraud and sentenced to 18 months in jail. Before an appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada was heard, Logan, who maintained he had acted throughout in good faith for Hatfield, was arraigned for fraud. Shortly afterwards he suffered a physical breakdown. The criminal charge against him was later dropped.

Presentations Made At Christmas Service

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 27—(ENS).—An inspiring Christmas service was held in the United Church on Sunday morning with a Christmas message given by the pastor, Rev. J. F. Everson, and special music by the choir.

A gift to the church was received when a beautiful set of offering plates was presented by Miss Gertrude Hicks of Toronto, formerly of Springville.

Another presentation of interest was made at this service, when M. H. Johnston, superintendent of the Sunday School, presented a gift to Bruce Elliott, who has resigned from the office of treasurer of the Sunday School after 30 years of service in that capacity.

Civil Strife Highlights Liberated Lands

By CHARLES BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 27 (CP-Cable)—The flare-up of civil strife, first in Belgium and more seriously in Greece, has highlighted a fact of political human nature.

Beat back the immediate threat of a common enemy and peacetime differences within the national family break out with rekindled force.

From North Africa to Athens the pattern has been the same.

France emerges as the one country virtually cleared of the enemy that has achieved a united home front—because her resisting groups, without major cleavages, rallied around Charles De Gaulle and what he stands for.

In working with temporary governments in liberated countries, the Allies have had to keep two aims paramount:

1. The military effort—security of supply lines and elimination of sabotage; in other words, winning the war.

2. Temporary support for civilian peoples behind the fighting fronts.

Work With Authorities

To achieve these purposes they have had to deal with the best-constituted authorities they could find. Generally speaking, these have been the rallying points for formally-constituted forces placed openly in the fight—Fighting French troops and seamen, Polish, Czech, Norwegian, Netherlands and Belgian servicemen.

To peoples who have lived for four or five years under German occupation—where political differences could never be brought into the open—it is only natural that some among these hold-overs from pre-war years should appear as unrealistic men bent on simple reversion to things as they were, rather than on coupling of victory with a clean-cut of political rubble. And equally naturally, to these pre-war statesmen the ideas of some groups must seem the road to anarchy rather than a fuller life for all.

It is understandable that these different groups should turn their energy to the future of their own countries and to the self-interest that is part of human nature. After years of resistance, openly or underground, they could hardly be expected to become passively acquiescent.

But no one questions that resultant threats and actual outbreaks of violence are a disheartening drag on the fighting men who must finish the war.

Free elections will help. They will at least establish governments whose right to deal internationally and with their own people is unquestioned. But just when elections can be held is still obscure. France has made a start by announcing municipal elections for Feb. 1, 1945.

Free Voting

And in the meantime the Allies will have to assist in the working out of negotiated formulae between groups to ensure that no single party shall control the machinery of voting when the time comes.

It may be that the Allies could have saved themselves some trouble by proclaiming their own military rule over liberated or partly-liberated countries until the final defeat of Germany. Apart from the principle involved, that is doubtful. It did not work so well for the Germans.

As far as dealing with established governmental elements goes, the most extreme point reached in this practice was undoubtedly Gen. Eisenhower's bargain with Admiral Darlan two years ago. There was criticism in the British and American press about that.

With that in mind, there is some puzzlement here over the United States' state departments Dec. 5 statement re-affirming its policy of staying out of internal affairs of other nations. Theoretically, at least, there is a fundamental agreement between Britain and the United States that liberated states shall decide their own futures, but that order shall be maintained where necessary for military reasons.

In the meantime, Britain as the actively guiding hand, has been running into practical problems the United States has not had to face.

Churches Conduct Special Services

MARMORA, Dec. 27 — (ENS) — Christmas services in the local churches were marked with large attendances. Father Farrell officiated at the Midnight Mass at the Sacred Heart Church and at two later masses on Christmas morning, the church being tastefully adorned for the festival.

The Sunday evening service of St. Andrew's United Church held in the Town Hall was conducted by members of the C.G.I.T. group with Rev. E. M. Cadigan reciting Dickens' "Christmas Carol". For the first time in its history St. Paul's Anglican Church held a midnight celebration of Holy Communion, the church being packed to the doors. Communicants numbered 105 constituting a record. Rev. J. M. Brownlie, L.Th. S.Th., who officiated, delivered an impressive Christmas message. The communion service was preceeded by carol singing and during the service the choir sang the carol "Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices" with a duet part being taken by Rev. J. M. Brownlie and Mrs. J. B. Nichol. Another celebration was held at eight o'clock. The church was prettily and extensively decorated with evergreens and Christmas trees.

Lt. Jack Raine Plays Santa To Lonely Men

A NEWFOUNDLAND PORT, Dec. 27 — (CP) — It was a tough one to fill, but Santa Claus came through after receiving a letter from a couple of lonely sailors who requested "125 pounds of the nicest female alive."

The seamen, Signalman Keith C. Moore, Winnipeg, and Telegraphist Jack Coghill of Nipissing, Ont., addressed a joint letter to Santa Claus Fleet Mail Officer, Newfoundland. The old fellow did not fail them.

Two Wrens—Beth Prindville of Ottawa and Peg Sauriol of White River, Ont.—were delivered to the men aboard H.M.C.S. Peterborough in huge fleet mail bags labelled "Special Delivery, F.M.O."

"Now we really believe in Santa Claus," said Moore and Coghill as the girls stepped out of the mail bags and agreed to go on a double date with the two letter writers.

Said their letter, in part:

"Being out here where the waters plenty and the company equally the opposite, it's not an easy job to think what we would like most of all. We think it would please any sailor's heart to find a nice big box on Christmas morning, filled with about 125 pounds of the nicest female alive. Be she blonde, brunette or red-head: These Joes wouldn't care, and as for measurements like height, calf and thigh, you can use your own judgment on that. We're sure you have good taste; so, my fine white-bearded friend (?), see what-ch-can-do, hmm? Miracles never cease, we're told."

Lt.-Cmdr. W. T. V. Whitehead of Winnipeg, fleet mail officer, Lt. Bill Heintzman of Toronto, ship's censor, Lt Charlie Chaisson, special services officer, and Lt. Jack Raine, commanding officer of the Peterborough, decided that something should be done about the request.

And with the help of the two Wrens they saw that it was filled.

Beats Trench Foot

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — (AP)—The United States Army has reported a Western Front victory over trench foot — a disease that can knock a soldier out of combat as effectively as a bullet. At one time the disease reached 9.82 men of every 1,000 on the Western Front. This has been cut 75 per cent by precautionary measures, including increased supplies of footwear

REDS EXPECTED TO START DRIVE—As American and British forces lock in huge battles with the Nazis on the Western front, Soviet sources say that the Red Armies strung along the Eastern front will soon open a huge offensive. Informed spokesmen say that the projected drives will disclose newly aligned Soviet forces. Some 350 divisions and a vast amount of armored equipment is said to be ready. The offensive has been delayed, it was said, by the fact that the Polish plain freezes later than the Russian steppes. The ground is now hard enough, and the Nazis may soon find themselves fighting in grand-scale battles on two fronts.

Bridgenorth Pupils Present Operetta

BRIDGENORTH, Dec. 27 (ENS)—An operetta, "The Poor Little Rich Girl," was the main feature at the annual Bridgenorth School Christmas Party. All the senior pupils took part in the tuneful story and Cecelia Gravelle took the leading role. Music was under the direction of Mr. Potter.

Movie reels and Christmas carols were enjoyed by everyone, and musical selections were contributed by grades one to four. Other entertainment highlights were: recitation, by Grade One; piano duet, by Doris Jopling and Doris Fowler; shadow play, by Bobby Hardill and Ralph Heard; recitation, by Michael Smith.

At the conclusion of the program, Santa Claus appeared, offering gifts to the children.

Mr. Ball, the teacher, was presented with a table lamp, from the pupils.

Hun Saboteurs Tried To Kill Allied Generals

WITH THE U.S. 1ST ARMY.—A special German task force infiltrated behind the American lines in an attempt to kill the United States 1st Army leaders, it now can be disclosed.

The unit, some of whom drove through a convoy of British command cars and in British uniforms and some of whom dropped by parachute, carried small vials of sulphuric acid in little match boxes and which could be thrown into the faces of interceptors.

The Germans wearing American uniforms are known to have taken them from American officers who had been captured and then forced to strip to their underwear before being shot.

This special German force was part of much larger special saboteur battalions dropped behind the American lines during the current German counter-offensive.

Members of this force wore regular American or British uniforms. Those in British dress carried British credentials which were more or less unfamiliar to Americans and were therefore more difficult to check.

The Germans organized these special saboteur units nearly two months ago, recruiting English-speaking troops even from the fighting area.

Almost from the minute they struck, driving over roads in the area of the break-through and dropping by parachute, American military police and other troops began to pick them up.

The majority now have been caught although a close watch is being maintained by American military police in every sector of the battle area.

Peterborough Artist Recognized

The Examiner is happy to congratulate a local artist, Mr. Jack Hamer, who had two water-colour sketches hung in the Royal Canadian Academy exhibition which was held in the Art Gallery at Toronto from November 17 to December 17. It appears also that the Canadian National Gallery has asked that fifty from the 147 paintings hung in this exhibition be chosen for a travelling exhibition, which will be shown in the principal cities of Canada early in the New Year. One of Mr. Hamer's sketches has been included in this group. It is called 'Jackson's Creek, Peterborough', and it shows the stream which we all know as it appears behind Green's Foundry.

Mr. Hamer's picture will carry something of the beauty of this bit of Ontario to every part of the Dominion, and thus he will have done something which no other citizen of this city, who was not also an artist, could do. It must be understood, of course, that it is no part of an artist's intention to advertise the charms of any special part of the country when he paints a picture nevertheless, that is one of the things that he does. Artists of all kinds — painters, sculptors, poets, authors and dramatists —are the people who speak most eloquently for any country; they are the people whom other nations look to when they take the measure of our civilization and culture; artists are our best ambassadors.

Peterborough is proud that an artist living in this city has been recognized by competent judges; the city shares in his honour, and, in turn, the city offers new honour to him as an unusual and valuable citizen.

Criticism—Club Or Feather?

There can be few other countries in the world where there is so much frank criticism of the government as there is in Canada. We think that we may claim to be familiar with this criticism because we read a great deal of it and we write some of it. And we are continually impressed—unfavourably—by the unrelenting, high-pitched strain in which most of this criticism is written.

When a policitian lays himself open to criticism there are two ways, metaphorically speaking, of dealing with him; you may beat him over the head with a club, or you may tickle his nose with a feather. Both methods are effective, but Canadians, both in Parliament and in the press, favour the club to a man. The occasional use of the feather would be a relief.

The feather is used most effectively in the United States; the feather has long been a favourite critical weapon in England. For instance, here is a parody of The Lost Chord which was written in 1884 to poke a little gentle fun at William Ewart Gladstone's remarkable powers of emotional oratory:

I flooded the House with humbug
In tones like an Angel's Psalm,
I laid on a fevered gesture,
I cooked up a counterfeit calm,
I quieted doubt with profession,
Made fudge do duty for facts,
Wove a scheme of harmonious action
From a string of discordant acts,
I linked perplexing meanings
To statements incorrect—
But trembling I thought, "When I'm silent
The House will begin to suspect".
I thought, and I think it daily,
I have lost my power to deceive;
It came on the spur of the moment;
It won but a moment's reprieve.
E'en the flash of a generous anger
Proves now but a flash in the pan;
I have played it once too often
That trick of the Grand Old Man.

It would have been very effective if one of his opponents had written something of this sort about Mr. Mackenzie King during the recent conscription debate in the House, but to a man they preferred to use the club, and Mr. King is an old hand at parrying blows of the club; he uses that instrument with some dexterity himself. But is there a member in the House who knows how to use a feather?

The feather is useful in all branches of criticism, and not merely in political life. Consider what happened to the great historian, Henry Buckle, when first he published his History of Civilization; excellent as that work was, Buckle insisted too sternly on a scientific and materialist explanation of human conduct. Food, soil and climate were what made history, in his opinion, and conscience, virtue, truth and morals were all subsidiary to those circumstances. The classical scholar, J. G. Phillimore, began his feather criticism of Buckle thus:

This is the Creed, let no man chuckle—
Of the great thinker, Henry Buckle.

and continued his exposure of the half-truth upon which Buckle leaned so heavily in these lines:

As to Truth—the Ancients lost her—
Plato was a great Imposter—
Morals are a vain illusion,
Tending only to confusion.
Not in Latin—nor in Greek—
Let us for instruction seek.
Fools, like Bossuet, that may suit,
Who had better have been mute.
Let us study snakes and flies
And on Fossils fix our eyes—
Would we learn what man should do,
Let us watch the kangaroo.
Would we know the mental march,
It depends on dates and starch.

The feather is a splendid weapon, when used with discretion, and so is the club. But when the club is used remorselessly at all seasons it becomes a bore, and the victims become inured to it.

Decorative Food

We have always been fascinated by the subject of food, and love to read accounts of lordly dishes served in times past. In particular we have delighted in the idea of the 'peacock in his pride'—the crowning dish of many an ancient feast, when a roast peacock was placed on the table with all his feathers displayed. We wondered how this culinary miracle was achieved, and therefore we were glad to find a recipe for it in a book about Christmas revels. This is how it is done:

"Take and flay off the skin with the feathers, tail and neck and the head thereon; then take the skin with all the feathers, and lay it on a table abroad; and strew thereon ground cummin; then take the peacock, and roast him, and endorse (dress) him with yolks of eggs; and when he is roasted take him off, and let him cool awhile, and take him and sew him in his skin, and gild his comb, and so serve him forth with the last course".

We have modernized the spelling a little, but otherwise the recipe is intact. Try it yourself on New Year's Day, if you can catch a peacock.

First Huns, Now Werewolves

The Germans are an ungovernably romantic people; their romanticism shows itself in the delicacy and imagination of their property, the splendour of their music and also, it must be said, in their appalling national pride. They know no moderation; they must do everything in excess, and be everything in excess. In August, 1914, Kaiser Wilhelm II said to a gathering of soldiers, "The German people are the chosen of God", and they believed him; later he urged his troops to descend on their foes with the merciless ferocity of the Huns of old, and they obediently did so; now we read that Himmler and Goebbels have urged the German people to comport themselves like werewolves in the dire invasion which faces them. Huns, werewolves—what next? Have these people no moderation, no saving sense of humour?

A werewolf, as most people know, is a wolf which prowls the night, destroying children and the weak without mercy; werewolves are supposed to be the souls of those who have died unholy deaths, and can find no rest in the grave. Belief in these creatures still lingers in remote corners of Europe, and is by no means dead in our own Province of Quebec. Now what in the world do the Germans want to behave like werewolves for, except to impress us with their savagery? They are like children, who show their teeth and snarl when they do not want to be bathed, but unlike children they are capable of keeping up the pose interminably.

Why the Germans want to win and maintain a reputation for ferocity is a matter for psychologists to explain; it is obvious enough to us that their ambition lies in that direction. New and savage methods of attack, new and devilish 'secret weapons'—these are the things that the German delights in: new measures of repression, and new refinements of cruelty and arrogance — these are the things by which he hopes to win the respect and awe of the rest of mankind. Huns and werewolves — that it how the Germans wish us to regard them, and the lengths to which they go to earn their reputation would make the angels weep. But their tragedy lies in the fact that they can never be Huns or werewolves, but only self-degraded men and women.

Reflections On Keeping A Diary

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

VERY few people that I know keep diaries. When I ask them why they do not they say, "Why should I; I never do anything worth writing about; anyhow, I am too busy." Perhaps this is so; I know some remarkably dull people and it may be simple truth to say that they have nothing to write about; but I think that if they wrote about their lives in a private book they might cease to be quite so dull. Keeping a diary imposes a form upon our lives, and anything which has form is more interesting than anything which is formless. If you do not believe me, try it yourself and see.

◇ ◇ ◇

OUR grandfathers and grandmothers often kept diaries as a form of mental discipinie; they entered what they had done every day in the book, and then they considered it, and attempted to judge whether they had behaved honourably and admirably. Priggish though this may sound it is an excellent check on shabby conduct and shoddy living; the Jesuit priests have long made a practice of keeping full records of their thoughts during periods of spiritual decision, ranging their reasons for and against any new step in opposite columns; if more people followed their example there would be less painful and time-wasting indecision in all walks of life. The usefulness of a diary is undeniable; it is a constant watcher and reminder.

◇ ◇ ◇

BUT not all diaries are kept for such high purposes. Many of the best of them are kept by people who love life and are anxious not to let a scrap of recollection elude them. They enter all kinds of things—What they ate, what they wore, what they said, whom they met, what they paid, what entertainments they visited, what medicines they took, whom they kissed and whom they quarreled with. These diaries are great reading for succeeding generations. Pepys, perhaps the most famous of all diarists, kept one of these intimate and gossiping records, in shorthand, and so far as we know he never intended it for any eyes but his own; no unexpurgated edition of Pepys has ever been made available to the general public; he was far from being a depraved man, but his revelation of himself is too full (in the opinion of his editors) to be safe reading. I am told that the diary of Richard Byrd of Virginia is quite as lively as that of Pepys; I have not read it yself, so I am unable to judge.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHATEVER a man is will be revealed in his diary, either with his consent or without it. Many diaries have been kept by men who were sanctimonious shams, and these hollow and pretentious records of their pseudo-spiritual musings are sometimes full of amusement for the ribald. Other diaries are kept in perfect good faith by people who are so naive that they reveal more of themselves than they intend; in his fine book "Two Generations" Sir Osbert Sitwell has published two diaries kept by members of his family during the last century, which are of this character, they are most amusing reading. There are still other writers of diaries who are, quite unconsciously, authors of novels in which they themselves play the part of hero or heroine; they do not mean to be particularly untruthful, but they are incapable of reporting the facts of their lives honestly; they must embellish, and transpose, and edit until all truth has gone. And then there are those whose diaries are laconic. "Coffee this a.m. with Joe; I paid," they write, and that is their entry for the day. But O, how much to be preferred are these to the gushers, the diarists whose recollections of every trivial matter pour out in a stream of what Wells' Mr. Polly called 'sesquipeddle verboojuice'; women are the chief offenders in this matter, though I have known two men who gushed in their diaries.

◇ ◇ ◇

DIARIES are supposed to be private matters, but they are not often completely secret. It is a rare diarist who keeps from you the information that he writes a diary, and if you get to know him well he may read passages from it aloud. This is when he prides himself on the elegance of his style; such diarists are to be admired with reserve, for they are quite likely to be unconscious writers of fiction. And the essence of a diary is that it must be a record of fact; it must say what really happened. Whatever the diarist may pretend to the outside world, he must not pretend to himself, and if, like Peyps, he sends his father a present of venison because it is rotten and he cannot use it himself, he should enter it faithfully in his book. A man who does a deed which he dares not acknowledge fully and freely to himself is a scoundrel and a hypocrite. We are all hypocrites, more or less, but we should struggle not to fall into the pit of our own hypocrisy.

◇ ◇ ◇

IN my time I have kept diaries of all kinds. I have schoolboy diaries, which are funny because they are so portentious and solemn in tone; I have diaries which are no more than pocket-books, with records of expenses; I have diaries in which entries run over several pages at a time; and I have diaries in which I have written a full page for each day—no more and no less; I have diaries in which I have made notes of everything I did, and diaries in which I have made notes of everything I thought. I am probably one of the best-documented men in Canada, and if I should ever become a great saint, or a great criminal, or anything notorious of that kind, the writing of my biography will be a simple task; I have done it myself, and the editor's duty will merely be to expunge the scandalous portions, so that the readers will not be corrupted, or conteporaries defamed.

◇ ◇ ◇

AS for you, My Dear Reader, if you have ever thought of keeping a diary; the New Year approaches, and this is your chance to begin. Your grandchildren will be interested to know what you did and thought during the World Revolution of the Twentieth Century; why do you not keep a record for the edification, and possibly also for the amusement, of your posterity?

SCOT IN A BAG

Diana's mother had been recommended to try a brand of oatmeal for the family porridge supplied by a firm in Scotland. Diana, aged six, watched her mother untie the parcel and spelt out from the canvas bag of oatmeal the words "The backbone of a Scott." "What is a Scot, mummy?" she asked. Her mother explained. After a pause, "And do they kill one specially?" she inquired.—Manchester Guardian.

First Theatre In America

THE distinction of having erected what is believed to be the first theatre in America belongs to Williamsburg, Virginia. Research has not brought to light any playhouse in the Colonies of earlier origin than the one built in the then capital of Virginia in 1716, the year that Governor Spotswood crossed the Blue Ridge, the first white man, as far as known, to enter the Great Valley.

The theatre was erected by one William Levingston, who "for some time previous," says Dr. Tyler in his interesting book on Williamsburg, "has been managing in New Kent County a peripatetic dancing school, in which the star dancers were Charles Stagg and his wife, Mary. There is a contract recorded at Yorktown dated July 11, 1716, by which William Levingston, merchant, agrees with Charles and Mary Stagg, his wife, actors, to build a theatre in Williamsburg and to provide actors, scenery and music out of England for the enacting of comedies and tragedies in the said city. On November 21, 1716, Mr. Levingston purchased three and one-half acre lots and erected thereon a dwelling-house, kitchen and stable. He laid out also a bowling alley and built a theatre",...

Williamsburg about that period was the most aristocratic and prosperous town on the continent. It was the seat of the Upper House and the House of Burgesses and the governor's official residence. The Law Courts were there; and the public buildings, chief of which was the College, were as fine as any in England. The women dressed fashionably and most of the leading families kept their coach. The shops were stocked with rich merchandise and it was the custom of the wealthy plantation owners and country gently to run into the town for their shopping and amusements....

Just the place, it might seem, to support a theatre, yet in Williamsburg, as elsewhere, it was not the wealthy who were the best patrons of the drama....Support of the playhouse came out from the class which could best afford the luxury, but from that large and ever-growing intelligent middle class which was quick to demand all the intellectual pleasures the Old World was enjoying—the same citizens to whose devotion and patriotism was due a little later the establishment of the Republic and who still today remain the principal factors in the development of our national drama.—From "A History of the Theatre in America", by Arthur Hornblow.

Story-Book Christmas In England

IT was Christmas night....You must remember that this was in the old Merry England, when the rosy barons ate with their fingers, and had peacocks served before them with all their tail feathers streaming,...and the unicorns in the wintry moonlight stamped their silver feet and snorted their noble breaths of blue upon the frozen air. These marvels were great and comfortable ones, but in the old England there was a greater marvel still. The weather behaved itself....

It was Christmas night in the Castle of the Forest Sauvage, and all around the castle the snow lay as it ought to lie. It hung heavily on the battlements, like extremely thick icing on a very good cake, and in a few convenient places it modestly turned itself into the clearest icicles of the greatest possible length. It hung on the boughs of the forest trees in rounded lumps, even better than apple-blossom, and occasionally slid off the roofs of the village when it saw a chance of falling upon some amusing character and giving pleasure to all,...There was skating on the moat, which roared all day with the gliding steel...The owls hooted. The cooks put out all the crumbs they could for the small birds. The villagers brought out their red mufflers. Sir Ector's face shone redder even than these. And reddest of all shone the cottage fires all down the main street of an evening, while the winds howled outside.—From "The Sword in the Stone", by T. H. White.

Toronto Unhobbles Pedestrians

Apparently it has finally dawned on the members of the Toronto city council how ridiculous, unreasonable and unenforcable is the by-law they passed some weeks ago, seeking to restrict and outlaw the perfectly normal conduct of pedestrians. At its meeting recently, the council moved to have the measure reconsidered, and possibly repealed, by next year's council.

Human nature is not, of course, the same in Toronto as elsewhere, and the populace accepts and supports—nay, even demands — restraints and suppressions regarded in other centres as strange manifestations of outmoded inhibitions. But even there the anti-running bylaw was found too fantastic to be stomached, and the civic authorities seemingly realize its limits on the liberty of the subject run to the point of absurdity.

While it took the council a long time to take steps to rectify its mistake, the action is significant in more ways than one. For it probably marks the first time that Toronto authorities have paid any attention to mockery and protest over their actions which came from outside the city. The argument that the bylaw has made the city the laughing stock of the whole country was an important influence in inducing the council to back down.

The Torontonians most directly affected by the council's thoughtless legislation followed about the only sensible course they could take under the circumstances: They ignored it.—Montreal Gazette.

Royal Shadows at Seville

John Francis Waller once wrote that "Near the city of Sevilla years and years ago dwelt a lady in a villa," and it seems he loved this lady. Seville in Spain will indeed suggest romance to all who have not been there and to many who have. It is a poetic symbol in some ways quite out of this world, and one does not think of General Franco or of General Franco's enemies in prison when one lets one's fancy play with the city of Seville. So it was quite natural, though one pinched one's self to make sure one was awake, to read in a Seville dispatch to this newspaper that "royalty flowered again in the pomp and pageantry of the old Spanish tradition here today at the marriage ceremony of the Princess de Esperanza, younger daughter of the house of Bourbon-Orleans, and Prince Pedro de Alcantara, son of the Brazilian-born Prince Pedro, in Seville's world-famous thirteenth-century cathedral" and that "members of practically all of Europe's royal houses either were in attendance or represented at the ceremony."

Continental Europe's royalty has fallen on hard times. The old houses are played out, the new ones, with an exception or two, in trouble. The Pretender to the throne of France has just visited that country and been chased back into Spain. Perhaps he was at the Seville wedding. If the Hitler revolution had been successful a new breed of kings might have been raised up, though Hitler, fortunately, is childless. In the course of centuries the new breed might have sunk into weakness and consequently into picturesqueness. This did not happen. It will not happen. The thirteenth century is not coming back. Its regal survivors are pale and less real than their Hollywood imitators. But one watches them at Seville with such interest as one can detach from actual and terrible events. And maybe—who knows—there is still a lady in a villa near that city.—New York Times.

THINKING CAP

(Letter in London Observer)

Sir,—The allusion in the phrase "To put on one's thinking (or considering) cap" is to the ancient custom of the Judges of the High Courts of donning their crowning head-dress, a black cap, before delivering judgment. Now, it is assumed only prior to passing sentence of death and in state processions or on public occasions, such as the receiving of the oath of office of the Lord Mayor.

The phrase, of course, means to think over a proposition before delivering one's decision.

A Bible Message

Bow down thine ear, and hear the words of the wise, and apply thine heart unto my knowledge.... That thy trust may be in the Lord, I have made known to thee this day, even to thee.

Have not I written to thee excellent things in counsels and knowledge, that I might make thee know the certainty of the words of truth; that thou mightest answer the words of truth to them that send unto thee? (Prov. 22: 17, 19-21.)

And I saw another mighty angel come down from heaven, clothed with a cloud: and a rainbow was upon his head, and his face was as it were the sun, and his feet as pillars of fire: and he had in his hand a little book open: and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left foot on the earth, and cried with a loud voice, as when a lion roareth....

And I took the little book out of the angel's hand; and ate it up; and it was in my mouth sweet as honey: and as soon as I had eaten it, my belly was bitter. And he said unto me, Thou must prophesy again before many peoples, and nations, and tongues, and kings. (Rev. 10: 1-3, 10, 11.)

THE NORTH STILL THE NORTH

A news item the other day told of an epidemic in the settlement at Snake Lake, more than 300 miles north of Regina. A doctor was taken in by air to give medical attention to the people. When he wished to report that the epidemic was under control he had to do so by carrier pigeon. The settlement is 60 miles from any form of communication.

This story carries a reminder that the Canadian North, in spite of modern developments and wartime expansion, is still a mighty big place. It is still a region of wide expanses of brush, muskeg and unused soil, with widely scattered, isolated settlements. The job of peopling the North and exploiting its resources still awaits pioneers of the future.—Winnipeg Tribune.

Friendship Ties Are Strengthened By Canada-U.S.

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 26—(CP)—Ties of friendship and co-operation between Canada and the United States grew stronger in 1944.

This was evidenced by a number of incidents, among them:

1. Formal acceptance by President Roosevelt of the credentials of Hon. Leighton McCarthy as first Canadian ambassador. Mr. McCarthy was succeeded at the end of the year by L. B. (Mike) Pearson, who held the post of minister at the Canadian Embassy in Washington. Late in 1943 the two countries raised their respective legations to Embassy status.

2. Voluntary repayment by Canada of more than $100,000,000 spent by the United States on airports needed in northern Canada for defence and war purposes.

3. Selection of Canada for the second time as a scene of a Churchill-Roosevelt conference—the second conference held in September.

4. Action by the United States to simplify immigration rules for Canadians entering for short visits.

Other circumstances which served to bring the two countries closer together in mutual understanding were the selection of Montreal for the second assembly of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration, and the choice of Canada as home of the provisional International Civil Aviation Organization.

Learn of Canada

These activities, while international in scope, were of particular significance to Canadian-American relations because they draw and will continue to draw many influential Americans to Canada.

Canada properly stood aloof from the 1944 presidential elections but the triumph of President Roosevelt in his fourth term effort could not fail to inspire Canadians, and Americans, with confidence that the era of happy neighborliness would continue.

It promised, too, the continued efforts of the proponents of St. Lawrence River power and seaway development to obtain an international agreement bringing it into being.

An attempt to obtain congressional approval of this project and the necessary international agreement failed just before the year's end when it was defeated, where it has been defeated before, in the United States senate.

But renewed and stronger efforts to obtain congressional sanction are expected immediately after assembly of the 79th congress early in the new year.

Publicity In U.S.

Virtually all Canadian publicity in the United States in 1944 was good, almost entirely due to the heroic performances of the Dominion's service personel on the fighting fronts.

Newspaper headlines constantly flared the news of Canadian successes and sacrifices, and of the contribution to the common cause being made by home front workers.

There was some bad publicity. Many newspapers and periodicals played up the difficulties in Canada arising over the conscription issue and gave prominence to disorders and riots.

This, in turn, provided material for year-end attacks in the lame duck congress by a number of members who failed to inform themselves of the true situation and protested against all-out conscription of Americans of 18 and over while the Canadian and other commonwealth systems depended upon voluntary enlistments for service overseas.

A powerful but prosaic and little heard of influence cementing Canadian-American relations continued to be the efficiently inter-woven system of combined war boards in Washington with Canadian contributing joint leadership and expert assistance in the huge task of maintaining equilibrium of procurement, production and distribution of essential war materials and human needs.

Canada's Role At Chicago Conference

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

CHICAGO: From the nature of the Chicago conference on civil aviation, it is not possible to examine the documents contained in its final act and reach an estimate of the sources from which each clause or paragraph was derived. The Canadian draft convention, carefully prepared in advance, was the most comprehensive proposal to be laid before the Chicago conference.

The final form of the permanent convention on air navigation and transport bears the imprint of Canadian ideas in many sections, but its true character is that of a fusion of American, British and Canadian proposals, with considerable modification to meet the ideas of other nations.

The actual fusion of three plans occurred during a 10-day period in which Mr. Berle, Lord Swinton, and Mr. Symington, with their advisers, worked day and night to work out reconciliations of different viewpoints. The result was a draft convention which contained everything desired except crucial clauses dealing with the freedom of the air, the adjustment of capacity to traffic and the special safeguards for war-damaged United Nations if they granted air freedoms multilaterally. The rate clause in this draft was withdrawn at U. S. request and it disappeared.

Canada took the initiative in insisting that an effort be made in deal with the doctrine of air freedom. At the start, Mr. Berle invited delegates to disclose the routes in which their countries were interested, so that bilateral agreements might be made. Mr. Symington (on November 3) opposed this saying: "We take very strongly the position that interim bilateral negotiations will completely preclude what we are all looking for, a permanent convention."

The American attempt to use the conference as a bargaining place for routes was so effectively halted at this point that, though 22 route proposals were filed, not a single bilateral agreement was reported—except the United States-Spain agreement which had been pending for months.

On November 22, Mr. Berle noted that it was the Canadian delegation which had "felicitously christened" the multilateral doctrine as "the freedoms of the air." At that meeting, Mr. Symington's brief appeal for further effort to define the doctrine of air freedom injected new life into the conference. As many delegates spoke of it later, for the time Mr. Symington "saved" the conference.

Mr. Sullivan, the New Zealand delegate, spoke as "the magnificent demonstration" accorded Mr. Symington's appeal as reason why the conference should work ahead to a solution if possible. Mayor La Guardia stepped to the microphone and delivered a rousing speech in favor of trying to establish "the freedoms we've heard so much about."

The fact that Canada had set herself to effect, if possible, a reconciliation of American and British differences, soon colored the news emanating from the conference. Canada obtained a rich harvest of publicity in the American and British press. Discussion of "the Canadian plan" put this country into the headlines, sometimes for days running, on news reports of the aviation conference.

The Canadian delegation became not only a go-between the American and British viewpoints, but a rallying-ground for delegations of other smaller countries. Canada was playing an actual role as leader of the smaller countries. She was "the middle power" in the conference, just as geographically in aviation and industrially in production and militarily in armed strength, she is a middle power in world politics.

The main problem on which differences finally could not be reconciled was the adjustment of capacity to traffic, in other words, the regulation of frequencies. In the face of enormous increases in air traffic, how should airlines be allowed to increase their capacity either in more planes or larger ones? Right from the start, the Canadian plan took account of this difficulty and suggested an ingenious "escalator" clause. As Mr. Howe explained it in his opening speech, an operator should escalate his service if his planes were running filled to 65 per cent capacity. Based on domestic airline experience, this would make a formal rule for international airlines of the "rule of thumb" of North American lines. Mr. Howe also suggested de-escalation of airlines operating less than 40 per cent capacity, but by common consent in the face of British opposition, the mathematical decrease was dropped.

The Canadian escalation plan had the merit of meeting British wishes for "control" and American wishes for "competition." Whether it would have been accepted cannot be known. The conference broke down on another point before delegates were required to vote on the escalator clause. The other point was how much traffic should be counted for escalator purposes.

The British argued that only the traffic embarked at the starting point of an international airline should be counted. The Americans argued that all traffic, embarked or picked up anywhere along the route should be counted. Into this deadlock, Mr. Symington moved with a compromise that missed acceptance by a hair's breadth. It was that escalation take account only of one-third of the intermediate traffic. Mayor La Guardia said: "As far as I can see, the Canadian plan is satisfactory to the American delegation....I'm sure we can work out an agreement taking as a basis Mr. Symington's formula or his plan."

Mr. Berle informed the press the British had turned down the Symington plan, but the record shows Lord Swinton had taken the position that a mathematical formula could not work in every region of the world and that the real solution was a just and effective organization with jurisdiction over air transport. "We would undertake to be bound by that judgment," Swinton said.

Even then Mr. Symington could have tied the British and American thinking together, by inserting a proviso that the international council recommend escalation in each region in terms of the best interests of that region. But there was irreconcilable divergence over the powers of an international organization. Britain and Canada stood together prepared to establish a strong organization and rely on it. The Americans were not. On that note, the conference ended. Failure to attain final agreement could not obscure the fact, as newsmen and delegates agreed at a final cocktail party, that the only hero of the Chicago conference was H. J. Symington.

TAMBLYN
Wishes You a Happy New Year

The year 1944 is fast drawing to its close. Frankly it has been one of high hopes and keen disappointments. There were times when it rather appeared as if the clamour and tumult of contending armies would terminate in Victory for us before the advent of 1945. Unfortunately that has not happened and naturally we are all disappointed in this respect, particularly those of us with loved ones overseas, whose long-awaited home coming has, by reason of this, been delayed. The Tamblyn Drug Stores throughout the year have endeavoured to give you—our friends and patrons—outstanding service, but there are times at which we must admit we have fallen far short of our objective. We wish at this time to thank you for your co-operation and forbearance. Now we are about to enter a new year — 1945 — and in keeping with time-honoured practice resolutions are in order. "How to Better Serve You" throughout the coming year will be our fixed determination. In the meantime, it is our sincere wish that the New Year may bring

A Brighter and Happier Outlook for Everyone

New Year's Punch
2 cups corn syrup
6 cups white sugar
8 cups hot water
4 tablespoons grated lemon rind
4 tablespoons grated orange rind
1 cup orange juice
1 cup lemon juice
1 oz. citric acid
1 oz. tartaric acid
Make a syrup of the corn syrup, sugar and water; boil for 5 minutes; cool slightly. While still warm pour over the grated orange and lemon rind and the fruit juices. Add the citric and tartaric acid and stir till dissolved. When ready to use, mix 1 part syrup with 3 parts cold water. This quantity makes 3½ quarts of syrup. When water is added you will have 2 gallons of slightly acid punch, enough for 40 people. If your party is smaller, cut the quantities in half.

SPORTS-Day by Day

By FRED D. CRAIG

There will be one game in the Y.M.C.A. House League tonight with Clarence Davern's Cougars meeting Bill Kemp's Trojans in a battle billed for 7.30 o'clock. This contest should settle the playoff setup. Gord Johnston's Lions who swept through the schedule without a loss finished in first place and Cougars can make sure of second by a win over the Kemp outfit. That will bring the Cougars and Lions into the final for the House League title and it will probably be settled in a sudden death game. With the House League out of the way it is expected that a City League will be organized to supply basketball entertainment for the rest of the season. It is hoped to be able to form at least a four-club loop, well-balanced enough to make interesting competition. More than any other local sport basketball has suffered heavily from enlistments in the armed services and that the game has been able to carry on in spite of the exodus of players indicates that it is here to stay.

Canada is the home of hockey and Canadians pride themselves on knowing the game from all angles. And yet fans in this country go on paying major league prices for professional hockey of an inferior grade and filling Maple Leaf Gardens for games that do not justify any such patronage. Connie Smythe, who has a habit of speaking out in meeting said in an interview the other day. "We don't want greenhorns or palookas. We've got enough of them in the league right now.". There is no doubt of that fact. A lot of poor stuff is being offered at top prices. In addition there is the situation that the four clubs who will appear in the playoffs are practically determined now. Canadiens, Detroit Red Wings, Leafs and the Bruins are almost surefire for the last roundup, with Rangers and Black Hawks out. And yet the teams will continue to play for the next three months and the fans will continue to lay in their money at the box office to watch games that do not mean very much because the real battle does not come until the playoff stage is reached. Perhaps Canadian fans are not so very discriminating after all. They never seem to resent the situation or the fact that the only major feature of the N.H.L. right now is the admission price.

The No. 1 Men

The Sporting News, baseball's national weekly, is published in St. Louis and in announcing its annual selections today of the No. 1 men in baseball it might just as well have headed the story "Local boys make good." It so happens that three of the four awards go to St. Louis men. The Sporting News names William O. Dewitt, general manager of the St. Louis Browns, among the executives, Luke Sewell of the Browns, among the managers and Marty Marion, shortstop of the Cards among the players. The only award to go out of St. Louis was that of No. 1 Scout which has been handed to Wish Egan of Detroit. Dewitt and Sewell won their honors because of the surprising showing of the Browns, Dewitt being given credit for wise juggling of players that resulted in a winning combination and Sewell for the manner in which he drove the Brownies to their first pennant. As for Marion he is declared to have covered the shortstop position as it has not been done since the days of Honus Wagner. Marion, the award says, broke up many threatening rallies by his uncanny fielding and exerted a steadying influence, not only on the Card pitchers, but on the entire club. As for Egan he is given the full credit for the new talent landed by Detroit and particularly for his finding of Dick Wakefield, whose return to the Tigers in mid-season turned them into a real pennant threat.

* * * * * *

The reference to Slats Marion recalls the fact that Beans Riordan, the veteran National League umpire with 19 seasons under the big top has called Marion the greatest shortstop he ever saw, which coming from an authority is high praise indeed. Riordan has named the Cardinal infielder for his all-star National League lineup. Here is the team selected by the umpire: Bill Terry, Giants, manager and first base, Rogers Hornsby and Frankie Frisch, both of the Cardinals, second base, Martin Marion Cardinals, shortstop, Pie Traynor of the Pittsburg Pirates, third base, Zach Wheat, Dodgers, left field, Terry Moore, Cardinals, centre field and Mel Ott, Giants, right field. Riordan picks Gabby Hartnett of the Cubs as catcher and chooses for his pitching staff Carl Hubbell of the Giants, Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals and Dazzy Vance of the Dodgers. Quite a club, with the naming of Zach Wheat as perhaps the only surprise. We would have thought Stan Musial might have crowded the old Dodger outfielder out of the lineup.

A Word For Goalies

Paul Thompson, who has fired at some of the best goalies in N.H.L. history during the course of his carer, feels it time he spoke a few words in defence of the boys who stand between the posts, says Bill Westwick in the Ottawa Journal sport column. Thompson, as a hockey player and now manager of the Black Hawks, was discussing goaltenders not so long ago. Says Paul: "A goalie is just a man. He has two arms, two legs and one hockey stick. He guards a net six feet long and four feet high. Some day there may be someone who can train an octopus to play hockey. If he does it, then you can blame the octopus all you want to. But you can't blame any goalie in the game today and really mean it. It's the defensive line in front of him," contends Thompson. "If he has a flock of good checkers out there he has a chance to stop most of the shots." It isn't often that a forward goes to bat for a goalie to the same extent that Thompson does, allowing always that Paul is through as a hockey player and in a position where such comment may be brought on by pressure of a bad season as manager. Yet more than one forward has said that the same thing in defence of a player playing probably the toughest position of all. Of all the positions on a hockey team the goalie is subject to the most criticism. He's akin to a baseball pitcher in that respect and the crowd, often willing to overlook the mistakes of forwards and defencemen, will bear down mercilessly on a goaltender.

* * * * * *

There was no greater example of misdirected criticism in modern hockey than the way Ottawa hockey crowds treated Alex Connell back in the declining days of professional hockey here. Fans rode Connell practically out of the nets at one stage, continues the Ottawa writer. You have to mention Connell because there are few goalies in modern hockey who came back to prove that even the best of goalies need a hockey team out in front of them. Connie Mack has mentioned more than once that a pitcher means something like 80 per cent of a baseball team. Top line hockey coaches will get close to that percentage if you talk seriously of playoff chances and goalies. The finest of hockey teams won't get very far with a weak man in the cage. Connell comes up as the best example in these parts. For a time he was alternated with Billy Beveridge. Both were good goalies and neither relished the role thrust on him. It was one of the great mistakes of the old Ottawa professional team, and a mistake for any team adopting a similar policy. To prove it you have to go back to one of Connell's darkest nights—the evening he was yanked from the nets against Rangers and he doffed his cap and accepted the "hook" while a high scoring Ranger team was having a field day. The same Connell was to come back to Ottawa not long later, an athletic hero—a wonder in the toughest kind of spots behind a championship Maroon team.

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 (AP)—In announcing the ban on racing and calling for a review of the draft classification of professional athfessional athletes, War Mobilization Director James F. Brynes said it was difficult to understand how the four-effers could be 'able to compete with the greatest athletes of the nation in games demanding physical fitness," . . . Passing over the fact that most of the great athletes are in uniform and these guys are just the left-overs, competing against one another, and that the situation frequently has been explained to the public, we'll just add one more example . . . Phil Watson, the Rangers' hockey star, broke a hand Sunday night, but he plans to play against Toronto tonight wearing a cast that lets him curl his fingers around a stick. Can you imagine the army letting a guy go into action that way?

Personal Opinion::

After several days of thinking about the anti-racing edict, we still can't see where it will bring any noticeable improvement in the manpower situation . . . A guy whose pockets are burning with war wages and who would take time off from an important job and waste gas to play the races likely will find some way to spend his money . . . You might even say that racing contributes to the war effort by helping these people get rid of their dough in a hurry and sending them back to work sooner.

Official records of the American League, issued last night at Chicago, showed Paul H. (Dizzy) Trout and Harold Newhouser, both of Detroit Tigers, as the leading twirlers of the junior circuit, although neither topped the list in won-lost percentages. Newhouser won 29 and lost nine games and had an earned-run average of 2.22. Trout closed the season with a record of 27 victories and 14 losses and help top position in earned-run averages with 2.12.

Nels Potter of the Browns won 19 and lost seven but it was Cecil (Tex) Hughson of the Boston Americans who came through with the highest pitching performance with 18 wins and fives losses for a percentage of .783. Newhouser lead the league with 187 strikeouts and Trout was second with 144, with Buck Newsom of Philadelphia third with 142. Trout allowed the most hits at 314 and Bill Dietrich of Chicago gave the most runs, 132.

France defeated Belgium 3-1 at Paris yesterday in the first soccer match to be played between the two countries since their liberation by the Allied armies.

St. Louis Flyers of the American Hockey League last night announced the trade of Fred Kovalchuk to Bufalo for Jim Russell. Both are wingmen. No cash was involved in the transaction, Fyers officials said.

General Manager William DeWitt of St. Louis Browns, Manager Luke Sewell of the Browns, Shortstop Martin Marion of the St. Louis Cardinals and Scout W. Egan of Detroit Tigers yesterday were named major leagues' leading men of the year by The Sporting News.

T. P. Gorman, president of the Province of Quebec Racing Association, announced at Montreal last night there would be no racing in Quebec next season if the Canadian Government asked the tracks to close down, following similar action in the United States.

Long-shots had their fling at Tropical Park, Miami, yesterday with the prospect of a closing of the race track on January 3 at Government "request." The winners included Swords, which paid $26.30 in the first race; Good Show, $10.40 in the fourth; Vanslam $72.10 in the fifth; Docdonough, $219.20 in the seventh, and Smoke Puff, $154.70 in the eighth event.

The Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League will train with Brooklyn Dodgers at Bear Mountain, N.Y., it was announced by President Hector Racine of the Montreal club. The Royals have about 40 players.

Blake Retains Top Spot In Score Column

MONTREAL, Dec. 27 — (CP) — Canadiens' Toe Blake, who has been around the National Hockey League longer than he likes to think about, is still clinging to his leadership among the league's point-getters despite the efforts of another veteran to share his place at the top.

The N.H.L.'s weekly official lists today showed Blake still holding a one-point margin on Boston's Bill Cowley with Syd Howe of Detroit and Elmer Lach locked for third spot.

In 20 games Blake has piled up 34 points, Cowley 33 and Howe and Lach 26 each. Maurice Richard has 25 points to give Canadiens' top line three of the first six places.

Richard is maintaining his leadership in goals, with a total of 19 to date as compared with 15 for Blake and 14 for Herbie Cain of Boston. Cowley is out in front in assists with 22, one more than Lach and three more than Blake and Howe.

Pat Egan is still the league's bad man with 40 minutes in majors and minors. As a team, Canadiens are the most persistent occupiers of the penalty box with 153 minutes, three more than Toronto Maple Leafs.

Player Breaks Hand Continues To Play

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 — (CP).— Phil Watson, New York Ranger forward, was disclosed by X-ray examination on Tuesday to have broken a metacarpal bone in his right hand in a collision with Bill Mosienko during the Chicago-Ranger National Hockey League game here.

Watson immediately sought to assure Coach Frank Boucher that he would be ready to return to the starting line-up against Toronto here on Wednesday night. Boucher was sceptical, but Watson pointed out that exactly two Christmases ago Watson broke the same bone of the same hand and yet did not miss the next game.

Mexico to Benefit?

The Hipodromo de las Americas in Mexico City will take care of a great number of horses at present at the California tracks. Racing in the past few years in Havana has not attracted many stables from the United States. As yet no announcement has been made of an attempt to conduct a full winter meeting on the island.

A number of stables in Florida, including that of Hirsch Jacobs, leading American trainer, will rest in Florida until the spring. At that time Jacobs is of the opinion racing will be resumed in the U.S.A., and he will ship his horses on to join those being wintered in New York.

Trainer George Ellis, a former rider for the Greentree Stable, has a large stable in Mexico City. Ellis, on learning of the proposed suspension of racing in America, immediately sought the services of Jockey Don Meade. Ellis contacted the popular rider and was promised a decision by the first of the new year by Meade as to whether he would go on to Mexico to ride during the time there is no racing on American courses.

Aid for Horsemen

Major Thomas McCreery, president of the American Horsemen's Benevolent and Protective Association, leaves New York this week for Tropical Park. McGreery announced he would see no horseman was stranded as the result of stopping of racing in the State of Florida.

Peterene Moves From Fifth To Win Race

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — The Weatherman was in a Christmas mood yesterday at Dufferin Park, providing one of the nicest afternoons for harness racing that has been seen this winter. The track was in grand shape, and the large crowd thoroughly enjoyed the speed contests.

The fastest mile paced during the afternoon was 2:14¼ when Rip Harvester won the initial heat of the fourth race. The second heat of the same race was paced exactly the same notch when Peterene headed Audrey Scott at the wire, and then Peterene paced the fastest mile and sixteenth for the afternoon when he came from fifth horse position heading into the back stretch to win in 2:24.

Bibeault Goes To Boston; Inaction Over

By FRED KERNER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Rangy Paul Bibeault, seasoned goaltender who made his professional debut with Montreal Canadiens several years ago after climaxing a brilliant amateur career with Quebec Aces, is no longer a sub-goalie. Last night the tall netminder left Montreal for Boston to finish the season with the fourth-place Bruins.

Bibeault, discharged from the army last year, was carried as a spare by Canadiens this season despite offers for his services from Chicago Black Hawks and Toronto Maple Leafs.

Montreal Forum officials said there was "no money and no players" involved and that big Paul was sent to Boston at his own request. The move, of course, strengthens Art Ross' club.

Second step in the "Bolster Boston" program was promotion of Gino Rozzini, shifty centre-ice man who has been playing with the Hub City's farm club, Boston Olympics, in the Eastern United States Hockey League. Rozzini is another former Quebec Aces' star.

Last week Ross disposed of veteran Art Jackson, native Torontonian who turned to the professional ranks in 1934 with Syracuse.

Jackson was sold to Leafs, who said his acquisition was but one step in their program of rebuilding the club for present and future.

Coach Happy Day made no further comment on the rebuilt Leafs. However Dame Rumor points the axe at Walter (Babe) Pratt, huge Leaf rearguard who won the Hart Trophy last season as the most valuable players to his team. There has been considerable criticism in Toronto papers about Pratt's playing this year.

Meanwhile, Maj. Conny Smythe, managing director of the Queen City team, threw a bombshell into the hockey picture when he said Leafs were offering $25,000 for Maurice (Rocket) Richard; $30,000 for Milt Schmidt, Boston Kraut-liner now overseas in the Canadian Army; and $30,000 to the struggling Rangers for Neil Colville, now in the R.C.A.F.

The offer for Richard was accompanied by a $1,000 reward to anyone—newspapermen included—who can swing the deal for the high-scoring Canuck who is touted as a second Howie Morenz. Happy Day's only comment was: "I am far from satisfied" (with Leafs).

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Followers of the gee-gees in Canada are going around chewing their fingernails these days, wondering if the Dominion Government will crack down on horse racing like the U.S. Government has. It's a hot and urgent question right now, but the chances are all against anything similar happening here.

In the first place, racing isn't such a big business this side of the border—although it is growing all the time, as shown by betting figures for the summer just ended. The gallopers kick up the dust for only a few months each summer, unlike the situation in the U.S. where wild-eyed betters can lose the month's grocery money at practically any season of the year you can name.

The transportation problem isn't so serious either, since most of the tracks are close to the centres of the cities where they are located, and not miles in the country. Federal transit controllers already have looked after that angle, either by regulating transportation facilities or forcing the tracks to close.

For instance, Thorncliffe and Long Branch tracks in the Toronto area were closed because of limited travel facilities, and their meets transferred to Woodbine and Dufferin respectively.

When transportation facilities were limited in Vancouver, the canny trackmen fixed that by arranging to carry the fans to the nags by horse-drawn conveyances. The Vancouver hayride came into popularity as a result, netting some pretty publicity for the gentlemen directly affected.

Manpower isn't so much of a problem with Canadian tracks either, although there may be a surplus when all those Canadian jockeys, trainers, and so on, now operating south of the border, come back.

What might prove a knottier problem if it crept into Canada is that of the reclassification of all athletes in professional sports. There may be a hue and cry to have that duplicated in Canada, but the National Hockey League seems to have provided very nicely for that, whether wittingly or unwittingly.

The N.H.L. rule passed last summer barring all players who can't show military discharge or rejection papers if they are in the required age groups, allows a very good loophole if any stone-lifting is attempted by would-be reformers.

All in all, it seems that Canada should be comparatively free of any interference in its sport activities. With men being discharged and coming back every day, and with thousands of aircrew released into the R.C.A.F. Reserve, there should be no scarcity of players—enough anyway to keep all major athletics going.

Jockeys Decide Take It Easy

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Some leading jockeys plan to ride out the racing ban on horses' backs—galloping the thoroughbreds for the exercise.

"What good could I do in a war plant? demanded Bobby Permane, who seemed to put into words the thoughts of most of the riders who came to Miami for the Florida season, only to run into a Goverment request for a racing shutdown Jan. 3.

"All I know is racing," continued Permane, the most successful of the younger jockeys. "There isn't anything that I know how to do in a factory.

"By the time they could train me the emergency would be over and I would return to racing. It would be a waste of time for the war plant."

Atkinson Stick Around

Don Meade apparently is the only big-time jockey who plans to go to Mexico City, where the horses still will be running.

"I'll stay around Miami until April, galloping horses," said Toronto's Ted Atkinson, the 1944 riding champion.

"I haven't any definite plans except that they might make for me. I'll take a much-needed rest, do a little fishing and ride some to keep in shape."

Eddie Arcaro, who like Atkinson has a home in Miami, will await orders from the Greentree Stable, for which he is a contract rider.

"I'll play golf—that keeps your legs strong—and do some galloping in Miami," Arcaro said. "They may call me into the Greentree farm to help with the horses there."

Little Interest

TORONTO, Dec. 27. — (CP).—Toronto's 1945 election campaign got off to a faltering start last night when a total of less than 100 persons attended two meetings and a third meeting was cancelled through lack of attendance.

Toll Is 78

TORONTO, Dec. 27. — (CP).—Toronto toll of traffic fatalities now stands at 78 compared to 89 in the previous year at the same time, police reported yesterday. Injuries this year total 2,733, while last year there were 2,590 in the same period.

Capitals Trim St. Louis 2-1

By The Canadian Press

A neat steal by Pete Leswick paved the way for Indianapolis Capitals' 2-1 victory over St. Louis Flyers last night in the only scheduled American Hockey League game.

Freddie Hergert scored for St. Louis late in the first period and Dick Kowcinak tied the score in the second.

Midway in the final session the Flyers, making a bid for victory instead of what looked like a fairly sure tie, staged a rush down the ice while shorthanded. But Leswick got the puck and a three-man rush on Goalie Jimmy Franks resulted in a score by Tony Bukovich.

It was an unfortunate night for Winger Ronnie Hudson suffered a fractured jaw in a second period collision and Coach Hap Emms drew a $50 fine from Referee Norval Fitzgerald for arguing against a penalty.

Record Total Bet On Races

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 27.—(AP).—A big Christmas crowd gave racing a merry start on its last lap Monday by betting a record sum of $716,716 at Tropical aPrk's inaugural program.

There was a surge of optimism at the track as 14,171 spectators poured through the turnstiles, and horsemen began to take renewed hope that the United States Government might relent and take some of the sting out of a request that the sport shut down Jan. 3.

There was a rumor that Herbert Bayard Swope, chairman of Tropical's directors, and a leading official would go to Washington in an effort to have the ban modified, perhaps to permit racing twice a week. Swope later denied the rumor.

The total wagering on the nine races and the daily double far exceeded the previous high mark of $629,038 bet on Tropical's closing day last April 8.

It was a day of upsets, only two public choices scoring.

"Field" horses, animals considered such longshots that they are grouped together in the betting when more than 12 racers run, finished one-two in the first $7,500 division of the featured six-furlong inaugural handicap.

Gone to get furs for our Mine Sweepers

Our men on mine sweepers are facing the icy blasts of zero weather. They need protection. That is why every one of us who has furs around the home, that they don't really need, should send them in at once. The need is urgent. Weather waits for no man. So, today, as soon as you can take stock of your old furs that can be used to line vests and coats for our mine sweepers send them to your nearest Navy League branch or direct to the Navy League of Canada, Fur Vest Division, Montreal.

"THANKS A LOT . . . WHOEVER YOU ARE!"

It feels good to be alive when you should have been dead . . . I know . . .
The reason I'm alive is just . . . a pint of somebody's blood.
I don't know who gave it. Maybe you did.
Whoever it was . . . thanks . . . . Thanks for my life."

DONORS NEEDED!!

To keep in step with the rising tempo of battle an urgent call goes out for more and more blood donors. Both men and women between the ages of 18 to 60 years of age are offered this opportunity, doing their part in the saving of lives.

The most glorious help a civilian can give to a fighting man is also one of the easiest to give. It is a pint of blood . . . blood you'll never miss.

Today a Blood Donor Clinic — serving all branches of the armed forces — is carrying on the greatest life-saving business in the whole history of mankind.

At present they need many new donors. Surely you can register your name. The blood plasma is constantly in use so that the reserve must be built up to help the seriously wounded

Don't let the boys over there down by not doing your part at home!

The Peterborough Examiner

VOL. XC, No. 306 • WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 27, 1944 PRICE FOUR CENTS

Main Street Topics

NOT GREAT

The New Year's mail is not expected to be heavy, Postmaster Charles Lacheur said today. In the past, the load of New Year's greeting cards has been negligible.

NIGHTMARE

Peterborough travellers found Toronto's Union Station a kind of nightmare Tuesday evening, with only the hardiest attempting to weaves through the crowd. A number of guides, conveniently placed, helped travellers through the big rotunda.

ITALY CASUALTY

Mr. and Mrs. W. Henry, 12 Brown street, have received word that their son, Gnr. W. D. Henry, has been wounded while fighting in Italy with the Royal Canadian Artillery. Formerly employed at the C.G.E., he has been overseas two years.

DESERTED

Compared with the same time last week, the Post Office today looks deserted. All of the temporary staff of students and veterans have now returned to their studies or former jobs, after turning in what Post Office officials term a good job.

TWO ALARMS

A report to the Fire Department Tuesday afternoon at 12:34 that there was a house afire at 461 Bolivar street, turned out to be a chimney fire when firemen arrived at the residence of Harry Bassett. There was no damage. A false alarm was answered by firemen at 10:33 Tuesday evening. It came from Box 5, across from the Canada Packers. It has been the origin of a number of false alarms during the past.

SEASON'S END.

Many of Peterborough's stores this morning were in the process of dismantling gift counters and Christmas decorations, after experiencing one of the greatest Christmas rushes since the war began. Santa Claus and reindeer pictures have all been removed from the walls, and once again, things are settling back to normal.

WRONGLY ADDRESSED

About 2,000 letters were received by the Post Office during the past few weeks, which were wrongly addressed. Many letters were addressed merely to "Peterborough," with no street or street number indicated. Others gave the name of the street, but no number, and some were addressed to a rural route number.

MUST CLEAR ROADS.

In order to receive their mail, farmers and rural route box holders are advised by the Post Office that they must have their roads opened, and the snow cleared away from the letter boxes. With only one exception, all rural route mail couriers use automobiles, and it is imperative that they be enabled to deliver the letters and parcels without having to leave their cars.

HEAVY MAILS

During the Christmas rush, which for the Post Office, officially started December 14, more than 1,600,000 letters were handled by the local Post Office, it was announced today by Charles Lacheur, Postmaster. This is a great increase over Christmas mails of other years. Approximately 37,000 parcels of all sizes and shapes went through the Peterborough office in the same period, he said.

MadameMasson Dies Suddenly

Madame Cordelia de La Plante Masson, 87 Lock street, died in a Detroit hospital this morning of the effects of a heart attack suffered three days ago while on a Christmas visit to her daughter and her sister in Detroit.

Madame Masson was the second daughter of the late Noah T. de La Plante and his wife, Arthemise Desautels. The family was one of the oldest in the city having come from Quebec many years ago. Their home was at 87 Lock street, at the northwest corner of Lock and Romaine streets, and one of its memories was an occasion when Sir Wilfrid Laurier was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. de La Plante while on a political engagement in Peterborough.

Madame Masson's trip to Detroit was planned for the purpose of Christmas reunion with her daughter, Mrs. Henry Bogle, and her sister, Mrs. Victor Heftler. She had left here apparently in good health, but was stricken with a heart seizure three days ago, and died this morning, according to the information received by telephone today.

Madam Masson is survived by her daughter and her sister, Mrs. Heftler, in Detroit, and also by her sister, Mrs. Therese Girard, 385 Reid street. The body is expected to be brought home Thursday evening on the C.P.R. local. Funeral announcement will be made later.

Military Funeral Held For Flier

KEN FLORENCE

The military funeral of the late Collman (Ken) Florence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Florence, 298 Elias avenue, was held Tuesday in Toronto, Flight Lieut. Sacks officiating, and burial was in Toronto.

Formerly serving as AC2 in the Royal Canadian Air Force, Ken Florence was honorably discharged after two years, and at the time of his death he was 23 years old. A resident of Peterborough all his life, he had attended Queen Mary School.

Surviving are his parents, two sisters, Mrs. Allan B. Collis and Selma, and three brothers, Earl, Albert and Pte. Max Florence.

PTE. J. J. CONDON

Pte. J. J. Condon Badly Wounded

Pte. John James Condon, who has been fighting with an Armored Regiment in Italy, has been seriously wounded, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herb. Condon, 305 McDonnel street.

The young soldier who has spent four years in the Army, three of them overseas, suffered bomb fragment wounds of the face, right arm, hand, thigh, leg and foot, left foot and abdomen, and his right leg has been amputated below the knee.

A former employee at the Bonner-Worth Mill, Pte. Condon enlisted in the Royal Canadian Artillery, but later transferred to the Armoured Corps.

Less Feed Grain Coming From West

TORONTO, Dec. 27 —(CP)—Importations of feed grain from Western Canada to maintain livestock on Ontario farms will be considerably less this winter than last, agricultural officials said today.

A. H. Martin, assistant director of the agricultural representatives branch, said, Ontario's grain crop this year was almost double last year's and many farmers have produced enough grain of their own to feed their livestock over the winter."

This summer's grain yield was estimated at 150,000,000 bushels, as compared with 91,000,000 bushels in 1943.

Engineer Dies

TORONTO, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Oswald Stanley, prominent Canadian civil engineer, died at his home yesterday of a heart attack. He was 60. A native of Port Colborne, Ont., Mr. Stanley was for many years associated with International Nickel Co. at Copper Cliff, and more recently with Algoma ore properties, a subsidiary of the Algoma Steel Corporation, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont. A sister, Mrs. Gale Hewson, lives in Hamilton, and a brother Roy, at Niagara Falls, Ont.

THE SALVATION ARMY TEMPLE BAND

Wishes to sincerely thank Peterborough citizens for their hearty response to the Band's serenading effort, and extends to all season's greetings.

Should anyone have been missed, kindly forward gifts to Salvation Army Temple, Simcoe street, or telephone 8842.

Cabin Battle Brings Fine In City Court

The story of a recent neighborhood row in the cabin colony on Lansdowne street was told before Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court this morning when Charles Kelly was convicted on a charge of assaulting Carl Ellis and was fined $5 and $5 costs.

The evidence showed that the Kelly and Ellis families occupy opposite ends of the same cabin.

Ellis swore that Kelly came to the door of his part of the cabin and accused him of having said that the accused had T.B. Then, Ellis said, Kelly had grabbed him by the vest and pulled him off the step and had struck him. When Mrs. Ellis came out, Ellis said that Kelly picked up a pop bottle and threw it at her. She had ducked and the bottle struck the witness on the shoulder.

Mrs. Ellis corroborated the evidence of her husband, adding that when she went to the rescue of her spouse and had pounded Kelly in the back, the accused had threatened to kill her.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Baker, who were staying at the Ellis home at the time were also called as crown witnesses and their testimony followed the lines of the other testimony.

For the defence Kelly said that he had heard Ellis say that he, the accused had T.B. and he had gone to the Ellis door for an explanation. On his arrival he said that Ellis and his wife had attacked him, that Ellis had grabbed him around the neck and Mrs. Ellis had struck him on the back.

"You look capable of taking care of both of them," commented Magistrate Gee.

"I couldn't strike a woman," replied the accused.

Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., pointed out that throwing a bottle was an act that might have had very serious consequences.

Magistrate Gee registered a conviction and at the suggestion of Mr. Kerr who said he did not think a jail sentence would serve any useful purpose, His Worship made the penalty a fine of $5 and costs, amounting in all to $10.

Lauchlan A. MacKay Nears 95th Birthday

Born in Scotland January 1, 1850, Lauchlan A. MacKay, 335 Sherbrooke Street, will be 95 years old on New Year's Day.

"If I am spared to see the first day of the New Year I shall be 95," Mr. MacKay told the Examiner to-day. "I am in health and well, thanks be to God."

Mr. MacKay came to Peterborough in 1913, has lived here since then, and has become one of the city's oldest residents, only five years from the century mark. Incidentally, he was born in the year of Peterborough's incorporation as a town. Mr. MacKay is able to be about the streets, still meeting old friends, and as cheerful as ever.

OBITUARIES

THOMAS J. FANNING.

After a lingering illness of about a year, Thomas J. Fanning of Burnley died on Tuesday at St. Joseph's Hospital, where he had been a patient for two weeks.

Mr. Fanning was sixty-seven years old. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters, Mrs. W. J. Poyle of Kinistino, Sask.; Leo Fanning, 125 Romaine street, Peterborough, and Charles, Ambrose and Miss Margaret Fanning at home.

The funeral will take place Thursday at 9.30 a.m. from the family home at Burnley to St. Jerome's Church at Warkworth, where requiem mass will be chanted. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

MRS. L. CHAMBERS

A resident of Peterborough for 60 years, Mrs. Luphemia Chambers, formerly Luphemia Duvall, 358 Stewart street, passed away in St. Joseph's Hospital, Tuesday, after a lingering illness. She was in her 76th year.

Mrs. Chambers was born in Cannifton, near Belleville. While in Peterborough she was an enthusiastic member of St. John's Anglican church. She was the widow of the late George Chambers.

Mrs. Chambers leaves to mourn her loss two daughters, Mrs. H. Howell of Peterborough, Mrs. J. F. Chase, of Peterborough, and 15 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The funeral will be Friday, at two o'clock, from the residence, with interment in Little Lake cemetery. Canon W. P. Robertson, of St. John's Anglican church, will conduct the service.

Wins Promotion

OTTAWA, Dec. 27—(CP).—Promotion of Lt.-Col. J. A. Roberts, 36, of Toronto, to the rank of Brigadier was announced today by Defence Headquarters. Brig. Roberts was recently awarded the Distinguished Service Order for gallant and distinguished service in the northwest Europe theatre of operations.

White Christmas

LONDON, Dec. 27 — (CP. — It now can be revealed without violating censorship that Britain had a white Christmas — caused by a heavy frost which covered the ground.

PRE-CHRISTMAS BLAZE DAMAGES HOUSE—Approximately $2,000 damage was caused to this house, occupied by W. J. S. Teneycke, 2 Gladstone avenue, by a fire shortly after 10 o'clock Sunday morning. The family's Christmas tree and some gifts for the children were dragged outside, but the contents of the dwelling-place were extensively damaged. The above photo was taken at the height of the fire, after firemen had arrived and were battling the flames.

Boy 16 Perishes Seeking Gold; Partner Missing

KIRKLAND LAKE, Dec. 27 —(CP). — A tragedy of the northland and the quest for gold came to light Monday in Skead township, 12 miles northwest of Kirkland Lake. A search party found the frozen body of a 16-year-old Kirkland Lake boy lying on a bush trail and today continued a search for his companion, a 36-year-old prospector.

The boy, Frank E. Minaker, was frozen to death. He was found in a sitting position, leaning against a pine tree. Nearby was an empty penny match box and it appeared he had used all the matches in a vain effort to light a fire. Marks on the snow showed he had crawled a quarter of a mile on his hands and knees before he leaned against the tree.

Minaker and the prospector, Bert Hermiston, left here last Friday to stake gold claims in Skead township. When they had not returned Christmas Eve, Mrs. Hermiston became alarmed and notified provincial police. As it was late in the evening, search was delayed until Monday when a party headed by provincial constable Sam Whitehouse of nearby Larder Lake left for the Hermiston camp.

The body of Minaker, a student at the Kirkland Lake High School, was found two miles from the camp the two shared and has been sent back to Kirkland Lake.

Members of the search party suggested that Hermiston may have taken ill and sent the boy back for help or that the prospector went through the ice of a lake or stream and that the boy was coming out to report the accident. So far no trace of him has been found.

Overcome By Gas Sitting In Car

WINDSOR, Dec. 27—(CP).—Clem Menard, 23, and Alice D'Haitre, 16, were revived by the city fire department rescue squad today after they were overcome by carbon monoxide fumes while in a car in Menard's garage.

Menard, noticing something was wrong, opened the car door and dragged the girl to the steps of his home. His father carried both of them into the house, calling the rescue squad. Menard was almost recovered when the firemen arrived, and Miss D'Haitre was revived by an inhalator.

CWAC Wounded

HALIFAX, Dec. 27 — (CP). — Pte. Jean Ashe, 24-year old member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps, has been wounded in Belgium. The message — received by her parents here — gave no details beyond stating she had suffered leg injuries. She was thought to be the first C.W.A.C. wounded in a theatre of war.

Pte. Ashe was in the first draft of C.W.A.C.'s to go overseas.

DUNKERQUE ONCE BRITISH

Charles II of England sold Dunkerque to the French for 5,000,000 livres.

War—4 Years Ago

By The Canadian Press

DEC. 27, 1940—Germans raided London heavily. Canada's 2nd Division brought to full strength. Thirteenth Newfoundland naval contingent arrived in United Kingdom. Axis sea raider shelled Pacific Island of Nauru. Eire announced gasoline restrictions.

Train Hits Truck Driver Escapes

Wallace Andrew, 753 Water street, had a narrow escape from injury this morning when the Canada Packers truck he was driving was in collision with a C.N.R. yard train at the Townsend street crossing.

Andrew was driving the truck east on Townsend street and the locomotive was travelling north. The motor vehicle was struck squarely in the middle and pushed along the tracks 46 feet before the train stopped. The truck was damaged to a considerable extent but the driver escaped without injury.

A switch signal was struck by the truck as it was being shoved along ahead of the engine and was broken off.

Police Arrest Four In Cafe Disturbance

As the result of a fight in the Louis Cafe Tuesday night three men and a woman were arrested by Constables Gordon Trennum, Ernest Beatty and Allan Edmison and today faced charges of having created a disturbance.

Herbert James Pluard, R.R. 6, Peterborough, asked for an adjournment, intimating that he wanted to get some money to pay his fine. He got an enlargement of his case until Saturday.

W. J. Trainer, 492 Elm street, also secured a postponement, the case being adjourned until Friday, January 5.

When William Samuel Hutchings, Simcoe street, was similarly charged with having created a disturbance he told the court that he did not create a disturbance but had merely tried to stop one. His case also went over until January 5.

Mrs. Margaret Smith, Elm street, who was also charged with causing a disturbance likewise secured an adjournment until a week from Friday.

M. McLaren, Sudbury, who entered a plea of guilty to illegal possession of liquor, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

Summer Course Is Planned At Queen's

KINGSTON, Dec. 27. — (CP). — Principal R. C. Wallace of Queen's University announced today the university will offer a full year's course in the faculties of arts and applied sciences to ex-servicemen and women between April and September next year. Students successfully completing this special session will be able to enter higher years in September.

Court Frees Man For New Year's

Although Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., suggested a month as a suitable penalty, Magistrate A. E. Gee sentenced David Robertson, Bracebridge, to eight days imprisonment, dating back to December 23, after the accused had pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

"That will let you out Saturday in time for New Year's," said Magistrate Gee after Robertson had pleaded that his Christmas had been wrecked and that he should be given a chance in regard to the New Year holiday.

Declaring that he wanted the court to know something of the circumstances Mr. Kerr called Constable Gordon Trennum to the witness box after the accused had entered his plea of guilty.

Constable Trennum said that in answer to a call from Louis Billiards, he and Constable John Morrow had gone there and had found Robertson with a new pair of men's shoes hidden under his overcoat. The officers had learned that the accused had tried to sell the footwear to several persons for $2, although it had been ascertained at the Neill store, the stamp of which firm was on the shoes, that the retail value of shoes was $9.

It was intimated that Robertson had been a nuisance for some time. Chief Constable John Thompson said that he had talked to the accused on several occasions and tried to straighten him out but that he had not been very successful.

Robertson pleaded for another chance and Magistrate Gee finally made the sentence eight days but dated it back.

Personal Gifts Lead In Aid To War Victims

In the midst of all the fine sentiment and congeniality that prevails in such a widespread manner at Christmastide, it is the purely personal act that spreads the utmost in good feeling, emphasizing the individual thought that one has for the other.

From a community-wide standpoint, this of course has its root in the individual part played by all classes of people in a personal way the success of the whole being gauged to a large extent on this one thing.

And so it is, that having reached the highest achievement in the sending of something to bring happiness to the boys and girls of Britain for Christmas, the local and district fund finds, that a proportionately larger share of it was made possible through purely personal gifts for that purpose.

Another nice list of purely personal gifts is acknowledged to-day following many previous ones which emphasizes the part they have played in the city and district effort as a whole.

These represent repeats of help given many times before, some of them from very young folk, among whom are two from Hastings in this category, with Paul Humphreys a boy of that place bringing in $1 that he received when he caught a weasel and sold it for that amount to be credited alongside Jackie Brackenridge in assisting this effort for Christmas.

Then Mrs. William Shannon who has given a monthly donation that bears the form of a voluntary pledge and had already given twice in December, came along with a further $6 on the business eve before Christmas, and Annie Blackburn, a young girl made a gift from her own savings to similarly assist in the good work, while another is recorded that has given on many occasions to the secretary of the fund while making a tour for the market on Saturday mornings.

Bensfort Women's Auxiliary.

Everybody knows the difficulties that blocked roads have occasioned to the residents of rural areas in coming into the city, and being anxious that their gift should be included in the Christmas donation, the women of the Bensfort WA, through Mrs. Frank Morrison, telephoned in their desire, and the cheque to make this possible followed, and is recorded today. These women have also assisted on former occasions.

Another return from the sale of kaleidescopes made and donated by the G. Roy Powell family is recorded, and the secretary of the fund would like to add there are still a few of these yet for sale, the returns from which go 100 per cent. toward the fund.

Frank Wade Passes In Coventry, England

Word has been received here of the death in Coventry, England, of Frank Wade on December 24.

Mr. Wade for over ten years was a resident of Peterborough and an employee of the Canadian General Electric Company. Ten years ago he returned to England and has resided there ever since.

He leaves a sorrowing wife, two sons and one daughter in England, also his aged mother, Mrs. C. Wade, who resides with her daughter, Mrs. L. A. Anthony, 165 Aymer street, and one brother, Jack Wade of the River Road.

Manchester Hit In V-Bomb Attack

LONDON, Dec. 27.—(CP).—Berlin saiad to-day that Manchester had been struck by V-1 bombs, indicating either that German pick-a-back planes were making daring sweeps toward northern England ,or that an improved type of V-1 had a longer range.

(Censorship has not permitted British correspondents to comment.)

Describing the V-1 bombing of the textile city as an "important factor" in the military situation, a broadcast declared:

"The Allies see now there is no defence against V-1 or V-2."

Cigarette Gifts

The following boys' names were drawn to receive cigarettes for Christmas from the Eastern Ontario Gladioli Society: Pte. D. Detlor, Gnr. F. R. Blackburn, Gnr. S. E. Johnston, Cpl. Cecil Arthur, L.-Cpl. David House, WO. J. W. Mitchell, Stoker 1C Norman Jewell, AB. Thomas Bradley and Sgt. Frank Dunford.

FLT.-LIEUT. W. HAMILTON.

D.F.C. Winner Returns From Overseas

Flt.-Lieut. William Hamilton, DFC, who has been overseas since November, 1942, has landed in Canada, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton, 599 Homewood avenue.

One of a small number in Peterborough and district to have been awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, he won his decoration for a trip he made to Berlin. A Toronto flier, PO. Robert B. Jackson, who has just been repatriated, recalled the trip he made with Flt.-Lieut. Hamilton, as his most dangerous mission.

His job was that of mid-upper gunner and on the raid against Berlin in August, 1943, one of the aircraft's engines failed and the ship lost altitude. PO. Jackson said that Flt.-Lieut. Hamilton not only piloted the crippled plane over the target, but managed to make the return trip to Britain safely. He was decorated for this shortly afterwards.

19 Germans Still At Large

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 27.—(AP). —The next 36 hours may determine if there will be a quick round-up of 19 Germans still at large after a sensational escape from the Papago park prisoner of war camp, an army officer said to-day.

Six of 25 German U-boat officers and men who fled through a 200-foot tunnel were recaptured Sunday night a few hours after the escape was discovered. None has been apprehended since.

The ranking escapee is Navy Capt. Jurgen Wattenberg, 43, former officer on the Admiral Graf Spee, scuttled German pocket battleship. He was later decorated by the Nazis for sinking a Brazilian freighter.

Col. William A. Holden, camp commandant, denied that Guenther Prien, U-boat commander credited with sinking the British battleship Royal Oak, was a prisoner here. The report was blamed on a misunderstanding of an inquiry.

Cpl. J. Simmons, RCAF Returns To Canada

After serving overseas for three years and three months, Cpl. J. W. Simmons, whose wife lives at 596 Chamberlain street, arrived home Sunday evening, just in time to celebrate Christmas with his family.

Formerly employed at the Canadian General Electric Company, Cpl. Simmonds enlisted almost four years ago in the RCAF ground crew, and he has spent all his time overseas in England. Cpl. Simmons is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Simmons, Romaine street, and a sister, Pte. Betty Aldyne Simmons, is stationed at Orillia with the CWAC.

Motorist Fined On Unusual Count

John Harding was fined $5 and $2.50 costs in police court this morning by Magistrate E. A. Gee after he had entered a written plea of guilty to a somewhat unusual charge, of failing to obey a police signal.

The case was an aftermath of the recent blizzard. The snow-loader was at work and Constable Ernest Beatty was on traffic duty at Simcoe and George streets. He was routing traffic coming along Simcoe street south on George street and when Harding approached the intersection, travelling east on Simcoe street, the officer signalled for him to turn south. The driver failed to obey the signal and continued east across the intersection, with the result that the charge was laid him.

Ceylon Airman Delighted To See Winter

Thousands of miles, two or three thermal zones and about 110 degrees in temperature were measures of difference between Christmas 1943 and 1944 for Warrant Officer, 1st Class, Fred Bayliss, 205 Brock street.

A year ago in equatorial Ceylon he tried to captured the traditional spirit of the season as he remembered it from his boyhood in Peterborough, but without the setting of snow and frost the bells of phantasy tinkled out of tune in that far eastern climate of constant humidity and heat.

WO1 Bayliss arrived home December 19, and frankly admits that he has no further desire to see more of Asia, and its people.

"We were on coastal patrol in big Catalina flying boats," young Bayliss told the Examiner today—operations against Japanese submarine activity, and we got two of their 'subs' and also protecting convoys. Ours was known as the Tusker Squadron, associated as an idea with the tusks of elephants. Incidentally I went on two or three hunts in off time down in the elephant country."

Takes Blind Date

WO. Bayliss enlisted in February 1941 and went to the training school at Galt for the government's course in aero-engine mechanics. In the following January he was sent to England with a ground crew, but after some months overseas he qualified for flying duty. He accepted a blind date and landed in Ceylon. A call came for volunteers for undisclosed work, and he put in his name and was one of the men accepted. At sea they learned they were heading for the Indian Ocean."

Most of the work from Ceylon bases was routine, with occasional flurries. The Tuskers sank two Jap submarines, rescued survivors of a freighter who had been fifty-one days at sea on two life rafts, put in a lot of patrol and convoy flying.

Longer Tours

An R.C.A.F. tour of operations over Europe is thirty flights, but out of Ceylon with nothing but the expanse of ocean in all directions, the corresponding term was 1,000 flying-hours. "It took me two years and a half to pile up that time," WO. Bayliss said.

Supplies of Canadian beer reached the Ceylon bases, and elsewhere throughout the Far East. "Even when it wasn't cool, it was mighty good to get that beer in the mess. It was carefully rationed, but some of the lads wouldn't drink it, and that left enough for the rest of us. We were dubious about the water, and the general alternative was cocoanut juice which was all right when you acquired a taste for it. The cocoanut tree serves the natives in a lot of ways. They use the wood for fuel and making houses, they eat the nut fruit of the tree, make copra out of it and export it all over the world. And from the flower they make a liquor they call 'arrak.'

Warrant Office Bayliss was born in Peterborough. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Bayliss, live at 218 King street. He attended King George and King Edward schools and the Collegiate Institute, and was with Outboard Marine and Manufactuing Company four years prior to his enlisting with the R.C.A.F.

Terrible Storms

Of his memories of Ceylon and the Indian Ocean, this young veteran of the Asiatic theatre of the war said he would never forget experiences in terrific electric storms that were the bane and dread of the air crews.

"We were more afraid of those storms than of any kind of enemy action. They tossed the big Catalinas around the sky like bits of cork. Those tropical storms were something to avoid, if you could. And the weather was so humid and damp that you could hardly keep matches. You might get one of a box to light. Everything was damp and musty. The heat averaged 80 to 90 degrees the year round, but last Christmas we had it at 110 degrees and—were we thinking of the snow of all our other Christmases when we were kids back home in Canada. It was just as much trouble keeping cigarettes as the matches. On one of the comparatively few hunts into the elephant country we brought back a deer, but it was 'high' shortly after we got back and we had to throw it away."

That was the kind of country W.O. Bayliss left last September and arrived home to his wife a week before Christmas. He has been posted to Trenton, Ontario, January 18th.

Lowering Their Voices

MOSCOW, Dec. 27—(AP)—The Russian Army newspaper Red Star declared today: "Gen. Eisenhower's successes against the German offensive have compelled the enemy to lower their voices."

"Allied troops are creating conditions for isolating the German group from the main base," the article continued. "It is surprising there are some foreign press observers who have compared the German breakthrough on a relatively narrow front with the German offensive in the west in 1940."

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP

A nice salad is always appreciated for the supper meal, and there are so many different kinds of salads, that you can serve one each evening, and be a long time before you will have to start repeating them. You can serve a meat salad, or a fruit salad, one will be just as much appreciated as the other.

Prune-Orange-Cheese Salad

1 box gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, 1 cup hot water, 1-3 cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup orange juice, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 6 slices of orange, 6 prunes (cooked until tender), ¼ pound cottage of cream cheese. Soften gelatine in cold water. Add sugar, salt, and hot water. Stir until dissolved. Add orange juice and lemon juice. Rinse flat pan in cold water. Pour in jelly to the depth of about one-half inch and allow to congeal. On this jelly place 6 slices of orange, all skin and partitions removed. On the top of each slice of orange place a prune stuffed with cheese. Cover with remaining orange jelly, which has been cooled, and allowed to congeal somewhat. Chill, cut in squares, and serve on lettuce.

Turkey Salad Mould

1½ tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water, ¾ cup cooked salad dressing, 1 cup celery cut fine, 2 cups cooked turkey, ¼ cup chopped unpeeled apples, chopped pimento. Soak gelatine in cold water. Dissolve over hot water, and add to salad dressing. Fold in turkey, celery and apple. Season to taste. Mould and chill, unmould on crisp lettuce.

Cottage Cheese Puffs

1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, ½ cup cottage cheese, ⅛ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon minced onion, ⅛ teaspoon celery, salt, 1 egg well beaten, crackers. Combine cheese with seasonings, and blend well, fold in beaten egg white, and pile to a depth of ½ inch on small round crackers. Combine cheese with seasonings and blend well, fold in well beaten egg white, and pile to a depth of ½ inch on small round crackers. Place on broiler rack about four inches from heat, and toast about five minutes, until slightly browned. Serve hot.

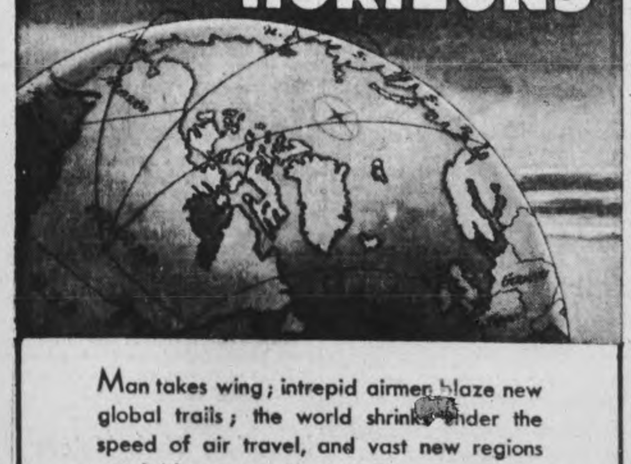
TO-MORROW'S HORIZONS



Man takes wing; intrepid airmen blaze new global trails; the world shrinks under the speed of air travel, and vast new regions are laid open to development.

Post-war skyways, following the Great Circle routes to the north, will place Canada at the cross-roads of the world, with wide scope for promoting international trade, travel, and understanding.

With the progress of to-morrow, Canadians will, as in the past, find The Royal Trust Company ready to serve them in safeguarding the fruits of their labours, while at home or on missions to new horizons.

Winter Scene Decorations P.C.V.S. "At Home" Feature

The "At Home" of the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School, Tuesday evening, lived up to its name for entertainment, as well as an opportunity to renew acquaintances. Former students and graduates of P. C. V. S., who are attending college, or in the services and home on Christmas leave, made it a point to attend this highlight of the school year, to meet their cronies, and members of the old "crowd."

Decorations this year were novel, and brightened the gymnasium considerably. Last year the decorations were done away with because of the feeling that a few patriotic decorations were all that were needed. However this year, the decorations reappeared and the committee in charge were well repaid for their efforts, by the pleasure of the guests.

Flanking the orchestra platform, were two huge Christmas trees, which reached to the ceiling, ablaze with colored light. Lining the wall were attractive snow scenes, done in colored cardboard, each using a different color scheme. The scenes themselves were banked with spruce boughs, as was the rest of the gym, and colored lights were set among the green. Colored lanterns hung around the room, and these, and colored lights in the decorations, provided the illumination.

Receiving the guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. G. Wilson Craw, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Simmers, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Corneil, Dr. and Mrs. G. Raymore Scott, and Miss Catherine Scott and Norman Harris, representing the Students' Council, the former being convener of the "At Home" committee.

Among those present were: Misses Madeline Thomson, Margaret Braund, Catherine Crocker, Mildred Spicer, Mary Ross, Audrey Fontaine, Margaret Abbott, Maymie Cathcart, Ruth McNeely, M. McIntyre, T. ## Couple Observe 50th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. H. White, 594 Park street south, who observed their golden wedding anniversary on Christmas Day, were "at home" to friends, neighbors and relatives on Tuesday afternoon and evening. A large number of well-wishers offered their congratulations to the couple who had marked the fiftieth year of their marriage, and they received a great many cards and gifts.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. White was their daughter, Mrs. A. Clarke (Selina) of Brockville, and Miss Rose White, another daughter was at the door. Pouring tea was Mrs. F. G. White, a daughter-in-law, while another daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. White of Ottawa, assisted in serving. A large wedding cake centred the tea table, which was set with a linen cutwork cloth, strewn with gold leaves. Flanking the centrepiece, a huge wedding cake, were lighted candles in red and white bell-shaped holders.

Their four grandchildren presented Mr. and Mrs. White with a bouquet of large yellow 'mums, while their sons and daughters presented them with a purse of money, a hand-painted picture in a gold frame, and a toaster.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, December 28

A DAY of strange contradictions, perplexities and perhaps reversals is read from a chain of conflicting configurations. While there are signs of exciting and thrilling experiences, with all the energies and faculties geared to high tension, yet this lively tempo also offers opportunities for mistakes, regrets and other adverse situations. The tendency to give all, and more than is available, may lead to extravagances, excess, resentments, crashes. Be wise with words, writings, documents, investments and there may be great pleasure of a social and romantic nature, with travel, excitement, probably publicity.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a whirl of contradictions, commotion, thrills, enjoyments, adverse and puzzling circumstances during the year. Excessive zeal, enterprise, extravagance and overacting on both business and intimate relationships may take a toll in loss, regrets, strife, jealousy and resentments in which words, writings and careless signing of signatures involve far-reaching consequences. Shun intrigues, queer persons and emotional and mental idiosyncracies. With precaution there may be dramatic adventures, travel, romance and some place in the limelight. Much fun and play seem in sight.

A child born on this day will have much energy, mental ability, of creative and artistic as well as practical skills, with high temperament, although sociable kindly and romantic. Easily involved through speech writings and excesses.

Range Pals Have Sleigh Ride

A full attendance of 24 members was present at the Christmas meeting of the Range Pals, at the home of Misses Blanche and Helen Quinn. William Price called for several of the members with his team and sleigh, and they enjoyed a sleigh ride before the meeting.

After singing a group of Christmas carols, the Pals heard letters from Spr. Arthur Sayer, L.-Cpl. Harry Lee, Spr. Elwood Hendren, C.S.M. Jim McPherson, Tpr. Fred Price, Gnr. Jack Quinn, and Pte. Samuel Price, thanking them for Christmas boxes they had received. Pte. Marion Quinn, CWAC at Kingston, received a Christmas box also.

Members were urged to bring material for the scrapbooks, to be sent to soldiers in hospital. During the month, $10 had been sent to the Christmas Cheer for British Children Fund. The group enjoyed a series of games in charge of Miss Blanche Quinn's group, after which Mrs. R. Clements played Santa Claus, and distributed gifts. The next meeting will be held at the home of Misses Audrey and Norma Timlin.

Junior Choir Sings Cantata

HAVELOCK, Dec. 27 — (ENS) — A cantata "The Cradle of Bethlehem" portraying the Christmas story in song and pantomine, was sung by the junior choir of the United Church on Sunday evening, under the direction of W. M. Platt, with Mrs. Platt officiating at the piano for the choir numbers and Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson at the organ for the hymns and voluntaries, the service being conducted by Rev. S. A. Kemp.

The choir entered the church in processional singing "It Came Upon The Midngiht Clear." The anthems by the choir were: "Sing His Praise," "The Song of the Desert" (an Egyptian chant), and "Seek Ye King." The senior girls of the choir rendered an anthem entitled "To Bethlehem Town."

The pageant part of the service was opened with the singing of "The Cradle of Bethlehem" by a quartette comprising Jacqueline Puffer, Ruth Wilkinson, Stella Wilkinson and Dora Ketchen as the screen was withdrawn from the front of the chancel, disclosing Mary sitting at the Manger, Mary being portrayed by Margaret Anderson. This was followed by a pantomine "Silent Night," by Marie Dafoe, Dora Ketchen, Stella Wilkinson and Ruth Wilkinson, two on each side of the manger, while the choir sang the vocal part.

Mary's solo in response was "My Wonder Child," followed by a poem, "Gifts for the King" by Helen Anderson. Other quartettes were "The Shepherds" and "Peace-Goodwill."

Minister From China Gives Yule Sermon

OMEMEE, Dec. 26.—(ENS).—Rev. Howard J. Veals, B.A., B.Paed. now of Toronto, recently returned from China, was in charge of the Christmas service at Trinity United church on Sunday morning due to the illness of the minister, Rev. R. M. Patterson.

Christmas music was sung by the choir, two anthems, 'Christmas Hymn' and 'Bethlehem' were sung, and a solo by Howard Vaughan, R.C.A.F., Kingston, ''Twas in the Bleak Midwinter.'

Rev. Veals delivered an address in keeping with a wartime Christmas. He also read a Christmas message from Rev. R. M. Patterson to his congregation.

The church was decorated with two bouquets of flowers, a basket of shaggy white chrysanthemums, the annual gift of Lady Eaton to the minister and his family, and another of red roses, red and white carnations, snapdragons and baby 'mums sent to Mr. and Mrs. David Weir by their four sons who are serving overseas, Fred, Arthur and Russell with the R.C.A.F., and Burt who is now in Holland with the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Miss Mary Staples of Toronto, and Miss Barbara Staples, of Ida, with their parents.

Miss Ma me Cathcart from her school near Port Hope, at her home.

Mrs. Frank Porter and Miss Esma Johnston, of Hamilton, with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Johnston.

Miss Gertrude Hicks of Toronto, with Mr. and Mrs. Walter Bowles.

Miss Janet McIntosh of Emily, has been home for a week due to an epidemic of measles which necessitated the closing of her school.

Friends of Mr. David Wood and Harold Cathcart will be glad to know that they are both recovering from their recent illnesses.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Preston and family spent Christmas at Lindsay with Mrs. Preston's parents.

Mr. T. H. Blanchard and Miss Alma Blanchard of Peterborough, spent Christmas at the home of Mr. George Whitfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Cathcart were with Mrs. Cathcart's parents at Bethany for Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Brown of Peterborough, were guests on Christmas of Miss Annie and Walter Brown.

To Honor Airman

TORONTO, Dec. 27. — (CP).—Suburban Mimico's Board of Education will ask the Ontario Department of Education to name one of its new scholarships for Flt. Lt. David Hornell, Mimico airman who won the V.C., while losing his life in an attack on a German submarine.

KEEPING WARM IN TRAIN WRECK—Three of the passengers of the Chicago-bound California Limited share a couple of blankets in an endeavor to keep warm beside the derailed train near McCook, Ill. The passenger train, carrying a capacity load of homing holiday makers, jumped the track near McCook. About 35 of the passengers were shaken up, but only one was seriously injured. A railroad official said a defect in one of the coaches was the cause. Left to Right, here are Mrs. Betty Marcus, Lieut. Sam Marcus of Fresno, Cal., and Lieut. Thomas Hyman of Bartow, Fla.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

WIFE WANTS AMUSEMENT
Tired Husband Usually Reluctant To Dash Around In Evenings.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a woman of 23 have been married nine years, but have never been really happy. He hates shows, dances and company, doesn't like to do anything but read and won't take me out to any place of amusement in the evening. He is at work all day and when he is not at home, I never leave the house except to go to market.

I can't stand this much longer. What shall I do?

MISERABLE.

ANSWER—How do you get that way about your husband never doing anything to make you happy when he is good and kind and gives you a good home? Don't you think all of those things are quite as important as taking you to the movies or to a dance? Can't you see that you are ignoring the big, vital things and stressing the unimportant ones?

If he was lazy and shiftless, and didn't support you in comfort, if he was cross and surly to you or cold and cruel, you might well say that he did nothing to make you happy, but you make a false accusation when you make that statement when he does everything but take you out.

Use Your Afternoons

Of course you need amusement, you need diversion, but why not use a little common sense about getting it? If your husband does not like to go out in the evenings, why do you not go out by yourself in the afternoons with some woman friend?

You say that you never leave your house in the daytime. That's silly. That is the very time you should go, while your husband is away at his work. Go then and get your fill of running around so that you won't badger a tired man to go out with you in the evenings.

Any woman must be a poor manager who can't arrange her housework so that she can get off for an hour or two in the afternoon.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a widow of 32 with five small children. I have a home but no income and I cannot go out to work because the children are too small. I have a chance to marry a widower who also has five children. But my friends say that I should not think of such a marriage because it will not last, mixing the children. What do you think?

MRS. X. Y. .

ANSWER—Take it from me, if you marry this man and superimpose your family upon his, you will be crazy. Don't think of doing anything so idiotic as trying to mother ten small children. They will fight like the Kilkenny cats and you and your husband will fight over your respective broods, and there will be no peace nor happiness in your home.

It will be far better for you to put your children in some institution where they will be well taken care of while you go out and work. Study some trade. Learn how to do some one thing well enough to enable you to become an expert and command good wages.

Give up all thought of marriage, because no man suitable for you to marry will be altruistic enough to undertake to support five stepchildren. It is only desperation and an effort to get some woman to take care of his children that has made the widower offer to consolidate his orphan asylum with yours.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — I am 20 years old and am to be married in June. We have been engaged a year, but we never have had two minutes' time alone. My people do not believe in allowing engaged couples to go out together, or even to have a little privacy. I want to go out with my fiancee and with other couples and have some fun. What can we do?

AN ENGAGED COUPLE.

ANSWER—Why not assert your independence and just go? I don't see how they could stop you if you had any backbone. Tell them that they show a poor opinion of you if they do not trust you out alone with the man you are to marry so soon.

Certainly you are engaged to a patient young man if he is willing to endure so much chaperoning. I congratulate you, but watch out, or else your parents will go on your bridal trip with you!

LADY MARIA

SIR ARCHIBALD

DIPLOMAT SUES WIFE—Counsel for Sir Archibald Clark-Kerr, British Ambassador to Russia, filed an action in the court of sessions, Edinburgh, against Lady Maria Teresa Dias Clark-Kerr, whose address was given as 3 E. 69th Street, New York City. The couple were wed in Santiago, Chile, in 1928.

Mrs. B. Preston WMS President

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 27—(ENS).—Mrs. C. Veenman was hostess to the W.M.S. for the Christmas meeting. Mrs. S. S. Staples gave the treasurer's report, showing that the allocation $150 had been met, and that $10 would be sent to the Chinese Relief Fund. The secretary was instructed to send cards to the members and ex-members who have had a bereavement during the year and to those of the congregation who are ill.

Mrs. Owen Murray gave the report of the nominating committee as follows: President, Mrs. B. Preston; first vice-president, Mrs. J. F. Everson; second vice-president, Mrs. Finlay Clarke; treasurer, Mrs. S. S. Staples; secretary, Mrs. J. Whitfield; press secretary, Mrs. J. Whitfield; pianist, Mrs. Harry Bothwell; Supply secretary, Annie Brown; Strangers' secretary, Mrs. H. Cathcart; Literature secretary, Mrs. A. Bidgood; Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. O. Dunford; Christian Stewardship and Finance, Mrs. M. H. Johnston; Temperance secretary, Mrs. E. Kimbal; group leaders, Mrs. O. Murray, Mrs. Shaw, Mrs. G. Whitfield, and Mrs. W. Bowles.

The president voiced appreciation of the co-operation given during the year by the executive and the members.

Mrs. Rae Wood and Mrs. Jack Whitfield were appointed delegates to the W.M.S. Presbyterial. It was also announced that a pot-luck supper will be held in the basement in connection with the annual congregational meeting.

Mrs. Murray then took charge of the program. An inspiring Christmas service was followed, which included the singing of a number of Christmas hymns and carols and a brief candle lighting service. Those participating in the service included Mrs. Dunford, Mrs. Rowan, Mrs. Kimbal, Mrs. Cooke and Mrs. Kelk.

A pleasant social hour was enjoyed at the close of the meeting.

Dies In B.C.

CRESTON, B.C., Dec. 27—(CP)—General services will be held on Thursday for Col. Fred Lister, 65, former Conservative member of the British Columbia Legislature for Kaslo and Nelson ridings. He died on Friday. He received the Order of the Companion of St. Michael and St. George, the Distinguished Service Order, and the Military Cross for his services during the First Great War.

SNOW MAN BATTLES NAZI WINTER DRIVE—Sgt. Marvin C. Hans, Jr., of Owensboro, Ky., demonstrates the new snow cape being used by Allied infantrymen battling the Nazi winter offensive in snow-covered areas in Belgium. The one-piece white cape, which ties in front, provides quick and easy camouflage for a soldier fighting on snow-covered ground. White rags wrapped around the rifle give additional camouflage. This photograph was made at St. Vith, Belgium, scene of bitter fighting.

Reporter Tours Front Line For Christmas Visit

By ROBERT EUNSON
Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIANS INSIDE GERMANY, Dec. 27 — (AP). — Capt. Don Anderson of Preston, Ont., who commanded a company of the 1st Canadian Army in the front lines in Germany Christmas Day in the absence of his officer commanding took it upon himself to show this correspondent every sector of this outermost perimeter of the Nijmegen salient, which bulges narrowly into Germany.

First we had dinner with the colonel whose wife lives at Kingsville, Ont., at the colonel's table set in an old German house were Lieut. Peter Gambola of Port Arthur, Ont., Lieut. Don Pearce of St. Thomas, Ont., Maj. Ray Hodgins of Preston and Capt. Russel Echlin of Galt, Ont.

Pearce and the colonel cut fruit cake from home for dessert.

One our round of front-line posts we had the welcome protection of Anderson and his automatic, plus Anderson's sergeant-major, Richard Johnston of Kincardine, Ont., with a tommy gun.

One of the hardest fighting soldiers in the outfit is Lieut. John Sullivan of Halifax. We found Sullivan in a German house air-conditioned by shellfire but the men from his platoon were grouped around a stove. From a window on the top floor we were able to see far behind the German lines.

Platoon Sgt. Larry Garraway of Preston, Ont., is Sullivan's right-hand man.

Anderson's sector runs along the rim of a hill overlooking a field just in front the German lines. Men stationed in houses shoot from the windows whenever the Germans below them come into the open or try to move.

The centre platoon is commanded by Sgt. Cy Hare of Port Credit, Ont. The platoon on the right flank is under the leadership of Lieut. Bert Cruickshank of Paris, Ont., whose sergeant is Harold Bonsteel of Hamilton.

The doctor who had been with the men all the way in from France is Capt. Percy Decter of Winnipeg.

Among the Ontario soldiers we met in the lines that night were Clarence Lehman of Kitchener, John Thomas of Guelph, John Mullins of St. Pauls, Ralph Bates of Kitchener, Bennie Perkins of Guelph, Grant Lambert of Listowel, and Beverly Buckwell of Brantford.

One Year Late

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Dec. 27—(AP)—Santa Claus rang twice at the home of B. Murray Sigerfoos, and he was more than twice welcome. Sigerfoos received two packages mailed in Cleveland a year apart. One was on schedule, and for it he was duly grateful. The other, which postal authorities said must have been lodged in a mail pouch and stored from one holiday rush to the next, had become in a year the gift of gifts—a carton of cigarettes.

Blame Thefts For Suicide

NEW YORK, Dec. 27 — (AP) — Oscar H. Grooper, 57, owner of a leather goods firm where a secretary recently was accused of "Robin Hood" thefts to give employees pay raises, plunged to his death today from his ninth floor hotel suite, police reported.

Grooper left notes to his wife and his attorney, police said, in which he had written: "Thefts have ruined me."

He was head of Grooper, Inc., from which Mrs. Madeline Dunnigan, 22, was accused Dec. 8 of taking between $30,000 and $40,000. She is under arrest on a charge of grand larceny.

Assistant District Attorney Francis X. Clark said that Mrs. Dunnigan told him she increased one fellow employee's salary from $30 to $55 a week, and another from $3 to $15 a day. One friend received $25 weekly, and Mrs. Dunnigan, who earned $40 a week, used some of the money to purchase clothes for herself, Clark said.

Precious Bottle

CARDIFF, Dec. 27—(CP).—L.-Cpl. Ted Spillane was thirsty, all right, that day some months ago when he received the first free issue of a bottle of beer he got in France, but he had a better use for the beverage than drinking it. He guarded it zealously all through weeks of fighting—then brought it home intact to "wet" the head of his newborn son.

For Quick Cough Relief, Try This Home Mixture

Splendid Results. Saves Money. Easily Mixed.

You'll be surprised how quickly and easily you can soothe a bad winter cough, when you try this well known recipe. It gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money and you'll find it very pleasant and dependable, for real relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed—no trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup. Then put 2⅓ ounces of Pinex (obtained from any druggist) into a 16 oz. bottle. Add your syrup and you have 16 ounces of medicine that will surprise you by its quick action. It never spoils, lasts a family a long time, and tastes fine—children love it.

This home mixture takes right hold of a severe cough. For real results, you'll say it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and quickly eases soreness and difficult breathing.

Pinex is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for its soothing effect on throat membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

No more privacy than a goldfish

While bringing its policyholders all the advantages of competitive business, life insurance "lives in a glass house". It has no more privacy than a goldfish. Complete details of its operations are available to policyholders and the public at large, in the 700-page Annual Report of the Dominion Superintendent of Insurance, and in Provincial Reports.

Under the laws enacted at Confederation and constantly broadened and improved during the past 75 years, policyholders enjoy the double protection of both Dominion and Provincial supervision. They receive full information about the life insurance business in Canada: its investments, its policy funds, its contingency reserves, the volume of protection which it provides and, in fact, the whole detail of its operations. No other industry in Canada is under such continuous and experienced supervision.

Life insurance is the outstanding business example of private management under government supervision in the public interest. Within this democratic pattern, the faith that Canadians have in their life insurance has been vindicated through wars, epidemics, panics and depressions. Within this pattern, the interests of four million Canadian policyholders are safeguarded.

It is good citizenship to own LIFE INSURANCE

IN MEMORIAM

FALLIS—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Johnston Fallis, who passed away seven years ago to-day, December 27th, 1937.

The face I loved is now laid low,
His loving voice is still;
The hand so often clasped in mine
Lies now in death's cold chill,
I often sit and think of him
When I am all alone;
For memory is the only thing
That grief can call its own.

—Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

STENTON—In loving memory of our dear mother, Catherine Stenton, who passed away December 27th, 1942.

We are thinking of you to-day mother,
Thinking of you and the past;
Picturing you in our memory
Just as we saw you last,
If all the world were ours
We'd give it, yes and more,
To see the face of our loved one
Come smiling through the door.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by her family.

STENTON—In loving memory of my dear wife, Catharine V. Stenton, who passed away 2 years ago December 27th, 1942.

The one I cared for
I think of her in silence
No eyes can see my grief
But still within my aching heart
Her memory I can always keep

—Sadly missed by husband.

COX—In loving memory of my dear Uncle Ad, who passed away December 27th, 1943.

There is a sad but sweet remembrance
There is a memory fond and true
There is a token of affection uncle
And a heartache still for you.

—Sadly missed by your loving niece Doreen.

HAMILTON—In memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. Wm (Marianne) Hamilton, who passed away December 28th, 1938.

In our hearts your memory lingers
Sweetly, tender, fond and true,
There is not a day dear mother
That we do not think of you.

—Ever remembered by husband and daughters Minnie and Elizabeth.

Germans Say U-Boats Bagged 8 Destroyers

LONDON, Dec. 27 (CP-Reuters) — The German D.N.B. Agency claimed today that eight Allied destroyers and escort vessels were sunk by German U-boat hunting packs during the last few days, according to operational headquarters of the German U-boat arm. The Agency also asserted two heavily-laden freighters totalling 12,000 tons were sunk.

Freight Loads Doubled During The War

By R. C. VAUGHAN
Chairman and President

In the fifth full year of war, which brought with it invasion and liberation of much of Nazi-occupied Europe, which saw the Soviets advance continuing triumphantly and saw, in the Pacific, new and severe blows against Japan, the Allied Nations made long strides toward victory. On the home front in Canada, the people continued to meet the demands of their war effort with that vigor and resourcefulness which have won them an honored place among the nations. Their magnificent support of the Seventh Victory Loan in November was but one example of their energy and seriousness.

Another was the year's record of the Canadian National Railways system. As the largest single industry in Canada and one of the most important instruments of war, the Canadian National may be taken as a gauge of the country's activities as a whole. In 1944, we continued to use to the utmost all our resources, both manpower and material, in the service of the nation and a review of the year's traffic reveals the magnitude of the work which has been accomplished.

Four Times Passengers

The National system is carrying twice as much freight as in the years before the war and nearly four times as many passengers. When it is remembered that we are handling this unprecedented volumes of traffic without adding greatly to our equipment, I think we are justified in the pride we take in our accomplishment. In spite of the strain on our resources, in spite of handicaps, there has been no deterioration in service, as compared with other public services and with railways in the other countries affected by the war. Some inconveniences have been unavoidable but there are at a minimum and are rigorously examined with a view to correction.

The ability of the Canadian National to meet the heavy demands made upon it and to do the tremendous job while maintaining its standard of service is due to a number of factors. Over the years, the railway industry has not stood still. It has developed in efficiency and flexibility, continuously seeking to improve both its equipment and its methods. The Canadian National has been well to the front in these developments, and when the war came we were able to take advantage of them, to practise an economy in material and effort which enable us to make the fullest possible use of available equipment and supplies. At all times, we have had the loyal and efficient co-operation of our staffs and we owe a real debt of gratitude to the shipping and travelling public. The active collaboration of the shippers has made it possible to take on heavier loads in our cars and to avoid unduly long delays in loading and unloading. The assistance of the transport controller and his staff and the admirable response of the public to his appeals and ours has brought about a better distribution, insofar as the time factor is concerned, of passenger traffic.

The first concern of the Canadian National system, in all its ramifications, is the winning of the war. At the same time, we are giving close attention ot the problems of reconstruction and re-establishment. Research has been made and plans prepared for our post-war program and the railway is actively co-operating with industry in working out a blueprint for peace. It is too early to go into details, but I might mention, as an example, that we have in mind new types of passenger equipment. The trend after the war will be toward what we call "closed accommodation" in sleeping cars, to such types as roomettes and double bedrooms. Hundreds of thousands of travellers have, through the war, learned, for the first time, the comfort and convenience of travel by night, and we shall be prepared to meet their requirements. We plan new types of coaches and improved dining facilities for travellers. Taking into account the expansion of the smoking habit, we have in mind enlarged facilities for smokers. The railways are alive to the fact that competition with other forms of transport will be accentuated after the war and they may be depended on to keep abreast of the times and provide the service that will insure them their fair share of the traffic.

Canada Seeks Larger Share Of Air Routes

By JAMES J. STREBIG
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 27 — (AP). — Canada is expected to seek a larger share of the air routes connecting her and the United States it appeared today as it was learned officials of the two countries probably will confer next month on a new agreement covering these routes.

An air services agreement between Canada and the United States was reached in December, 1940, and was to expire at the end of 1942. Because of the war, it was decided in March, 1943, to extend terms of the agreement for the duration, after which a conference was to be held.

Apparently impetus resulting from the recent 54-national aviation conference at Chicago has pushed ahead plans for new negotiations. Informed officials believe that Canada will sign the "two freedoms" or transit agreement — mutual exchange of the right to cross a country and make non-commercial stops — before the meeting with the United States. Later she may sign the transport document, already bearing 18 signatures, which is a general exchange of the right of commercial flight.

The original agreement divided the routes between the United States and Canada, with the United States taking Bangor, Me., to Moncton, N.B., Buffalo, N.Y., to Toronto, any United States point to Windsor, Ont., and Great Falls, Mont., to Lethbridge, Alta., while Canada was given Toronto-New York and any Canadian point to Detroit. Later the United States began flying from Seattle, Wash., to Vancouver, B.C., Fargo, N.D., to Winnipeg and New York to Montreal. Canada now is flying but one route into the United States.

One of the things Canadian spokesmen seem almost certain to ask is a route to Chicago, where Canadian livestock and grain interests carry on considerable business.

Chaplin Denies All Acts In Paternity Case

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 27—(AP).—Physicians' testimony regarding blood tests is due to be heard at the Charlie Chaplin trial today to fortify the comedian's repeated denials that he is the father of Joan Berry's 14-months-old baby.

Almost sphynx-like in contrast to the outbursts of his first day on the witness stand in Miss Berry's suit to have him declared the father, Chaplin said "No, I did not," "That is not true" or otherwise voiced the negative 34 times yesterday.

He specifically denied allegations of four sexual intimacies in December, 1942. The intimacies were alleged from the stand previously by his 24-year-old former drama pupil, who contends her daughter Carol Ann was begotten by him in that month.

Chaplin's lawyer, Charles E. Millikan, announced to the court that he planned to call two physicians today and a third Friday to tell of blood tests they made last February of the comedian's, Miss Berry's and the baby's blood. The tests indicated, the physicians reported, that Chaplin was not the father.

Besides the three doctors, Millikan said, he has only one other witness. Joan's attorney, Joseph Scott, told a reporter he would cross-examine the physicians and that the case probably would not be submitted to the jury before early next week.

Chaplin took the stand after the trial's tensest scene thus far: For 45 silent seconds the comedian, his accuser and her curly-haired baby stood in front of the jury while its seven women and five men studied them for similarities.

Chaplin was led point by point by his attorney over Miss Berry's testimony of last week.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

If the brand of curling put up by the curlers last night means anything at all, it means just this, that we, on No. 8 ice, are in for some real close and exciting finishes and it already is indicated that whichever rink wins the group, will have to go all out to do so.

Maybe the couple of games played last Friday and Saturday was just a little warming up. If that be so, then the boys turned the heat on Tuesday night.

It was a night of good curling and the players in Group A seemed to have set the pace. To-night Group B will perform at 7.00 o'clock and Group C at 9 o'clock.

We are passing along this little hint: How would it be if the skips, when they go out on the ice, would introduce any new players to the rest of the boys. It might help quite a bit. After all we are all members of the same club. Thank you.

In a couple of days we expect to have the draw for the annual President, Vice-President games. These will be held on New Year's Day.

Allied Aircraft Graveyard Found At Vaught

By MARGARET ECKER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

VUGHT, HOLLAND, Dec. 27 — (CP). — When the communiques say: "One (or two or 10 or 20) of our aircraft is missing," the gallant fighter or bomber probably has ended up here at the graveyard of Allied aircraft in the compound of one of the grimmest concentration camps in Holland.

The skeletons and the remains of thousands of planes, Canadian American and British are still there in the workyard surrounded by a deep moat and two lines of electrified wire fences. Probably hundreds of other planes have disappeared completely in the efficient enemy breakdown system.

When the Allied armies swept through this sector of Holland to Vught, the Germans packed 13,000 of the 15,000 Dutch prisoners off to Germany. The planes in this strange de-assembly yard are just as the slave workers left them.

Here, with the engine out and wings off is DNT MJ 832, a Spitfire with smashed nose, with "City of Oshawa" written on her side.

28 Raids

There's the American flying fortress, "Gamecock", which had been cut in two, ready for stripping down.

A scoreboard on the side of "Gamecock" indicates 28 bombing missions over enemy territory. On a pile of side panels from planes is one of the record of 39 bombing raids and five enemy aircraft shot down.

When these fighting planes were brought to the camp, about 700 of the prisoners worked from early morning, as long as the light lasted, outdoors in all weathers, dismantling the planes. Any new or special equipment was removed under careful supervision of Nazi guards and examined by German engineers.

"But they didn't always get these parts," said one Netherlander who had been a prisoner. "Inside the camp we had a saboteurs' gang, we hid hammers in our boots, whenever we could, and when we saw an instrument that was particularly important, we smashed it before the Germans could get it."

John Bracken Reaches England

LONDON, Dec. 27 — (CP Cable) —John Bracken, National Leader of Canada's Progressive Conservative Party, arrived by air to-day in the United Kingdom, accompanied by Melville R. Jack, his secretary.

Mr. Bracken is expected in London to-morrow. The political Leader and Mr. Jack plan to join Col. Alfred Brooks, Progressive Conservative member for Royal (N.B.) and R. K. Finlayson of Winnipeg, adviser to Mr. Bracken, in a visit to North-western European fighting zones after a short stop in the Capital.

Col. Brooks and Mr. Finlayson arrived from Canada on December 22.

Mr. Bracken is expected to hold discussions with different Empire leaders after his visit to the Canadian forces now engaged with the enemy in Holland. He will concentrate on plans for post-war rehabilitation.

Mr. Bracken is making his first visit to the Empire Capital since 1929, when as Premier of Manitoba he came to London to see what was being done in Britain in the way for Social Security legislation.

BID ON GUESSED CARDS

"I COULDN'T bid on cards which I only guessed you held," pleaded one kind of contract devotee after an unhappy hand. And his partner answered: "Cards which you can tell are in my hand, because of what the opponents did or what they did not do, are just as good trick-takers as they would be in your own hand." Of course he was right. Bidding on what you infer, in addition to what you see, is essential to being truly efficient in the auction.

| Pass | 2 ♣ | Pass | Pass |
| Dbl | Pass | 2 ♠ | Pass |
| 3 ♠ | Pass | 4 ♠ | |

That is not the bidding actually done on this deal in a rubber game. What really happened is that East passed the 2-Clubs, which therefore became the contract, and South got off light because he was down only three not doubled, losing one trick in spades, two in hearts, two in diamonds and three in clubs, his cost being only 150 points.

East did not make the double shown in the bidding sequence above, and by not making it lost hundreds of points for his side. If he had made it, and West decided to leave it in, his pair would have scored 500 points instead of 150, a gain of 350. And if West had done the correct thing after such a double, with vulnerability as it was, the side would have reached a spade game which can be made. That would have been worth, roughly, a total of 620 points to the pair, a gain of 470 over the 150 really made.

Playing at spades, one trick each should have been lost in spades, hearts and diamonds.

The key to this bidding is simple. West, being vulnerable, should not make a dangerous overcall on a hand of that approximate nature, which might cost him heavily if North had most of the missing cards and doubled. His passes did not necessarily show a weak hand, but North's pass of 2-Clubs did. So East could have counted West for enough strength to make his double a sound venture.

Explorers Find Rare Flowers Atop Mountain

NEW YORK, Dec. 27—(AP)—A veritable floral Shangri La, with botanical specimens considered "exceedingly important" to scientific and economic research, has been found atop Table Mountain in South Central Surinam.

Dr. Bassett Maguire, curator of the New York Botanical Garden, who has just returned from Surinam (Dutch Guiana), is believed to be the first explorer to have reached this tableland. He found no trace of civilization on the rich mesa, no inhabitants within 100 miles. Nor were there any traees or tracks or fossils of prehistoric animals.

Table Mountain, first seen from the Whilhelmina Range 30 years ago says Dr. Maguire, has the same geological history as Mount Roraima, inspiration of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle's "Lost World," and Mount Duida, another "lost world" recently discovered, both in Venezuela. Table Mountain might be called a botanical lost world.

Dr. Maguire's exploration was conducted under the joint auspices of the Botanical Garden, the American Philosophical Society, and the John Simon Guggenheim Memorial Foundation—one of series of expeditions into unexplored regions of South America.

The trek started from Paramaribo, capital of Surinam. It took five weeks to cover the 200 miles through dense jungle to the base of the mountain, which rises some 3,600 feet above sea level.

Mr. Maguire and his 21 native porters, boatmen and other assistants faced sheer cliffs, 1,600 to 1,800 feet high. They reached the plateau, which extends 12 miles north and south, nine miles east-west, after a three-week climb.

More than 15,000 vegetation specimens were collected, including leaves, flowers, fruit and plants, some of which were found growing on the branches of the tropical trees.

The expedition also encountered extensive wild life, including jungle hogs, deer, tapir, jaguars, ocelots, monkeys, reptiles and vari- colored birds. Along the rim of the escarpment was found the golden cock-of-the-rock. This dancing jungle bird, slightly smaller than the pigeon, is exceedingly tame because never before has it seen men.

Mr. Maguire and his assistants spent more than two months roaming over the 100-square-mile tableland, through its deep, narrow ravines, where magnificent waterfalls cascade over cliffs.

Some food, other supplies and mail were dropped to the party by parachute. The Surinam Government co-operated in the venture, supplying personnel, transportation and food.

Pupils Raise Funds For Hospital's Use

HAVELOCK, Dec. 27 — (ENS) — A successful Christmas entertainment was held at the North School with Alex Buchanan acting as chairman.

A splendid program of drills, recitations, dialogues and choruses was presented under the direction of the teacher, Miss D. Dafoe, with Mrs. Charles McConnell as accompanist for the vocal numbers.

A special feature of the evening was the drawing for a "Daffodil," quilt sponsored by the junior Red Cross Society of the school, the winner of the drawing being Joseph Quinlin of Belmont ownship. Marguerite Lytle drew the winning ticket. The proceeds of the draw, amounting to almost $14 will be sent to the Sick Children's Hospital at Toronto. The door receipts amounted to $10.

Gunner Enjoys Red Cross Gift

The men serving overseas, who have given up so much to protect their homeland, are the ones who are most appreciative of the little remembrances sent from the people at home. Although Gnr. George Willis Manley, whose wife lives on Otonabee street, had just received word of the death of his son, he took time out to thank Mrs. Herb. Macfarlane's group Mather's Corners of the Otonabee Red Cross, for the wonderful parcel they had sent him.

The young soldier said that he was unusually grateful because he had just received word his young son had been killed, although no details had been forwarded to him. The youngster was killed when struck by a truck on No. 7 Highway at Downers Corners.

Gnr. Manley who had been in the the thick of the fighting since D Day. He was wounded in the eye by a phosphorous bomb September 9 and was in hospital for some time.

Of his experiences, he had the following to say:

"I wish I could tell you folks all I have seen since we landed in France. It seems a long time ago. I have been of course in the bombed city of Caen, then across France to Rouen, also Abbeville, Lille and then into Belgium. Now we have reached Holland. I have been in Germany, but just to visit. I also visited some of my pals' graves in Dieppe and have driven by Vimy Ridge.

"We are living in a house at present and the gun fire is heavy, it has just smashed the windows in this room I'm in. I want to thank you again for making it possible for me to receive such a nice parcel."

School And Church Present Concerts

WARSAW, Dec. 27 — (ENS) — Two successful Christmas entertainments were held prior to Christmas.

The annual Sunday School concert was held in the basement of the United Church. The program consisted of carol singing, recitations by Lulu Payne, Josephine Snelgrove, Doreen Little, June Clysdale, Carl Snelgrove; Musical numbers by Primary Class under Mrs. Clysdale's supervision, Junior Boy's Class under supervision of Harold Payne and Mrs. Hawthorne, Misses Irene Sidey and Barbara Payne, Hugh Hawthorne and Allan Bell, Pat Snelgrove.

The pupils of the school also presented a concert. Mrs. Hamilton acted as chairman and there were three dialogues, several choruses by the school, duets by Marie Drain and Marlene Darling, Eileen and Phyllis Sheppard, Barbara Payne and Irene Sidey, trio by Marlene Darling, Eleanor Edwards and Eleanor Davis; a number of recitations. Santa arrived and distributed gifts from a well loaded tree.

English Drivers Oppose Street Lighting

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 26.—(CP).— One of the queer little sidelights of the war is that London motorists, after five years of blackout, say they don't like the recently-authorized increase in the amount of lighting on the streets.

Bus drivers, truck drivers, cabbies and the private motorists—what there are of them—almost unanimously condemn the new "moon lighting" as increasing the danger of driving at night.

Pin-point street lamps used to provide so-called "starlighting." To all intents and purposes that meant no light at all. But motorists got used to finding their way around with dim headlamps, and at least the darkness was uniform.

Now the greater London area is a patchwork of light and dark. Some streets have the new moonlighting or at least "starlighting plus." Others still are starlit. And even moonlighting consists only of pools of brightness under the widely-separated street lamps and darkness between.

Professional drivers say their eyes can't attune themselves quickly enough to the changes in lighting intensity and that driving in built-up areas is 100 per cent more hazardous than in the full blackout.

Traffic deaths have increased since the moonlighting was introduced, with pedestrians the principal victims.

But the pedestrian is the only man who doesn't complain about the new street lighting. Walking is almost a pleasure in moonlighting. Collisions with lamp posts, post boxes and other sidewalk hazards are a thing of the past.

All Crowded.

Wartime crowding on British railways have brought a flood of "letters to the editor." People accept the difficulties of war travel with good grace. The argument is over the crowding practice of passengers holding third-class tickets riding in first-class carriages.

What happens is that the third-class cars are usually crowded. The overflow of passengers is entitled to take the first-class seats. But even when there is no crowding, many third-class travellers use first-class accommodation anyway.

In Britain tickets are collected before passengers go to the boarding platform and a check-up is difficult.

Scores of letters have been published suggesting that third-class carriages be abolished permanently.

No Fanfare.

The new Waterloo bridge across the Thames is fully open now, to six lanes of traffic instead of three, and all that's missing is enough traffic to use it.

When the second half of the steel-and-concrete structure's wide roadway was opened, there was no ceremony and no crush. A workman employed by London county council removed a temporary road block and "traffic" started to move.

The traffic was greengrocer John Hallett of Balham, driving his pony Nobby with a load of cabbages and cauliflower. Two automobiles passed him before he had completed the crossing.

It took 20 years to get the bridge built; 10 years of wrangling over where the money would come from and 10 years to tear down the condemned 1817 Rennie's bridge and set up the new one.

Bailieboro Schools Are Heard In Concert

BAILIEBORO, Dec. 27 — (ENS) — Bailieboro public and continuation school held their annual concert and Christmas tree on Thursday night in the basement of the Anglican Church. A splendid performance of drama, drill and song was presented, for which much credit was due to the teachers Miss Gladys Haskins and Mrs. Ada Montgomery.

A "Welcome" was given by Vaulda Alldred, followed by Christmas carols and comedy dramas as, "Cy Slacoms Country Store". "A Naughty Mouse". "Who Gets the Car To-night", and "Christmas Burglar". A Star drill was given by the juniors and a reading. "The Unwise Man", by John Malcolm. Kenneth Hall sang a solo, "Red Patch On My Trousers" with guitar accompaniment.

Harry Campbell acted as chairman and following the program Santa arrived and distributed the presents from a well-laden tree.

MISSION COMPLETED SUCCESSFULLY—On the early morning of December 7 it was necessary to send one man across the Lamone River in Italy to find out if the Germans were holding the opposite bank in strength. It was a "suicide" job. Pte. Charlie Chandler, Sydney, N.S., volunteered. Under the converging fire of snipers and machine-gunners, he crossed the river, gained valuable information, narrowly escaped German hand grenades, and made his way back to his own lines. # Price Ceiling On Oranges Now Removed OTTAWA, Dec. 27 (CP)—Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, said today that the operation of a price ceiling on oranges in the United States has made it unnecessary to continue a Canadian subsidy to control orange prices to the consumer.

The subsidy, made available in December, 1942, cost more than $1,000,000 in its first year of operation. Officials said figures for 1944 are not yet available, but it was assumed the cost would be about the same as in 1943.

Mr. Gordon said the subsidy would be discontinued after Dec. 30, and under the new policy the Canadian price will be based on the Office of Price Administration ceiling in the growing area of the United States, plus a controlled mark-up set in a board order effective Dec. 30.

There might be an increase of from three to four cents a dozen in Canadian retail sales of oranges, although if large California crop was safely marketed within the next few weeks ranges may sell below the ceiling at prices near their present levels.

Oranges entering at Customs up to and including Dec. 30 will be eligible for subsidy. Oranges on which the subsidy has been paid must be sold at prices in effect before Dec. 30.

Large Centres Designated Congested Areas

OTTAWA, Dec. 27—(CP)—Donald Gordon, Prices Board chairman, announced today that the metropolitan areas of Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria have been designated as congested areas under the emergency shelter regulations announced last week.

Under the regulations, administrators may be appointed for these centres, with one serving both Vancouver and Victoria, with wide powers to see that all available dwelling accommodation is used.

The regulations provide that a landlord may not deny accommodation because those seeking it have children, unless he has first received the consent of the local administrator.

Mr. Gordon has written to the mayors of the cities declared congested areas, advising them that the board is prepared to appoint an administrator for each. He requested an early meeting of the mayors with board officials to discuss the plan in detail.

Mr. Gordon said that requests from other cities for the appointment of an administrator will received "careful consideration."

Churchill Escapes Sniper Bullet

Warring Factions Agree To Forming Regency

ATHENS, Dec. 28 (CP-Reuters)—Field Marshal Sir Harold Alexander, Allied Mediterranean Commander, and Lt.-Gen. R. M. Scobie, British commander in Greece, were beside Prime Minister Churchill yesterday when he was fired at by an E.L.A.S. sniper, it was disclosed today.

It was disclosed previously that Foreign Secretary Eden and British Ambassador Reginald W. A. Leeper were accompanying the Prime Minister when a bullet passed close by him and struck a young woman some 300 yards distant. The party was standing in front of the British Embassy when the attack took place.

None was injured although the bullet barely missed the group.

It was the first attempt on Mr. Churchill's life in his thousands of miles of wartime travel. Dressed in the uniform of an R.A.F. Commodore, he was about to enter the Embassy when the sniper fired.

The E.L.A.S. is the army of the Greek resistance group, the E.A.W.

Mr. Churchill, 70-years-old, self-styled "wandering minstrel of diplomacy," has traveled to Moscow, to the Middle East, to the United States and to Canada for Allied conferences. Here he was up against perhaps his toughest assignment in striving to end the bloody Greek intra-party turmoil.

Big 3 To Meet

ATHENS, Dec. 28—(AP)—Warring Greek political factions were agreed today to formation of a regency in a step towards peace, as British military authorities reported a withdrawal of some E.L.A.S. forces from Athens to positions on highways leading into the city.

Thus success appeared approaching for Prime Minister Churchill's mission to Greece—almost cut short yesterday morning by a sniper's bullet as he stood in front of the British embassy.

A majority of the conferees expressed themselves in favor of an immediate regency while a minority

Russian Military Expert Claims Germans Violated Elementary Rules Of War Strategy

MOSCOW, Dec. 28—(AP).—A Red Army military commentator says the Germans' strategy in their Western front offensive violated the elementary requirements of military science.

"That a decisive victory can be achieved only by annihilating or defeating the strongest enemy grouping is axiomatic," declared Lt.-Col. V. Kravstov in today's Moscow news. "The German command resorted again to its favorite but by now rather hackneyed method of striking concentric blows at two points with the aim of encirclement. But this chose as the object of encirclement a sector where the Allied troop concentration was lowest.

"To strike at a weak spot can be effective only when development of this blow brings the attacking force in contact with the main enemy force; otherwise, success may be no more than tactical and thus may lead to a major catastrophe. The Germans not only failed at complete encirclement but left a claw of their pincers hanging in mid-air."

Bastogne Garrison Relieved Germans Lose 200 Tanks

By ERIC DOWNTON—Reuters War Correspondent

WITH U.S. FORCEC IN BASTOGNE, Dec. 28—(CP-Reuters).—In Bastogne men who held this important Belgian road and rail centre for nine days described how they beat off attack after attack of Field Marshal Von Runstedt's fanatical Panzer and infantry troops. The epic stand of these battle-weary United States infantrymen is ended now.

Early yesterday morning an American armored column, battling from the south, entered the town and made contact with the defenders.

Other Allied columns fighting to relieve the embattled town were still locked in combat with the enemy on the snow-covered hills just outside Bastogne.

The battle has been especially fierce in the area extending about 10 miles south and southwest of the town, and the Germans are launchinv numerous local counter-attacks in an effort to halt the American advance.

Planes Active.

Enemy troops take full advantage of the thickly wooded hills and it is slow progress cleaning them out.

Fighter-bombers are giving ground troops close support, constantly dive-bombing the German-infested woods.

The "battle of Bastogne" began on a foggy morning December 19, when, according to the defenders, "all hell broke loose."

Von Rundstedt's forces attempted to overrun the town with attacks in mass formation. They paid dearly for that.

"We knocked them off like flies and our artillery really did a butchering job on them," recalled a bearded sargeant from Chicago who himself killed four of the attackers with the first hand grenade he threw.

American tanks and tank-destroyers held their positions in the villages just outside of Bastogne for two days, throwing back panzer spearheads time and again.

One American Division alone knocked out more than 105 German armored vehicles during the first two days of furious fighting.

Altogether, according to Allied officers in Bastogne, the German armv lost nearly 200 tanks, trying to crack the town's defences.

Brief Answer.

After the Americans had rejected an enemy demand to surrender with the single word "Nuts," the Germans laid down a concentrated artillery barrage. Then infantry and tanks came in. They were hurled back. The Luftwaffe was then called in and on Christmas Eve it bombed heavily the positions held by American defenders.

A first-aid station filled with wounded was among the places hit.

Canadians Drive On Alfonsine

ROME, Dec. 28 (CP)—Canadian units of the British 8th Army in the Adriatic sector of the Italian front have fanned out along the east bank of the Senio River and slashed into fortified positions at Alfonsine, nine miles northwest of Ravenna, it was reported at Allied Headquarters today.

Alfonsine—on the Ravenna-Ferrera highway—is the next road hub in the path of the present Canadian advance, launched Dec. 4, which already has seen Ravenna, Bagnacavallo and Rossetta fall to Lt.-Gen. Foulkes' 1st Corps.

Its capture would signify clearance of the Germans from the marshy area to the north of Ravenna.

Meantime today's communique reported further Allied 5th Army withdrawals on the western flank of the Italian front as the Germans continued their counter-attacks in the Serchio valley sector.

The town of Barga, captured a month ago by the 5th Army, was enveloped in the German counter-assault that struck out on a six-mile front on each side of the Serchio.

Barga is 1½ miles east of the river and about 15 miles north of the city of Lucca, capital of Lucca province.

The enemy drive through the valley flatlands and the flanking mountains was supported by light artillery.

Yesterday a German counter-attack was reported on either side of the road town of Gallicano, some 14 miles inland from the Tyrrhenian coast and about three miles west-southwest of Barga.

Sizeable Withdrawal

The extent of the withdrawal in the Serchio River sector was not given, but it was known that U.S. troops had been at least a mile north of Barga two weeks ago.

Brazilian troops also are known to have been in action in the area of Gallicano.

Eighth Army patrols ran into heavy German mortar fire in the area north of Bagancavallo. South of that town enemy strongpoints were being mopped up all the way to captured Faenza, on the Bologna-Rimini highway.

The Canadians last night were reported fanning out from fallen Rossetta, to the northeast in a house-to-house advance toward Alfonsine.

Soviet Units Near Centre Of Budapest

Doomed Garrison Fights On In Suicidal Defence

MOSCOW, Dec. 28 — (AP). — A doomed Nazi garrison reeled backwards in the smoke-filled streets of Western Budapest to-day but clung with suicidal resistance to positions in the eastern sector of the capital.

The German and Hungarian defenders were reported to have already been denied the use of one of two remaining airports for evacuation of troops as Soviet forces pounded toward the heart of the once-beautiful city.

With the Red Air Force holding complete mastery in the skies German transports were able to operate only at night from this last field, near Pest, and the casualties were reported great.

Russian troops pushed across the eastern arm of the Danube north of Budapest yesterday splitting the Nazi troops and driving part of them into the mountainous area in the Great Danube Bend. The remainder were pressed back into Buda, where Soviet units engaged them in house-to-house fighting.

The crossing of the river, which resulted in the Russian capture of Szentendrei Island and a juncture of Red forces on the west bank, cost the Germans and Hungarians 3,000 killed, a Soviet communique said.

Other Red Army troops stormed into Buda from the west and southwest in numerous new penetrations of the suburban arc.

Simultaneously, Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 1st Ukraine army hammered out new gains northwest of the capital along the Budapest-Vienna railroad and captured several localities in the great Danube bend.

Marshal Rodion Y. Malinovsky's forces north of the Danube continued preparations to-day to storm the Hron (Garam) river line guarding Austria as the Russian communique reported a drive to clear the Germans from the area between the Tron and Ipoly rivers in the Czechoslovakian-Hungarian frontier region.

The communique, however, again emphasized the proportions of the squeeze on Budapest, reporting the capture of four fortified suburbs on the east bank of the Danube and two on the west bank.

There was no clear delineation of the relative sizes of the split German troops west of the Danube, but the total number of Nazis defending Budapest was originally estimated at about 100,000 men.

Other Soviet forces captured eight places east of Ipolysag in the drive on the key border rail hub of Losonc. More than 3,500 prisoners were taken in the fighting along the Czechoslovakian fronts Tuesday, it was announced.

Stamina And Gallantry Of American Troops Foiled German High Command's Showdown

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 28—(CP-Reuters).—The German high command's greatest showdown of the Second Great War, aimed ultimately at obtaining a negotiated peace, was foiled by the sheer stamina and gallantry of American troops and the interference of politics in the enemy supreme command.

Hitler—if he had any say in the matter—sanctioned the release of the vast majority of German reserves and two Panzer armies—totalling about 20 divisions—for the all-out lunge.

The offensive has been frustrated by:

1. The strength of the American hinge from Stavelot to Monschau. The Germans, by using the best of everything they had, tried by attacking at Monschau to squeeze out the hinge and bludgeon a way through.

2. Resourcefulness and gallantry of an American armored division which collected infantry around it and fought a remarkable staying action which prevented the front from disintegration.

3. The remarkable stand of the American troops surrounded in the Bastogne area.

These three ruined Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's plan.

U.S. Army Seizes Properties Chicago Mail Order Firm

CHICAGO, Dec. 28—(AP).—The United States Army seized Montgomery Ward and Company properties in seven cities today under a presidential order in a show-down on the company's refusal to comply with War Labor Board directives. Simultaneously government attorneys filed a petition in Federal court asking for an injunction to restrain the company and its officers from interfering with Federal operation of the plants. Presumably this was precautionary in the event Ward's should offer legal resistance to the seizure.

Maj.-Gen. Joseph W. Byron, director of the special service division, army services forces, Washington, accompanied by his staff, served the seizure order of Sewell Avery, Ward's chairman of the board, in Avery's private office.

Avery greeted Gen. Byran pleasantly and then shook hands.

The seizure came as the United Retail, Wholesale and Retail Employees of America (CIO) began the second strike at Ward's Chicago plants this year. It was the second army seizure, too, the first coming last April 26.

On April 27 Avery was carried bodily from his office by two soldiers after the government contended he refused to co-operate in the seizure procedure.

Long Standing Disputes.

In the seven cities concerned long standing labor disputes have existed between the union and Ward's. The War Labor Board sent the cases to Fred M. Vinson, economic stabilization director, a week ago and he evidently advised President Roosevelt to seize the properties.

Justice Department specialists from Washington worked until 5 a.m. in the U.S. district attorney's office preparing, it was understood, for Federal court action in the event Montgomery Ward resisted the seizure. This action would be a petition for an injunction to restrain Mr. Avery and other company officials from interfering with government operation of the property.

Washington reports indicated seizure would be effected in six other cities where similar controversies existed.

Conflict over union security runs like a thread through the pattern of controversy involving Montgomery Ward & Company and the United States' War Labor Board.

There are, and have been, other matters. But maintenance of union membership is a common issue in the latest series of cases. It was a factor in the dispute which preceded government seizure of some

Road Blocked In Many Areas

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—Western, Central and Eastern Ontario were blanketed today by a heavy snowfall which ranged from four inches to nearly a foot and in some areas the fall is continuing. Drifting is reported from some sections and travel in some areas is difficult.

A strong wind caused some drifting at Brantford where nearly a foot of snow fell overnight. The main highways are open but in many sections there is only room for one car.

Country roads in the Galt area and traffic on city streets is difficult after a six-inch snowfall accompanied by a high wind last night. Buses to Hamilton were cancelled last night and many servicemen returning from leave were stranded in Galt for the night. Snow is reported drifting badly around Guelph with indications highways will be blocked.

St. Thomas also reported a four-inch fall of snow yesterday and last night. Main highways now are open for traffic. The temperature is reported at 12 above this morning after dipping to 16 below Wednesday morning. At London where it was 15 below yesterday, the temperature stood at 17 above this morning. Roads in that section are reported to be in fairly good shape despite a six-inch snowfall.

In Eastern Ontario roads are re-

Germans Abandoning Equipment

IN THE STAVELOT SECTOR, Belgium, 9 a.m., Dec. 28 (AP)—Air activity looked impossible in the early hours of today as a sleet storm covered the front with ice, turning roads into virtual skating rinks.

Field Marshal Von Rundstedt has made virtually no progress in any sector in the past 24 hours. There were reports which might indicate his advance formations were abandoning equipment and retreating over the hills back into the centre of the break-through area.

In some cases these units were out of gasoline. In others they were cut off.

Five hundred S.S. prisoners were taken in the centre of the bulge at the extreme end of the western advance. More than 100 vehicles were taken by one U.S. corps in the past 24 hours.

Allies Attack Both Flanks Now 20 Miles Apart Hope To Shape Great Trap

Americans Cross Sure River At 4 Places Push Huns Back Into Reich At Eastern End Of Enemy Wedge

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 28—(AP)).—United States forces cutting into both sides of the German bulge in Belgium at its thinnest point have fought to within less than 20 miles of a junction, 36-hour old reports from the front said tonight. The whole southern flank of the enemy salient from Bastogne to the German border yielded slowly to hammering. Infantry and tanks crossed the Sure River at four places and pushed the enemy back into Germany at two places in the Echternach area at the wedge.

The razor-thin relief corridor to Bastogne held firm against German infantry and armored attack.

The Germans were buffeted back further in hard fighting near Grandmenil and Marche, points 20 miles away on the other side of the bulge.

Luxembourg radio said today that the German spearhead, which reached to within 2½ miles of the River Meuse, was driven back some eight miles, and now is 11 miles from the river.

Part of the German spearhead which had driven deepest into Belgium at Celles was encircled and being hammered into disintegration by a ring of guns and armor, and another pocket along the southern flank of the salient was receiving similar treatment.

The probing armor that had pushed close to Ciney, 15 miles from Namur in the north-western tip of the bulge, had been beaten back until the battle line ran seven to eight miles south-east of the village.

The main fighting in the Celles area was in the vicinity of Verre, 2½ miles to the south-east.

Along the southern flank American troops continued to gain and were across, up to or almost up to the whole line of the Sure River from the Bastogne area to the German frontier. Where they were not across the stream they held high ground on the south side.

The village of Liefrange, 10 miles south-east of Bastogne, was seized in one crossing north of the village of Bonnal.

It was too early to foresee the outcome, for the Americans in their counter-attack now underway faced formidable obstacles.

But there were clear indications the bold German bid for a great December victory had butted into serious trouble.

The German army had been held for more than 48 hours up to Wednesday dawn without a significant gain.

German pockets were surrounded in the western head of the enemy offensive and on the southern flank and were under tempests of shell-fire.

Meantime in Holland 1st Canadian and British 2nd Army troops fought off strong German patrols which crossed the Maas (Meuse) river at several points both in the northwest and southeast parts of the Netherlands.

Front dispatches from Douglas Amaron, Canadian Press war correspondent, and Roger Greene, Associated Press war correspondent, said the patrols were in patrol strength—about 15 to 30 men—and were driven back.

Southwest of Echternach the Germans were retreating and northwest of that southern hinge of the salient, they were preparing an escape bridge under American fire and were preparing to pull back into Germany across the Sure.

HaroldMatthews Says Nazis Shot Own Men

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(CP Cable.)—How German troops shot down their own comrades in the act of surrendering on the western front was told to-day by Lieut. Harold Matthews of Peterborough, Ont., who a few days ago was leading a platoon of a Dorsetshire regiment in operations near Geilenkirchen, north of Aachen, on the British 2nd army sector.

During the fight for Bauchem, a little village in this sector, the 22-year-old Matthews who is attached to the British army, led his men in an attack on an enemy trench position.

The attack was successful and mopping up began. The Germans had taken a pounding, Matthews said, and 50 were giving themselves up with their arms intact—grenades and ammunition still in their belts. Twenty were in a British trench and another 30 waiting to get in.

"Just then the Germans in a trench 200 yards away opened fire with Spandaus, killing eight of their comrades," he added. "The British and Germans dived into the same trench, all fully armed but with far more Jerries than Tommies.

"I could see two British, three German, two British and so on right along the trench but the Germans never attempted anything funny.

"By now darkness was falling and we knew we couldn't stay there, mixed up as we were, so I told my lads to get out and bring back as many prisoners as possible. We arrived back safely with 12 prisoners, all we could manage under the circumstances."

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Matthews, Hunter street West, Peterborough.

1,700 Bombers Hit Rail Bases

LONDON, Dec. 28 (CP)—Seventeen hundred heavy bombers hammered 11 rail targets in Western Germany today despite bad weather which curtailed close air support for Allied ground forces.

Five hundred R.A.F. and Canadian bombers struck before dawn, aiming their bomb load of about 2,500 tons on ground flares planted by Pathfinder planes at Opladen, 12 miles north of Cologne. They hit a railroad workshop there, where the Germans have been trying to repair damaged military rolling stock.

160 Men Return From War

One Man Survives Direct Hit On Tank

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—Among a group of 160 officers and men who arrived here last night from overseas, Pte. Carl Cameron, 19, of Oshawa, lost his right eye in France during the "big push" following the taking of Caen. Serving with the Cameron Highlanders of Ottawa, he said he was wounded "when I came too close to a flying piece of shrapnel."

Tpr. Freddie Blake of North Bay, a member of the Ontario Tank Regiment, was returned to Canada because of foot trouble—all because he slept in a slit trench with his boots off. It happened in Italy the day before Christmas, 1943, when he was forced to get out of his trench in his socks. The damp, mud and cold of that night caught up with him months later when he and his comrades helped breach the Hitler Line, and he was sent home.

Overseas two years with the Second Armored Division, Tpr. Alf Hawkins, 62, of New Liskeard, was the sole survivor when the tank he was serving aboard was hit. Three other members of the crew were instantly killed, Hawkins said, and he suffered a paralyzed hand and dight eye.

Teachers Want To Hold Office

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—Because the Ontario Municipal Act as now interpreted denies the right of teachers to run for municipal office since they are employees of the municipality, the Federation of Secondary School Teachers in convention yesterday unanimously passed a resolution reiterating the conviction "that the citizens of any community have the right to choose freely whom they wish to represent them in a municipal body, the provincial legislature or the dominion parliament."

The resolution also urged that teacher-candidates should be given every reasonable opportunity to present their candidature to the public. It pointed out that a teacher elected to parliament ceases to be a member of the superannuation fund and is not allowed to pay up back contributions on his return from politics. Request for remedial legislation has already been made to the legislature.

E. A. Orr of Windsor was elected president, with Roy F. Bennett of Brantford as vice-president and V. R. Summerhays of Pembroke second vice-president. S. H. Henry and W. J. Dick, Toronto, were re-elected secretary and treasurer respectively.

Global War Picture Favorable To Allies

Fanatical Defence By Enemy Nations Likely To Prolong War

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Despite the dampening effect of the German counter-ofensive, we can approach an assay of the year-end military position from the rock-bottom fact that the Allied cause—on the whole—is going well the globe around.

That conclusion makes allowances for military setbacks like the present in Western Europe and the recent Japanese successes in hard-hit China. It takes into account shartcomings of the home-front.

When you've added up and make subtractions, the answer is that the Allies can't lose except through their own folly.

Having arrived at this point, however, we find that at the best they still face a tough and bloody business which calls for all-out efforts by both the home and military fronts, unless the conflict is to drag on interminably. We must profit by the lesson the Germans are giving—that the wounded beast fights hardest at the kill. We may find this doubly true with the savage and fanatical Japanese.

One of the burning questions in all minds is how long the war will last in Europe. There's no satisfactory answer at that. It depends first on the outcome of the titanic battle which is growing out of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's counter-offensive.

Our safest course is to adopt the hard-boiled theory that the German war will go on indefinitely. That's not an invitation to pessimism but a safeguard against over-optimism.

One element in shortening the war remains in anticipation—a full-dress Russian offensive against the Nazi Vistula Line in Poland. That might change the complexion of things quickly by putting the Nazis between two mighty millstones. It's unlikely that Germany could long withstand wholesale major offensives on both eastern and western fronts. A Red assault against the Vistula may soon complement the magnificent Moscotive drives into Hungary and Slovakia.

President Blocks Avery

Won't Tolerate Interference With War

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 —(AP)—Saying "we are today at a crucial point in the war," President Roosevelt today directed the United States Army to seize Montgomery Ward properties in seven cities.

The government "cannot and will not tolerate any interference with war production in this critical hour," Mr. Roosevelt declared in a statement saying he had issued orders for the military to take over the companies properties in these cities:

Detroit, Chicago, Jamaica, N.Y., St. Paul, Denver, Portland, Ore., and San Rafael, Calif.

The presidential order said the War Labor Board reported to him that labor disturbances involving nearly 12,000 workers now exist in the plants in the seven cities.

The president said Montgomery Ward, under the leadership of Board Chairman Sewell Avery, "has waged a bitter fight against the bona fide unions of its employees throughout the war, in reckless disregard of the government's efforts to maintain harmony between management and labor. Its record of labor relations has been a record of continuous trouble."

Montgomery Ward, he added, will not be allowed to set aside the government's wartime policies "just because Mr. Sewell Avery does not approve of the government's procedure for handling labor disputes."

3 Jap Warships Destroyed Off Philippines

SOUTHWEST PACIFIC ADVANCED HEADQUARTERS, Dec. 28—(AP)—Heavy guns of Japanese and American naval task forces traded raiding blows Tuesday and Wednesday on island bases 1,500 miles apart and the Japanese came off worse, with three destroyers sunk and a battleship and cruiser damaged.

Two United States warships of undisclosed type received slight damage.

The Japanese shelled Mindoro, Central Philippines, from the China Sea Tuesday night, Gen. MacArthur announced today.

The Americans, making their third appearance this month within 750 miles of Tokyo, bombarded Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands, from the Pacific, Tuesday, Admiral Nimitz announced yesterday at Pearl Harbor.

The enemy warships—a battleship, cruiser and six destroyers—accomplished "some fruitless and inaccurate shelling" of the invasion scene on southwest Mindoro, MacArthur said. From the time the warships approached at dusk until they withdrew around midnight, they were under attack by Mindoro-based medium bombers, fighters and patrol-torpedo boats.

(A Japanese communique today said the naval units bombarded "the enemy (San Jose) airfield and munitions dump and left the nearby area in a veritable sea of fire." The broadcast, recorded by the Federal Communications Commission said one destroyer was "heavily damaged.")

The Americans have an air base on Mindoro within 30 minutes' flying time of Manila, the airfields of which, MacArthur disclosed today, were blasted Tuesday for the fifth straight day by land-based bombers with a fighter escort.

The Japanese air force raided ground positions on Mindoro in coordination with the enemy naval blow.

The naval move against Mindoro represented the enemy's first such offensive effort in battleship strength since Japan's defeat in late October in the second battle of the Philippines Seas.

Churchill Says

favored postponement, it was announced by Archbishop Damaskinos, the chairman.

The Prime Minister and the British commander, Lt.-Gen. Ronald M. Scobie, watched British parachute troops, infantry, tanks and armored cars begin driving the E.L.A.S. from central Athens today.

Standing on Filopappas (Monument) Hill, they saw stiff fighting waged in the narrow, winding streets of the Iroon district northwest of the Acropolis and south of Omonia Square.

The E.L.A.S. fought back with mortars, machine-guns and grenades and before finally giving in they blew whole buildings into the streets in many places. Teller mines were found sown in the debris.

British forces took 170 prisoners, most of them in civilian clothing.

A 15-mile drive through the southeastern suburbs last night by British troops and Green National guardsmen had netted 150. Answering fire by E.L.A.S. artillery, British guns heavily shelled Ardittos Hill in Zappion Park.

A dispatch to British headquarters from the Epirus front said Gen. Napoleon Zervas, commander of an E.D.E.S. (right-wing) army reduced from 10,000 to 5,000 by desertions, was fighting a rear guard action against E.L.A.S. forces and falling back to the neck of the Preveza peninsula. The attacking E.L.A.S. army was estimated to number from 15,000 to 20,000 men.

Although all factions appeared agreed upon the proposal for a regency, now or later, divisions persisted upon other points in the Greek crisis. The 10-point program advanced by the E.L.A.S. negotiators yesterday drew from Themistocles Sophoulis Liberal leader, the comment:

"When I heard the insurgents' terms I took my hat and went off. There is no ground for an understanding or continuation of the negotiations. Apart from 50 per cent of the seats in the cabinet, they want a premier of common confidence, which means their own government."

Mr. Churchill said tha the alternative to a peaceful settlement was armed force by the British and a possible three-power "international trust" to consider Greek affairs.

Vote Taken

The regency issue was voted upon yesterday at an all-party conference, after which Mr. Churchill announced that he, President Roosevelt and Premier Stalin would take up the Greek question at a meeting in the near future.

"Of course we must expect that in a not very long time President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and myself will meet again and we will certainly review the situation," Mr. Churchill told a press conference.

Asked what was likely to happen if no settlement were reached at the all-party conference, Mr. Churchill replied:

"If no agreement is reached, the guns will go on firing, the troops will clear the district and we shall establish peace, order and security in Attica."

During the session, which was held in a tense atmosphere as fighting flared up throughout the city, Greek Premier George Papandreou was said to have offered to resign as a means of expediting the regency, presumably under Archbishop Damaskinos of Greece.

Fight Continues

At the later press conference, Mr. Churchill's comments were punctuated by the sound of sniper fire outside the embassy and the thud of British artillery shelling E.L.A.S. positions.

Mr. Churchill told reporters that when the leaders of the three great powers get together soon, the Greek question will be "one of the most important items on the agenda."

"We feel our course has been absolutely right," he said. "In August, in consultation with President Roosevelt, we agreed to bring in food and relief and help until things settled down. Premier Stalin was consulted and gave his consent to this course."

Mr. Churchill denied that Britain is endeavoring to bring back King George II and "impose a particular rule" on Greece.

"It is clear to me there would have been a massacre if we had not intervened," he said, adding a further denial of allegations that Britain had territorial claims or desired bases in Greece. He said British troops would not now withdraw until the revolting forces had been driven out of Attica or withdrawn from the "built-up area" around the capital.

Meanwhile, in view of the regency agreement, it appeared that the next move would be up to the Greek King, now in London. He has been reported as unfavorably inclined toward a regency since it was first suggested by Greek political leaders.

Americans Hit

Swim Back

A bit farther northwest 250 Germans were seen swimming the Our river, back into Germany.

Three of the American crossings of the Sure, which Berlin broadcasts said were by the U.S. 3rd Army, were near Bonnal, 2½ miles northwest of Eschdorf. The fourth was at a place three miles northeast of Martelange. All the crossings were within about 15 miles of Bastogne.

Von Rundstedt's armored patrol probings toward the Meuse were being beaten up badly, though one did thrust out eight miles south of Celles to the vicinity of Beauraing, only 3½ miles from the French border.

On Defensive.

"The tide of battle east of the Meuse definitely has turned with depleted enemy armor almost everywhere on the defensive," said a field dispatch.

One German pocket of armor and infantry was being pounded to pieces by encircling American tanks and artillery pieces between Celles, deepest western penetration of the enemy, and Rochefort, 10 miles to the southeast. About two enemy battalions were in the trap.

On the southern flank another German pocket was surrounded at Beaufort, six miles northwest of Echternach.

Von Rundstedt's hopes of expanding his salient westward had been blasted by two developments. The first was the push northward by a powerful armored force which blasted its way to a link-up with the Bastogne garrison at a point three miles south of that nerve centre. Bastogne had been denied to the Germans for seven days by the surrounded Americans who had rejected an ultimatum demanding their surrender.

The second development was a series of crushing tank and infantry battles in the Celles area in which the Germans collided head-on with strong Allied forces. After hanging on to the flanks of the German thrust for 10 days the Americans at last had headed off Von Rundstedt.

As a result the German commander was reported pulling back into the centre of his bulge, a large part of his tanks supporting the force of perhaps 250,000 men in three armies with which he started his smash Dec. 16.

Pressing disorganized German armor near Celles, one American tank formation took a large number of prisoners and inflicted heavy damage.

German broadcasts told of violent Anglo-American attacks at the same time from the north, and an Associated Press field dispatch said enemy tank formations had been forced to drop offensive action on the Mache-Manhay line—the German salient's north shoulder—and dig in defensively.

Reduce Bulge

The Allied-controlled Luxembourg radio said last night that American attacks had cut the width of the German-held territory to less than 20 miles—a figure that coincides with the distance between Bastogne and last reported American positions in the Lieurneux area to the north.

In a dispatch sent from the field about the same time, however, Associated Press War Correspondent Hal Boyle wrote of the salient's width as 29 miles.

Boyle quoted returning fliers as reporting yesterday that the Germans were setting fire to their tanks and other self-propelled vehicles in the Celles area, at the point of their deepest penetration toward the Meuse River, and that American armor was in operation there. Previously, many Germans had been reported abandoning their armor for lack of gasoline.

Boyle also wrote that the latest Germans taken prisoner complained about "the difficult supply situation" and declared they had been without food for one or two days—an indication that the five days of unceasing Alleid air attacks were beginning to starve both Von Rundstedt's men and machines.

Supplies Short.

The forces attacking from the south have not been officially identified, but Berlin said last night that "practically the whole 3rd American Army" had moved up

Lt.-Gen. Patton, Berlin said, was aiming a thrust in the vicinity of Vaux Les Rosieree, nine miles south-west of Bastogne, in an effort to "corner German divisions between the Ealm and Ourthe Rivers." The Germans acknowledged withdrawals in Luxembourg near the German frontier.

The Bastogne defenders, whose stand denied the Germans much-needed supply roads, withstood three fierce enemy attacks in the 24 hours before being relieved. A field dispatch said they reported destroying at least 87 German tanks during the siege. At times the Americans were compressed in an area less than 2,000 yards in diameter.

Allied Supreme Headquarters gave no late information yesterday on the situation along the northern flank of the enemy salient, but the Germans themselves declared "battles of the greatest scale" were being fought there as well as on the south.

Berlin asserted last night that a British division had joined with "still another American Division withdrawn from the Aachen front in making particularly grim counter-attacks in the north."

crawled through a hole in the burning wall and brought out a number of the injured.

In response to their urgent radio appeals the Bastogne defenders received a certain amount of airborne supplies during the last four days of the siege. Later, several gliders landed on the outskirts of the beleaguered town with some more supplies, and a few planes were able to put off some volunteer medics and a surgeon.

During the intense part of the "battle of Bastogne" the Germans tried infiltration tactics, sending in English-speaking officers and men wearing American uniforms and in some cases driving captured American vehicles.

Morale High.

All of these "sneaks" were detected by alert M.P.'s.

This correspondent entered Bastogne with the first convoy to get through the enemy lines in daylight.

Men in the battered town were in high spirits and cocky.

Only one road into town was open, from the southwest. And this too, was under harrassing enemy artillery and sniper fire.

Relief convoys, however, were continuing to pour in through this narrow gap.

Allied prongs were meanwhile pushing northward from Bastogne, encountering a certain amount of opposition from enemy troops pocketed along the flank of the American advance. The main body of the enemy has, however, withdrawn to the north and northwest, and the danger of Bastogne falling into German hands seems definitely removed.

Drunken Driving Brings Seven-Day Term

Harvey Greene, Toronto, was sentenced to seven days imprisonment in the county jail by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning after he had been convicted on a charge of drunken driving arising out of a traffic accident on Water street on the evening of Saturday, December 9.

Greene who pleaded not guilty was defended by W. C. Grant while the prosecution was in the hands of Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C.

Constable Harold Mesley, who investigated the accident said that a car belonging to James Broadhurst and parked at the east curb in front of 586 Water street had been apparently struck by a car driven by Greene and driven forward 18 feet. The rear of the parked car and the front of the other machine were damaged.

Constable Mesley said that Greene admitted driving the other car. Witness said that the accused was drunk, that he staggered and smelled strongly of liquor and that as he was taking him to the police car Greene had staggered out into the roadway and had to be pulled away from in front of a passing car.

Finds Whisky

When Greene was being searched at the police station, Constable Mesley stated, a 26 ounce bottle apparently containing a quantity of Canadian whisky had been found on him. A bottle produced in court was identified as the one taken from the accused and on opening it and smelling and tasting the contents Constable Mesley said that the liquid in the bottle was whisky.

James Broadhurst, owner of the parked car, said that he did not go very close to Greene when he had gone out to investigate. The man seemed sort of dazed, he said, and witness noticed him stagger as he was being taken to the police car.

Constable C. J. McGillen and Chief Constable John W. Thompson, who had seen Greene after he was brought into the station both testified that the accused was drunk.

For the defence, Greene swore that the accident had been caused by the right front tire of the automobile he was driving blowing out, throwing the vehicle against the parked car. Greene said that as a result of the impact his head had struck the frame of the windshield and he had been dazed.

Only Three Drinks.

The accused said that the bottle in court looked like the one he had bought at the liquor store around noon on the day of the accident. Greene said that he had taken the bottle to the house where he was staying and had had three drinks, neat, between 2 and 3 o'clock, and that those were the only drinks he had had before the accident which occurred around 6:30 o'clock.

Frank Dracup, service man at the Duffus Garage, said that he had seen Greene's car after the accident, and had found that the tube in the right front tire had been blown in two. It was very rarely that such a thing happened as the result of an impact, he said. Dracup said that he had seen Green at the Duffus Garage several times on the afternoon of the accident and did not notice any signs of drinking about him.

J. M. Primeau, 651 Donegal Street, testified that Greene had come to his house early on the afternoon of the accident and seen him take three drinks of whisky there after 2 o'clock. Greene had gone out for some time and when he came back around 5 o'clock witness said he did not see him doing any more drinking before he left the house shortly after 6 o'clock.

David McCarrell, who rooms at 586 Water Street, said he was the first to go outside after the crash of the impact. He said that Greene was seated at the wheel of his car and seemed to be in a dazed condition. McCarrell said that the actions of the accused, in his judgment, were the result of the impact and not from drinking.

"I have weighed the evidence carefully," said Magistrate Langley, "and I am satisfied beyond all reasonable doubt that the accused was intoxicated at the time of the accident."

He then sentenced Greene to seven days in jail, but there was no order for the impounding of the car, as the vehicle involved did not belong to the accused.

of the big mail order firm's Chicago properties earlier in the year.

At the direction of President Roosevelt, the concern Dec. 18, 1942, signed a contract with the C.I.O United Mail Order, Warehouse and Retail Employees' Union covering 6,800 Chicago workers. It protested in vain a maintenance of membership clause under which employees who didn't step out within 15 days had to remain in the union during the one-year life of the agreement. The company claimed the W.L.B. lacked authority to order such a proviso.

C.I.O. adherents began a strike at four Ward stores in the Detroit area Dec. 9. Unionists contended the firm had failed to comply with W.L.B. orders there and at stores or plants in Portland, Ore., San Rafael, Calif., Minn., Chicago, Denver and Jamaica, N.Y. Later Ward properties at Kansas City were struck. Maintenance of union membership was a moot point in all cases, and some involved wage and other issues.

The Ward management, Dec. 18, asserted it could not accept the W.L.B.'s "advice," saying the court of appeals of the District of Columbia had held that W.L.B. orders were merely advisory. It declared the company "has refused to agree to any form of closing shop, or compulsory union membership."

Cheese, Produce and Livestock

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Cattle trade was dull with a few sales to small buyers up to mid-session on the Livestock Market here to-day. Butcher steers were $9-$11.50 and a few butcher cows $7-$9.25.

Calves were firm at $16-$17 for choice, with common lights downward to $9.

Lambs were steady at $13-$13.50, good ewes and wethers with culls downward to $8.

Sheep were steady at $3-$5.

Hogs sold at Grade A, dressed, $18.35, with sows $13.25 dressed.

Receipts reported by the Dominion Marketing Service were:

Cattle 600, calves 70, hogs 600, sheep and lambs 200. Unsold from yesterday were 400 head of cattle.

Representative Sales

WINNIPEG GRAIN.

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Export business was on a large scale yesterday on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. Switzerland took 500,000 bushels o No. 1 Northern wheat, the British West Indies a small quantity of flour, and the United States 125,000 bushels of oats.

Good local and Chicago buying with gains posted in rye at Chicago on Tuesday advanced the rye futures substantially early in the session. However, fractional losses were later recorded when selling for New York account and profit-taking by local longs entered the pit.

Closing prices were 1½-1⅝ cents higher.

New Suburbs To Be Welcomed

Peterborough will formally welcome North Monaghan suburbs into corporate unity with the city in a CHEX broadcast at 4 p.m., New Year's Day.

Representatives of the Council, Board of Education and Utilities Commission will greet the incoming neighbors on their acceptance of full municipal partnership.

For the Council the speakers will be Mayor Hamilton, City Engineer Parsons, Dr. R. A. Kelly, medical officer of health; Chief Constable John Thompson, Fire Chief Gimblett and Garfield Torrance, foreman of the incinerating and garbage collecting branch of the streets department.

For the Board of Education, G. W. Craw, chairman, and Public School Inspector K. S. Wightman, and for the Utilities Commission, Gordon S. Matthews, chairman, and Ross L. Dobbin, manager.

Phases of the city's services will be discussed by these heads of departments, and in all probability some of the wartime obstacles to their full extension will receive some attention during the half hour's salute to the new Peterborough citizens—and taxpayers.

At this final stage of negotiations for annexation, the culmination of all the preceding surveys and exchanges of opinions, it might be timely to remind several of the jeremiahs at the recent North Monaghan Township nominations that the application for this step of joining the city was made by the suburban residents and not by the people of this city.

Local official opinion is that some of the new residents are likely to be a bit disappointed by the change of status, but others may find that results are about what they expected.

bombed the other targets by instruments through dense clouds. They were escorted by 700 fighters which encountered no opposition from German planes.

The 4,000-ton bomb load of the American armada fell on 10 rail yards and bridges and on junction points between the German salient in Belgium and the Rhine.

The German radio said day raiders also were striking into Germany from the south, suggesting operations by the Italian-based U.S. 15th Air Force.

Official accounts said almost 2,000 pieces of German rail and road transport were demolished yesterday and 90 German fighters were shot down by some 4,000 Allied bombers and fighters which took the air.

The heavy bombers concentrated on rail traffic. The medium bombers picked out bridges and supply dumps. The fighters scouted roads and fields for German tanks, trucks and troops.

Allied losses were five bombers and 23 fighters.

The tactical air force in Italy, enjoying the best stretch of weather in weeks, flew 1,506 sorties against the enemy's battlefield strong points and rear communications yesterday.

This brought the total flights during two days to 3,028, the Force's greatest 48-hour show since the invasion of Southern France in mid-August.

Medium bombers made four swoops to the Brenner Pass railway, in addition, destroyed most of an enemy supply dump southwest of Bologna.

The medium bombers and lighter craft together destroyed or damaged 26 locomotives, 99 railway cars and 109 enemy-occupied buildings. Railways were cut in 26 places.

Lt. W. Thirnbeck Hit By Shrapnel

Even when a soldier is at the battlefront, he still depends upon the radio and newspaper to learn the progress of the war, according to Lieutenant Woodie O. Thirnbeck, 418 Water street, who arrived home just before Christmas after serving with the British Army in Belgium and Holland.

"The only part of the war I was concerned with at the time was our own little front," he declared. "Radio and newspapers told us of how the battle went elsewhere."

In the brief span of four months, this young officer arrived overseas from Canada, saw action in Europe, was wounded, and returned to a hospital in England.

Or, in his own words, "It was a short, sweet and snappy war for me."

Lieut. Thirnbeck was one of a group of Canadians who volunteered to serve with the British infantry. He went overseas as such in June of this year and landed in France as a reinforcement officer. In Belgium, he joined his unit, a British armored division.

Within ten days of fighting, he was hit by shrapnel in the chest, one arm was broken, and some shrapnel lodged in his other arm.

"I was leading a platoon up the street in a little Dutch village when I got it. I don't know whether it was mortar or shell fire, because I went out like a light when it hit."

He was taken in an ambulance back to Brussels, and in a plane from that city back to England.

"Within three hours, I was on an operating table," he said.

Some places in France, Belgium and Holland that the young officer visited, he said the civilian population gave thrilling welcomes.

"But," he added, it usually depended on which armies were the closest, ours or the Germans. The civilians were looking out for their own skins in many cases."

Buzz Bombs are old acquaintances of this officer, and he recalls the time in London when his typical Canadian curiosity led him into the gutter on one of the main streets, all because he remained outside an air-raid shelter to watch robots flying over.

"But that's the way most Canadians are at first, there were five of us standing there when the bomb came down, several blocks away. It certainly shook us up."

Although little publicized, the British soldier rates high praise from this Canadian. The British seemed to like having Canadian officers, he said, and the Canadians were perfectly satisfied too.

He said, "The British soldier is certainly second to none."

Previous to volunteering with the British infantry, Lieutenant Thirnbeck was serving as an artillery instructor in Western Canada. He enlisted in February, 1943. He is a former employee of the Western Clock Company.

Veteran General Says Reds Won't Fight Japs

By TOM REEDY

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 (AP) — Gen. Peyton C. March, United States Chief of Staff in the first Great War, today deplored what he termed the Allied failure to hit the advancing German armies "on the nose."

Gen. March, on his 80th birthday, also:

1. Declared a complete breakdown in Allied military intelligence preceded the German counter-offensive.

2. Intimated that talk of "unconditional surrender" had hampered military operations.

3. Expressed doubt that Russia would join the war against Japan.

Gen. March said that one reason the Allied military intelligence "broke down completely" is Hitler himself.

"In the other countries, we depended a lot on the underground for valuable information. Hitler got rid of all such elements in Germany itself. He has a homogeneous nation."

Gen. March won't accept the theory that the weather interferes in such operations.

"I never saw it snow on one side and not on the other . . ."

He said it was important now to see how long it will take to blunt the German offensive.

"We're hitting them on the side; everywhere, it seems, but on the nose," he said wryly.

"All this talk of unconditional surrender and what we're going to do to them hasn't been very helpful to us," he said.

In doubting that Russia will ever get into the war against Japan, he said:

"I suppose this Government is trying to get Siberian bases, and this was the year when we were in the best position to demand them. But don't forget that Stalin once told a Japanese: 'I am an Asiatic, too.'"

Patrol Thrusts Show Strength

By ROGER GREENE

Associated Press War Correspondent

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 28 (AP)—A strange series of German patrol thrusts—too strong for normal reconnaissance and too wary for fighting patrols — has erupted against British and Canadians troops.

German forays in groups of from 15 to 30 men have struck across the Meuse River in northwest Holland near Boekhoven just north of 's Hertogenbosch and farther west near Geertruidenburg.

Another enemy patrol crossed the Maas in eastern Holland just north of Roermond. All these attacks were beaten back.

Today's Allied communique reported "active" German patrolling north of Tilburg on the Canadian front and north of Venlo in the British sector.

Golds, Oils Show Decline

TORONTO, Dec. 28 (CP)—The Gold and Western Oil stocks were down moderately in the early session today. Industrials were higher by .29 in the index and the Base Metals held about even with the previous close. Volume was small at 224,000 shares for the first three hours.

Chesterville, up 25 cents and Queenston, up 17, were features of the trading in the gold group. Moderate strength was shown by Pickle Crow, Transcontinental Resources, Central Patricia, Wasa Lake, Upper Canada and Leitch. In the Base Metals Nickel firmed ⅛ and Smelters lost ½.

Paper, Steel and Food stocks ruled higher and the Utilities had a margin of losses. Consumers Gas weakened 2 points or more.

Russia Ready To Recognize Lublin Group

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 28 —(AP)— Word spread today that Russia is about ready to recognize the Polish Committee of Liberation at Lublin as the provisional government of Poland.

Premier Stalin is reported to consider this action necessary to military moves imminent on the eastern front.

Both London and Washington so far have recognized the Polish government in London, at the same time urging that it compose its differences with Russia over the Russo-Polish boundary.

Information in diplomatic quarters here now indicates the following as probable developments:

1. The Soviet-backed Lublin committee is expected to declare itself to be a provisional government. Moscow reports yesterday said this action might be taken before the year-end.

2. Russia would then recognize the committee's claim to provisional status, thereby giving it a diplomatic position in opposition to the position thus far held exclusively by the Polish government in London.

3. Russia's declaration of recognition would be followed in short order by declarations by various European countries within the Russian sphere of influence, probably starting off with Czechoslovakia.

France is reported to have exchanged representatives with the Lublin committee already. But there are some reports that when the question came up between Premier Stalin and Gen. De Gaulle at Moscow recently, the French leader made it clear that he did not consider the Lublin group representative of the Polish people and therefore at the moment would not promise recognition.

The Russians themselves are said to be aware of the political deficiencies of the Lublin outfit and for that reason alone have spent many months in dealing with the Polish government in London, seeking a settlement of the boundary dispute and a pro-Russian policy on the part of that government.

Now, however, Mr. Stalin has planned winter offensives against Germany in which he intends to liberate great new areas of western Poland.

He wants them ruled by a Polish government and having failed, apparently with finality, to come to agreement with the London Poles, is understood to be ready to accord governmental status to the Lublin committee.

Ballot Recount In Cobourg Upsets Election Results

COBOURG, Dec. 28—(ENS). — William Wenn, unsuccessful candidate at the municipal elections was declared elected late Wednesday afternoon after a recount had been made in Judge J. C. M. German's chambers. Mr. Wenn received 624 votes to James Rollings' 610 votes in the recount, as compared with 618 ballots computed at the election as being cast in favor of Rollings. Wenn received 617 on election day and was nosed out of Council by Rollings, who was sixth man.

Wednesday's recount revealed that the work of some of the deputy returning officers was far from correct, but it was held that this was to a great extent due to the fact there were not enough polling sub-divisions here, resulting in too much burden upon the deputy returning officers.

Fred C. Richardson, counsel for Mr. Wenn, suggested that on account of the large number of errors found, neither Mr. Rollings nor Mr. Wenn should assume any cost and that the cost of the recount should be borne by the town. Judge German pointed out that there was no cost except counsel fees, and he asked Mr. Richardson what his fee would be, to which Mr. Richardson replied that $25 was satisfactory. T. F. Hall, counsel for Mr. Rollings, agreed on that amount. A. R. Willmott, solicitor for the town, said that he would not consent to the town paying the counsel fees. Judge German accordingly reserved his decision as to costs.

By-law Recount.

The scrutiny of the Cobourg Lumber Company fixed assessment by-law ballots started on Thursday morning at 10:30 The Council recount results were as follows:

Ward 1 recount—Wenn 112, Rollings 90; election—Wenn 111, Rollings 91. Ward 2 recount—Well 98, Rollings 101; election—Wenn 100, Rollings 100 Ward 3 recount — Wenn 57, Rollings 56; election—Wenn 57, Rollings 59. Ward 4 recount—Wenn 107, Rollings 134; election — Wenn 98, Rollings 136. Ward 5 recount—Wen 125, Rollings 110; election— Wenn 122, Rollings 113. Ward 6 recount—Wenn 125, Rollings 117; election—Wenn 128, Rollings 119.

Recount of the ballots cast for councillor-candidates James Rollings and William Wenn started on Wednesday morning in Judge J. C. M. German's chambers. The scrutiny of the by-law ballots was requested by the Council and the recount was requested by William Wenn.

T. F. Hall, K.C., appeared on behalf of Rollings and Fred Richardson represented Wenn, and A. R. Willmott was present in his capacity as town solicitor. Mr. Burtt and Mr. Wenn were on hand along with E. A. Hircock, returning officer.

The ballot box of Polling Sub-Division No. 1 was first opened. Judge German commented on the fact that loose ballots were not in their envelopes and used ballots were found in the box in a crumpled mass. Some were initialled which had not been used and in reply to the Judge's comment on that point, Mr. Hircock pointed out that the ballots had apparently been initialled ahead to save time. Judge German observed that this was an incorrect practice. Some ballots were in the wrong envelopes and considerable time was spent in getting them straightened away. Judge German several times had to remind counsel that the work at hand was concerned only in getting the ballots in proper order and that no scrutiny would be made at this time until all the boxes had been so disposed of.

Negligence Shown.

Mr. Willmott brought up the matter of handling cancelled ballots in connection with four thus designated on the by-law. He felt that they should be kept apart in a separate envelope so as to be available for later inquiry as to why they were rejected. The Judge assented to this suggestion. Four envelopes, which were for use of rejected ballots, contained nothing and Judge German commented that it showed negligence on the part of the D.R.O. Mr. Willmott suggested that instead of negligence it indicated a lack of knowledge on the part of the D.R.O. of the proper procedure. Throughout the examination of the ballots, those for Mayor and Reeve were discarded as waste paper as they did not enter into the picture. Only the ballots pertinent to the inquiry were restored to their respective boxes.

The box of No. 2 was in better order with 5 rejects for Council and 10 for the by-law. Number of voters was 264, which was 10 more than those in No. 1. Judge German commented that this box had been well handled. In No. 3 there were 136 voters. No. 4 60 voters No. 5 there were 299 voters. No. 6, the heaviest poll, was very neat. The ballots in each section were rolled up and tied and the box was cleaned up in a short time. There were five ballots listed as cancelled in conection with the by-law vote and three for Council. There were 10 unused ballots. This is the polling sub-division over which the application for scrutiny of the by-law votes was made.

By 12:30 the ballot boxes had been placed in order and the inquiry adjourned until 2 p.m.

Corvette Entertains 60 Wrens As Guests

A NEWFOUNDLAND PORT, Dec. 28. — A draft of 75 Canadian Wrens, recently arrived in Newfoundland, is finding life in this Atlantic outpost both "salty" and agreeable. Sixty of them were the super guests recently aboard the convoy-escort corvette H.M.C.S. Arnprior, during a stopover in port.

Organized some months ago by the Y.M.C.A., working in conjunction with the Navy's special services office, shipboard parties have proved an outstanding hit with sailors and Wrens. As in past instances, the Wrens were met at the ship's gangway where a draw was held and partners made up for the evening.

Messdecks of the corvettes were especialyl "tidied up" for the occasions with bunting. Wrens and their seagoing partners sat down to supper of ham and potato salad, green peas, fruit, cake, coffee, and cigarettes. Musical entertainment enlivened the good-natured banter of the evening.

Later the whole party was conveyed in Navy trucks to the Y.M.C.A. hut, Buckmasters Field, for dancing. Y supervisor Ted Ewing of Saskatoon organized the party and was given much credit for its success.

LONDON, Dec. 28 —(CP) —The Brussels radio said to-day an influenza epidemic had broken out in Germany.

The broadcast said the situation was particularly serious in the southern sections of the Reich, where the cold weather and shortages of food, doctors and medicine have been felt acutely. It said there have been many deaths in Munich.

Military Needs In Tires Not Being Met

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 (CP)—Munitions Minister Howe in a statement issued today called for increased tire production and said several hundred additional workers are needed for tire factories in the Toronto, Hamilton and Kitchener, Ont., areas.

"The United Nations are critically short of military tires and to help overcome this crisis Canada must boost production to the utmost," he said.

High priority rating has been given tire plants by selective service in an effort to channel available suitable workers into these factories and in addition the companies are being asked to operate on as close to a full seven-day work week as their facilities permit.

In addition to calling on the 7,500 workers now employed in Canadian tire plants to step up their production Mr. Howe appealed for new workers. Those lacking experience will be trained in the plants.

"The seriousness of the situation cannot be over-emphasized," the minister said. "The United Nations need at once 1,000,000 more heavy military tires to replace those being worn out or blown to bits at the battlefront. On the hazardous 1,000-mile return trip between Cherbourg or Le Havre and the front lines army vehicle tires are subjected to almost unbelievable wear and tear. Much of the route is littered with debris, much is pock-marked with shell and bomb holes and much is paved with cobblestones."

Mr. Howe directed a particular message to those now working in tire factories:

"Already you have achieved a remarkable output. Now, as never before, I ask you to do everything within your power to increase that output. Unless the Allied armies get tires quickly they will be unable to maintain a sufficient flow of reinforcements and of the shells, bullets, food and other supplies they need. We have the crude rubber for war tires. We have the buna-s (rubber). We have the plant facilities. What we need is more workers and the most strenuous effort from those already in tire plants."

Mayor Compliments Snow Removal Job

COBOURG, Dec. 28 — (ENS). — Mayor Jack Burnet at the meeting of council on Tuesday night, complimented the streets committee for the work done after the heavy snow storm of two weeks ago. The mayor said that he had been informed that a citizen had criticised the way in which the snow situation had been handled. In contrast strangers passing through the town had expressed surprise at the way in which the snow had been cleaned up, commenting that other centres were in bad shape.

"This citizen in question would make a fine man for a football team if they required a 'kicker,'" observed Mayor Burnet.

An application from Miss Olive Page of Cobourg, member of the women's division of the R.C.A.F. for the post of assistant to the clerk and treasurer of the town, was referred to the incoming council. Miss Page expects her discharge in January 1.

Council informed the rink committee that if there were any deficit at the end of the year, the town would make it up. Committee accounts passed were as follows:

Highways and Streets, $482.80; Public Buildings and Printing — $141.38; Fire, Water and Light — $559.95; Health and Sanitation, $9; Finance and Harbour, $473.65; Direct Relief, $66.28.

Should Women Be Educated?

A fortnight ago we read a complaint from the head of a university in western Canada that the young women under his care were deserting their studies in great numbers in order to get married; this appeared to him to be reprehensible conduct, deserving severe censure. It aroused a somewhat different train of thought in us: it is only a few years since women established their right to university education, and already they seem to be bored with it; they are frequently ready to throw it up for more interesting pursuits, such as marriage and motherhood.

Middle-aged people remember very well when women were complaining that marriage was slavery and motherhood biological drudgery; they wanted freedom and they wanted careers. They demanded equal rights with men at the universities, and when Oxford—one of the last important strongholds of male superiority,—agreed to grant degrees to women (if they could earn them) there was as much fuss as when the walls of Jericho fell. But, in the Canadian west, at least, marriage seems to be even more attractive than a degree and a career.

There are sets of statistics which show that girls with university degrees are less likely to marry than those who lack them. There are two explanations for this: there are those who say that higher education takes the charm out of a girl—shrivels her ever so slightly; and there are those who maintain that a girl who has got a degree has also far too much sense to marry most of the men who are looking for wives. Argument on this subject could go on interminably. We take a middle ground, like the Oxford author of these lines, written in 1896:

Miss Diana we see to the hunting field go,
While over her books Miss Minerva bends low;
Thus pursuing respectively foxes and knowledge,
One stay at the Hall while one goes to the College.
But which is more likely to captivate men—
The maid with the brush, or the maid with the pen?
See Diana clear fences—ah, who can resist her!
But then see how papers are cleared by her sister!
Their chances seem equal, for Love, as one sees,
Comes sometimes at a gallop, sometimes by Degrees.

But we do think that the girl who sets out on a university career and then throws it up might reflect for a moment on the bitter struggle which her mother and her grandmother engaged in to win the privilege which she is throwing up.

More Benevolence Than Sense

There are always a lot of people whose benevolence is greater than their good sense. We are thinking at the moment of a suggestion which appeared recently in a Canadian newspaper that the Ontario government should aid 'moderately priced homes and apartments' by 'making them free from taxation for 20 years', except for their land values. The idea of this bonus is to encourage the erection of 'much-needed homes and apartment houses'.

Now what would this mean, if it were to be put into effect? It would mean that every home and apartment house which is now standing would pay heavier taxes in order that the new buildings should have fire protection, police protection, snow-clearing, ash and garbage collection, drainage and sewage, and education—and all for nothing. And what would happen to the older and heavily taxed properties? Their market value would drop sharply, for they would carry their burden of tax while, for twenty years, the newer houses would be desirable residences with a very low tax and a delightful yearly bonus from the kindly provincial government.

The owners of the newer homes and apartment houses would be a privileged class—what the Ottawa Journal has called "a class of official mendicants rejoicing in the public bounty". We have enough official mendicants already, of one sort and another, and it looks as though the future would bring a fine new crop of them. Is there any sensible reason for adding a large group of property-owners to their number? We can see none whatever... But what really amazes us is that the scheme could possibly have recommended itself to anybody as desirable or practical.

Apes At War

An extraordinary report from Bombay informs us that the Japanese have established a training school for apes; it is described as "a regular military school for the training of army monkeys, where they enter in the same way as cadets and come out as trained fighters". Apparently the Japs are feeling a lack of manpower in their jungle campaigns, and they teach these clever animals to throw grenades. The monkeys, we read, are also "trained to ride mules and give the impression of men on horseback".

We would not believe this, if it were not vouched for by that sober and unimpeachably truthful journal, the Manchester Guardian. This is what that paper has to say, in comment:

Nothing is said about teaching them to shout "Banzai!" and wear horn-rimmed spectacles; perhaps it is thought that the resemblance to authentic Japanese is already sufficiently close to make such touches of additional camouflage unnecessary.

We disagree with the Guardian on that last point; a monkey has a sense of humour, and therefore it could not possibly be mistaken for a Jap. A monkey might be trained to impersonate a Japanese soldier, but monkeys are good actors, and we are certain that there would be a touch of caricature about the performance which would give the whole show away. A monkey would not say to himself, 'I am a Jap soldier' and be content with that; he would say to himself, 'This is the way a Jap soldier behaves', and then he would do something indescribably funny.

The Guardian continues:

It is a wonderful story; in goes the ape and out comes the warrior of Nippon and loyal servitor of the Mikado, 1944 model. Somebody should certainly resurrect Tojo and send him off to tell the Great Shrines about this latest development in co-prosperity for the higher mammals. It seems about the highest flight in proposed war efforts since somebody suggested to the War Inventions Board in the last war that we should train cormorants to pick the mortar out of factory buildings in the Ruhr and so bring the German armament industry down in ruins.

Our experience of monkeys is not great, but we have hung around zoos, and we know a little bit about their behaviour. What we want to know is this: how do the Japs get the monkeys to concentrate on their work; and how do the Japs keep the monkeys from eating the grenades; and how do the Japs keep the monkeys from throwing the grenades at one another?

Death Of Philip Guedalla

The death of a good writer is always an occasion for regret; when he dies before he has enjoyed his full span of life and work the regret is deepened. Philip Guedalla was only 55, and doubtless he had several books partly formed in his head which he would have written for the delight and instruction of the world if death had not intervened.

But we must be grateful for the work he did, and not repine for the work he left unfinished. He was a historian, following in the footsteps of Lytton Strachey, albeit distantly and sometimes falteringly. He wrote with a sharp and witty pen, and he loved a neat phrase better than he loved the strict letter of historical accuracy, but one of Guedalla's books always left a clear and vividly coloured impression on the mind, even if it were not correct in every detail. He was no mere debunker; he followed Strachey in his analytical approach to his subjects, and sometimes he fell into the historian's error of thinking a wiser man than his subject, but he never stooped to muck-raking, or making cruel fun of men and women who, being in the grave, could not defend themselves. He had a vigorous dramatic sense which made him delight in antitheses and extraordinary juxtapositions of detail, but upon the whole he kept this characteristic well in abeyance.

The war killed Guedalla, as it killed many another good man. His great reputation and popularity made him useful to the British Government as a lecturer in the United States and in South America; he worked tirelessly as a government publicist; he produced a life of Winston Churchill at great speed and, considering everything, with remarkable success. Guedalla, who had so often been witty at the expense of past history, took his duties very seriously when current history made its demands on him. Now he is dead, and thousands of readers will mourn him sincerely.

Urge Completion Of Trent Canal

The Orillia Board of Trade has prepared for the Canadian Chamber of Commerce a memorandum urging building of the locks on the Severn as a post war measure in order that the Trent Waterway may be finally completed.

THE Trent Waterway stretches from Trenton on the Bay of Quinte, otherwise Lake Ontario, to Port Severn on Matchedash Bay, an arm of the Georgian Bay. The official name "Trent Canal" is a misnomer, since of the 240 miles of waterway, only 33 miles are canal. In other words, over 200 miles of the route is navigable lake and river.

HISTORY

The Trent Waterway has a chequered and interesting history, dating back to the dawn of Canadian civilization. The series of lakes and rivers which form the modern waterway provided the route followed by Champlain and his Huron allies on their foray against the Iroquois in what is now the State of New York. Military considerations also underlay the beginning of the modern 'canal." The construction of the Trent Canal was originally proposed by the Imperial Government about the year 1820, as the most suitable for a colonization and military route. Mr. J. N. Baird was sent out to make a survey and report of the route from Lake Ontario at Trenton to Waubaushene on Georgian Bay, which he did. As a consequence several dams and locks were built at certain points, which rendered navigable the longest possible stretches. For instance, a dam was built at Frankford, and a lock and dam at Chisholm's. This made a stretch of navigation about 20 miles to Meyersburg. The dam was built at Heeley's Falls and a dam at Hastings, and a dam and lock at Peterborough. This gave a navigable stretch of about 60 miles to the town of Peterborough.

Locks and dams were also built at Bobcaygeon and Lindsay, which made a navigable stretch from Buckhorn to Port Perry and Fenelon Falls, a distance of about 65 miles.

These works were built about the year 1840. Enough money was voted by the Imperial Government to complete a continuous line of navigation from Trenton to Balsam Lake, but when the Mackenzie rebellion broke out the Government of Canada took the money that was granted by the Imperial Government to build this canal to quell the rebellion, and thus the work was stopped for the lack of money.

Shortly after this time a number of residents about the Niagara Peninsula, who were particularly strong with the government of the day, induced the government to change the idea of making this the route to the West, and to build the Welland Canal instead.

A company was formed in the year 1874, with Mossom Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, as president, to build the canal, but the government would not let a private company control the work.

In the year 1880 the attention of Sir Charles Tupper was directed to this project, and after making a personal examination over the whole line of the canal, he was so pleased with the possibilities of the scheme that he publicly announced that the Government would build this canal as rapidly as the finances of the country would allow. He was true to his word. A large sum was put in the estimates the following year and work was commenced at once.

The locks at Fenelon Falls, Buckhorn, Lovesick and Burleigh, and numerous dams were built and completed about the year 1889. Sir Charles Tupper was called to London, England, as High Commissioner for Canada, and the Trent Canal lost a strong advocate in the councils of the government. The opening up of the Canadian Northwest, consequent on the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, caused interest in the scheme to wane, and for several years it was at a standstill, and it was not till the year 1893 that it was again taken up.

Major (afterwards, Sir) Sam Hughes, when he was elected to Parliament in 1892, managed to interest the Hon. John Haggart, then Minister of Railways and Canals, in the Trent Waterway, and in 1894, work was begun on the section between Balsam Lake and the Lakefield division. Contracts also were awarded for the construction of the section between Balsam Lake and Lake Simcoe. Before these contracts were completed, there was a new Government in office, which had to be persuaded that the "Trent Canal" was not merely a political project, as had been charged. This was accomplished through a Royal Commission, of which Mr. John Bertram was chairman, which, after hearings in Peterborough and extensive investigations, reported in favour of carrying the canal to completion.

The Kirkfield lift lock was opened in July, 1907, and the route was thus opened to Lake Simcoe and Orillia, the remaining four locks having been built in the meantime. The southern outlet of the waterway, Trent River, was however, incomplete. The section below Campbellford was still closed, and the Government concentrated on getting this section completed.

It was not, however, till 1906 that the advocates of the waterway succeeded in interesting the Laurier Government in opening the northern outlet of the waterway, down the Severn River from Lake Couchiching to the Georgian Bay. This was accomplished by inducing the Hon. H. R. Emmerson, then Minister of Railways and Canals, to make an inspection of the waterway from Peterborough north, including a trip down the Severen River by canoe, arranged and conducted by the Orillia Board of Trade. On completing the trip, Mr. Emmerson declared himself a complete convert and promised that the opening up of the Severn River, upon which the town of Orillia had recently built its first power plant at the Ragged Rapids, would be carried to a conclusion within two years.

Unfortunately, before he could do anything to implement his promise, Mr. Emmerson ceased to be Minister of Railways and Canals, and his successor, the Hon. Geo. Graham, proved less sympathetic. As a result, no further progress was made till the advent of the Hon. Frank Cochrane, who was friendly to the project. Under his auspices, contracts were awarded for the construction of the Couchiching section and also of the dam and lock at the Swift Rapids on the Severn River. Unfortunately, before the latter was completed, the outbreak of war in August, 1914, intervened, but the dam and power house were subsequently pushed to completion, as a war measure, in 1917, in order to supply power for Orillia's munition plants; but the lock is still in an unfinished state. Marine railways, for light craft of not more than 60 feet or 20 tons, have been provided at both the Swift Rapids and the Big Chute, where there are drops of 47 and 58 feet respectively. But for practical purposes, the waterway, or canal, remains closed at its northern end.

THE PRESENT SITUATION

Up to the present, capital expenditure of the Dominion Government on the Trent Canal amounts, in round figures, to $20,000,000. To complete the lock at Swift Rapids, and to build two locks at Big Chute (where the Hydro Electric Power Commission has a power house) it is estimated would cost $3,000,000. To replace, or supplement, the small lock at Port Severn with another lock leading from Gloucester Pool (a widening of the Severn) into Honey Harbour (opposite Midland) would cost another million dollars. This was the original plan, since the straight run for grain ships towing barges across to Honey Harbour is preferable to the Port Severn entrance to the waterway, which is too narrow and twisting for towing purposes.

The annual cost of maintenance and operation is about $200,000. Against this there is a revenue, chiefly for waterpower privileges, of about $90,000.

Thirty-five locks, including the famous lift lock at Peterborough, have been built to overcome the rise of 595 feet from Lake Ontario to Balsam Lake. Between Balsam Lake and the Georgian Bay, eight locks (one a lift lock at Kirkfield) are already in operation, and two marine railways for small craft. The total drop in this section is 260 feet. The locks vary in length from 134 to 175 feet, but have a uniform width of 33 feet, with six feet of water on the sills, with the exception of the Port Severn lock, which is 100 feet long and 25 feet wide, but has the same six foot depth.

It has been charged that because the revenue from the Trent Canal does not meet the costs of operation and maintenance its existence is not justified. Why a canal on which there are no fees should be expected to pay its way, any more than a highway on which there are no toll gates, does not appear. There are no complaints because the highways, which exist largely for pleasure and which cost hundreds of millions, bring no direct revenue.

◇ ◇ ◇

THE CASE FOR COMPLETION

Originally, as has been seen, the Trent Canal, like the Monck Road, was prompted by military considerations, to create a means of water transportation through the interior of Ontario, instead of along its borders. This need has vanished.

Later it was projected as a grain route. But the expenditure of $130,000,000 on the Welland Ship Canal, enabling the Great Lakes grain boats to go through to the foot of Lake Ontario, by doing away with one transshipment, put an end to the Trent Canal rivalling this route, though it is 200 miles longer. This same competition deprived the C.N.R. and C.P.R. railways of a large and profitable business, and induced the C.P.R. to tear up the rails between Orillia and Havelock on a grain route on which they had spent millions of dollars.

As to the extent to which the Waterway would, if open at its northern end, be used for commercial purposes we have no data on which we could justifiably base predictions. One of Orillia's manufacturers has, however, announced that, if the locks on the Severn are completed, he will at once purchase a small steamer, for the purpose of bringing coal and other water borne freight from Midland. It is also to be borne in mind that small vessels bound from Georgian Bay to the St. Lawrence or Montreal, or vice versa, could save 200 miles by making use of the Waterway, and in the fall and spring avoid storms on the Great Lakes.

SELF-STARTER TROUBLE

Debts Are Debts

(By R. J. DEACHMAN

WE are told that the national debt is unimportant—we owe it to ourselves. Limited truth is dangerous. Let us look at the facts.

Did we get something productive, something worth the price out of the expenditure—that is important?

When we figure the amount we have spent for "dead horses" we may be less anxious to spend wildly in the hope of making the nation rich.

Supposing half the farms in Canada were mortgaged to the owners of the other half, would the average farmer be as happy as if all were debt free? Certainly not, but if the borrowers used the money wisely for productive purposes they would be at least as well off as they were before these obligations were created.

If the Government increased the number of civil servants by 10,000 or 100,000, would their service be costless to the people of Canada, merely because the Canadian people were taxing themselves to pay money to each other? It would not. It would depend on the service rendered by the new employees. There are many problems still unsolved in this country. If we can employ men to solve them it may prove a very lucrative investment. We didn't waste the money we spent in fighting wheat rust, did we?

There is no means of distributing, equitably, the costs of a high public debt. Some will pay their share—others will pay more. Some will pay nothing at all. A nation with a high burden of debt — even when it is held within the country—will suffer more during periods of depression — the tax burden becomes too heavy when incomes fall. The working segments of the community go down under the load.

A debt which may be easy to carry today may look like a mountain at some future date when prices of farm products are out of line with the prices of other products, or there is much unemployment of labour and capital. That may happen again—that is one of the things Hitler may help to bring about. The wise voter will think of these things, the wise statesman will act with the prudence of a cautious business man. It is good business to spend for things needed in times of depressions—reduce liabilities in time of boom, but it is extremely difficult to do it.

Where debt is incurred this question must arise: Was there a better alternative program on which this money could have been used? That is a question every right thinking man ought to consider in regard to the expenditure of public or private funds. That is, at all times, a difficult question to answer. No one can deny that many may be helped by reasonable expenditure on health. The same of course is true of many other investments which can be made. I am only pointing out the fact that careful consideration should be given to expenditures. It is never wisdom to waste.

It is folly to argue that an increase of debt means nothing, because the interest is paid to Canadians, paid by other Canadians who, in many cases, see with difficulty, or fail entirely to see, benefits gained from the money borrowed. Here, as elsewhere, vigilence is the price of liberty. Public bodies should be watched. The old Scotch lady was right when she said: "The best of folk are the better for bein' spoken to".

'A Little Present From Me'

Private Ernest "Smokey" Smith of the Canadian Army stood before the King and the King said to him, "Here's a little present for you from me," handing him his Victoria Cross.

There was simplicity, dignity, comradeship, a sense of intimacy — it was brief and in good taste, the perfect presentation speech.

Some, in the King's position, would have made a speech; some would have delivered an oration. One can imagine the rounded periods, the flowing sentences, the studied eloquence, the adjectives marching splendidly to their destination.

But not the King. "Here," he said, "is a little present for you from me," and we commend his example to all in high places.—Ottawa Journal.

BOMBED CHURCHES

I hope that the decision of the Church authorities to rebuild some city churches and pull down others does not mean that they reject the proposal to preserve a few in ruins as a war memorial.

For these would fulfil perfectly the two conditions required of a memorial: to be in itself an agreeable object and to recall to the mind the event commemorated. What could remind people more vividly of the burning of London than the actual sight of its honourable scars?

And though some modern buildings may not be beautiful in ruin—nothing but annihilation could improve their appearance—yet the roofless colonnades and broken cornices of the city churches have still a fragmentary beauty about them that strangely stirs the heart.—Lord David Cecil in London Times.

A Bible Message

And the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, as a man that is wakened out of his sleep. And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold a candlestick all of gold, with a bowl upon the top of it, and his seven lamps thereon, and seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof: and two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof....

Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof? And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which through the two golden pipes empty the golden oil out of themselves....

Then said he, These are the two anointed ones, that stand by the Lord of the whole earth. (Zech. 4: 1-3, 11, 12, 14.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And there was given me a reed like unto a rod: and the angel stood, saying, Rise, and measure the temple of God, and the altar, and them that worship therein...:

And I will give power unto my two witnesses, and they shall prophesy a thousand two hundred and three score days, clothed in sackcloth. These are the two olive trees, and the two candlesticks standing before the God of the earth. (Rev. 11: 1, 3, 4.)

AN EASY MARKET

Provincial Treasurer Fines should experience no great difficulty in selling, within the province, the $1,000,000 of Saskatchewan industrial development bonds designed to finance the state enterprise plans of the C.C.F. Government.

In the first place the amount is small and the province is so overflowing with money that almost anything can be sold.

In the second place there surely are sufficient C.C.F. supporters, ardent enough in their socialist beliefs to risk some of their money to promote the ends they advocate.—Regina Leader-Post.

MARRIAGE FOR ARTISTS

Henry James thought, and I agree with him, that if you are called to the intellectual life, then you had better remain single and, if possible, celibate.

Outside the totalitarian countries, the temptations of Philistia are still her age-old ones of money and fame, which the really gifted man can resist fairly easily so long as he is alone. But give him a wife and it becomes his duty to be a parent; give him a family and in many cases he will soon be faced with the choice between being unfaithful to the demands of his work, and unfaithful to his responsibilities for those he has promised to love, and will only too often end up by being faithful to neither.—W. H. Auden in New York Times Book Section.

Unconsidered Trifles

An enthusiastic church worked called at a cottage, where the occupants were slack in the matter of church attendance.

To her delight, she was asked if she could supply the wife with a certain church magazine. As she did not have one with her, she trudged a considerable distance to get a copy, finally arriving back breathlessly at the cottage with the magazine.

"Oh, thank you so much!" gushed the woman. "You see, Jock wants to do a bit of poaching tonight, and he wants to know when the moon is up."

◇ ◇ ◇

The following anecdote is taken from Pilgrim's Way by John Buchan (Hodder and Stoughton):

"At a political meeting in a remote Scotch border town, I was defending Lloyd George's Insurance Act as a practical application of the Sermon on the Mount. A shepherd rose and asked: "Ye consider that this Insurance Act is in keepin' with the Bible, sir?"

"I do."

"Is it true that under the Act there's a maternity benefit and that a woman gets it whether she's married or not?"

"That's right."

"Well, sir, how d'ye explain this? The Bible says the wages of sin is death and the Act says thirty shillings."

Larry Neiman's Chinese Laundry

By J. H. GRAY

Our favorite restaurateur, Maurice of the O'Kum Inn, has acquired ownership of an adjacent barber shop, thereby completely flabbergasting his customers who have taken to giving him queer looks. Even for a man with hair, which Maurice is not, combining a restaurant and a barber shop under one ownership would seem queer. The elder J. P. Morgan, who had such a penchant for throwing all kinds of unrelated enterprises into horizontal trusts, never quite reached such incongruous heights as Maurice with his restaurant-barber shop.

Yet when we come to think of it, there is no reason why Maurice should not make good with his weird combination. It reminds us of an old friend, a horse-trainer of parts, who once went into partnership in a Chinese laundry. This turned out to be one of the most lucrative investments the fellow ever made. Dividends followed him around the country for years and were always acceptable.

The character's name was Larry Neiman, and while our memory is vague as to the place in which the partnership was made — it was either Joplin, Missouri, or Kansas City in the same state—everything else is reasonably clear.

Neiman made the acquaintance of the laundryman when he came out to the county fair grounds to drum up some business. He was a guileless little fellow, so Neiman, who operated on the theory that all Chinese had large sums of cash cached under floors, tried to promote him into making a bet or two. But the Chinese refused, and with great stubborness. He had saved $105. When he got $250 he would be able to make a down payment on a power-driven washing machine.

It so happens that Neiman was a unique horse-trainer on one score. He occasionally read books, and, every now and then even showed an interest in the outside world. Well, one day, when the laundryman showed up, Neiman was reading a book—one of Dr. Will Durant's volumes on philosophy. He started talking Confucianism to the Chinese. But this coolie from Canton had never heard of Confucius, let alone understanding Confucianism. This astounded our friend who immediately took up the white man's burden and began instructing the little laundryman in the basic philosophy of his race.

Instead of spending his afternoons with his horses, Neiman pursued his pupil to the laundry. There, while the Chinese laundered vigorously by hand, Neiman leaned through the window and talked Confucianism. The Chinese was a superb listener, which endeared him to Neiman who was on the talkative side. From what we could gather, his only comments as he sweated and slaved in his one-man hand laundry concerned the down payment on the power-driven washer.

One day he caught Neiman in a moment of weakness and before he knew it he was half-owner of the laundry and entitled to half the net income after expenses, taxes and depreciation. He left Joplin, or was it Kansas City, soon after and wrote the whole thing off as a loss. He had made no progress as a missionary to the Chinese and was out $150 or so to boot. He thought no more of the affair until months later when a bank draft for $50 came through from his partner. Twice a year, thereafter, similar remittances caught up with him and then they stopped without warning or a word of explanation.

Some years later, being in the vicinity, he went back to Joplin, or Kansas City, to see what had become of his partner. On the site of the laundry was a substantial office building. What had become of the laundry no one knew, or cared. From the compatriots of the laundryman he learned that the Chinese had gone to San Francisco, to New York and to St. Louis, and had been unheard from since.

Neiman's irritation at the disappearance of his partner was assuaged by the recollection that he had got all his money back and more, a lot more. But it was such a nice investment, so profitable and dependable, that as long as we knew him he half-expected the dividends to resume. But they never did.

Reporter Killed

A TOWN IN BELGIUM, Dec. 28. —(AP).—Jack Frankish, 30 year old United Press war correspondent, and three Belgian soldiers were killed by enemy air action last Saturday. All were victims of a bomb which fell on a hotel.

LIKE HIGH MOUNTAINS—Rocky Mountain "Bighorn" sheep, shown above in Banff National Park, Alberta, are now found only amidst the high mountains of the Rockies and throughout British Columbia and the Yukon Territory. Their natural range is on or just above the timber line, although they make many excursions high up on the rocks or down into the valleys. The average weight of a six-year-old ram is 300 pounds and it is colored like a deer and has a white nose and rump. The ram has magnificent curving horns.

By The Canadian Press

The thoroughbred racing associations of the United States, comprising 33 members, yesterday pledged complete compliance with the directive by James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director at Washington, for the suspension of all racing on and after Jan. 3. The board of directors emphasized that no support would be given a request for limited competition at any track.

A meeting of the 33 racing associations has been called for Jan. 12 to review the situation with the intention of providing relief for any persons identified with the turf for whom the government might bring hardship.

Because personnel of the U.S. coast guard are prohibited from taking part in any sport over which commanding officers have no jurisdiction and also because no coast guardsman is permitted to compete for money, an eight-round bout at Buffalo, N.Y., was called off last night. Gus Lesnevich, coast-guard champion, was one of the scrappers.

Keep Training.

Horses of the Calumet Farm, Greentree Stable, Woolford Farm and other establishments now at Florida tracks will be kept in training, it was announced at Miami last night, pending the resumption of racing in the United States. Trainer Ben Jones of Calumet Farm, said, "we want to be ready when racing is resumed."

A substitute player rushed into a basketball game at Craftsbury, Vt., yesterday without his pants. Team-mates quickly surrounded him on the floor until a pair was tossed out to him, after which the team lost out to the Barton Academy quintette 21-18. The over-anxious spare had pulled off his trunks while removing his sweat suit.

Tropical Park Track, Miami, yesterday was notified by the Florida State Racing Commission that racing must cease Jan. 2 under the federal order, after the track management had announced the meeting would run through Jan. 3.

Racing secretary and handicapper at Churchill Downs and Lincoln Fields, "Judge" William H. Shelley, 79, died at his home in Louisville, Ky., yesterday after several months' illness.

All Ineligible

President Mervyn Dutton of the National Hockey League declared last night at Edmonton the re-check of pro athletes by the U.S. Government for military purposes probably would not effect his circuit. He said that every N.H.L. player was either unfit for the armed services or had been discharged after war service.

American Leaguers last season tumbled four major league fielding records and tied another, while Manager Lou Boudreau of Cleveland brilliantly added top defensive shortstop honors to his league batting championship, official figures disclosed today. Boudreau's hitting mark of .327 was the league's lowest winning average in 36 years, but his fielding record of .978 broke the league standard at short and paced the Indians to a tie with New York for team fielding laurels at .974. The Tribe pilot shattered the major league record for participating in double plays at short with 134, toppling the mark of 128 set by Horace Ford of Cincinnati in 1928.

After thumbing through the record cards of 4,382 boxers who paraded through the fistic rings of the world in 1944, editor Nat Fleischer of Ring Magazine yesterday pointed a finger at Pte. Sidney Walker of Augusta, Ga., better known as Beau Jack, and declared: "There is the boxer of the year!" Announcement of the top spot award to the former bootblack who rose to dizzy height in fisticuffs before joining the United States Army — and then participated without pay in a $35,864,900 war bond show — was made in a copyrighted article containing the Magazine's 20th annual ranking of all fighters, to be published in Ring's February issue. Two Canadians merited mention in the rankings, Johnny Greco and Danny Webb, both of Montreal.

President George Slater of the Quebec Senior Hockey League said last night that the League deciding at a meeting that it would be unable to send a team to the west coast to participate in any Allan Cup series. If a Q.S.H.L. team were to proceed to the finals, the series would have to be held in the east.

Stuart J. Mason Dies At Goderich

SUDBURY, Dec. 27— (CP). — Word was received here of the death last night at Goderich, Ont., of Stuart James Mason, who suffered a heart attack Christmas night at his home in Goderich.

Aged 54, he was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. David Mason of Galt, and was a brother of W. E. Mason, publisher of the Sudbury Daily Star. Stuart Mason was associated with his brother on the Sudbury Star from 1909 to 1930 after starting his newspaper career on the Walkerton Telescope. He also worked for a time on the North Bay Nugget.

A bachelor, he is survived by two brothers and two sisters, W. E. Mason of Sudbury, George Mason of Galt, Mrs. A. McLellan and Mrs. S. Rutherford of Galt.

Born at Walkerton, Mr. Mason specialized on sports and he was secretary of the Sudbury Hockey Club in its palmy days. That was when the club was sponsoring the famous original Sudbury Wolves of senior hockey fame.

Mr. Mason was also prominently identified with the Northern Ontario Hockey Association and was on its executive for some years.

Leaving here in 1930 he took up residence in Goderich where he had since handled the Huron county assignment for the London Free Press and fyled news for London bureau of the Canadian Press. He also found time for considerable free lance work for metropolitan publications.

Funeral services will be held at Galt on Saturday, Dec. 30, with interment in the family plot at Galt.

To Support Ban

NEW YORK, Dec. 28—(AP).—The board of directors of the Thoroughbred Racing Association Wednesday pledged its support and recommended to its 33 member racing associations complete compliance with War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes' request that all tracks close their gates January 3.

Support of Mr. Byrnes' action was given in a telegram to the war mobilization head. At the same time the board went on record as opposed to any track asking permission to operate two or three days a week.

It looks as if the Hastings-Norwood Combines in the eastern Junior B group will be representative of the entire district. Strangely enough Norwood, the locale of the home ice of the Combines is about the only spot that isn't turning out many candidates for the team. Four or five Peterborough youngsters including Reg Jones, McDougall, Williams and Kennedy have been practicing with the Hastings-Norwood gang and some of them are expected to make the grade. Then there are Henry and Hopkins from Lakefield, young Lonsboro from Warsaw, Hamilton from Havelock and a number of Hastings aspirants including Fife, Pettigrew, Oliver, West and McKenty. The Combines should have quite a team when they get their talent all unscrambled and a lineup selected. The team plays its first game next Wednesday night when they will meet the Stirling-Marmora combines at Norwood. There is a fast sheet of ice available at the Norwood arena and the team is taking advantage of every opportunity to practice. They hope to be in good shape for the opening battle next week.

This column is in receipt of a copy of the second volume of "Quick Reference Hockey Rules" edited by Bill Harding of Calgary, Alta. The Western man published this book for the first time last season and it was hailed as a very useful contribution toward a better understanding of the hockey code. So warm was its reception that the editor has been encouraged to continue publication this year. This rule book is an original presentation of the current official C.A.H.A. rules. It is completely up to date. It is not a book of new rules but rather a new organization for easier reading and quicker understanding of the present rules. "Quick Reference Hockey Rules" has been so named because the design from start to finish is for quick reference. The rules have been placed in eight main divisions which have again been sub-divided as necessary so that all rules are now in logical sequence throughout the book. Further, all particulars about any one situation in hockey have been covered in one place or where this is not practical a cross reference has been used. The repetition and conflict of the official rules book have been eliminated by the new arrangement so that fans, players, executives and referees should all welcome the Harding book as a very useful volume.

The responsibilities of piloting a big league club do not seem to have got Lou Boudreau down. The manager of the Cleveland Indians not only led the American League in hitting during the past season but the official fielding averages released today indicate that the Indian leader was also tops defensively, breaking the American League record for shortstops with a percentage of .978. Playing in 149 games Boudreau handled 874 chances, more than any other shortstop, with but 19 errors for the season. On top of that he broke the major league record for taking part in the most double-plays at short, 134. Last year he had broken the American League mark in the same department. Boudreau's example must have been contagious for the official figures show that the Indians finished up in a tie with the New York Yankees at the top of the American League fielding column with a percentage of .974, two points lower than the mark set by the Boston Red Sox during the previous season. As a club Cleveland accepted 6,351 chances, highest number for any club in the league while the Yanks had the fewest errors, being guilty of 156 misplays in 6,034 chances.

* * * * * *

The American League fielding averages show George McQuinn of the Browns tops among first basemen with a fielding mark of .994. Rookie George Stirnweiss of the Yanks led the second sackers by handling 931 chances, most for any second baseman in the loop, with only 17 errors for a fielding average of .982. Lou Boudreau, as we have already stated was the ace defensive shortstop while Mark Christman of the Browns with a mark of .972 paced the third sackers. The Brownies' third-sacker erred only 14 times during the campaign. The best defensive mark among the American League outfielders was chalked up by Chicago's Thurman Tucker who played 120 games and handled 430 chances during the campaign with only four boots marked against him. Nineteen pitchers who were in 10 or more games had perfect fielding records and Al Lopat of the Chicago White Sox had the most chances among these errorless twirlers. He handled 53 chances without a skip. Dizzy Trout of the Tigers had the most chances among pitchers, 119 and he erred four times. As for catchers two backstops Buddy Rosar of the Indians and Roy Partee of the Red Sox were tied for the honors with a fielding average of .989. Rosar had more chances than his Boston rival on the season's play.

Writes Clayton Browne in the St. Catharines Standard sport column: "For a long time, now, this corner has been pleading with minor coaches to imbue the knack of having their budding comers get the puck away quickly as the popular trend of hockey goes these days. To illustrate the point forcibly, recall the Tuesday senior game here when sundry Saints veterans held that rubber for the extra little tap (or pat) which is part and parcel of their puck education. Only to find that some redjacket had smartly "snuck up" behind them, lifted the stick and whisked the puck away—to leave the robbed player looking very bad indeed. But for that cussed liability senior Saints could have smacked goals. The olden days of fiddling around with the puck before passing or shooting are past now. It's the slam-bang type that prevails, where the shot is at the end of the pass in one sweeping motion that catches the goalie flatfooted as a turkey. Granted that it's not hockey by a long shot, but why do Nero's act all over again and burn up the chances when the enemy is training a machine gun in return? Until hockey returns to sense and stickhandling ability, get all the city minors from bantam up to adopt the bang-bang tactics that produce. It vets persist in playing around and losing goals and games, it's time for a change."

Toronto Leafs picked up two points and regained a bit of prestige last night when they smothered New York Rangers 8 to 2 in New York before a crowd of nearly 15,000 fans. Just what keeps the New Yorkers going to hockey games to see their favorites pushed around is one of the biggest hockey mysteries of the day. Rangers scored the first goal last night but then Otto Heller drew a penalty and the Leafs registered twice while he was off and it was a parade from then in. Young Ted Kennedy constituted himself a one-man task force, firing three goals behind McAuley and drawing assists on three other markers for six scoring points, a nice chore for even the Blakes and Cowleys of the league. Toronto play the Chicago Black Hawks at Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday night and that should be a chance for them to grab off two more welcome points. They are still five points behind the second-place Detroit Red Wings and six in arrears on Canadiens.

Doctors Claim Chaplin Not The Father

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 28 (AP)—A third physician is on call to testify tomorrow that Charlie Chaplin isn't the father of Joan Berry's baby.

Two doctors told a jury yesterday that her contention that the 55-year-old comedian begot her daughter was, on the basis of blood tests they made, "impossible."

Drs. Roy W. Hammack and Newton Evans related that they drew samples of Miss Berry's, Chaplin's and the baby's blood last Feb. 15 and subjected them to microscope and test tube examinations.

The doctors explained there are four blood types or groups.

Chaplin's, they said, is in group "O."

That of his 24-year-old former drama pupil is in group "A."

Her 14-months-old baby Carol Ann's is in group "B."

Only a man having blood in group "B" or "AB," said the doctors, could be the father.

The third physician who participated in the blood tests, Dr. V. L. Andrews, has been ill in hospital, Chaplin's lawyer told the court yesterday, so the trial was postponed until tomorrow, when the attorney said Dr. Andrews is expected to be able to be present.

The three physicians issued a report after making the tests, announcing the conclusion that Chaplin could not be the father.

Attorneys for both sides predicted testimony would end Friday and final arguments to the jury begin next week.

Joseph Scott, representing Joan, asked Dr. Hammack on cross-examination whether in his opinion the tests' results were infallible.

"That's right," said the physician.

"Don't doctors differ?"

"I've never encountered any difference of opinion on blood grouping."

He said that as an additional check the tests were repeated after being once made.

Bookies Will Not Quit Racket

HAMILTON, Dec. 28.—Local "bookies" may turn to the operation of large lotteries, pools on sports or even the old numbers racket now that horse racing has been banned throughout the United States, effective January 3.

Hamilton is known as a good gambling city and as one bookmaker remarked Wednesday, "People will gamble no matter what steps the Government or police take; it simply can't be stopped overnight." A conservative estimate is that as high as $5,000 is bet through the "books" on horse races on an ordinary day in Hamilton.

"A might good thing" was the way Morality Inspector Alex. Roughead described the United States Manpower Commission's edict banning racing across the line. He fully expected the bookies will turn to some other form of public gambling to keep their hand in and the money flowing.

Select Clientele.

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 28—(CP).—London's "bookie" business will continue to operate for a select clientele despite the ban on horse racing which goes into effect next week, closing all United States tracks.

Without choosing to discuss possible arguments in favor of the order or in favor of the race-track moguls, one clerk for a local "bookie" explained Wednesday that "there ar other race tracks."

Bookmaking on horse races, once described as a $200,000-a-year enterprise in London, in recent years has continued on a much smaller scale.

19 Basketball Teams Competing

KITCHENER, Dec. 28.—(CP). — Semi-finals were reached last night in the silver ball basketball tournament here when 19 teams from Western Ontario points opened play.

St. Jerome's College of Kitchener, Dominion junior champions last year, were forced to five minutes' overtime before downing Brantford and joining London Central Golden Ghosts, Sarnia Grace Church and the K-W. "Y" Saturday Night Club in the senior semi-finals. The local "Y" will meet Sarnia, while St. Jerome's will face London in Thursday's matches.

Hamilton Westdale Collegiate trounced Simcoe Collegiate 66-6, then fell before Sarnia 35-25 in the second round. Owen Sound Collegiate seniors lost 59-12 to Sarnia, while the Sounders juniors went down 41-16 before the Saturday Night crew.

To Coach Team

MONTREAL, Dec. 28 (CP)—Jimmy Muir will coach Lachine Rapids of the Inter-Provincial Hockey League, it was announced today.

Muir, former assistant coach, takes over coaching duties after Maurice Gagnon, former manager and coach of the Lachine team, said he wanted to confine his activities to management.

NEW YORK, Dec. 28 — (AP). — The football games this week-end will require something over 7,000 miles of travel by squads of about 35 men each — and that's not counting the mileage for individual players in the east-west and Blue-Gray games. Some 250,000 spectators are expected to turn out for seven games (all figures are rough approximations) . . . and so far we haven't recorded a single serious squawk about playing these games . . . the Rose Bowl, as usual, "figures" to be tops with its 73,000 sellout crowd and the 2,300-mile journey taken by the Tennessee Vols, beating by a few miles the combined distance from Tulsa and Atlanta to Miami's Orange Bowl.

By HERB MARTIN

It is all in the finish, and to support our contention we are going to point to two games that took place on the 9:00 o'clock draw last night.

It was on ice No. 5 and the game was being skipped by C. Giroux and D. Grant. For the greater part of the game Dave Grant held the edge, but on the last two ends, Cyril Giroux scored enough points to tie up the game, coming home. On the last end it was all Giroux and when Grant played his last stone, he played a little heavy and removed the only stone he had in the ring leaving Giroux seven shots.

Now over on Ice No. 7 Ray Best and Howard Clegg were having their annual affair and Clegg was leading all the way; in fact was four up going home and looked as if he had the game tucked away in the well-known bag. Things began to happen and when Best played his last stone he played a little narrow and hit one of his own rocks well out in front and it in turn moved right in on the rings, bumped out Clegg's last stone, to count four and tie up the game. On the extra end it was all Best and he finished up a 3-point winner.

Tonight we have another double-header, Group A at 7 o'clock and Group B at 9 o'clock.

Syndicate Seeks Windsor Racetrack

WINDSOR, Dec. 28 (CP)—It is reported here that a Detroit syndicate is carrying on negotiations with the Meretsky, Burnstine and Meretsky Company of Windsor for the lease of the old Devonshire race track premises here. The Detroit group's interest in the track, closed since 1936, is said to result from the ban on racing in the United States which becomes effective Jan. 3. In addition, racing in Michigan, which began on a commercial scale in 1936, has been declared unconstitutional in that state.

However, it is believed the cost of re-opening the Devonshire track may be prohibitive. The grandstand building was destroyed by fire in 1936 and even if the money is forthcoming, local racing men say it might be difficult to obtain material for construction of a new stand.

Cleveland Team Blanks Hershey Bears

By The Canadian Press

A 5-0 victory over Hershey Bears last night gave Cleveland Barons sole possession of second place in the American Hockey League's western division, six points behind the leading Indianapolis Capitals and two ahead of Pittsburgh Hornets.

The ace line of Lou Trudel, Earl Bartholome and Les Cunningham accounted for three of the Barons' goals, two scored by Trudel within 54 seconds in the second period and one by Bartholome in the final session. First-period tallies were made by Dan Sprout and Roy Kelly.

Minor Hockey Encouraged In The North

TORONTO, Dec. 28—(CP).—The executive of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association meeting last night did not take any definite steps in the dispute with the Northern Ontario Hockey Association regarding operation of minor series in Northern Ontario but anticipates a satisfactory settlement.

Jack Christie, secretary of the O.M.H.A., said today that a letter now is being drafted to the N.O.H.A. setting forth the terms on which the O.M.H.A. would like to see an agreement reached. "We are prepared to meet any conditions," Christie said, "and we are prepared to let the N.O.H.A. operate as they want, providing that they will also operate midget and bantam series."

Up until last season minor hockey in the north was strictly juvenile, but the O.M.H.A. now has entries from midget and bantam teams in the north and is not prepared to see these classes abandoned, Mr. Christie said. The O.M.H.A. feels it has prior rights in the north because it pioneered juvenile hockey there, but it is not going to stand in the way of the N.O.H.A. taking over providing they also organize the bantams and midgets, Christie explained. He added that it was expected that a satisfactory settlement would be reached shortly.

Noel Coward, who expressed a lack of sympathy for wounded American soldiers from Brooklyn in his newest book, has expressed his regrets through Walter Winchell. He has been catching it ever since. It is too bad that his cynicism should have made itself known, for it has done little to help Anglo-USA relations. Coward's most recent production effort, "This Happy Breed," an excellent film, would have had much more influence in the USA had Coward not written what he had . . . # Detroit Wings Out To Tip Canadiens

By The Canadian Press

The onrushing Detroit Red Wings have a chance to knock Montreal Canadiens off the top perch in the National Hockey League tonight—but it's only a chance.

Wings, winners of their last four starts, step into the Montreal Forum just one point behind the leaders. But they haven't had notable success against the Habitants so far. In their three previous games Canadiens won twice, and the other game was a tie.

The only other game tonight sees the tail-end Chicago Blackhawks travelling to Boston, holders of fourth place.

Toronto Maple Leafs strengthened their third place position in last night's only game, crushing the New York Rangers 8-2 before a Madison Square Garden crowd of close to 15,000. The result left the Leafs five points behind the Wings.

Rangers scored the first goal in the first period and after that it was all Leafs. They led 3-1 at the end of the period and 5-2 going into the last frame.

Ted Kennedy fattened his scoring record with three goals and three assists. Nick Metz had a pair of goals, and the other Leaf counters were obtained by Davidson, Bodnar and Hill. Warwick and Thurier did the honors for Rangers.

Rangers' first goal came when Warwick found Hank Goldup had deposited the puck neatly in front of the Leaf goal, 20 feet out, after a dash down the left side. Warwick beat Frank McCool on a high corner shot.

Kennedy and Davidson respectively put Toronto ahead within two minutes while Heller was serving a penalty for interference. Metz made it 3-1 on a ganging attack.

Rangers flashed a few sorties in the second period but were soon back on the defensive, and Bodnar made it 4-1. Thurier got that one back, and then Hill scored on Kennedy's' assist.

Atanas had been jugged for hooking late in the second and was still off when the third period opened, but Rangers were holding the Leafs until Metz got the puck just outside the crease and rammed it in. Another Toronto mass attack saw Kennedy scoring with the aid of Hill and Jackson, and the same players duplicated the feat for the eighth Toronto goal.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By SYD THOMAS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP). — While United States authorities are getting ready to comb the sport ranks for more men for the armed services the Big Four football is getting ready to resume operations and from other parts of Canada comes talk of reviving this league or establishing some new loop.

That's a good sign for the future of sports, but it is bound to raise some adverse criticism in certain quarters. Plenty of people are going to ask why enough athletes can be found—if they are to be found—to form new leagues when the United States is planning a possible cleanout of many players coming under call-up regulations.

Of course, excluding any service teams in football ranks, there won't be too many eligible athletes on the gridiron. In fact, people have been asking for some time just where the sponsors will get enough players to operate two full-fledged leagues right now, without pulling the standard of the game down even lower.

Still, you don't need flypaper to catch the customers at sports events these days.

History notes:

Mike Rodden in the Kingston Whig-Standard recalls some of the innovations introduced to Ontario amateur hockey by Capt. Jim Sutherland, Hall of Fame exponent. The professional right and left defence was adopted in December, 1913, to replace the old point and counter-point positions. At the same time the idea of having each team dressed in different colored sweaters was adopted. The Kitchener Greenshirts in 1919 were so unnerved when Toronto St. Patrick's made them change their seaters at last instant that they flunged the final game, and lost out in the Allan Cup finals of that year.

Guest star:

George (Edmonton Journal) Mackintosh: "If either Art Ross of the Bruins or Bill Tobin of the Black Hawks, who announced.... that shake-ups are imminent in their teams, know where to lay their hands on the kind of players calculated to do them good, it would be a nice gesture to pass the information on to Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers.

Canadians Bag 6 Hun Planes In Night Fight

WITH R.C.A.F. NIGHT FIGHTERS IN FRANCE, Dec. 28 — (CP Cable)—Six enemy planes were added to the bag of Canadian night fighters operating over the Western Front when the R.C.A.F. Cougar Squadron destroyed five and the R.C.A.F. Nighthawk Squadron downed one during last week-end.

These operations raised the Cougar total to 46 enemy aircraft destroyed since the invasion of France, leading all British and Dominion night fighter units. The Nighthawks have destroyed 42.

FO. Don MacKenzie of London, Ont., and his navigator, PO. George Boldard of Edmonton, in a Cougar Squadron Mosquito shot down two JU88s over the western Ruhr Saturday night. They were MacKenzie's third and fourth victories and brought Boldard's total to six assists.

A third victim Saturday was destroyed by the Nighthawks' Flt. Lt. W. H. MacPhail of Cromarty, Ont. and his observer, FO. J. E. Donaghue of St. Vital, Man. — another Junkers. It was MacPhail's first kill and Donaghue's second.

Sunday night the Cougars added two JU87 dive-bombers which the Germans were using against front-line troops. One was shot down by Flt. Lt. C. E. Edinger of Ferndale, Mich., and his navigator, FO. C. Vaessen of Landis, Sask., who now have become the top-scoring R.C.A.F. night-fighter crew as it was their sixth kill.

The other was destroyed by Sqdn. Ldr. E. McTavish of Seaforth, Ont., and his navigator, FO. A. M. Grant of Burnaby, B.C.—their second kill.

The third Cougar Christmas Eve score was a JU88 shot down by FO. J. A. Watt of Vancouver, and his British navigator, Flt. Lt. E. H. Collis.

Beveridge May Become Liberal Speaker

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Sir William Beveridge, author of the famous "cradle-to-the-grave" social security plan, has become the principal speaker for the Liberal Party and there are rumors he will soon succeed Sir Archibald Sinclair as Party Leader.

Elected to Parliament in a by-election only last October, he toured much of England during the parliamentary recess. One of his principal arguments has been that in the rebuilding of a strong Liberal Party—it now holds only 19 of the 615 Commons seats— lies the best safeguard for essential British liberties and British traditions.

The decision of Lord Crewe to retire from leadership of the Liberals in House of Lords will remove one of the few remaining links with the administrations of the late William Ewart Gladstone. In 1892, when Mr. Gladstone began his last term of office, Lord Crewe became Lord-Lieutenant of Ireland

His successor as Liberal Leader in the Lords is expected to be Lord Samuel.

Chit-Chat: Voters in Ross and Cromarty constituency are wondering whether Rt. Hon. Malcolm MacDonald, United Kingdom High Commissioner in Canada, will seek re-election as a candidate of National Labor — the five-member group he now heads—or run as an Indepenoent. There have been predictions National Labor may soon dissolve....

Sir Murdoch Macdonald, member for Inverness, who has been looking after the affairs of the High Commissioner's constituents, at 79 is an M.P. of 22 years' standing. He was in charge of building the great Assouan Dam in Egypt early in the century....

Brig. Jorn Alan Caunter, 55, former Commander of the 7th Armored Division who defeated the Italians in one of Libya's big victories, will be Labor candidate in Salisbury....

Miss Megan Lloyd George, the daughter of David Lloyd George, famous Welsh statesman, will be opposed for re-election in Anglesey by 28-year-old FO. Cledwyn Hughes (Labor). Miss George is a Liberal.

David Owen Evans, 68, member or the Welsh riding o Cardigan, is rated one of the richest men in the Liberal Party. Son of a Welsh farmer, he brought off in 1929 a nickel merger — often termed the "biggest deal in the world"— and now is vice-preisdent of International Nickel Company of Canada.

Bits and Pieces: Vice-Admiral Sir Geoffrey Blake, 62, who retired in 1938 after a long Navy career, is being mentioned as a probability for appointment as Gentleman Usher of the Black Rod, succeeding the late Air Chief Marshal Sir William Mitchell. Sir Geoffrey was once Chief of Staff, Atlantic Fleet.

Forty-two M.P.s, mostly Conservative, have announced they won't seek re-election.

The Communist Party has claimed membership of 45,000 and income in its last financial year of $215,000.

Earl Baldwin, the former Prime Minister, has been dubbed "England's Forgotten Man." He spends his time at home in Worcestershire and has broken nearly all his old links with public life. One of his main interests is the "Pilgrim Trust"—founded in 1930 by the late Edward Harkness, American millionaire, with $9,000,000 to be used for the benefit of Britain. Lord Baldwin is one of five trustees.

Gestapo Methods

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP). — The United Automobile Workers Union (C.I.O.) in a letter yesterday to Mayor Fred Conboy and Police Chief D. C. Draper complained about arrest and detention of 48 workers at Massey-Harris here when a dice game at the plant was raided Dec. 21. The letter demanded action to prevent what it called "Gestapo methods" in other plants.

CANADA'S NEWEST V.C. HOME FOR CHRISTMAS—Marking the first time he'd set foot on Canadian soil in four-and-and-a-half years, Pte. Ernest A. "Smoky" Smith, V.C., of New Westminster, B.C., is shown with his decoration as he stepped off an overseas plane at Dorval Airport, Montreal. First private to gain the highest decoration in the British Empire during the present war, "Smoky" was met by Major Gus Sivertz, public relations officer of the Pacific Command. As the daring young Canadian Army hero stepped off the plane the radio was broadcasting the annual Christmas Day message of King George to the Dominion of Canada. With a one hour stop-over, Pte. Smith ate his Christmas breakfast in Montreal.

Many Hun Spies Behind Lines In U.S. Uniform

By WES GALLAGHER

STAVELOT SECTOR, Belgium, Dec. 28 (AP) — German losses mounted on the Western front today, with partial reports recording destruction of more than 250 tanks by ground forces while Field Marshal von Rundstedt was suffering his first serious setback on one sector of the front since the offensive began.

The air war continued unabated under clear skies. The Luftwaffe came up in strength despite the loss of 615 planes since Dec. 16. These losses do not include today's operations.

It was estimated that the Germans are using more than 2,000 spies in American uniforms in this drive. Some of these have been dropped behind American lines by parachute. Others have been infiltrating in American jeeps and equipment. It is the largest known espionage assault of this type in this war.

Although von Rundstedt has been definitely checked and hurled back in the breakthrough area, other sectors of the front showed potentialities in his favor. North of Linnich the Germans have built two new bridges across the Roer River. At the same time by controlling dams along the river they have dropped the height of the water 2½ feet in 24 hours, which would make crossing easier. There seems to be little doubt that von Rundstedt has new blows up his military sleeve.

War Gratuities To Be Paid During January

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 (CP) — Payment of war service gratuities will begin next week when approximately 35,000 cheques, averaging $100 each, will be mailed to discharged service personnel or to the dependents of men killed on active service, it was learned today.

C. C. Duncan, chief of the Cheque Disbursement Division of Finance Department, said that the cheques —25,000 of them will go to former army personnel and 10,000 to former navy and air force men—represented only a fraction of the number the department was prepared to send out.

Mr. Duncan said his department had expected to distribute about 90,000 cheques, but many ex-servicemen had not applied for the gratuities.

Appeals to ex-servicemen to fill in gratuity application forms, available at all district and subdistrict offices of the Veterans' Affairs Department, had not brought the expected response.

Basis of Scale

Under the gratuity legislation passed at the last session of Parliament the mustering-out pay was based on the following scale:

1. For every 30 days' service in the Western Hemisphere, excluding the Aleutian Islands, $7.50;

2. For every 30 days of service overseas, or in the Aleutians, $15;

3. For each six months of service overseas or in the Aleutians, an additional seven days' pay and allowances.

Under the legislation a re-establishment credit, equal to the total amount of the gratuities payable on the 30 days basis, will be paid, but these payments will not begin until later.

Discharged Some Time Ago

The army is attempting to reach by letter its former members who have not yet applied for their gratuity. Those who have not filed applications were discharged prior to last Oct. 1. On that date service personnel began filling out gratuity application forms before obtaining their discharge.

Dependents of personnel killed on active service are entitled to the gratuities if they were in receipt of a dependent's allowance or assigned pay at the time the fatality occurred.

Keene Church Holds Candle Light Service

KEENE, Dec. 28 — (ENS) — The Christmas services at the United Church were well attended Sunday. The topic of the sermon was "A Saviour Which Is Christ the Lord." The choir sang three numbers, "Bethlehem," "Hushed Lies the Holy City" and "What Is This Lovely Fragrance," under the leadership of Miss M. Bryce with Miss Lois Wright at the organ.

The annual candle light service was carried out with the young people of the congregation in the processional down the aisles singing "O Come All Ye Faithful," led by the minister and Tom Gall, president of Y.P.U. The senior girls gave a dramatic presentation of "Silent Night" and the junior girls "A Star Song." Eight readers told the story of Christ's birth and between each reading a Christmas carol was sung. Jean Murray sang "The Birth Song of Jesus." Mrs. Ross McIntyre gave a reading "The Black Madonna." The colored lights thrown on the platform added much to the presentation. During the evening a "Message For All" was given by the minister. The singing of "As With Gladness Men of Old" was the recessional hymn.

VALUABLE FUR BEARER—The racoon, which is among the most interesting little wild animals found in Canada's National Parks, is a valuable fur bearer, although Canada does not produce any great proportion of the pelts used. It is a member of an American group of animals distantly related to the bears and also to the Chinese giant pandas. The racoon's den is usually in a hollow tree, and it is abroad mostly at night.

Murder Trial At Cairo Excites Interest

By RELMAN MORIN
Associated Press Staff Writer

JERUSALEM, Dec. 28 — (AP). — The impending trial at Cairo of two Jews charged with the terrorist assassination Nov. 6 of Lord Moyne, 64-year-old British resident minister for the Middle East, is regarded in Palestine by responsible Jews and Arabs alike as holding potentialities for the whole Middle East.

Egyptian authorities are expected to begin the trial before the first of the year.

Jews here, especially the ardent Zionists, have expressed a hope that the reason which led two Sternists to trial for killing the British diplomat will be fully brought to light in order that Zionists as a whole will be exonerated of any suspicion of complicity in the eyes of the world.

Nobody has condemned the crime and the general policy of terrorism practised by members of the Stern gang more strongly than the Zionists. Hence, they hope the trial will not be confined to the physical facts of the assassination and the question as to whether the two men are guilty.

What Palestine Jews are hoping for is that the court will give the defendants full opportunity for disclosing reasons for the alleged attack of Lord Moyne. These, they claim, are political.

The question revolves around the formation of a Jewish state in Palestine. Zionists want such a state. So do two terrorist organizations. The difference lies in their methods of achieving it. The vast majority of Jews are prepared for normal negotiations with the British officials. The terrorists apparently believe that only violence will force Britain's co-operation.

Abraham Stern, the man whose name the terrorists organization uses, was captured by the Palestine police and killed while trying to escape following a series of terrorists outrages against police officers.

In Jerusalem, one finds no sympathy expressed for the accused men.

Nonetheless, the Sternists allegedly believe they have the support of the general Jewish populace in Palestine. Some members even have been quoted as expressing the belief that the Arabs are supporting them.

Stuttgart Trips Remembered By RCAF Pilot

F.O. JACK THOMPSON

Blasting German industrial plants in Stuttgart by night is one of the more memorable trips out of a total of 32 operational flights over enemy territory for 22-year-old Flying Officer Jack Thompson, 50 McDonnel street, who is now at home on leave after serving in an R.A.F. bombing group, as pilot of a Lancaster bomber.

During his service overseas, this young officer has flown planes that attacked military objectives in France, Belgium, Germany and Holland, both by day and night. After the invasion of France in June, he did much work bombing troops, destroying communication and supply lines, and in general, completing tactical bombing operations.

The last ten trips he made before leaving Britain, were over the vitally-important Nazi industrial sector in the Ruhr Valley. When the Canadian and British troops were being held up at Caen earlier in the invasion, he took part in bombing attacks that helped disorganize the enemy forces, and aid in their defeat.

Flying Officer Thompson, a former employee of the Roy Studio, went overseas in August, 1943, and has served with the R.A.F. since then. Stationed on the east coast of England, he has never been injured, nor have any of his crew been injured, on attacks over Germany, or German occupied lands. Only once was his plane hit, that being while on a daylight raid over the German Ruhr centre of Gelsenkirchen. It was not seriously damaged in the raid.

Mostly Canadians

A pilot has the responsibility of the welfare of the rest of his crew with him all the time, Flying Officer Thompson said. The crew of his plane was made up of two British members, and five Canadians. A Canadian crew member, a rear gunner, is one of the reasons the Stuttgart raid will be remembered by this flier for a long time. He was Flight Sergeant C. S. Dagg, of Sarnia, who blasted a Nazi Focke-Wulfe out of the sky that night!

Flying bomb sites in occupied France was a target once, although the sites were extremely well camouflaged.

Flying Officer Thompson said that flak is always a feature of bombing raids, but that it can be dodged when a pilot sees it coming up. The first burst of flak is the most dangerous, when one has no idea of where it is.

Although he did much work over enemy-occupied countries, the assistance Allied bombers received from those on the ground was nothing, he said. Except in isolated cases, civilians in occupied countries did not aid fliers to any great extent.

Incidentally, Mrs. Jack Thompson is still in Britain. She is a member of the Women's Division of the RCAF serving overseas, and seems to be enjoying the work, he said Mrs. Thompson hails from Vancouver, and they were married in a quiet little English village. "Not like you see in the movies," he laughed, "with air attacks and flyin- bombs."

Enlisting in May, 1942, Flying Officer Thompson graduated at Moncton, and received his commission overseas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Thompson, 50 McDonnel street.

Residents Busy Clearing Lanes Of Snow

Continuing snowfall has been creating an opportunity for co-operation within the community as the travelled lanes of the streets are being kept clear for traffic.

Graders of the Board of Works push the snow back to the curb lines without regard to approaches to lanes and garages. The quantity of snow this month has deepened these ridges along most of the streets in the city. Operation of the graders prevents any special attention to the entrances to garages. They become part of the street front and are as much a problem for the householder as for the community as a whole to contend with.

The primary municipal problem is to keep the travelled strips of the streets clear for motor traffic. Removal of snow from the lane fronts devolves to the property owners, most of whom have shovelled through to the street for their own convenience in getting in and out with their cars.

The Board of Works and the Council have never assumed responsibility for this shovelling of snow from lane entrances, and the job has become accentuated to many householders this month by the unusually heavy falls of snow. With depleted staff of outdoor workers the Board could not undertake this extra work in otherwise normal conditions, and would be 'starting something' to which every householder would be entitled as a community service. As it is, the majority are clearing out their own lane fronts, and the other citizens who are looking for relief from the city hall are being asked to make this effort unanimous for the simple and sufficient reason that the municipality is unable to do this work for anybody even if the council was agreeable to a change in this branch of Board of Works policy.

The snow problem falls upon all alike, and the only way to get rid of it is with the snow shovel. After all the men at the wheels of those graders have trouble enough with cars parked deep in snow along the curb without having to consider the entrance of the lanes of every man and his brother.

Further Delay Asked In Victory Bond Case

"This charge should never have been laid," declared W. R. Philp in police court this morning in protesting against a further remand in a charge against Frank A. McLean of obtaining $200 in cash and three $50 Victory Bonds from Charles J. Waldon under false pretences.

"The crown has had from December 14 to dig up the information it wants and is no further ahead now near the end of the month than when it started," said defence counsel.

Acting Crown Attorney F. D. Kerr, K.C., said that he was not in shape to proceed this morning and asked for a remand.

Magistrate Langley agreed that the case should be expedited and in remanding McLean until January 3 reduced the bail to $500. This is the second time since the charge was laid that the bail has been reduced.

Doreen Little, 21, who pleaded guilty to having been drunk on charlotte street, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

A charge against J. H. Maloney of theft of the use of an automible was enlarged until next week. Maloney is already serving a jail term on another charge.

LIEUT. D. G. CLARK

Peterborough Man Invalided Home

One of 17 men invalided home, Lieut. David G. Clark, who was a casualty in Holland in October, reached Peterborough in time to spend delayed Christmas festivities with his wife, 454 Wellington street.

Lieut. Clark was one of several Canadian officers loaned to the British Army and prior to enlisting with the Prince of Wales Rangers (CA) he worked at the C.G.E. He went overseas in May and was serving with a unit of the Cameronians S.R.

It was during heavy fighting in the Netherlands that the officer suffered concussion from a shell which was a "near miss." He had landed in France in June and left Holland late in October.

Born in Peterborough, Lieut. Clark is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Clark, Lansdowne street, and his wife, Mrs. Annie Clark, has been working in the Aircraft Department at the C.G.E.

Mercy Trip

BIRMINGHAM, England, Dec. 27.—(CP-Reuters) — Leading Seaman Leonard Williams of Birmingham, flown from the Pacific to England as a result of an admiralty priority signal reporting his family seriously ill, spent nine hours at home with his wife and child before leaving yesterday to report for duty at Plymouth. Williams found his wife suffering from rheumatic fever and his son suffering asthma. Another son died of meningitis before Williams reached here.

Careless Mailers

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 28 — (CP). — After delivering about 225,000 letters and cards and 2,000 parcels over Christmas, post office officials here reported last night they were all caught up — "except for these." They pointed to a pile of 5,000 cards and another pile of 3,000 cards and letters — all incorrectly addressed.

Peterboro Soldiers Have Christmas Tree While Enemy Shells Rain On Positions

In spite of the heavy fighting which prevailed in Italy Christmas Day, most units managed to have a Canadian Christmas, with Canadian ingenuity overcoming all difficulties.

Major Bert Wemp of the Toronto Telegram, tells how an Eastern Ontario Regiment with boys from the Quinte and Peterborough districts, had decorated a German spruce tree which they captured in a Nazi officer's Mess. Small presents were hung from it and boxes from home placed underneath. Santa gave them all out.

"Visiting an Eastern Ontario Regiment, Pte. Bruce C. Castle of Peterborough proudly displayed Christmas trees secured when his Regiment captured a German Headquarters building. Pte. J. Nickols of Bobcaygeon displayed two halves of beef with machine-gun bullets through them but the meat was ready for the oven. Various companies had turkeys, geese, chickens, duck, pork, beef, oranges, nuts and cake for their Yuletide celebration."

Some of those present at the celebration were: Capt. Robert Scott, Marmora; CQMS M. Wright, Madoc; Sgt. Edmond Long, Tweed; Cpl. Tom O'Brien, Bancroft; Cpls. H. A. Castle, Charles Kerr, Peterborough; and Pte. Ramble Nobes, Marmora.

"With this regiment repelling seven of 13 German counter-attacks in nine hours, C Company held out and were victorious. Some of the heroes who withstood the onslaught of hell included: Sgt. Tom Madill, Sgt. J. H. Hall, D.C.M., and Sgt. Mike Gahagan, all of Peterborough; and L-Cpl. P. L. Herr, Peterborough.

A company of a famous Highland regiment, under command of Captain George Fraser, held a strategically important position on the northeast bulge of the German salient with the enemy in front and on the left flank. It was three hundred yards or more to tactical headquarters through rough and muddy fields. Christmas dinner followed six-pounder anti-tank guns along the path to the company. The men ate dinner with tank-busters ready in case the enemy moved.

In shell-wrecked buildings, home-made stoves supplied a little heat and how the cooks turned cement floors into roaring-hot bakeries or cookeries was wonderful.

Three companies of Highlanders were in such a position that they had turkey dinner, mail and Christmas boxes in more or less comfort if you can ball billets in shell-shattered buildings or on ground churned up at most every yard by shells and mortars comfort. One building, few hundred yards behind a school, was used as a banquet hall, but it looked almost like Cassino. We had shelled and bombed it, so had the Germans after the Highlanders had taken it.

C.G.E. Workers Give $1,016 This Christmas

From the important place they hold in the city's industrial life, the workers at the Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd. can by their co-operation with one another also play quite an important part in any movement that has the good of mankind as its objective.

This, of course, has been demonstrated by them in many ways during recent years, the latest experience of which concerns the aid they gave towards raising the special donation for Christmas, sent to Britain a few days ago, by the local and district British War Victims' Fund.

Gaining momentum as the great day itself drew near, it is now possible to say that they topped the initial four figure mark by reaching a total $1,016.59 when the three gifts from different groups in the plant that are recorded today were added to that which had been given previously.

Responding to a call from Bert May, foreman of the maintenance department, early on Saturday morning, the secretary of the fund received the sum of $34 from Jim Hopcroft and Lorne Latchford, who had, in conjunction with Mabel Dulmage and Joe Bullock, conducted a draw for 10 turkeys, which realized a net of $26.52, the balance being made up of a collection taken among the workers of their own group.

It was less than two weeks previous to that that this column had reported a gift of $64.10 from the same group of workers. This addition on their part becomes all the more noteworthy by reason of this fact, and is typical of the help they have given along the line which now totals the splendid sum of $691.59.

Aircraft Gives Twice

On the last business day before Christmas, this column reported a fine gift of $204 from the aircraft department, representing half the proceeds of a draw they conducted to assist the fund, the most outstanding event of its kind, so it came as a real tiger to have Archie Hood walk in with a further $20, which was raised by a raffle held for a Neon sign made by Earle Florence.

In recording this previous event, great credit should have been given to Frances Merrett and Mary Kearney, who had so successfully conducted the business end and sold the most tickets respectively, which reacted to such good credit to them all.

This second gift came as a pleasant surprise to the secretary of the fund, who was least of all expecting it from this one source, although hopeful that when the workers of this one plant were getting so close to the $1,000 mark something would turn up to put them over that figure.

Then to put this hope very soundly into effect, along came Mr. Wardle of the drafting department with another $16, which that group had raised on a raffle for a prize donated by Frank Bowness, the chief draftsman, which entirely cinched it.

One personal gift is listed today which arrived too late to be included in the list on Wednesday, and since the books were closed for this one particular report, others have come in which will be included in a later report.

SGT. FRANK GISHMAN

Sgt. F. Gishman Returns Home

Sgt. Frank P. Gishman who has spent three years and three months overseas with the R.C.A.F., is home on Christmas leave, having arrived Sunday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Gishman, 680 Reid street.

Prior to enlisting four years ago, Sgt. Gishman was employed in the Tool Room of the Western Clock Company and his job in the ground crew is that of instrument man. During his time overseas, he was stationed all over the British Isles.

Sgt. Gishman attended the Prince of Wales school and the Vocational School.

MAJOR FREDERICK LANDER

Stormont Officer Invalided Home

Major Fred Lander of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, a casualty in the bitter battles his unit waged in France, has been invalided home and will spend the Christmas holidays with his wife in Brighton.

Son of Mr. and Mrs. William Lander of Plainville, Major Lander was wounded at Boulogne shortly before the Canadians entered Calais, September 19. He has been mentioned consistently in stories about the advances of his unit. Major Lander enlisted four years ago and has been overseas for three.

One other casualty of interest to Peterborough has also returned to Canada. He is Pte. K. G. Hill of Havelock.

Claim Record

ON THE WESTERN FRONT, Dec. 28 (AP).—Sgt. John H. Harris of Cedartown, Ga., and his helper, Pte. Kelly Jennings of Providence, Ky., don't know what the speed record is for laying telephone wire, but they claim it. Recently in unreeling wire from their truck across a stretch of road under mortar fire they rolled off one mile in one minute.

Italians Resent Military Story

ROME, Dec. 28 (AP)—Gen. Arnaldo Azzi, who wrote a newspaper article calling for reorganization of the Italian army, has been relieved of his command in the Lazio-Umbria-Abruzzi region, the war ministry announced today.

In his article, which appeared Christmas Eve in the Actionist newspaper L'Italia Libera, the general advocated making the army national rather than royal, eliminating the oath to the king, and "democratizing" relations between officers and enlisted men.

The Leftist Italian press promptly assailed the war ministry's action. The Socialist organ Avanti in an editorial titled "The Azzi Scandal," asserted Fascist generals, war criminals and capitulators remained in service.

Azzi, 59, battled the Germans in Albania after the Italian armistice.

Blocked Roads Feared If Snow Blows

"If that wind gets to blowing," said Orme Ball this morning from his point of vantage at Whittington's service station out near Scott's Corners and generally overlooking the farther moors of Monaghan "there's going to be a lot of farmers snowed in.

Six or seven inches of light snow lying on the surface, the kind that's so fluffy you could puff into drifts, and if that starts blowing about it will be tough getting about. Some of the roads that were plowed out after the last storm are so narrow there's no room to pass in lots of places. It wouldn't take long to fill them in again."

Traffic on the Peterborough-Port Hope highway this morning was rolling along on asphalt in many stretches. The big plows had done a thorough job, and in places where the wind had started to blow across the paved surface it was sweeping the snow through to the opposite ditch.

Loading Snow

Meanwhile, in the city the new snow-loading machine paraded George street this morning from Charlotte up to London street, three graders were at work, and City Engineer Parsons had all his equipment in operation against the most "extraordinary snow season I've experienced in Peterborough before the turn of the year."

Curb-side banks of snow throughout the city were growing deeper, and a deep collection of it at the C.G.E. plaza appeared to be deeper than even its veteran workers could remember.

"That loading machine was a timely arrival," Mr. Parsons said. "I don't know what we would have done with such deep snow and few men available for removing it."

O. Smith Heads Underwriters

Oscar Smith of the Canada Life Assurance Company was elected president of the Life Underwriters Association for 1945 at their December meeting.

Other officers for the coming year are: vice-president, F. B. Sargent, Great West Life Assurance Company; secretary, J. Nornabell, Mutual Life; executive, Harry Huff, Excelsior Life; Cliff Nicholson, Prudential Life; Gordon Minty, Sun Life; W. P. Kinlin, Dominion Life; W. C. McCreery, Metropolitan Life; J. Arnott, London Life; D. J. Anderson, Imperial Life; and P. Anglessey, Prudential Life.

E. G. Pridham tendered a vote of thanks to the retiring executive and spoke briefly on the successful year the Association had had.

A toast was proposed to Marvin White by W. P. Kinlin as Mr. White is leaving Peterborough shortly, and the Peterborough Managers presented him with a pen and pencil set. Mr. White has been a member of the executive for the past two years and he is moving now to Halifax.

Hourglass Corsets Offered As A Valentine Novelty

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 —(CP)— A lambrequin for a xylophone may sound like double talk to most people but the directors of the Superfluity Shop know what it is. They had one for sale once—(of course it was snapped up). They also have had on sale 50 hourglass corsets, one "gates-a jar" corset, one bathing suit (man's) circa 1893, and several Gibson Girl hats.

Run as a voluntary effort by about 200 Ottawa women, this secondhand store extraordinary is a clearing centre for donated odds and ends, the sale of which has netted $106,000 since Aril, 1940. Proceeds are given to the Red Cross and can be allocated as the shop directors wish.

Contributions have gone to the Blood Donors Fund, Aid to Russia, Fighting French, Allied merchant seamen and recently the shop fitted the hospital ship Lady Nelson with a loudspeaker system.

Women who have turned hobbies to good purpose have played a big part in the shop's success. For example, one makes tricky earrings out of old hatpins, another makes and donates stuffed dolls and toys. Occasionally a real find makes its way to the shop. A genuine Hogarth print and an original Krieghoff painting turned up in a pile of junk.

So far there has been a customer for everything from old evening gowns and moustache cups to a painting called "Landing of the British Troops, Sevastopol." Ottawa University lads bought the hourglass corsets as Valentines (comic).

All of the above information has been taken from an article in the Ottawa Evening Journal by one who signs himself "I.N.S."

Oh yes—a lambrequin, it says in the dictionary, is "a short piece of drapery over top of door or window, or hung from a mantelpiece." Applied to a xylophone it means the bit of fancy cloth hung in front of the instrument.

Cosmetics Made On Country Farm

LONDON, Dec. 28 (CP) — Lipsticks, tooth paste and talcum powder are being made on a Southern England farm with pigs just the other side of a partition.

It's a sample of what the blitz and the buzz-bomb have done to industry in Britain.

When a London cosmetics firm was bombed three times in 1940 it looked like the end, but a young director wouldn't give in.

"No," he said "if we have to make the stuff in the streets we'll go on making it."

So he went to a little country town and found an old farm with plenty of scattered barns and outbuildings. The farmer wouldn't sell but he would rent, and the cosmetics company moved in.

Now more than 1,000,000 pounds of cosmetics have been made and all the time the farmer and his one helper have kept on their herd of cows and a few pigs.

Now the company has applied to the town council to build a modern factory after the war.

Pretty Nurses Are Recovery Help

LONDON, Dec. 28 (CP) — The male patient with an eye for the pretty nurse is justified at last. The matron of a big London hospital says she's helping his recovery!

She told rows of nurses at a hospital ceremony that:—

"Pretty nurses are a stimulant to the patient;

"Take the time to do your hair and face when you go on night duty; it matters so much more than people think;

"The little bit of time you give your patients from your own leisure is the bit that really counts;

"Don't go round with your skirts on the floor; remember you are women of the world;

"Remember your status and keep your dignity."

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hooper Observe Golden Jubilee

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hooper, 376 Stewart street, quietly celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary recently, a milestone that was also reached by both of their parents. Mr. Hooper's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hooper, of Tyrone, Ontario, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, as did Mr. and Mrs. William McIndoo, of Pontypool, Mrs. Hooper's parents.

Because of Mrs. Hooper's ill health, and poor weather and road conditions, they were unable to go to the home of their only daughter, Mrs. G. Andrews, 20 Watford avenue, Toronto, as they had planned. However, friends and relatives called to congratulate them, and wish them many more happy years. They received a beautiful bouquet of golden 'mums, and a cream and gold floor lamp, and sums of money, from relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Hooper were married at Pontypool, Manvers, by Rev. T. S. McKee, and except for several years in Emily township, had lived there all their married lives until last fall when they moved to Peterborough. The groomsman, J. C. McRoberts, of South Monaghan, and the bridesmaid, Mrs. George Sanderson, are both living, but were unable to be present for the anniversary.

Mr. Hooper was a school teacher, and farmer, and then general merchant and postmaster at Pontypool for 27 years. When they left last fall, their friends presented them with an address and a purse of money. Both have been members, first of the Methodist Church and then the United Church, all their lives. Mrs. Hooper is a pioneer member of the Women's Association, having joined over 40 years ago. Mr. Hooper was recording steward for many years, and an elder of the Pontypool church, and has taught in Sunday Schools where he lived for over fifty years.

They have one daughter, Mrs. G. Andrews of Toronto, and three grandchildren, Mrs. MacCormack (Patricia), and Joyce and Tedford, all of Toronto.

L-Cpl. W. Ellis, of Barriefield, is spending his Christmas leave with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Ellis, 104 Gladstone avenue.

Separate School Holds Concert

HASTINGS, Dec. 28.— (ENS).— Pupils of Hastings Separate school entertained their parents and friends recently with a delightful Christmas concert, under the direction of their teacher, Miss Patricia Twomey.

The concert opened with the singing of 'Silent Night," and several groups of unaccompanied Christmas carols and songs provided part of the evening's entertainment. Recitations were given by the following pupils: Patricia Penny, Marie English, Frankie Herrington, Barbara O'Shea, Frances Barry, John Lunitz, Kerry English, Jackie Herrington, Emmett Coughlan, Joan Walsh, Patricia Quinlivan, Peter Kumph, Kerry Kumph, Dick Condon, Jimmy Minns, Audrey O'Shea, and Jean Lemoire.

The following dialogues added greatly to the enjoyment of the program: 'Foolish Advice,' 'Too Much Candy,' 'Mother's Christmas Gift,' 'Grandpa's Christmas Surprise,' 'A Christmas Cake,' 'Kind Christmas Friends,' and 'An Afternoon Call.' Variety was given to the entertainment by three colorful drills, 'The Handkerchief Brigade,' 'The Parade of the Stockings,' and 'The March of the Candy Sacks.'

At the close of the program, Santa Claus paid a surprise visit, and distributed presents from the Christmas tree. Rev. Fr. Garvey was chairman for the evening, and Mrs. Petticrew provided the violin music for the drills.

Fraserville

Cairo school is closed for this week for the Christmas holidays. the teacher Mrs. Wilda Harker spending the vacation at her home near Millbrook.

Mr. Clifton Carl of Fraserville motored to Coboconk and his mother Mrs. J. A. Carl returned with him for Christmas.

Miss Given Coombes of Peterborough is home for awhile with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Coombes of Fraserville.

Word has been received by Mr. Ray Findlay, superintendent of Fraserville Sunday School that boxes sent overseas to the boys at Christmas have been received by Pte. Gordon Henry, Pte. Richard Humes, and Pte. Jack Darling. This makes five already heard from.

There will be some changes in the Fraserville village in the new year. The general store and house owned by Mr. J. O. Pue has been purchased by Mr. R. Lobb of Westwood and will start business in the new year. He also has purchased the Fraserville parsonage across the road. Mr. J. O. Pue will be moving up to the home formerly owned by Mr. Thomas Lang.

Sgt. Haig Bothwell who has been stationed in Western Canada is home for Christmas and New Year's with his mother, Mrs. John Bothwell and his brothers at Fraserville.

Mr. C. Hall of Northern Ontario is visiting his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Hall of Fraserville.

Christmas guests in the community included, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Stewart and children of Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Dentzil Moffat of Fraserville, Mr. and Mrs. W. Porter and son Fred of Belleville with Mr. and Mrs. W. Kellar.

Mrs. R. Waterman and Katheleen of Peterborough and Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Waterman with Mr. and Mrs. Röy Findlay.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hewitt and Mr. and Mrs. L. Hewitt and Herbie with Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hewitt and Mr. and Mrs. B. Cunningham of Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Moncrief, Miss Verta Ward of Peterborough.

Rev. H. Mahoney gave an interesting sermon at the church service Sunday afternoon. His sermon was in the form of a Christmas story taken from a play "The Love Gift", and told "Why the Chimes Rang".

Mr. George Wyatt is back from the West renewing old acquaintances in the vicinity. He attended Fraserville church on Sunday not having been there since leaving the community some 20 years ago.

Lindsay Couple Wed 60 Years

A popular Lindsay couple, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Parker, 129 William street, have celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary, with "open house," for friends and relatives.

They received numerous telegrams, cards of congratulations and flowers, and a number of their family were present, to help them mark the happy occasion. Guests were served from a tea table covered with a hand-crocheted cloth, centred with a three-tier wedding cake, flanked by pink candles, and carnations. Among those present, was the bridesmaid at the wedding sixty years ago, Mrs. Clayton Shaver, of Portland, Oregon.

Birthdrop Blamed On Public Opinion

LONDON, Dec. 28—(CP)— Public opinion is at least partly to blame for Britain's declining birthrate, says the National Council of Women in a submission to the government's Royal Commission investigating the problem.

"The status of motherhood must be raised and there must be improved nursing services and priority for them for domestic help." the Council submits.

"Women with large families of small children have little leisure and become less of a companion to their husbands.

"Public opinion tends to pity and even jeer at the mother of a large family."

Trent River News

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Beldock, of Oshawa, and Miss Violet Chaplin, Toronto, were Christmas guests with Mr. and Mrs. V. J. Chaplin.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Inkster, Essex, are spending the holiday week with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Inkster, and Mr. and Mrs. T. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ellis spent Christmas with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Fisher, Norwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Gardiner, Ruth and Glenn, and Miss Peggy Longmuir of Peterborough spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. James Longmuir.

The many friends of Mr. W. C. Inkster will be sorry to learn that he is confined to Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, undergoing medical treatment.

The annual meeting of the Trent River Cheese Factory was held at the factory. Owing to road conditions, only a fair number of patrons were present. All reports and financial statements for the year were given by the secretary, Charles Jones showing that activities were satisfactory.

Yuletide Parties Given Soldiers At Camp

Men and women in the uniform of the three services were royally entertained during the Christmas season at the Uptown Recreation Centre.

Santa Claus, in the person of H. Dodds left the Uptown Centre and paid a surprise visit to the Local Training Camp, presenting a Christmas treat to the boys in the hospital, Detention Barracks and all men on duty at the Camp.

Excitement was high as Santa Claus returned to the Recreation Centre for the entertainment there. Saint Nicholas' first act was to present to Adjt. Velma Graham, senior supervisor of the Uptown Centre, with a monster Christmas card signed by the entire military pérsonnel at the local Training Centre.

The program with Ches. Mowry as master of ceremonies, consisted of a singsong with Jack Marshall at the piano, a quiz by C. L. Jones, piano accordion numbers by Private George Martin, vocal solos by Bob Hendry, dance numbers by Miss Lenore Gordon, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. E. Foster, and magician acts by Sam McKinley.

Gifts were presented to every servicemen and woman present by Santa Claus and the evening was brought to a happy conclusion with "Scrooge's Christmas." In between items "Skipper" Groombridge led in novelty contests which were enjoyed by all.

Christmas greetings were brought to the Uptown Centre staff, troops and the hostesses present by Col. J. Turnbull, officer commanding the local Training Centre and by Supervisors, Adj. V. Graham, E. Irwin and G. Kennedy, and Gordon Miller representing Citizens Co-Ordinating Committee. Other interested participants of the evenings entertainment were Mrs. J. Turnbull, I. F. McRae and Alderman Robt. Cotton.

The junior hostesses under the supervision of their senior hostesses, Miss Helen Lytle, entertained the troops with games, Christmas carol singsong and Yuletide refreshments on Sunday.

This was followed in the evening by a visit from the Salvation Army Young People's band, accompanied on this visit by a girl's quartette made up of Misses Peggy Parnell, Nancy Shadgett, Nola Smith and Miriam Butcher. The band presented several numbers led by Y. P. Bandmaster Frank Robinson, interspersed by carols sung by the troops and a boy's quartette, Sterling Lindores, Murray Lindores, Wilfred Jones and David Wood singing "Silent Night". Master of ceremonies for this evening singsong was Supervisor Gordon Kennedy. Miss Mary Stevenson presented Adj. V. Graham with a gift from the Sunday hostesses.

The French boys stationed at the local Training Centre gathered outside the Uptown Centre after activities had ceased inside on Sunday evening and sang carols in their own language for the Uptown Centre staff.

Christmas dinner was served at the Centre on Christmas Day. Much of the credit for the success of this affair was due to Mrs. E. E. Young, who supervised the arrangements. Those assisting were Mesdames A. Mason and G. Todd and Miss Mary Stevenson and Miss Helen Lytle. A number of local boys and girls who are in the three services on Christmas leave visited the Uptown Centre during the week-end.

During the various activities Adjt. Velma Graham expressed her thanks to all who cooperated in all affairs pertaining to the Uptown Centre during the year, which included, the manufacturers who financed the Christmas party, the Citizens Co-ordinating Committee, the Merchants, the Church Organizations, Societies, I.O.D.E. Chapters, hostesses and the Salvation Army groups, also Capt. C. Prout and Capt. D. French. In conclusion the Adjt. wished one and all a Merry Christmas and a happy New Year.

NEW YEAR CELEBRATION?—It is difficult to tell whether Makoko is enjoying or protesting this hug bestowed on him by Oka in a lighter moment in their life at the Bronx Zoo, New York. The Simians are gorilla babies who arrived in America from Central Africa in 1941. Makoko is about six years old now and Oka is five. Cute now, when full grown to about 600 pounds, these babies could break a man's spine with a gentle hug.

JANUARY ROSES BLOOM—The most diverting millinery spectacle this season is the flowered hats which bloom relentlessly through snow and ice, no matter how odd they look. At that, it is a pleasant sight when one becomes used to it, and very helpful to winter-worn nerves. Best bet, however, is to save them for sunny days.—By Prunella Wood.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, December 29

WHILE there will be much excitement and stirring of energies and faculties, with agitation and commotion, yet there is little prospect of anything of constructive and practical accomplishment. With impulses, emotions, inner unrest and other tensions and stresses, there may be conflict, strife or angry encounters, really having an unhealthy and depressing reaction on the general state of the health and other material conditions. There may be a persistent effort to overcome obstacles and to defeat schemes, snares and other illicit entanglements, inspiring a wish to expose such irregularities, yet little progress is in sight.

The Birthday Forecast

Those whose birthday it is may look for a year of much activity, with stress, tension and agitation, although not of any practical or constructive achievement. Under the impetus of subtle, strange and emotional incitements there may be a tendency to overdo in the way of vanquishing obstacles, combating strife, and putting over ambitious projects by industry, application and determination. This may induce happy reaction on the health as well as on clear vision to plan and elaborate proper ways and means for progress and success. Also, there might be other anxieties connected with family, friends or co-workers. Be alert to all sorts of schemes, snares and complications of an irregular character. And be not carried away by excited emotions or impulses.

A child born on this day will have much energy and ambition, with determination and integrity, but may have much to regulate, compose and turn into productive channels against tenacious obstacles.

DOROTHY DIX

SHARING MARRIED MEN

Teen-agers Playing New Role In Home-wrecking Dramas

PERHAPS it is because practically all of the boys of their own age are off fighting in the far corners of the earth, or maybe it is just the copycat complex in girls that makes them think they must do what all the other girls are doing, but, for whatever reason, the whole bobby sox brigade appears suddenly to have lost its head and its heart over married men, which is a sentimental phenomenon that is brand new in the annals of romance.

Heretofore, the teen-agers have turned a scornful, instead of an amorous eye, upon husbands and papas and regarded the heads of families as not only the legitimate property of their owners, but also as second-hand goods that they did not want themselves at any price. What they craved were dates with lads as young and nimble and jittery as they were themselves. They lumped all men with domestic ties in the has-been class and never, even in their wildest imaginings, made them the heroes of their girlish dreams.

But the war or the men shortage or something has changed all that. Anyway, the sub-debs suddenly have fallen hard for married men and their favorite in-door sport seems to be husband snatching. There isn't a day that my mail isn't weighted down with letters from girls who say they are 16 or 17 or 18 years old and that they are madly in love with middle-aged married men with three or four children, and asking how they can separate the objects of their affections from their wives and youngsters.

Scarcity of Men

Just what has inspired this sudden passion in young girls for men who belong in their father's class instead of their own, it is hard to say. Perhaps it is the scarcity of men and any date is better than none at all. Perhaps it is because married men have more money to spend on gold-diggers than boys have. Perhaps they think that it proves that they are irresistibly fascinating if they can make a married man fall in love with them. Perhaps they have a cruel streak in them that makes them enjoy seeing a wife writhe with jealousy as she sees her husband making a fool of himself over a chit of a girl young enough to be his daughter.

Anyway, you could laugh, if you did not feel more like crying, over this new twist to the love problem. For while it is true that these girl children do not know what they are doing in their flirtations with married men, they cannot escape the consequences of their folly. For the married lover never bodes the unsophisticated maiden any good, as the old melodramas used to say. At the best he wins her heart, plays with it until he is tired of it, and throws it away. At the worst he ruthlessly sacrifices her to his vanity, to his passions, and leaves her a disillusioned, embittered woman with a smirched reputation.

And a punishment to fit the crime almost invariably befalls these little home-wreckers when they do succeed in robbing a wife of her husband and children of their father. For they discover that they have outgrown their adolescent crush on their boss or the married philanderer, and there is nothing that they wish so ardently as that they could return the husbands they stole to their rightful possessors.

The girls who are indulging in the current fad of thinking themselves in love with married men are courting danger. Playing with TNT is safer.

THE TEA HOUR GOSSIP . . . .

The following recipe is a nice change after the deep pies and double crusted pies we all make so often. After the Christmas season, we are all looking for something different to serve and I am sure you will like this recipe.

Open-face Apple Pie

For the Paste: 1¼ cups once-sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon fine granulated sugar, 6 tablespoons shortening, 1 egg yolk, 4 teaspoons lemon juice, cold water. Measure and sift together the flour, salt and sugar. Cut in the shortening finely. Beat the egg yolk slightly and stir in the lemon juice and 2 teaspoons cold water. Cut this liquid mixture into the flour shortening mixture, adding additional water if necessary to make a paste which, while not sticky, will clean easily from the sides of the bowl. Roll out to quarter inch thickness and use to line in eight-inch pie pan. Flute edge. Make apple-shaped cut-outs with remaining paste and chill thoroughly.

For the Filling: 3 cups thick sweetened applesauce, 1 teaspoon finely grated lemon rind, 1 tablespoon butter, maraschino cherries.

Combine the well-sweetened applesauce and lemon rind, turn into chilled raw pie shell, dot with butter, arrange apple cut-outs over filling and decorate with maraschino cherries, whole or halved. Bake in a hot oven 450 degrees for 10 minutes, reduce heat sharply to a moderate oven 350 degrees and continue to bake pie until crust is cooked and nicely browned.

Cranberry and Applesauce

Our cooking apples team up very happily with cranberries either Canadian or Cape Cod berries.

2½ cups raw cranberries, 4 cups prepared apples, 1-3 cup water, 1-3 cup granulated sugar, ½ cup corn syrup, ½ teaspoon salt. Wash and pick over the cranberries. Wash, quarter, core and chop the apples. Mix the cranberries, apples and water and cook, covered, with frequent stirring until the apples are very tender and the cranberries have burst their skins. Press through a course sieve. Add the sugar, corn syrup and salt and stir until the sugar is dissolved. Chill for serving.

ISLE OF WIGHT RAIDS

COWES, Isle of Wight — (CP). — The Isle of Wight had 115 air raids between June 1940, and February this year and casualties included 199 killed and 249 treated in hospital.

FEATHERED FANCY—Ostrich is used with big success on small hats that wish to subscribe to the "more hat" theory. But feathers must be applied with consummate art if they are to look elegant and not dowdy. Madame Reine selects turquoise blue ostrich tips to add graceful charm to a tiny black felt hat, and finishes off the picture with cyclamen satin and velvet ribbon.—By Alice Alden.

Lt.-Col. L. G. Clarke Named Brigadier

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 (CP)—Defence headquarters announced today the promotion of Lt.-Col. L. G. Clarke, 38, of Ottawa, to acting rank of brigadier.

Brig. Clarke, born in Ottawa, received his early education at Ashbury College, and has been a permanent force soldier since his graduation from Royal Military College, Kingston, Ont., in 1928.

Brig. Clarke graduated from the staff college course at Camberley, Eng., in 1942, and was subsequently promoted lieutenant-colonel and given command of a field regiment of artillery. He relinquished this command in August and was appointed general staff officer (1st grade) at defence headquarters in Ottawa.

In January, 1943, he returned overseas to assume command of a field regiment which he held until his latest promotion.

OBITUARIES

MRS. M. DE CARLO

The funeral service was held Tuesday morning for Mrs. Maria Aimola De Carlo, who passed away Friday at the family residence, 543 Parnell street. The funeral was held from the residence to the Church of the Sacred Heart.

Right Rev. Monsignor J. J. O'-Brien celebrated Requiem Mass, and Rev. John Coughlin conducted the services at the graveside, in St. Peter's cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended by a host of relatives, friends and citizens of Peterborough. The exceptionally large number of floral and spiritual tokens testified to the high esteem Mrs. De Carlo enjoyed during her lifetime.

The pall-bearers were Nicholas De Carlo, of Hamilton, Robert De Carlo, also of Hamilton, Eusebo Basciano, Carman Giardino, Nicholas Giardino and Michael Caccavella, all of Peterborough.

Among the relatives and friends from out-of-town points that visited the residence were Floyd Cooke, Toronto, Rev. James Houlihan, of Hamilton, Maurice Giardino, Kingston, Vincent Strano, Lachine, Que., Joseph Rochetta, Halifax, Oswald Clarke, Camp Borden, Bruce McNaughton, of London, Harry Cooke, Camp Borden, and Joseph Berardi, of Halifax.

CHARLES LASHBROOK

A former resident of Peterborough, Charles Lashbrook, who went overseas with the 59th Battalion in the last war, died recently in England, according to word received today by his brother, Albert J. Lashbrook, 179 Rubidge street.

While in Peterborough, the late Mr. Lashbrook lived on Stewart st. and was a bricklayer. He was injured in the last war and after the Armistice returned to Canada and spent 2½ years in Christie Street Hospital. Then he returned to England. His death was the result of the injuries he received in the last war.

He is survived by his wife and father in England, a son serving in the forces in West Africa; two brothers, William and Christopher and two sisters, all of England.

FRANCIS HECTOR STENTON

Hector Stenton, a native of Peterborough and employee of the C.P.R. for 48 years before retiring two years ago, died in the hospital in London, Wednesday. He was a train despatcher there for 30 years.

Born in Peterborough, Mr. Stenton was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stenton, and he is a brother of the late Mrs. Alex Long of Peterborough. In London, he was a member of Temple Lodge A. F. and A. M. and of the I.O.O.F. of Peterborough.

He leaves to mourn his loss, one daughter, Mrs. D. S. McPherson (Maureen) of London.

The remains will arrive on the 11:40 C.P.R. train on Friday and the funeral will be held at 3:30 Friday afternoon from the A. Comstock & Son Funeral Home, 305 Water street, Rev. William MacDonald officiating. Interment will be in Little Lake Cemetery.

Christmas Program Given By Pupils

HASTINGS, Dec. 28—(ENS)—The school children from the Dutch Line school presented their annual Christmas concert under the direction of their teacher, Miss E. Dafoe of Havelock. Arthur Lamey acted as pianist for the evening.

The program was as follows: Welcome song, by the school; welcome address given by Donald Johnston; recitations by Bernard Dunlay, Jean Smith, Goldie Little, Paul Sullivan, Arden McGee, Doreen Smith, Cecil Bolton, John Cox, Gerald McGee; monologue, Doris Thompson; clog dance by Charlie Deemey. A play entitled "Fun In a Country Store" was given by the young people of the school section; Bernard Sullivan gave "Sad News."

Playlets Feature Of Christmas Program

FAIRMOUNT, Dec. 28—(ENS).—The annual Sunday School Christmas concert was held in the Howden Memorial Hall and the program was put on by the pupils of the day school under the leadership of their teacher, Miss Dorothy Harker.

All the pupils took part in the following program: "The Holly and the Ivy," "A Welcome Recitation," by Marguerite Dunlop; "Mary and Joseph," "While Shepherds Watched," "Away in a Manger," "We Three Kings," "Joy to the World."

"The Chimes of Dunkirk," a rhythmic exercise by the junior pupils; a recitation by Margaret Earle; a choral reading selection, "Living Greeting Cards," by pupils from all the gardes; a recitation by Doreen McArthur; a guitar solo by Douglas Ball; Mr. Everson gave a short address; "The Star Drill," sung unaccompanied by the older girls of the school; a play, "Christmas Grouch," by Margaret Earle, Catherine Earle, Doreen McGee, Myrtle Seymour and Wilma Seymour; a son, "I Saw Three Ships, sung by Marie, Margaret and Dorothy Hooton; a recitation by Catherine Earle; a duet, "The Blue Velvet Band," by Jean and Marguerite Dunlop; a play, "The Vicious Circle," was presented by the older pupils; a story, "Why the Chimes Rang," read by Audry Fair and Marie Ballantyne; recitation, Margaret Earle; a piano duet by Margaret and Catherine Earle; recitation, Shirley McGee. The children sang "My Letter to Santa Claus," the solo part taken by Shirley McArthur. In conclusion the school children presented a pantomime entitled "Thorn Rosa." This is based on the story of the Sleeping Beauty.

Intruders Take Food From Pastor's Home

SPRINGVILLE, Dec. 28.—When Rev. J. F. Everson and Mrs. Everson returned on Tuesday from Belleville where they had spent Christmas with their children, they discovered that during their absence someone had broken into the parsonage. Entrance was obtained through the south kitchen window, which was still raised to the middle sash. The axe from the church woodshed was standing near and a long stick about 6 feet in length which apparently had been used in making the entrance.

The only things taken were a loaf and a half of bread, a box of soda crackers, a half-pound of tea, some candies from a jar, and some oranges. Some butter also disappeared.

France Unites Resistance Groups Sets Example To Other Nations

By CHARLES BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 28.—(CP Cable.)—France is taking her place again as a world power. This fact is recognized in her pact with Russia and in her reception as a full member of the European Advisory Commission, set up at the Moscow conference of 1943 to handle European questions as they arise.

In France's emergence from four years of German occupation — weakened, drained of resources and manpower but following a concerted program toward re-establishment—there is a lesson for other countries freed or partly freed of German overlords.

France is one nation that has been able to steer her resistance groups to pursuit of a common purpose in the difficult time between liberation of her soil from the common enemy and the enemy's final defeat.

Yet it was no armchair-and-cocktail matter. The forces of resistance inside and outside France never had to face the bitterness of civil war; but the road they travelled to comparative agreement has been longer than any, and, in the North African phase, perhaps rougher than any except that of Greece.

Clashes between Leftist groups and Belgium's provisional government, for instance, admittedly a headache to British forces, cannot be compared in explosive potentialities with the situation in North Africa two years ago. That was when Gen. Eisenhower dealt with Admiral Darlan, a man of Vichy; when Darlan set up a "French Imperial Council" with himself at his head; when, even under his successor, Gen. Giraud, Vichy officials remained for a time in administrative offices in Africa.

There was a feeling then in some quarters that Charles de Gaulle was being sacrificed; that Britain favored him, with the United States leaning to former Vichy elements.

Later after the Admiral had been assassinated and Gen. Giraud was in the saddle, Brendan Bracken, British Information Minister, said the British Government had the "utmost possible confidence in Gen. Eisenhower; to whom it had given "power of attorney" and denied that Britain and the United States were putting forward rival candidates for the French leadership.

Used Diplomacy

In any event, Gen. de Gaulle came out of eclipse, first to share authority with Gen. Giraud, finally to emerge on his record and personality as the dominant figure. When the government moved from Algiers to Paris last September he lost no time in including a number of prominent resistance figures. And before the liberation he made it perfectly clear that the provisional government was just that, nothing more.

It is impossible to say when general elections can be held in France but a start has been made with fixing Feb. 1, 1945, for municipal elections.

In the meantime the provisional government's establishment of regional commissariats with commissioners to handle international administration seems to be satisfying the French people until a return to practical Democracy.

Gen. de Gaulle's dominance and leadership were unquestionably a blessing to Allied military forces. Multiplication on a large scale of incidents such as the Brussels demonstrations against the Pierlot government would seem not only a difficulty but a positive danger.

When Premier Pierlot reformed his government in Brussels he had no such tradition of leadership as Gen. de Gaulle. In a speech Oct. 4, Premier Pierlot said his government would resign as soon as the king returned but it did not intend to regard itself as a transition administration. Since King Leopold is a prisoner of the Germans, this would indicate no particularly early election.

Needs Protection

Nevertheless the Pierlot Government is the only body constituted to administer the country; as such it merits Allied protection while the war is being fought.

Belgium's situation is complicated by food shortages and industrial difficulties. It was necessary to requisition dairies, control slaughtering of livestock and suppress the black market.

Early in the new year, industrial life will pick up as Belgium begins to manufacture such supplies as uniforms for the Allied troops.

Holland is still a major theatre of war but the Netherlands premier, Dr. P. S. Gerbrandy, has said that the people who experienced the occupation have a right to expect that one of their number shall be prime minister. The question of the new government is already being discussed with underground leaders. Premier Gerbrandy's government will resign the minute Holland is free of invaders and Queen Wilhelmina will appoint an interim prime minister to hold office until a parliament can be elected.

Czechoslovakia, too, is still mainly an operational area. But plans are complete for the transition to peacetime parliamentary procedure.

Yearly Concert Given At Fleming's School

HASTINGS, Dec. 28.— (ENS).—The pupils of the Fleming's school held their annual Christmas concert under the direction of their teacher, Miss Greta McNaughton, of Dartford. Ernest Stevenson acted as chairman for the evening and Mrs. Basil Johnston as pianist.

The program opened with a chorus by the school, 'Good Evening, Everybody,' 'Welcome' by Phyllis Fisher, and a chorus, 'Christmas Joy'; recitations by Marjorie Fleming, Darlene Johnston, Roy Lewis, Shirley Forde, Lloyd Fisher, Jimmie Fisher and Freddie Fisher; dialogues, 'Yassah Boss,' 'Bringing Up Junior,' 'Changing the Subject'; solo by Isabelle Lewis; song, 'While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks' by Douglas Forde, Walter Fleming and Kenneth Forde; square dance by the children, with Kenneth Forde calling off, and Herman Johnston supplying the music.

Tableau, 'Babe in the Manger.' Songs included were 'Away in a Manger,' 'We Three Kings,' 'Sleep My Babe' and 'Silent Night, Holy Night.' Choruses were, 'O Come All Ye Faithful' and 'O Little Town of Bethlehem.'

A play, entitled 'In Doubt About Daisy,' was given by the young people of the community. The collection totalled $10.50.

Veteran Secretary Passes At Age 79

LOUISVILLE, Ky. Dec. 28 — (AP)— William H. Shelley, 79, dean of American racing secretaries, died at his home here today after several months' illness.

"Judge Shelley was racing secretary and handicapper at Lincoln Fields, Chicago, and at Churchill Downs here. He became ill during the spring meeting at Lincoln Fields, and was unable to finish the season or to discharge his duties at Churchill Downs this fall.

He has served as secretary and in other positions at Latonia, Ky.; the old Lexington Association track, Empire City, Agua Caliente, Cuba, Juarez, Winnipeg, Mexico City, Raceland Hawthorne, Arlington Park and Arlington Downs, Washington Park, Alamo Downs, Fair Grounds, City Park, Tropical Park, and Narragansett.

Deplores Action

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Norman McLeod, retiring president of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation, at the Association Convention yesterday deplored encouraging employment for school youth and cited conditions which encourage boys and girls "to go on a midnight shift just to assure delivery of Christmas cards."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

SUREST THINGS MISS

YOU NEVER know exactly what is going to happen in bridge when the cards get notions in their pretty heads. That is no reason for not trying to forecast what will occur, because your only chance to win is to be a sound and thorough estimator and deducer. But you must be prepared to take your bumps on occasion, and keep on trying. Remember, one reason your opponents enjoy the game is that such things happen to you, even the collapse of what you consider sure things.

South, after hearing North's 4-Hearts, couldn't tell whether that indicated any cards of use to him or not. But then he realized there was no way to find out about the red queens which interested him. So he bid the 6-Hearts on straight probabilities. He was glad of it when West led the club 4 and he saw the dummy for the first time. There, as big as life, were the two cards which interested him most—the red queens, both of them. He was happy, and was already footing up the nice slam score in his mind.

He was silently singing to himself as East used the club K on that first trick, and still was humming when the spade 6 was returned, for he had all three of the top honors in the suit and played the A with cheerful abandon.

And then the sun stopped shining. West ruffed the trick with the insignificant, nasty, mean little heart 2. Down he was, without being able to do anything about it. His skill was of no avail to him when the cards decided to do him wrong.

What is the thing to do at a time like that? Say "Tut, tut," as Woodrow Wilson used to, or else translate the expression into your own language. Then put the whole incident as far out of your mind as you can, and go to work on the next deal.

Belief Exists Racing Not Hindering War

WINNIPEG, Dec. 28—(CP)—R. James Speers of Winnipeg, honorary secretary of the Prairie Thoroughbred Breeders' and Racing Association, said in a statement today racing has been carried on in Canada "with the apparent opinion of Federal authorities" that it has not been a detriment to the war effort.

Commenting on the United States order directing race tracks to close down by January 3, Speers said that in Canada "the situation is entirely different."

The United States order was passed to "prevent the use of critical materials, services and transportation...until war conditions permit."

"...The control over Canadian tracks which at times has appeared to be exceptionally rigid, has proven over a long period of time to be sound and sufficiently adequate to prevent any long period of racing in any community," said Speers.

The maximum is 14 days of racing throughout the calendar year by any one racing association. Some tracks in the United States had more than 100 days of racing each year.

Speers said most of the Canadian racing associations adopted twilight racing so that the tracks could be manned by employed persons in their spare time. At Winnipeg, 95 per cent. of the employees are steadily engaged in other business. Race meeting have been held at tracks close to transportation facilities, allowing conservation of both gasoline and tires.

The United States order is under study by Federal authorities in Ottawa.

Claims Increase Exceeds Trend

OTTAWA, Dec. 28—(CP)—Continued increase in the claims for unemployment insurance was reported to-day by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. While increases at this time of year are anticipated, those recorded in recent months exceed the seasonal trend, the Bureau said.

In November, 11,798 claims were filed, compared with 6,222 in October and 2,986 in November, 1943. In the last six working days of November 13,431 persons—9,344 men and 4,107 women—signed the unemployment register. The corresponding figure for the last week in October was 8,009—5,207 men and 2,802 women.

Payments totalling $179,001 for 95,720 compensation day were made to 7,114 persons in November. In October, payments amounted to $132,467 and were made to 5,735 persons for a total of 70,552 days. During November, 1943, 1,297 beneficiaries were paid $33,584 covering 19,275 days.

Death Takes Toll Of Many Notables During Year

By The Canadian Press

Death continued to take its toll of the world's notables in 1944.

The Royal Family had its share of grief. The Queen lost her father, the Earl of Strathmore, and the King his great-aunt, Princess Beatrice, youngest and last surviving daughter of Queen Victoria, who died Oct. 26, the same day as Dr. William Temple, Archbishop of Canterbury.

And the Empire mourned the loss of many other prominent men—Sir William Mulock, Canada's grand old man, Col. Deneys Reitz, South Africa's high commissioner in London, Lord Hardinge, once viceroy of India and Field Marshal Sir John Dill, chief of the British joint staff mission in the United States.

Literature no longer will be brightened by Stephen Leacock, internationally known Canadian humorist and author, who died in Toronto. Ida Tarbell, famed for her "expose" of the Standard Oil trust in the United States, Sir Arthur Quiller-Couch, authority on English literature, Dame Ethel Smyth, British composer, author and suffragette, and Charles Colebaugh, editor of Collier's Magazine, were among other literary personalities to die.

Loss to Journalism

Journalism mourned William Crozier, editor of the Manchester Guardian, Geoffrey Dawson, former editor of The Times of London, Sir Clement Kinlock-Cooke, founder and editor of The Empire Review, Sir Herbert Russell, a correspondent during the First Great War, William T. Dewart, Canadian-born publisher of the New York Sun, William Allan White, editor of the Emporia Gazette, Kansas, and J. F. B. Livesay, former general-manager of The Canadian Press.

In the world of business, deaths included Sir Charles Worthington Craven, managing director of Vickers-Armstrong, British arms combine, Charles H. Warner, co-inventor of the automobile speedometer, Philip G. Johnson, president of Boeing Aircraft Co., who once was associated with Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Another to die was Rose O'Neill who created the "kewpie doll" and saw her simple, dimpled brainchild balloon into a property that paid $1,400,000 in royalties.

Two prominent United States politicians to die were Navy Secretary Frank Knox and Wendell L. Willkie, Republican presidential nominee in 1940. Other notable political deaths included those of Lord Snell, deputy leader of the House of Lords, Col. Josef Beck, Poland's premier at the time of Hitler's invasion, Joseph Caillaux, a former French premier, William Hale (Big Bill) Thompson, the onetime bumptious Chicago mayor who threatened King George "with a punch in the snout."

In addition to Dr. Temple Archbishop of Canterbury, religious leaders who died during the year included Dr. James Moffatt, translator of the modern version of the Bible which bears his name; Metropolitan Sergei, patriarch of Moscow and all Russia.

Was Noted Architect

By the death of Sir Edwin Lutyens, Britain lost her greatest architect since Sir Christopher Wren while in other fields of art two of the most notable deaths were George Herriman, creator of the whimsical "Krazy Kat" cartoon strip and Mrs. Nell Brinkley McRae, prominent artist with a United States newspaper syndicate.

Lost to science were Dr. Alexis Carrel, French biologist and surgeon, Prof. Charles Hill-Tout, Vancouver anthropologist, and the musical world mourned the death of such figures as Sir Henry Wood, British conductor, and Cecile Chaminade, French composer. Theatrical deaths included Richard Bennett, Sir John Martin-Harvey, Alan Dinehart, Kate Mayhew and Effice Cherry, last of the oldtime Cherry sisters team—"the worst act in vaudeville."

Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, commissioner of baseball for 24 years, was one of sports leading figures to die in 1944. The sports world also lost Roger Bresnahan, prominent in organized ball for 35 years, Gus Sonnenberg, inventor of wrestling's 'flying tackle," and the British Empire mourned the Earl of Lonsdale, Britain's grand old sporting peer.

TO CLOSE DOWN

LONDON — (CP). — One of Britain's underground, raid-proof aircraft factories, in the west Country, is to close down in the New Year.

Two Agreements Passed By Air Delegates

OTTAWA, Dec. 28 — (CP) — Revision of existing agreements governing air transportation as between Canada and the United States will be up for discussion at a meeting between aviation officials of the two countries in January.

The meeting probably will be held in New York and is expected to map out arrangements for the enlarged civil flying activities expected to develop as soon as aircraft and manpower are available.

The existing arrangement is embodied in two documents, one providing for reciprocity of flying rights in general terms and the other setting out what air services are to operate and who is to operate them.

Under the first, Canada is entitled to operate as many services into the United States as the United States operates into Canada.

Under the second, there is a specification of what services are to be operated by each country.

As things stand Canada has the most important of the existing Trans-border Lines while the United States has all the others.

If the duplication or parallelling of existing services is to be avoided as it has been in the past by each country operating on different routes this will probably mean that some of the new routes to be opened when practicable will be allotted to Canada.

Millbrook Churches Have Yule Services

MILLBROOK, Dec. 28—(ENS).—All three churches held special Christmas services on Sunday, Canon Sheppard of Lakefield being the celebrant for Holy Communion in St. Thomas' Anglican Church at 9 a.m., and preaching the sermon at the carol service in the evening.

Grace Presbyterian Church also had appropriate floral and green decorations, special selections by the choir, and Rev. Walter Patterson delivered the Christmas message, emphasizing what the reception of the Christ Child as Saviour in the individual life, and the living out of His principles would mean in changing the spirit of the world.

St. Andrew's United Church held its regular service in the morning, and at night observed the annual candlelight service. Tall standards at each pew and choir stall, with the lights on the trees either side of the altar and chancel, and the candles carried by the individual choir members, provided the illumination for the service. Special musical numbers were "Who is He in yonder stall?" M. McDowell taking the two lines of questions, and the full choir the answering lines; "Infant Holy," with Gordon Might singing the verses and the choir humming all the way through; a quartette "Sing a Song of Bethlehem" by Sgt. H. W. Gray, Mrs. Reginald Edmunds, Dorothy Harker, and H. Oullette. Rev. A. L. Sisco based his sermon on the words "Fear not, for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy," urging sharing our knowledge of the Light with all peoples.

Recapture Nazis

TORONTO, Dec. 28 — (CP) — Police here received word yesterday of the recapture of three German prisoners of war who escaped Christmas Eve from a camp at Cameron Falls in northwestern Ontario. The three, who were recaptured a few miles from the camp, were Fridel Mascha, Jurt Tirke and Ernst Greve.

Pinned In Wreck

STRATHROY, Ont., Dec. 28 — (CP). — Russell Millier, 40, of Sarnia, driver of a transport truck loaded with gasoline, was pinned in the wreckage for more than an hour last night before being freed after it struck a tree and spilled gasoline on the road. He was taken to hospital at London in critical condition.

Trent River Pupils Hold Concert

TRENT RIVER, Dec. 27—(ENS)—The annual Christmas concert under the direction of Mrs. Brisbin, teacher of Trent River school, and her pupils, was held in the United Church, the proceeds of $26 being donated to the Sunday School.

In the absence of Rev. Mr. Wilkinson, J. Rogers of Havelock was chairman for the following program:

Opening chorus, "Cheerio, Christmas Is Coming", by the school; Exercise, Yvonne Colby, Gwendoline Lean and Beverly Dunsford; recitation, "Jumping Jack", by Butch Umphrey; 2 choruses, "Santa Claus" and "Christmas Cake Song" by the school; recitation, "Santa Clausing", by Joan Dunsford; song, "Christmas Surprises", Ruth Bertrand, Gloria Wannamaker, Illene Dunn; recitation, "Just for Christmas", by Billie Free; song, "While Angels Are Watching", by Beverly Dunsford, Gwen Lean and Yvonne Colby; song, "Christmas Joy", by Senior classes of school; recitation, "A Surprise", by Gwen Lean.

Exercise, "Ten Will Not Go To Bed", by 10 Juniors; duet, "Peace On Earth", by Stella Wilkinson and Jacqueline Puffer of Havelock, accompanied at the piano by Ruth Wilkinson; play, "Christmas Visit", by Ruth Bertrand, Maryln Lean, Bobbie Glenn, George Heath, Elaine Brownsell, Illine Dunn, Craig Brownsell, Gloria Wannamaker, and Barbara Carnrite; duet, "Come To My Heart", by Helen Hay and Dorelle Lean; accordion solo, "Mexican Rose" and encore by George Heath; exercise "His Messengers", by Craig Brownsell, Bobbie Glenn, Maurice Dunn, George Heath, Vernon Colby and Russell Bertrand; Chorus, "Bells of Normandy", by the school; play, "Too Much Trouble", by Eleanor Lean, Helen Hay, Laurena Wight, Lois Waters and Dorelle Lean; song, "Bells Across the Snow" by the girls of the school; two accordion solos by George Heath; tableau, "Little Town of Bethlehem", by Helen Hay, Lois Waters, Dorelle Lean, Laurena Wight and Eleanor Lean.

Germans Are Warned

LONDON, Dec. 28— (CP)— Gen. Eisenhower warned the Germans today not to harm foreign workers in Germany, declaring "grave penalties will fall on those who are guilty of treating them badly." The Luxembourg radio said the Allied commander's warning was carried in leaflets printed in many languages and dropped over Germany.

BIG FOOD DRIVE

Lloyd George To Retire From Politics

LONDON, Dec. 28—(CP-Reuters)—David Lloyd George, prime minister during the First Great War, has decided not to stand for re-election to parliament, acting on medical advice.

Mr. Lloyd George has been in parliament for 54 years and is "father of the House." He is nearly 82.

The announcement was made today by E. P. Evans, chairman of Caernarvon Boroughs Liberal Association to a special meeting of the executive of the association.

The Welsh statesman who led Britain to victory during the First Great War is to retire from parliament after 50 years continuous service as Member of Parliament for Caernarvon Boroughs.

As a struggling young solicitor, son of an elementary schoolmaster, he was to become prime minister of England. In 1890 he obtained an unexpected parliamentary victory by 18 votes at a Caernarvon Boroughs bye-election. Since then he never lost an election.

In 1939 Mr. Lloyd George remained outside the government but was as indomitable a figure as he had been a quarter of a century earlier. When he spoke in the House he filled it with members of parliament anxious to catch his merest whisper. When he broadcast it was with the energy and power that characterized his younger days.

Talks Gunman Into Surrendering

SUDBURY, Dec. 28—(CP)—Willis Moon, who lost a leg in the First Great War, told today how he talked an armed man out of robbing a store and also persuaded him to surrender to police. The man, Louis J. Coulis, pleaded guilty to charges of carrying a concealed weapon and intent to commit robbery. Sentence was deferred.

Moon was working in a store for the pre-Christmas holidays when the man entered and ordered the employees to put up their hands. Moon said he recognized the intruder as a customer of the previous day and talked him out of the robbery. The man left. Later Moon saw him on the street and talked him into going to the police station.

Free Of Stomach Troubles First Time In Years, This Woman Praises Syntona

Once More Enjoys Meals Without Gas, Bloat, Indigestion and Sour Acidity. Also Rid of Dizzy Feelings, Headache and Nervousness. Sleep Is Sound. Feels Better.

MRS. ELIZABETH McCAULAY

Mrs. Elizabeth McCaulay, 6 Wharncliffe Road South, London, Ontario, is glad to pass her experience along to others, for she knows what it has meant to her to get relief from stomach disorders that brought on years of suffering from indigestion, and distress after eating, nervousness, loss of sleep and tired, rundown feeling.

"For many years I suffered from stomach troubles," said Mrs. McCaulay. "Indigestion and heartburn with awful gas and sour acid risings followed almost every meal. Hot, sour liquids would rise from my stomach and there was a burning feeling in my chest. My tongue was constantly coated and my complexion was sallow. I would get bad, dizzy feelings and throbbing headaches. The acids from my stomach must have gone all through my system, for I became very nervous and rundown. My sleep was restless and I always felt tired and fatigued.

"A friend recommended Syntona so highly that I began taking it and now I am only sorry that I didn't know of it long ago. From the very first bottle my stomach felt improved and my food began to digest better. As I continued taking it the gas, indigestion and sour risings stopped troubling me. Now for the first time in years I enjoy my meals free from stomach troubles. Those tired, wornout feelings have left me, and I am rid of the dizziness and headaches. My complexion is more healthy-looking and my tongue isn't coated as it used to be. Also my nerves are calmed down, so I sleep better and I feel better in every way. I am very glad to recommend Syntona to everyone who suffers as I did."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. (Advt.)

NAZI COLUMNS DRIVEN BACK 10 MILES

Allies Endeavoring to Trap Entire German Corridor Force

GERMAN POSITION WORSE THAN WAS THOUGHT—MAY BE ON VERGE OF MAJOR DISASTER

By JON KIMCHE
Reuters Commentator

LONDON, Dec. 29 — (CP-Reuters). — Today's Allied Supreme Headquarters communique revealed that Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's position in his corridor was worse than was thought. By now he may be on the verge of a major disaster.

The recapture of Grandmenil and Manhay between Malmedy and Marche brought Allied forces to within five miles of one of the only two main roads left to Von Rundstedt to supply his forward units.

If the Allies reach Barraquede they will have to cut the main Laroche-St. Vith road and will be only 12 miles from the Americans in Bastogne. A first-rate lateral road runs due north from Bastogne through Houffalize to Liege.

Houffalize is the core of the German position. Through it runs the second German supply route and it is the main forward base of Von Rundstedt's winter offensive. Both Allied armies striking from the north and from the south were already within artillery range.

The position therefore looks ominous for Von Rundstedt. The German announcement that he was consolidating his positions may be questioned. He would have to form a front 150 miles long, which the Allies were attacking from four sides.

Unless Von Rundstedt can spring another surprise he has no alternative except either sacrificing his best units—and he is unlikely to do that—or withdrawing as quickly as he can.

The second alternative seems the more likely but it would be a colossal blow to the newly-resurrected prestige of Adolf Hitler. Something else may therefore be brewing.

From the limited road space at Von Rundstedt's disposal in the Luxembourg corridor it is unlikely that he has committed 20 divisions, half of which were said to be armored. There would not have been room for them.

He has therefore a still uncommitted part of his reserve behind the front, and he may choose this moment to launch another attack, to save his and Hitler's prestige and to divert the Allied follow-up of their success.

Rundstedt's Great Offensive Is Kicked Into Reverse By Assaults On Three Sides

Nazi Columns Isolated On Salient Fighting a Death Struggle

Germans Claim British Troops Are In Action

By JAMES M. LONG—Associated Press Staff Writer

PARIS, Dec. 29—(AP).—American armored blows on the nose of Field Marshal Von Rundstedt's offensive have beaten his most advanced columns back more than 10 miles and chased them across the narrow Lesse and Homme into Rochefort. Field dispatches, reporting this development up to Thursday morning, said the Von Rundstedt escape gap at the same time was cut to less than 17 miles north of Bastogne.

Von Rundstedt"s December offensive had been kicked into reverse by American forces which slammed into all three sides of his extended bulge, with Lt.-Gen. George S. Patton's 3rd Army swiftly changing its front and advancing 20 miles into the German flank in six days.

The big turning point was the seven-day stand of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division and other units at Bastogne, one of the gateways to French Sedan.

And now the Allies were hitting back. Throughout the northwestern area of the German penetration, from Celles to Rochefort, infantry tanks and armored cars slashed across the frozen fields, overunning German trucks, armored cars and infantrymen wandering blindly. Allied forces groped for the disorganized enemy in a fog which limited visibility to 50 yards.

The Lesse and Homme at Rochefort wind aproximately 14 miles east of the Meuse and 10 miles southeast of Celles, deepest point of German penetration toward Dinant.

Highland Division

(German accounts said the British 51st (Highland) division, which was almost wiped out in a gallant stand at St. Valery on the English Channel in 1940, was among Allied units which surrounded German forces near Celle at the point of their westernmost penetration towards the Meuse River.)

In Alsace, west of Colmar, French 1st Army troops occupied Le Gras, southeast of Lajoutrie.

(The Germans themselves admitted their drive had been halted and that the Allies were lashing back with fierce counter-attacks on both the northern and southern flanks.

(The Berlin radio quoted a spokesman as saying: "The days of the blitzkrieg in the 1939-40 style have passed. Von Rundstedt's gains in

4,800 Huns Captured By Canadians

Foulkes Says Canadians Have Captured 145 Square Miles

ROME, Dec. 29—(CP)—Lt.-Gen. Charles Foulkes, commander of the 1st Canadian Corps attached to the British 8th Army in Italy, estimated in an order of the day today that his troops had knocked out at least 4,800 enemy troops in their current drive on the Po Valley, and said the Canadians had cleared the enemy from more than 145 square miles of territory since Dec. 1.

He said more than 1,600 Germans had been taken prisoner, and probably twice that number of the enemy killed and wounded.

Today the Canadians were reported inching forward toward Alfonsine, nine miles northeasto f Ravenna.

The town, straddling the Senio River and lying on the Ravenna-Ferrera coastal road, is the next natural objective of the Canadian push. Yesterday the Canadians were reported slashing their way toward it from Rossetta, a little more than two miles southwest, in a house-to-house advance.

Fighting Dies Down

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 — (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill used just two words to comment on a sniper's attempt to shoot him on the steps of the British Embassy in Athens Wednesday, the BBC said yesterday. According to the broadcast, heard by CBS, Mr. Churchill's comment was: "What cheek!"

U.S. Attitude Is Attacked By London Paper

LONDON, Dec. 29—(CP-Reuters). —The London Economist this week devoted its leading article to "some very plain speaking long overdue" on the subject of the United States.

Accusing the Americans of "hyprocrisy" in their attitude to collaboration in Europe and of scantily founded "criticism and abuse" of Britain, the Economist also protested against Britain's "painful attempts to adjust her policies to American wishes."

"It is even a subject of complaint in the United States that Van Rundstedt did not select the British-held front for his break-through," the paper declared, listing a series of accusations it says were made in an anti-British "outburst" in recent weeks—"one of the most violent and sustained of the war years."

A Common Failing.

"Hypocrisy is a common Anglo-Saxon failing," the weekly paper said, "and the British have many times made themselves cordially disliked by it, "but that does not exempt them from feeling resentment when they are the victims of other people's hypocrisy. What makes the American criticism so intolerable is not merely that they are unjust, but that they come from a source that has done so little to earn the right to postures of superiority.

Fireman Dies As Aid Succeeds

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP)—While rescuers worked frantically to save him, a New York Central passenger train fireman died early today beneath the tender of his overturned engine in a snow-covered gully southwest of here.

The fireman, R. D. Harmon, 36, of Toledo, followed his engineer, O. F. Hayward, 58, of Sylvania Ohio, in death as the result of a derailment caused when the train struck a stalled automobile last midnight.

Hayward was killed instantly. Fireman Harmon died after telling rescuers "I don't know how much longer I can last. There's a lot of weight on top of me."

Allthough five or six cars of the Toledo-to-Detroit train left the tracks, only two passengers were reported in hospital. Scene of the accident was at Trenton, 20 miles from Detroit.

Blow torches were used to cut away wreckage pinning down Har-

1945 Plates For Cars Delayed To Jan. 10-15

TORONTO, Dec. 29—(CP)—Minister of Highways George H. Doucett said today Ontario's 1945 motor vehicles license plates will not go on sale until between Jan. 10 and 15 due to delay in manufacture of the new plates which are a light blue background with white figures. The plates were planned for sale next Tuesday, Jan. 2.

Next year vehicles will carry one new plate on the rear, and the present 1943 plate and 1944 windshield stickers will be abandoned. Some 600,000 plates are being manufactured under an easing in use of the steel by the Federal Steel Controller.

German Lines Blasted In Big Raids

Thousands Of Tons Of Bombs Rained On West Front Lines

LONDON, Dec. 29 — (CP). — A great fleet of R.A.F. heavy bombers from Britain, 1,500 United States bombers and fighters and limited numbers of continent-based Allied planes rained thousands of tons of bombs today between the Western Front and the Rhine.

It was the seventh straight day of long-range attack by heavy bombers of the R.A.F. and the United States 8th Air Force, and their assaults were supplemented by strikes from Italy.

A half dozen road and rail junctions and bridges in the Euskirchen-Trier sector were hammered by part of the United States bomber fleet. Others aimed their explosives and incendiaries on rail traffic in the Bingen - Frankfurt - Aschaffenburg triangle.

No Enemy Planes Seen

The bombers, 800 strong, were escorted by 700 fighters, but no enemy planes were sighted, a headquarters spokesman said.

The battlefield bombing was done through clouds. Other targets were hit visually.

The R.A.F. targets were not immediately disclosed.

Front reports said snow, sleet and clouds which grounded British and Americal tactical aircraft in the fighting areas yesterday still curtailed close support for U.S. troops smashing against the German counter-offensive.

British Lancasters and Halifaxes shuttled three times between Britain and the Rhine yesterday, attacking German rail centres with some 5,000 tons of incendiaries and explosives, while 1,200 Fortresses and Liberators with 700 escorting fighters struck at 10 other rail centres in western Germany with 4,000 tons.

Lost 4 U.S. Bombers

The Americans lost four bombers, and the British six bombers and one fighter. No German fighter opposition was encountered.

The R.A.F. also sent a force of Mosquitos and Lancasters far north, the heavies against a convoy in Oslo

R.C.A.F. Fighter-Bomber Wing Destroyed 61 And Damaged 172 Enemy Motor Vehicles

A FORWARD RCAF AIRFIELD IN HOLLAND, Dec. 29 —(CP Cable).—A Canadian Typhoon fighter-bomber wing commanded by Group Capt. Paul Davoud of Kingston, Ont., has destroyed and damaged more enemy transport during three days of good flying weather since the Germans launched their drive through the Ardennes Forest than any other wing with the fighter-bomber group.

The RCAF announced today the unit has destroyed 61 and damaged 172 enemy motor vehicles of the 150 destroyed and 298 damaged by the entire group, and also has destroyed a tank, damaged another, and damaged three locomotives.

The top squadron is the City of Ottawa, under Sqdn.-Ldr. Harold Gooding of Ottawa, with a score of 43 enemy vehicles destroyed and 89 damaged during the three-day period. The Ottawa squadron formerly served in the Aleutians.

American Navy In Past Year Has Added 420 Warships

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29—(AP).—The largest navy in the world, fighting the most extended sea war in history, now has 1,167 men-of-war to carry the battle to the enemy—and still is growing. This was reported by the United States Navy today in a review of ship production which showed that in the last year 39,971 new vessels—420 of them fighting ships—joined the fleet, boosting the over-all total to 61,045 navy ships of all types.

Much emphasis was placed during 1944 upon landing craft and attack vessels, with construction of 37,724 of the little ships used to batter the way for landings on enemy-held shores.

The new construction also included 640 patrol boats and mine craft, 630 auxiliaries and 557 harbor craft.

"Important in these statistics," the Navy reported, "is the slightly decreased emphasis on combat and patrol craft, denoting a levelling off in the need for more warships and escort vessels, and the tremendous increase in landing craft, auxiliary attack ships and other supply vessels which have carried the Allied offensive to enemy shores, both in Europe and the Pacific."

Broken down, the striking force of the Navy—in its warships—is shown in this compilation of warship construction since 1941:

Draft 200,000 From Industry

By JOHN DAUPHINEE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Dec. 29 — (CP. Cable). — The emphasis on Britain's manpower situation has shifted. A couple of weeks ago it was on plans for partial demobilization of the armed forces after Germany was defeated, with consequent prospects for increased civilian production.

But that was changed by the unexpected announcement that 250,000 extra men are needed "to sustain and nourish our Allies in the lines."

It has been emphasized that this call-up was not the result of the Germans' pre-Christmas offensive. The public accepted the explanation but at the same time there is a widespread belief that it indicates officials now think beating Germany —and later Japan—is a bigger job than was anticipated when Allied armies raced through France and Belgium into Holland.

Russian Army Pushes Up Danube

First Inner Defence Ring At Budapest Cracked By Russians

MOSCOW, Dec. 29. — (AP).— Russian forces cracked the first of three inner defence rings of the encircled Nazi garrison at Budapest to-day while the Austrian-bound Red army to the north stepped up its drive along both sides of the Danube river.

The Red forces made an all-out bid to win strategic control of the Hungarian capital in a matter of days, if not hours, as fanatical Nazi troops in the hilly district of Buda and the populous flatlands of Pest gave ground under a score of assaults by Russian combat teams of Tommy-gunners, tanks and self-propelled guns. The enemy was hurled out of 12 eastern suburbs of the city yesterday.

A battle of even greater military importance raged on the approaches to the Danubian communications centre of Komarom, which is less than 85 miles southeast of Vienna and within 53 miles of Bratislava.

Two columns from Marshal Feodor Tolbukhin's 3rd Ukrainian army group converged on the city from the east and southeast, while across the Danube to the northeast Marshal Rodion Malinovsky mounted a powerful smash at the German Hron river defence line.

There was evidence that Russian vanguards may now be fighting on the west bank of the Hron, confluence of which with the Danube, west of the great Danube Bend, has already been outflanked by Tolbukhin.

Road to Vienna.

Komaron has several big railway and highway bridges across the Danube and of the six rail lines radiating from the city, four lead to Vienna.

Fighting down the northwestern slopes of the Vertes mountains, Russian troops reached points less than 10 miles from Komarom, while another Soviet force advancing along the Danube river highway captured vehicles. Formidable troups of Russian self-propolled ins stayed in the forefront with e hard-driving infantry.

Canadian Corps Had a Year Tough Fighting

By WILLIAM BOSS
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN CORPS ON THE ADRIATIC, Dec. 29 — (CP Cable).— The Canadians were catching their breath in the rubbled Adriatic seaport town of Ortona on January 1, 1944. Now, a year later, poised on the west bank of the Senio River west of Bagnacavallo, 190 miles to the north-west they look back on a year of tough fighting.

Last winter the Canadians spent three months in the mud around Ortona. An infantry brigade of the 5th Canadian Division—which had arrived in Italy a few months earlier to team up with the 1st Canadian Division — charged the Arielli feature January 16. The winter campaign continued static.

The Canadians moved out of the Adriatic sector late in March to be rested and retrained.

Went to West Coast.

By May the Canadians were switched over near the west coast in the Casino area. After the 1st Canadian Armored Brigade helped other Allied troops to cross the Rapido River south of Casino, the Canadians participated in the break-through of the Gustav Line and the approach to the Hitler Line farther west barring the road to Rome.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes of Winnipeg and Ottawa, then Commander of the 1st Canadian Division, achieved a mighty victory May 23 in a single day of the most intense action and the armored formations of Maj.-Gen. B. M. Hoffmeister's 5th Division poured through to exploit the victory.

111 Are Convicted By Selective Service

OTTAWA, Dec. 29—(CP).—Prosecutions were launched against 149 persons during November for failure to comply with Selective Service regulations, Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service, announced today.

Convictions numbered 111 compared with 122 in October. Employers were convicted in 11 cases, most of them the result of having employed workers without job permits. Of 69 employees convicted a majority were charged with leaving employment without giving notice of separation, quitting designated high priority jobs without Selective Service permission or failing to accept high priority jobs to which they had been directed.

Convictions were registered against 31 conscientious objectors who failed to report to alternative service work camps. At December 1 a total of 343 cases were still pending.

Night Fighters Bag 3 Planes

LONDON, Dec. 29 (CP-Cable) — Two JU88s fell Wednesday night to the Nova Scotia crew of a Nighthawk squadron Mosquito and another to couple of Manitobans from the Cougar squadron, the R.C.A.F. announced today.

The night fighters, flying from western front bases in support of troops opposing the German push through the Ardennes, raised the Canadian night fighters total of kills during one week to nine.

The two German planes were downed—before they had a chance to fire a shot—by Flt.-Lt. Ralph Britton of Archat, N.S., and Flt. Lt. L. E. Fownes of Baddeck, N.S.

The third was destroyed by Flt. Lt. W. G. Dinsdale of Brandon, Man., and FO. J. E. Dusne of Winnipeg.

8 Million Daily Spent On War Supplies

Production In Many Lines To Be Increased Next Year, Hon. C. D. Howe Says

OTTAWA, Dec. 29 — (CP). — Munitions Minister Howe said last night that Canada's war production entering 1945 at close to its peak output, faces little likelihood of reduction for a least the next three months.

In some items, Mr. Howe said in a statement reviewing activities of Canada's war industries during 1944, the output would be stepped up sharply.

During last year the Department spent nearly $8,000,000 a day for shells, ships, guns, fighting vehicles, planes and other war supplies, about $1,000,000 a day less than in 1943 and $1,000,000 a day more than in 1942.

Since the start of the war the Munitions Department alone has made commitments of more than $10,255,000,000, almost equivalent to a $1,000 Victory Bond for every man, woman and child in country.

This enormous production and the fact that about four-fifths of Canada's foreign trade now is a wholly wartime character have been important factors in making the Dominion the second greatest exporting nation in the world. About three-quarters of the exports—valued at $3,000,000,000 this year — were war materials.

Vast expansion in the development of raw materials and the opening of innumerable new fields of Canadian manufacturing have accompanied this growth.

In volume the Canadian output has been outstripped by that of the United States, Russia and the United Kingdom, but in timeliness, variety, newness and quality it has had a highly important part in the Allied swing from desperate defence to victorious attack.

Figures covering the flow of materials from Canadian war plants are reaching astronomical proportions. Units of mechanical transport, apart from motorcycles and tanks, have had a value of more than $2,100,000,000 and would be sufficient to equip the entire German army.

Canada also has purchased 15,000 planes, more than 1,400,000 machine-guns and other small arms, more than 50,000 complete artillery units and more than $450,000,000 worth of radar equipment.

Figures of ammunition production are even more staggering—110,000,000 heavy projectiles, 4,200,000 round of small arms ammunition and 150,000,000 tons of chemicals and explosives.

Since the war started Canada has felled 25,000,000,000 board feet of lumber, enough to build about 2,400,000 homes. Steel output for the war period is estimated at 11,982,000 long tons of ingots, more than enough to build a double-track railway around the world.

Canada's contribution toward the Allied metals pool, apart from Russian production, has been: Nickel, 85 per cent; zinc, 20; copper, 14; lead, 19; asbestos, 78, and aluminum, 35.

Only about 30 per cent of the Canadian war production is delivered to Canadian forces at home and abroad, the remainder going to the Dominion's Allies.

General equipment purchased by the Ammunition Department for both Canada and her Allies is estimated to have reached a total of $1,467,000,000 at this year-end. It includes: Food, $242,000,000; clothing, $412,000,000; gasoline, oil and fuel, $230,000,000 and electrical equipment, $178,000,000.

Stettinius To Meet Eden

Two Foreign Ministers Will Discuss Greek Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 —(CP-Reuters)—State Secretary Stettinius is expected to confer with Foreign Secretary Eden in the near future—on the latter's return from Athens—and to receive from him a first-hand account of the current efforts to reach a settlement of the Greek situation.

Mr. Stettinius' visit to London will be the first visit by any United States secretary of state for many years, and in view of recent references by Mr. Eden to a quarterly meeting of foreign ministers it is regarded as a possibility here that Messrs. Eden and Stettinius may be joined by M. Molotov, Russian foreign commissar.

The meeting is expected to prepare the way for a conference of the big three—Messrs. Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin — in February or March.

Important items on the agenda will be:

1. Co-ordination of Allied policy in relation to the Greek situation, the Italian government, the Russo-Polish settlement and plans for the occupation of Germany;

2. Questions still unsettled from the Dumbarton Oaks conference—chiefly voting procedure for the international security council and the relation of the security organization to other international institutions such as the world court and League of Nations.

Hepburn Pleads For Unity

Different Approach Needed To Solve Problems

LONDON, Ont., Dec. 29—(CP)—Mitchell F. Hepburn, house leader of the Liberal party in the Ontario Legislature, said in an address last night to the Ontario Commercial Travellers Association that "if we cannot settle our own domestic problems it ill-behooves us to point an accusing finger at Greece, Belgium or Holland if they fight as soon as they get free."

"Here in Canada we have a dual population," said the former Ontario premier. "We were not the first to settle this dominion. The French came first. When the battle of the Plains of Abraham had been fought and won by the British, they settled down in peace and harmony, and shortly after when the invader came the French fought to defend the land that had been wrested from them by the British.

"There are hot-heads in Ontario and other parts of Canada and there are hot-heads in Quebec that are listened to too much. The thing for both races to do is understand each other's point of view. We must make a different approach in dealing with these people, avoiding the threats and coercion harmfully advocated in editorials we sometimes read in our ultra-imperialistic press."

Says Eisenhower Overworked Needs Assistant

LONDON, Dec. 28 — (CP). — Sir Douglas Brownrigg, retired lieutenant-general, said today that Gen. Eisenhower was trying to carry too heavy a load in personally directing the land fighting and suggested that he delegate some of his duties.

Gen. Brownrigg was adjutant-general to the British Expeditionary Force in France at the time of his retirement in 1940.

He wrote in the London Evening News that "I have met no one who has any doubt whatever that Gen. Eisenhower is the ideal man as supreme commander, but no one can carry the load he has imposed upon himself."

Gen. Brownrigg said that in the North African campaign, Gen. Eisenhower left the running of the land battle to Field Marshal Alexander, but on Sept. 1, "Eisenhower descended from the supreme perch and took over the personal control of the land fighting without, so far as I am aware, shedding any of his other responsibilities."

Gen. Brownrigg suggested that Gen. Eisenhower choose his best subordinate to conduct the land battle "or else let him have Alexander once more as his deputy."

Avery To Fight Roosevelt Order

CHICAGO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Montgomery and Ward and Company's properties in seven cities across the United States today, by Presidential order, were under Army control; but the legality of government seizure of the mail order firm's plants remained unrecognized by Board Chairman Sewell L. Avery.

Mr. Avery, 70-year-old chief executive of the nation-wide merchandising firm, in challenging President Roosevelt's authority to take over the facilities, said the company "welcomes the opportunity to present its case to the courts."
